Socialites Welcome New Year At Garden of Gods Club

The Garden of the Gods Club was opened for a special New Year's Eve party, where members and their guests enjoyed dinner, and dancing to the music of Ray Kranz's orchestra. The club was gayly decorated with balloons and colorful streamers, and guests found at each table fantastic hats and an abundance of noise-makers.

Pope Urges World Peace, Church Unity As He Concludes Journey to Holy Land

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

BETHLEHEM (AP) — From the birthplace of Christ, Pope Paul VI appealed to world leaders today to keep peace in the world and for Christians to unite.

Packing history into the last day of his three-day pilgrimage of peace to the Holy Land, the supreme pontiff of 550 million Roman Catholics returned to Jerusalem to join Patriarch Athenagoras I, spiritual leader of world orthodoxy, in praying that their meetings will be a "prelude of things to come for the glory of God."

These were the final highlights of the Pope's unprecedented visit to the Holy Land, for then he drove to Amman, the Jordan capital, and flew back home.

As his historic three-day pilgrimage in the Holy Land neared its end, the 66-year-old pontiff issued greetings of good will to all men—Christians and non-believers. Departing from his prepared text, he called on the world's chiefs of state to press for peace.

The Pope urged Roman Catholics to do all they can to revitalize their church in the quest for unity and appealed to non-Catholic Christians to join in the cause.

"Today the will of Christ is pressing upon us and obliging us to do all that we can, with love and wisdom, to bring to all Christians the supreme blessing and honor of a united church," he said.

The Pope journeyed the winding road from Jerusalem to Bethlehem on the Feast of Epiphany, commemorating the visit of the three wise men to the manger and the first manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles.

Thousands thronged the town of Christ's birth for the pontiff's historic visit and for Orthodox Christmas Eve services starting three hours after the Pope's visit. Jordanian troops and police took extraordinary precautions to prevent the mob scene that threatened the Pope's safety in the old city of Jerusalem Saturday.

Coils of barbed wire, iron barriers and rows of armed troops ringed Manger Square outside the Church of the Nativity. Police and troops closed the winding road from Jerusalem long before the Pope's arrival, and only about 2,000 children and other spectators were allowed in the square. Surrounding rooftops and streets were jammed.

Robed in red, Pope Paul stooped to enter the doorway of the old church—less than four feet high—and descended the 16 worn steps to the Grotto of the Nativity to celebrate Mass.

The pontiff knelt at the Chapel of the Manger in the cave, 34 feet by 12 feet. Nearby, sunk in the marble floor, was the 14-point silver star of Bethlehem which tradition says marks the spot where Christ was born.

The Pope's voice was loud and resonant as he uttered the ancient words of the Mass. Loudspeakers carried it to the crowd in the church above and to the throng outside.

After the Mass, the Pope made his address in the presence of the 12 persons with him in the grotto. His words were carried by loudspeaker to worshipers in the Church of St. Catherine above and to the crowd outside.

"This is the historic hour in which the Church must live her profound and visible unity," the Pope said.

"It is the hour in which we must correspond with the wish of Jesus Christ 'that they may be perfectly one, so that the world may know, Father, that it is Thou who has sent me.'"

The pontiff reiterated what the late Pope John XXIII had made clear when he called the Vatican Ecumenical Council for Christian unity—that the Roman Catholic Church would not abandon what it considers basic truths.

"Yet we declare once again," said Pope Paul, "that we are ready to consider every reason-

2,000 Exhibits Arranged at Stock Show

DENVER (UPI)—Officials of the 58th annual National Western Stock Show say they will have more than 2,000 exhibitions from 35 states at their nine-day show opening Friday in Denver. Gen. Manager Willard Simms says an estimated 15,000 persons are expected to attend the first day's show and about 160,000 are expected for the entire event. Spectators will watch 412 cowboys from 20 states riding for more than $70,000 in rodeo prize money.

Multi-Millionaire Stabbed to Death; Sister-in-Law Held

Bartholomae, whose cattle, oil and mining fortune was estimated at $11 million, was found Sunday morning with two stab wounds in his abdomen.

On the floor beside him was his sister-in-law, who later told police she had fainted.

Police said Carmen told them that when Bartholomae, wearing a bathrobe and pajamas, entered the kitchen she was standing at the kitchen sink preparing breakfast.

"He didn't look good," she said.

She said she remembers holding two knives and seeing Bartholomae "tumbling" before she fainted.

She remembers nothing more

1,500 Stranded In Indianapolis Greyhound Strike

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—About 1,500 travelers were stranded in the Indianapolis bus terminal up to 22 hours Sunday when 200 Greyhound drivers walked off the job.

By the time drivers agreed to return to work Sunday night, all but 100 of the passengers had been accommodated by rival lines. Most of the buses tied up had left by midnight.

Many of the stranded travelers were service men and women, college students and parents with dozing babies returning from long holiday vacations.

"I could just scream," said Mrs. Richard Hoveland, 18, St. Paul, Minn., after she had been waiting seven hours. She and her 13-month-old daughter were returning from a trip to Charleston S.C.

"I was absolutely stranded with no money," the young mother explained. "Somebody stood in line for me a good hour or more to get a ticket transfer."

R. S. Armstrong, New York Utilities clerk from Denville, N.J., complained, "If I don't get to work by Monday morning, I'll lose my job." Armstrong was returning from a vacation trip in San Francisco.

There was no warning of the walkout. About 100 baggage clerks, ticket agents and other terminal employes joined the drivers in the work stoppage shortly before midnight Saturday. All are members of Local 1211, Motor Coach Employes Division. Both union and management officials blamed the walkout on disputed working conditions and rules interpretations.

Passengers expecting a few minutes layover found it stretching into hours. Card games sprang up to while away the time. Some passengers milled around sipping coffee to stay awake. Others slept.

Indianapolis is the crossroads for major east-west and north-south routes. "This is the hub," said driver Jim Larent. It's the criss-cross point for all over. They feel it."

Goldwater Will Launch Campaign In Grand Rapids

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater launches his campaign for the White House tonight — after vowing that if he gets there and finds it "to our advantage" he will renounce the limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

The Arizona senator, his sights trained on the Republican presidential nomination, makes his first speech as a candidate tonight before a GOP fund-raising dinner at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Tuesday he turns to the top target in his quest for the nomination: New Hampshire. Goldwater plans to spend three days there campaigning for votes in the March 10 presidential primary that will be the nation's first of 1964.

"Gov. Rockefeller is used to giving money away and I'm not, that's the difference," Goldwater said in calling for revision of the U.N. charter to force its members to pay their dues or lose their votes.

Goldwater also took a crack at President Johnson, calling his government economy drive a show with little substance.

"He is putting up a good front," the senator said. "The neon lights are blinking and the tilt balls are rolling, but he is not an economizer."

Goldwater, one of 19 senators who voted against ratification of the treaty that outlaws nuclear tests in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space, said in the NBC television interview program Meet the Press that his vote on the test ban was sound.

"I still think it is of no advantage to the United States," he

Legislature Will Be Asked to Cut State Spending

By JOHN M. NOLAN

DENVER (UPI) — The 1964 Colorado Legislature convenes Wednesday to tighten the state's purse-strings and to consider a flock of proposals aimed at making drastic changes in the way Colorado government is run.

Republicans will be at the helm again when gavels fall at 10 a.m. to open the second session of the 44th General Assembly. It's the year for the so-called short or financial session, but a heavy work load may keep legislators at their desks for more than two months.

GOP Gov. John Love will deliver his "state of the state" message early in the session, possibly before the end of the week. He plans to deliver his message on the budget later in a separate address. He may meet with GOP legislators early this week for a pre-session caucus.

There are many thorny problems to be decided by the Legislature, but finances appears to be one of the toughest.

Berlin Wall Sealed Again By East German Commies

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Communists sealed the Berlin wall again today, ending 17 days of joyous family reunions and heart-breaking partings.

A record number of more than a quarter million West Berliners poured into the Communist zone Sunday — the last day for visits under a Christmas agreement negotiated between the West Berlin city government and the Communist East German regime. The crossings started Dec. 19.

The crush was so big that tens of thousands returning to West Berlin were still waiting at the snow-covered Communist checkpoints when the visiting period expired at midnight.

Authorities said 1,318,000 permits were issued for crossings, but many West Berliners made several trips.

"The honeymoon is over," observed a Westerner.

There were flickering hopes the West Berlin government could negotiate a new agreement with the Reds in talks scheduled to start this week.

The Western allies, who are responsible for the security of West Berlin, have given their blessings to the talks. But they have warned Mayor Willy Brandt not to jeopardize the Western stand against recognition of the East German Communist regime.

The Communists have tried to use previous talks to support their theory that there are three Germany's — East, West and a "free city" of Berlin.

They have also been using the reunions to feed their propaganda mill, claiming the crossings were made possible by Communist humanitarianism.

Under the expired agreement, only West Berliners with close relatives were permitted to make the crossings. For many it was their first family reunion since construction of the wall on Aug. 13, 1961.

"I wish I had not gone over there," sobbed a West Berlin optician after returning from a reunion with his wife. "The parting with my wife was horrible. We don't know when we will see each other again."

A worker who returned with his wife and baby after seeing his parents said: "we cried and cried. The wounds were opened

Attorney's Pay In Newcomer Case Is Ordered

A Denver Federal District Court Judge today ordered the trustee of the Joe Newcomer Finance Co. to pay attorney's fees in a foreclosure suit against the defunct firm.

Judge Hatfield Chilson ordered Fred M. Betz to pay Attorney Dale Holst $500 on or before June 9 of this year.

Holst represented Charlotte and Roy Pring in a foreclosure suit against the company last July. The JNFC was late in making its annual payment to the Prings on the Columbine Estates which is the most valuable piece of property in possession of the bankrupt company.

The annual payment was due June 9, 1963, a little over a month after the Newcomer firm was closed by the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission. When the payment was not made on time, the Prings sought to foreclose and relclaim the property.

The following month, the JNFC Creditors Committee petitioned the court tc order Betz to pay off the mortgage on the note for the estates. Betz was strongly opposed to the petition and the Judge disallowed it without prejudice to the committee to reenter the petition at a later date.

Following the aborted foreclosure action, Holst sought to gain his fee from the company and later filed a petition in federal court asking that the company pay him.

Judge Chilson today ordered Betz to pay the attorney on or before June 9 of this year which is also the date for the annual payment to the Prings.

Betz is expected to file plans for reorganization of the company early next month at which time a federal judge will rule on the reorganization or declare the company bankrupt.

Johnson Prepares For Big Battle With Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson was back at his White House desk today, preparing for what may be a grueling January to December job: trying to get Congress to enact his legislative program.

Johnson will outline his objectives in a State of the Union message Wednesday. He is expected to urge passage of key elements of the Kennedy administration program carried over from the last session — civil rights, tax reduction and health care for the elderly — and add some requests of his own.

Relaxed after a 12-day work-and-play vacation at his Texas ranch, the President scheduled a conference with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and McGeorge Bundy, presidential adviser on national security affairs. He also goes over legislative prospects with Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

In his first days in office, Johnson was pretty much immune from political criticism. Now that the moratorium that followed President John F. Kennedy's assassination is over, political criticism once more is in vogue. Democrats and Republicans will be firing at each other with old time fervor in this election year.

Johnson has pledged a war on poverty. Legislators will be eager for specifics and they may come in the State of the Union address. Johson has promised economy in government without hampering the nation's space and defense efforts. Legislators

Gen. Withycombe Killed in Texas Auto Collision

The accident happened on Interstate Highway 20, six miles east of Big Spring.

Police said that Gen. Withycombe turned his car left onto the Freeway and was hit head-on by the station wagon driven by Bobby Pherige, 15, of Coahoma, Tex. The youth was in-

Skiffington May Propose Increase In Sales Tax

State Sen. Lawrence T. Skiffington, despite apparent growing support from area farmers and ranchers, maintained Sunday he would not push for an increase in the sales tax unless it was absolutely necessary.

"I would first want to meet with the governor and my party before making such a proposal," the Manitou Springs legislator told the Gazette Telegraph.

He said he plans to meet with the Governor and members of his party Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

Skiffington made the comments Sunday after a group of Pueblo County farmers met with him in Manitou to urge passage of the sales tax.

The veteran state senator said he would propose a 1 per cent sales tax increase if the Legislature acts to increase or perpetuate the state property tax. He said his proposal would bring the state an additional $25 to $30 million annually which could be used to finance the operation and construction of state institutions.

Skiffington emphasized that he

NEW YORK (AP)—An arsonist set a fire that swept the Astor Hotel's grand ballroom today, then fled when chased by hotel employes, officials said.

About 400 guests left their rooms as heavy smoke poured through the 11-story hotel, attracting a huge crowd outside the Times Square landmark. Damage was estimated at $1 million.

"Thank God nobody was hurt," said William Zeckendorf Jr., an official of the Zeckendorf Hotel Corp., chain of which the Astor is part.

Zeckendorf said the heavily damaged ballroom was renovated about two years ago at a cost of nearly $1 million.

Fire Commissioner Edward Thompson said the fire definitely was set.

"We have two witnesses who actually saw the man start the fire, and we have a good description of him," Thompson said. "These witnesses chased the man but they lost him."

Police and fire officials questioned a man who answered the general description of the suspected arsonist, but he was released.

Police described the firebug as being between 30 and 35 years old, about 6 feet tall and wearing a trench coat and glasses.

George Paquette, 37, a hotel employe, said he was working with five other men near the ballroom when he heard a noise and spotted the fire and a man walking away from it.

"Hey, be careful, there's fire up there," Paquette said he shouted. The man darted out the ballroom with Paquette calling after him, "Hey, stop!"

The fire apparently began in draperies along the empty ballroom's lower balcony. It spread quickly to the second and third tiers, which at one point threatened to collapse.

Another hotel employe, Earl Kinlaw, 32, said he and others heard a "whoosh" as they approached the blaze with a fire extinguisher, and that was followed by flames leaping wildly to other furnishings.

Thompson said the arsonist apparently used "a device to spread the flames."

Firemen searched the rooms for possible fires or victims of smoke inhalation before guests were allowed to return to their quarters at around 2 a.m. about two hours after the fire broke out.

The hotel, which faces Broadway between 44th and 45th streets, was built in 1904 and is the site of numerous social events.

Auburn School Integration Remains Quiet

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Auburn University's first Negro student, Harold A. Franklin, begins studies today with a class in Russian history after breaking segregation barriers without trouble last weekend.

Franklin, 31, registered without incident Saturday. He spent a quiet weekend at his dormitory. A university spokesman said the 6-foot Franklin had several visitors, including some white students.

"Everything is fine," Franklin told an Associated Press reporter who telephoned him Sunday night.

Four Auburn students were suspended Sunday after state troopers caught them removing campus signs warning unauthorized persons to keep off the grounds.

Franklin got a dormitory room under an order issued Friday by U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. in Montgomery. The judge ordered Auburn to provide campus housing for Franklin. Johnson earlier had directed the state university to admit Franklin to its graduate school.

Franklin arrived under strict security enforced by 100 state troopers and local police officers. The only outward reaction in this east Alabama town of 18,000 was some jeers by a few students when Franklin went to the registration center.

No New Trace Found of Lost Plane in Pacific

HONOLULU (AP) — A massive search of half a million miles of the Pacific for a downed Air Force C124 Globemaster and the nine men aboard, entered its fifth day today with no positive trace of the lost men.

The hunt was intensified during daylight hours Sunday in the greatest effort so far for the eight airmen and one sailor, who disappeared Thursday on a flight from Wake Island to Honolulu.

Hopes were raised when search planes reported hearing distress signals and sighting debris.

The first of these reports was termed "of no significance" when it was established the two signals came from outside the area where the plane could have crashed, an Air Force spokesman said.

The other report, that debris was sighted 167 miles southwest of Honolulu, was being investigated.

The plane, with a crew of eight and a Navy passenger escorting the body of a sailor, was last heard from Wednesday night after a radio check with Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii.

American Music Society Will Meet at Thomas Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Rowan Thomas, 1003 N. Foote Ave., will be the scene of the Jan. 8 meeting and program of the American Music Society. A varied program featuring vocalists and instrumentalists has been carefully planned. Mrs. Louise Dockstader will be the commentator.

Shirley Shaffer, pianist, will open the program with three sonatas, D Major, D Minor, and B Minor by Domenico Scarlotti. This composer who lived in the early eighteenth century was the most important Italian composer who developed the opera overture, called "Sinfonia."

Three songs by Richard Strauss, "Die Nacht," "Heimkehr" and "Allerseelen" will be sung by contralto, Ruth Laughren. Her accompanist will be Ethelynne Thorpe. These songs are some of the finest written by this German composer who made such an impression on the musical world of the late 19th century.

Ida Hutchison, pianist, will continue the program by playing the Suite, Opus 14, by Bela Bartok. A Hungarian, Bartok was a pioneer in discovering and interpreting the folk music of his country. In the music which he discovered, the melody was severe, the rhythm was irregular, the tonality reached back to the modes of the church.

The song cycle, "Lieder Eines Fahrenden Gesellen" by Gustav Mahler, will be performed by soprano, Arline Kushnir, with Virginia Andrews as accompanist. Except for this and a few other song cycles, Mahler confined his musical endeavors to symphonic works. His true musical genius was never fully recognized in Europe or in this country.

An original compostion, "Conversation" by Carlton Gamer, assistant professor of music at Colorado College, will be performed by flutist, Dorothy Bradley. She will also play "Poem" by Griffes.

Assisting the hosts will be Mr. andl Mrs. David Austin, Mrs. Russell Volkman, Mrs. Grace Lord Johnson, Fritz Funk, Mrs. L. W. Dockstader, and Mrs. Charles Straeb.

Presbyterian Groups Will Meet This Week

The Women's Association for Christian Work of the First Presbyterian Church will meet for luncheon at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday in the dining room of the church.

The Alice Hyson and Clara Hepburn Circles will serve the luncheon.

Mrs. Ernest Nowels will be in charge of the devotional service. The fellowship department will conduct a program on "Functional Fellowship." Mrs. Margaret Wallace will furnish the music.

The board meeting will be held at 10:30 a.m.

First Presbyterian Church Circles will meet this week as follows:

Frances Goodrich Circle will meet at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Honnen Parlor at the Church. Mrs. Jerry Palmer and Mrs. Herb Gollis will be the hostesses.

Clara Hepburn Circle will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday with Mrs. Pearl Parmerlee, 401 Bonfoy Ave.

Fannie Kellogg Circle will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday with Mrs. Anna G. Ross, 233 N. Franklin St.

Narcissa Whitman Circle will meet at 9:30 a.m. Thursday in the Honnen Parlor at the Church. Mrs. Harry Lee and Mrs. William Irwin will be the hostesses.

Ruxton Chapter Will Meet in Masonic Temple

Ruxton Chapter 10, OES, will hold its regular meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Masonic Temple, 455 El Paso Blvd., Manitou Springs.

Mrs. Betty Rigdon, WM, and Arthur Fannin, WP, will preside. Plans will be in the making for the official visit of the worthy grand matron Feb. 13.

MRS. JAMES CARL VANDERMILLER
—Nee Marcia Jean George

Vandermiller-George Rites Held in Broadmoor Church

The marriage of Miss Marcia Jean George and James Carl Vandermiller was solemnized at 11 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 26 in the Broadmoor Community Church. The Rev. George Otto performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold K. George of 2712 Lark Dr., was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Vandermiller of 470 Clayton St., Denver.

The bride wore a short white satin dress styled with portrait neckline and elbow length sleeves. The controlled skirt was trimmed with rosebuds at the waistline in back. Her circular veil of illusion was caught to a white satin pillbox and her only jewelry was a pearl necklace with small pearl earrings. Her flowers were white roses surrounded by stephanotis.

Mrs. Kenneth C. Gates, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a green wool dress with full skirt. She wore white brocade shoes and carried a single white rose.

The bride's mother wore a deep lavender wool dress with gold accessories, and the bridegroom's mother wore a grey-blue silk knit dress shot with silver. Her accessories were also silver.

A small wedding breakfast was given at the Moors following the ceremony, after which the couple left for a honeymoon trip to Phoenix and other points in the Southwest. The bride's going-away costume was of pale gold mohair. On their return, the newlyweds will make their home in Colorado Springs.

The bride received her Bachelor of Arts degree at the University of Colorado, class of '62. The bridegroom received his Bachelor of Science degree at CU, class of '60.

The guests included Miss Elsie Vandermiller, aunt of the bridegroom from Santa Barbara, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Gates, brother-in-law and sister of the bride from Berkeley, Calif. The bride's brother, Pvt. 1. C. David George, who is stationed at Bad Tolz, Germany with the U. S. Army Hockey Team, was unable to be here. He is a former hockey player at Colorado College.

Knapp-Shear Vows Recited In Hillsboro, Wis., Church

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Shear of Hillsboro, Wis., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Elinor Christine, to Hugh Heath Knapp, son of Prof. and Mrs. Lewis M. Knapp of Colorado Springs. The ceremony took place on Dec. 28 at the First Congregational Church in Hillsboro, with the Rev. J. Paul Tatter, associate minister of Park Hill Congregational Church in Denver, and the Rev. William ~~R.~~ Schafer, minister of the local church, officiating.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of pale ivory satin and pearled Alencon lace, with a chapel length train. Her waist-length veil was held in place by a double crown of lace, and she carried red roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. E. Randall Lanier, wore a floor-length emerald green velvet gown with matching veil, and carried white spider mums. The other attendants, Mrs. Christopher Wright of Seattle, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Ruth Tatter of Denver, were similarly attired.

Serving as best man was E. Randall Lanier, a classmate of the bridegroom. Walter L. Shear of Pittsburgh, Kan. brother of the bride, and Paul J. Tatter of Denver and Colorado College, were the ushers.

The new Mrs. Knapp is a graduate of St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn. For the past two years she has lived in Denver, and taught music in the Littleton schools. Mr. Knapp graduated from Amherst College in Amherst, Mass., in 1960, and is in his final year at the Yale University Divinity School in New Haven, Conn. After a brief honeymoon in New York City the couple will be at home in New Haven.

Johnson City Will Have Tourist Sign

The President was born in a small frame house adjacent to what is now the LBJ Ranch, 15 miles west of here. As a youngster he lived and went to school here, and he has relatives living here.

In addition to the highway signs, the chamber has had hundreds of automobile bumper stickers printed and distributed to merchants.

Inactivity Lies Behind 'Creeping' Overweight

(Fifth of Six Articles)

By GAYNOR MADDOZ
Food & Nutrition Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

An increasing number of young adults who are overweight should heed growing scientific emphasis on physical activity, advises Dr. Jean Mayer, Ph.D., Sc.D., of the Harvard School of Public Health.

Recognized internationally for his researches in the causes of obesity, Dr. Mayer says, "Overeating is one factor. But inactivity is the most important factor explaining 'creeping' overweight in such a large percentage of young men and women today."

Senior executives and day laborers generally have fewer weight problems than career girls and men on their way up, Dr. Mayer notes. "Whenever he wants, the chairman of the board can take time off for golf or tennis or any other sport he likes. He has the money to pay for it. The janitor gets his weight - controlling exercise through hard physical work every day."

The doctor criticizes American cities and towns for not providing enough free recreational areas for young adults with little spare time or money. "We spend countless millions on high school and college and university gymnasiums, swimming pools and playing fields. But unlike most European cities, ours do not support enough community recreation centers for those unable to afford private athletic clubs."

Mayer says that greater activity increases a young person's strength, stamina, flexibility, looks, enjoyment of his work and probably enables him to enjoy it longer.

"Regular activity is vital to control of body weight. It also helps keep the cardiovascular system in an elastic state. And it promotes psychologic health, as well."

Office conflicts and family quarrels often touch off anger that produces a set of physical circumstances that make the heart beat faster and blood pressure go up.

The Harvard researcher says: "A swim, a game of tennis or handball, or an hour's bowling usually disperse these harmful tensions. But how many young men and women can find time for, or afford, these escapes?

He believes young women, particularly those married, tend to keep themselves in better shape than men because of household chores pushing the grocery cart, and running after the kids all day. "Also, women are more weight conscious because the style of their clothes reveals every extra pound. Men can more easily hide their bulges," he adds.

"We need more public recreation centers near their homes for young adults. I am certain that if more local voters would campaign vigorously for them and win, a greater number of overweight young men and women would start personal programs for leaner and stronger bodies."

Many YMCAs throughout the country are offering husband - and - wife activities to young marrieds at moderate cost available to everyone. "We find it easier to get wives interested when their husbands participate with them," reports Dr. Harold T. Friermood, YMCA's national Health and Physical Education Director. "Among the activities is jiu - jitsu, particularly popular with young women determined to protect themselves.

Another YMCA fitness program is "The Measured Mile" to foster more walking. Mile routes are marked off on city streets in downtown areas. Young office workers and business men and women are encouraged to walk a mile during their lunch period.

"Walking is one of the easiest, most pleasant and most effective forms of exercise." Dr. Friermood comments. "There are no fees. All one needs is a pair of shoes."

The next installment tomorrow.

ALL PURPOSE TEACHING

HONOLULU (AP) — Mrs. Romalda Bishop Spalding believes that writing, spelling, speaking and reading should be taught as a single subject and has devised a method to do so. Her method is based on phonics, which teaches students the sounds of the language and the alphabetic letters which prod those sounds. She has lectured throughout the United States on the method and it is being used today in private schools in Texas, New York, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Ohio, Louisiana, California, Washington and Alaska.

Disagreements Noted Among Colorado GOP

At the same time State Auditor John Proctor issued a statement saying, "I regret that the governor has seen fit to degrade the reports of the independent C.P.A.'s (certified public accountants) who not only have provided constructive, unbiased reports but have served also as an outstanding training course for the existing state auditor's staff."

Proctor is a Republican. He was elected for a four-year term in 1962.

Eckles said Thursday that he intended to oppose legislation pending in Congress for creation of wilderness areas.

"My position — and I am sure it will be the state position — is that we do not appose the wilderness bill concept but do have an interest and obligation to make sure that specifics (in the pending bill) do not interfere with the development of Colorado land and resources."

The issue developed because a congressional subcommittee headed by Rep. Wayne N. Aspinall, D-Colo., will conduct hearings in Denver next Friday and Saturday on the pending bill.

Love said he plans to attend the opening of the hearing before leaving for Loveland to open his Governor's Forum there at 1 p.m. Friday. He said he doesn't know whether he or some other person will give the state's official testimony.

Eckles, the governor said, will confer with several interested state agencies before the hearing, including the Department of Game, Fish and Parks and the Water Conservation Board.

Proctor's statement was prompted by a remark of Love during a Thursday news conference that so far audits made by private firms working under contract with Proctor "have not produced many affirmative changes in procedure."

"It appears to me," Proctor said in his statement, "that the governor has not been properly advised of audit reports — or the action being taken by some of the departments in implementing recommendations from the auditor's office."

Proctor listed a series of recommendations and actions which he attributed to the reports. Among them was the investigation launched by the governor into statements by auditors that persons not entitled to unemployment compensation have received the jobless benefits. On the basis of a sample, the auditors claimed these payments might total $11 million during the last six years.

At the same time Proctor released his statement he made public an audit of the Colorado Penitentiary at Canon City criticizing the handling of accounts covering inventories.

Proctor said that accounting changes would "eliminate distortion of annual statements used as a basis for appropriation by the (legislature's) Joint Budget Committee.

The auditor emphasized that all funds were accounted for.

The audit was made by Ernst and Ernst, Denver firm.

More Jobs Proposed Thru Boost in Overtime Pay

By FRANK CORMIER

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson's demand for new thinking in devising solutions to the nagging unemployment problem has produced a hint of possible action that could affect virtually every American worker.

After conferring with Johnson at the LBJ Ranch, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz suggested to newsmen it might be wise to study the present time-and-a-half pay rate for overtime work.

If the rate were raised, Wirtz said, employers might be encouraged to eliminate overtime chores and hire additional workers.

He said elimination of overtime would open up the equivalent of 919,000 full-time jobs.

Wirtz' suggestion came three days after a Johnson aide had told newsmen the President wanted new thinking on possible ways to cope with persistent unemployment troubles.

Johnson indicated Friday he is trying hard to keep his new budget, for the 1965 fiscal year that begins July 1, below $100 billion. He even said it might wind up one or two percentage points below that level.

A cut of two per cent from $100 billion would yield a spending blue-print of $98 billion, or less than the record-breaking budget of $98.8 billion submitted to Congress a year ago by the late President John F. Kennedy.

However, it seemed unlikely that Johnson could avoid a budget bigger than ever.

And he reported that he had sliced several hundred million dollars each from the spending requests of the Agriculture Department, the Atomic Energy Commission and the space agency.

But he didn't say whether he was cutting these programs below current totals or simply reducing requests that traditionally exceed going levels.

He did state there will be no pullback from the commitment to put an American on the moon by 1970, a project that could cost as much as $40 billion.

And Wirtz, meeting with reporters at press headquarters in Austin, said that in his department there will be no cuts in "human needs" activities. He said these will proceed "full speed ahead."

Budget problems were due for another airing today at a ranch get-together of Johnson and Administrator Najeeb E. Halaby of the Federal Aviation Agency.

Johnson once again got in some late-afternoon relaxation Friday by taking a helicopter ride to Travis Lake for some boating. Before that, he:

Assigned Esther Peterson, an assistant secretary of labor, additional duties as a new presidential assistant to look after consumer interests.

Studied a new Soviet proposal—branded as disappointing in Washington — to bar the use of force in settling international disputes. He got some advice on this score from Charles E. Bohlen, U.S. ambassador to France, and David K. E. Bruce, envoy to Britain, who were ranch guests.

Created a three - member emergency board to study a nationwide dispute between the Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen and the railroads.

Rep. Powell Says He Will Agree To Finance Probe

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., sad here he would permit a court audit of his financial status if he loses an appeal on a $211,500 libel judgment against him.

The judgment was awarded in Supreme Court last April 4 to Mrs. Esther M. James, a Harlem widow, in her defamation of character suit charging Powell with calling her a "bag woman," or graft collector, for the police department.

Powell's appeal was scheduled to be heard before the appellate division Jan. 24. He signed a statement Friday agreeing to the audit within a 15-day period if he loses the appeal.

The state Supreme Court held Rowell in contempt last Friday for refusing to answer a subpoena, and he was ordered to appear in court Monday. However, the court appearance was cancelled when the agreement on the statement was reached.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas—For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a Texas firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to satisfy everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But how can any man or woman be sure what is actually causing their hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Actually, there are at least 18 scalp conditions that can cause hair loss. No matter which one is the cause of your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have hair (or at least some fuzz) on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it, before its too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will suppy you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered promptly, by mail and without obligation. Adv.

A note from Jimmy Demaret
Internationally Famous Golf & TV Star

"I've known Bill Loesch, president of Loesch Lab Consultants, for over 15 years. Bill really has something here. His methods and products have helped me keep my hair, and I sincerely believe they can help you. Try it for 32 days and see."

Conley-Stenback Nuptials Held in Boulder Church

St. Thomas Aquinas Catholic Church in Boulder was the scene of the wedding of Miss Sally Lou Stenback of Ft. Morgan and Lt. Thomas Michael Conley of Colorado Springs, at 4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 21. The Rev. Clement Lafferty performed the double ring ceremony against an altar enhanced by baskets of white mums. Mrs. Lester Richards at the organ played nuptial selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stenback of Ft. Morgan. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Conley of 12 Broadmoor Rd.

Mr. Stenback gave his daughter in marriage. Her classic gown of ivory brocade was designed with portrait neckline and elbow sleeves. The bell skirt swept into a brush train, and her bouffant veil of silk illusion was caught to a matching pillbox. Her flowers were white roses.

Miss Joan Reilly of Brytown, Tex., was maid of honor, wearing a dress of Christmas green velveteen and headdress of fresh holly. Her flowers were white button mums arranged in a nosegay.

John Conley attended his brother as best man and ushers were James Smith of Boulder and Lee Van Boven of Redlands, Calif.

The bride's mother, wearing a dress of gold brocade with gold accessories, received the guests at the reception which was held in the Century Room of the Harvest House, Boulder. The bridegroom's mother chose a dress of blue brocade with white accessories. Both wore corsages of white button mums.

Mrs. James Smith of Boulder was in charge of the guest book, and Miss Beverly Heflin of Phoenix cut the cake. The punch was poured by Miss Andrea Shippey and Miss Diana Dempew.

After a honeymoon at Glenwood Springs, the newlyweds are living at Kingsville, Tex., where the bridegroom is stationed. The bride's going - away costume was a white wool knit suit with beige accessories.

Both young people attended Colorado university.

Blue Spruce Club Members to Make Resolutions

Blue Spruce Garden Club will meet at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Earl Garratt, 109 S. 22nd St.

Roll call will be "Three Coins in a Fountain." Each member puts a coin in a container and makes a garden resolution for 1964.

The program will be given by R. G. Beidleman on "Birds and Wild Life, Low Country and High Country."

Woman's Relief Corps Will Install Officers

The Woman's Relief Corps will meet at 2 o'clock Tuesday in the Odd Fellows Hall, 128 N. Nevada Ave., with Mrs. Cora Link, president, presiding. Installation of officers will be held and all members are requested to attend.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Principles of design used by artists also apply to room furnishings. They include proportion, balance, emphasis, rhythm and harmony.

A "money management" booklet (published by Household Finance Corporation) offers many useful decorating hints based on these principles of art.

To create pleasing proportions in small and medium rooms, select furnishings with slim, simple lines. Use solid colors in light or medium grey tones or small, subtle designs. But avoid large furniture, bold patterns and bright colors or furniture arrangements that divide the room. Reverse the rules for large room.

High ceiling rooms can be scaled down by using darker colors on the ceiling than on walls. Choose furnishings and decorative effects with horizontal lines.

In long and narrow rooms, room dividers, mirrors on side walls, contrasting colors or emphasis on end walls proportion space.

The two types of balance include formal, when items on either side of a center are equal; or informal, when items on either side are placed at different distances from the center.

It is harder to arrange informal balance, but the effect is more interesting.

To achieve emphasis, furnishings should be arranged to draw the eye first to the center of interest and then to every other detail in order of importance.

Rhythm in a design leads the eye in an orderly manner from one object to another. It can be achieved by repeating lines, forms, colors, patterns and textures.

The end result of the first four principles: harmony, the achievement of a pleasing whole which express variety and unity.

The experts say so.

Mrs. Cowen to Entertain Chipita Chapter, Questers

The Chipita Chapter of Questers will meet Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Peggy Cowen, 309 Elm Circle.

Mrs. Virginia Colton will act as co-hostess.

The program on Spencer Penrose will be presented by Mrs. Jean Foutch.

JUNE NUPTIALS PLANNED — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Roetzel of 1523 Culebra Place announce the engagement of their daughter, Judith Elizabeth, to John Edward Conley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Conley of 12 Broadmoor Rd. Miss Roetzel was graduated from Dominican High School, San Rafael, Calif., class of '60. Mr. Conley was graduated from St. Mary's High School, class of '60. Miss Roetzel is now attending Colorado College where her sorority is Kappa Kappa Gamma. Mr. Conley is a student at the University of Colorado. A June wedding is planned.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

In Response!

DEAR READERS: A few weeks ago I ran this letter in my column:

Dear Abby: Happiness is knowing your parents won't almost kill you if you come home a little late. Happiness is having your own bedroom. Happiness is having parents who trust you. Happiness is getting the telephone call you've been praying for. Happiness is getting good grades and making your parents proud of you. Happiness is being included in the popular circle. Happiness is having parents who don't fight. Happiness is knowing you are as well-dressed as anybody. Happiness is something I don't have. — FIFTEEN AND UNHAPPY

I received hundreds of letters from readers who wrote to comment. Here are a few:

DEAR FIFTEEN AND UNHAPPY: Happiness is coming home on time so your parents won't worry. Happiness is having someone to share a bedroom with. Happiness is proving to your parents that you can be trusted. Happiness is in realizing that sometimes you're lucky you don't get what you pray for because it isn't always good for you. Happiness is including someone who is lonely and unpopular in your circle. Happiness is in having two parents who haven't already fought it out in the divorce court. Happiness is keeping the clothes you have neat and clean and not worrying about whether somebody else is "better-dressed." Happiness is not something you get. It's something you give.

FIFTEEN AND HAPPY in Richmond, Va.

DEAR FIFTEEN AND UNHAPPY: Unhappiness is having to punish your 15-year-old for coming home late because if we didn't he'd keep coming home later and later. Unhappiness is listening to your son gripe about having to share a room with his brother when he should be old enough to understand that all parents aren't financially able to provide each child with his own bedroom. Unhappiness is knowing that your 15-year-old can't be trusted. Unhappiness is finding out that the reason your son's grades are poor is because he cut classes, came unprepared for tests and never did his homework. Unhappiness is in knowing that the "popular circle" your son runs with will call him "chicken" if he doesn't do what they do, regardless. Unhappiness is knowing that your son will be well-dressed only if you hang up his clothes, shine his shoes and see that he changes his socks, and underwear. Unhappiness is something we have brought on ourselves because we loved our son so much we couldn't say NO to him —UNHAPPY PARENTS

DEAR ABBY: We're a bunch of guys in Vietnam doing a job for Uncle Sam, and we read your column in the Stars and Stripes. That 15-year-old kid who was unhappy because she didn't have a bedroom of her own, didn't get the telephone calls she wanted, and wasn't as well-dressed as some of the other kids, sure has a lot to learn. Do you know what happiness is for the kids here?

Happiness is having enough to eat so when you go to sleep at night your stomach doesn't ache. Happiness is having shoes on your feet and any kind of clothing to keep the cold out. Happiness is having a roof over your head. Happiness is the hope that maybe you'll be lucky enough to get some kind of an education. Happiness is believing that the dream of freedom, brotherhood and peace for all mankind will someday come true. —MOREY, CLIFF, WHITEY AND GUS

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

WARMTH WITHOUT WEIGHT

Many Northerners envy those living below the Mason-Dixon line at this time of the year. Wintry blasts and subzero weather can be unpleasant, especially for the commuter, shopper, or student. The healthy can take it, but it creates a hazard for those with respiratory infections, heart disease, or poor circulation.

We are warm - blooded animals and built to withstand a reasonable amount of exposure. The surface blood vessels contract whenever a person goes out of doors in freezing weather. As a result, the vital fluid remains in the deeper tissues to retain body heat. The constricted surface capillaries limit the flow of blood and the skin becomes pale, bluish, and cold. This is most noticeable in the extremities. Meanwhile, goose flesh enhances this protective mechanism. Shivering is helpful also; it represents an involuntary contraction of the muscles to produce more heat. This has the same effect as exercise in keeping us comfortable on raw days.

There is obviously a limit to this protective device. Humans must live in heated homes and wear abundant clothing to withstand the elements in comfort. Several layers are better than one. In the coldest weather the outer garments should be windproof and the inner garment should be made of wool, cotton, or other absorbable material. The trend at present is to make clothes lighter without sacrificing warmth. It allows for more freedom of activity. The manufacturers of ski clothing are setting the pace for those who love the winter out of doors.

The extremities also should be protected. Leather gloves lined with wool or cotton are adequate for most of us. Chilling is more likely to occur if the skin is damp and we fare best by keeping it dry. High winds and humidity also intensify the cold. A sharp prickling sensation is the first indication of frostbite, especially when it develops over a yellowish - white numb area of hard skin. Heed the warning because it means the skin has had enough.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accomapnies request.

Live Simply

J. D. writes: What is done for heart strain?

Reply

Lessen the load on the heart by getting more rest, reducing tension, and avoiding anything that overworks the old ticker. If strain is associated with high blood pressure, the usual remedies for this condition are effective. Meanwhile, live as near a normal life as possible because "heart strain" is not that serious.

Hot Meals

H. L. writes: We read about providing hot lunches for school children. Why? Does the stomach know the difference between hot and cold foods?

Reply

Probably not, but the child does. "Hot lunch" usually means a meal of soup, meat, potatoes, and vegetables. These dishes are not as tasty when served cold.

Inflamed Thyroid

J. C. V. writes: 1. What is the cause of thyroiditis? 2. Is it contagious?

Reply

1. The cause of the more common types of thyroiditis is not known. Infection such as a cold may be responsible for some cases. 2. No., because there is no way for the causative agents to escape and infect others.

Infertile

Mrs. H. writes: I have had asthma since age 2. I am 37 and never have become pregnant. Could asthma make a woman sterile?

Reply

No.

Scratching Cat

E. M. writes: Our young daughter has a cat which scratches her frequently. Some one said she might get cat scratch fever in this way. Is she likely to, if the animal is healthy?

Reply

Yes, because cats often carry on their paws the causative organisms that lead to cat scratch fever even though they are not ill.

Family Arches

Mrs. J. writes: My husband and his father's sister were born with extremely high arches, which the doctor calls cavus. Is this deformity inherited. I'm concerned because I am pregnant.

Reply

Possibly, but why worry if the defect has not proved a serious handicap to your husband or his aunt?

Painful Odors

L. C. writes: This may sound silly, but whenever I smell certain odors I get a stomach ache Is this due to imagination?

Reply

No. You may have a conditioned reflex stemming from childhood experiences. It may be that you were forced to eat foods that were nauseating to you because of the odor.

Cervical Joints

E. K. writes: Could arthritis of the cervical spine produce pains in the neck and shoulders?

Reply

Yes. The cervical spine includes the upper seven vertebras. Pain from these joints is felt in the neck and shoulders.

Kennedy and Johnson Films Are Stolen

SAN ANTONIO, Tex, (AP)—Thieves broke into the car of Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez Sunday and took $450 worth of cameras and undeveloped photographs of the late President John F. Kennedy, taken during Kennedy's trip to Texas.

Gonzalez said thieves pried open a window vent to enter his locked car, parked on a downtown street.

FOR A LADY IN THE BALCONY

CASPER, Wyo. (AP) — John Schwartz, Casper, wanted to get something different for his mother on her 81st birthday, but it was hard to think of anything he hadn't already given her.

His solution?

He badgered Casper merchants for several weeks until he collected 75 silver dollars—all dated 1882, the year of her birth.

Medical Advances Battle Killing, Crippling Ills

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — The bill of particulars on medical advances in 1963 includes:

—Improved surgical techniques for heart and blood pipeline defects.

—Development of new chemical bullets for the treatment of certain kinds of cancer.

— Availability of two new measles vaccines.

—The introduction of new antibiotics, enabling medicine to keep one step ahead of organisms which develop resistance to super drugs.

On the minus side, a reported increase in veneral disease and lung cancer.

The credits and debits were cited in a statement to United Press International by Dr. Hugh H. Hussey, director of scientific activities for the American Medical Association.

Advance Organ Transplants

The most exciting medical story of the year still is in the breakthrough stage. It concerns man's ability to provide spare parts for the human body through organ transplant.

Science long has dreamed of the day when a kidney or liver or lung on the blink could be replaced by a workable one from a donor — especially from victims of fatal auto accidents.

The major gains in organ transplant were with kidneys. Kidney transplants between identical twins have been workable for the last 10 years. But transplants between persons genetically different, even though they might be related by birth, offered little promise of success and were used as a last-chance gamble.

The odds seem to be getting better. This has been largely brought about through new methods for suppressing the immunological mechanism — the system which enables a human to battle invasive bacteria and viruses.

The work with kidneys offers a possible springboard to the transplantation of other organs. There was no lasting success in attempts to transplant liver and lungs during the year. But there were indications that these, too, may develop into effective measures.

During the year, too, there was a medical advance connected with the tragic discovery that thalidomide was linked to severe birth defects.

In the wake of that discovery the Food and Drug Administration was reorganized, rules to protect the public were tightened and the agency was given more scientific manpower with which to help evaluate claims of new drugs.

Upset Miracle Claims

Another drug, long controversial, made news. The drug: krebiozen, offered as a cancer cure.

During the year, an analysis of the substance by researchers at the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) turned up evidence that the substance is creal, known to be of no use in cancer treatment.

The FDA called the evidence "unimpeachable."

On the drug front there was progress. A new pain relieving drug, pentazocine, was in the final stages of clinical research. It is said to be as potent as morphine but non-addicting.

Hot Clue Along Cancer Trail

A new anti-leukemia drug, vincristine, was introduced. Also developed was a technique for the synthesis of steroids. This could mean that hormone-like drugs could be tailor-made to fit specific situations.

One of the hottest clues along the cancer trail was further evidence that the disease might be virus-linked.

A study of the families of eight Niles, Ill., children ill with the disease in a three-year period and of four other leukemic children showed that in each of the 12 families: one to three persons had leukemia antibodies although they were not found in all 57 non-leukemic members of the families.

"We interpret these findings to mean that exposure to leukemogenic (leukemian causing) viruses leads to the formation of antibodies in some and leukemia in others," researchers said.

Robots Match Medics' Wits

Computers nosed into the medical field more extensively during the year. One, programmed to act as an expert medical consultant, passed its test with flying colors.

The problem tackled by the robot was diagnosing one of three thyroid conditions — overactive, underactive, or normal — on the basis of information supplied on individual patients.

The machine came up with the same answer as the diagnosing physician in 258 of 268 cases. That was 96 per cent on the target!

Reports Singe Cigarettes

Other developments of significance during the year:

—The average daily charge for a hospital bed in the United States increased by $1. The figure rose from $18.40 to $19.40. Charges varied, depending on the area of the country. In Mississippi, the charge was $10.60; in San Francisco, $29.

—American athletes were being used to sing the virtues of non-smoking. Through a series of ads, sponsored by the American Cancer Society, sports stars such as Bob Mathias say, "I don't think anyone who wants to be an athlete should smoke. I can't tell you not to smoke, but before you take that first drag, do me a favor. Take one long, deep breath of fresh air. Then decide." The ads were in the works before the release of several reports citing health risks involved in smoking. New York City's Health Department meanwhile, announced a plan for clinics to help smokers stop lighting up.

—The first 25 federal grants under the new mass vaccination program — against polio, diptheria, tetanus, whooping cough —were announced by the U. S. Public Health Service. Totaling $3.4 million, the grants went to 18 state and seven city-health departments to aid in community immunization programs for children under five especially. The program was proposed by President Kennedy in his last state of the union message.

—The American Cancer Society announced at least 48,000 cancer patients will be saved this year who would have died if they had developed the disease about 25 years ago.

March-of-Dimes supported research at the University of Colorado led to the development of an accurate blood test to detect both victims and symptom-free carriers of an inherited disease called galactosemia. This is a chemical birth defect which causes mental retardation in babies when they drink milk. Dr. Arthur Robinson perfected the test.

— New submarine surgery was found to help blue babies. The American Heart Association said the new hope for the thousands of blue babies born nationwide each year may lie inside the submarine-like chambers where atmospheric pressure simulates that found at 80 to 90 feet below sea level. In these high pessure chambers, the tissues of an oxygen starved blue baby can be suffused with oxygen long enough for surgeons to perform corrective surgery.

—There was tentative identification of several viruses as causing miscarriage, stillbirths and birth defects when mothers to-be are infected during pregnancy. The evidence is preliminary.

Cold War Stands Still

The year brought no miracle solution for persons bothered by sniffles. Ditto for the fat of the land.

The Biblical advice — starve it off — was touted by some doctors as a better way to lose weight, under medical supervision.

The old time remedy — to bed two weeks for a fortnight — still was being suggested as a most hopeful cure for the common cold.

The most popular remedy: see a doctor and the cold's cured in seven days; ignore it and it goes away in a week!

REVEAL ENGAGEMENT—Mrs. Frederick C. Hoebel announces the engagement of her daughter, Elizabeth Jean to Leo L. Beserra, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo A. Beserra of Woodland Hills, Calif. Miss Hoebel is the daughter of the late Dr. Frederick C. Hoebel. She is a graduate of Cheyenne Mountain High School, attended DePauw University, and is a senior at the University of Colorado Medical Center. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. Mr. Beserra is a graduate of Cheyenne Mountain High School, attended the University of the Pacific, and is a senior at the University of Colorado where he is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity. No wedding date has been set.

Sloppy By Choice

A top executive in the men's clothing industry says that any time he sees a badly dressed man he's "either a bachelor, or married to a woman who doesn't care."

The gentleman is overlooking one likely bet — especially if the wife looks like a fashion model and the husband loks like an unmade bed, and that is that the husband enjoys playing the part of a man who is plain as an old shoe and couldn't care less about proper dress.

If the man has plenty of money — and men who really work at looking as tho they are above being clothes-conscious usually do — you can be sure he depends on his wife to do all the dressing up for the family.

As long as his wife's clothes are expensive enough and well-chosen enough and appropriate enough to give her a best-dressed look, the man who walks at her side can afford to be careless about how he looks. Everyone can tell from a glance at his wife that lack of money or not knowing how to dress correctly isn't HIS problem. So he can relax in his old clothes and feel like a character no one will mistake for a tramp.

If his wife tries to make him pay more attention to his dress, he can even make her feel a little foolish by seeming to be above such superficial values as dressing correctly to impress others.

But you can be pretty sure that if his wife ever decided to be as indifferent to clothes as her husband is — he wouldn't like it a bit.

For she is his window dressing: she is his sign that says louder than words, "I am a successful and well-to-do gentleman, even tho I don't dress like one."

So the poorly dressed man, who could well afford to be well-dressed, probably isn't married to a woman who doesn't care. His wife just maybe is a woman who dresses well enough to let her husband get by in the "plain-as-an-old-shoe" role he has chosen for himself.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I am a fifteen-year-old teen-ager. I wear white socks.

Naturally, I walk around the house stocking-footed. Within an hour or so my socks are black on the bottom.

My mother does not like this . . . she said she could never get them clean and truly she couldn't until I made a little discovery (after she made me wash my own!)

I tried putting the socks in a basin of hot suds and adding bleach to it but it still did not get the bottoms clean.

So after the socks were thoroughly wet I laid them on the drainboard and picked up my mother's scouring powder (the type which says "contains bleach") and sprinkled some of it on the bottom of the socks.

Then I put a little water on the socks, picked up the scrub brush and scrubbed the scouring powder into the fibers.

Do you know that when I put those socks back in the sink with some hot water and let them soak a few minutes and then scrubbed them between my hands with my fists that the black was gone?

Now I dampen and soak my socks with the scrubbing powder and throw them in with Mother's tub of white clothes. Just a slight soak for 20 minutes in the scouring powder sure fixes them.

And say, teen-agers, it's far easier to pull off your white socks and walk around barefooted . . . and wash your feet . . . than it is to have to wash your own socks. —Mat Matlock

Dear Heloise:

My husband taught me the best way to run a home-type buffer when waxing highly-polished floors:

Never go around in circles. This causes streaks.

Never go up and down as this causes streaks, also.

After the floor has been polished this way "first" . . . you can then run the buffer any direction you see fit and you will never have a streak. —Bemarie Burns

Dear Folks:

Most amazing thing I've ever seen. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I would like to send a big bunch of flowers to the person who sent in the hint to you about using peanut butter to get chewing gum out of little girls' hair! I have four girls and three of them have long hair.

It has been a real lifesaver to me. —Mary Jo

All we said was that when chewing gum is stuck in a child's hair, don't take to the scissors . . .

Take some peanut butter, put it between your fingers and massage it into the strand of hair. Then take a facial tissue and pull the glop of chewing gum down the hair strands and all of the chewing gum will come out with no need of scissors. —Heloise

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

First off . . . I must tell you of a little "pun" my husband made:

I was doing something —don't remember just what now — that I had read about in your column and he asked me where I got the idea and I told him: "Heloise".

So he promptly came back with "Who in the "Heloise" is running this house?" —Lydia Sigman

Kit Carson Circle Will Elect Officers

Kit Carson Circle 9, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, will have a regular meeting at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the home of Mrs. Edith Platt, 1022 N. Arcadia St.

There will be an election of officers. All members are reminded to be present.

A BLOOMIN' WEED

Just for kicks, Pratt keeps one plant of some variety of weed growing in a flower bed around the courthouse.

Pratt makes certain it doesn't multiply.

Altrusans Will Be Guests of Mrs. Popovich

The Altrusa Club meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Monday at the home of Mrs. Lillian Popovich, 2625 E. Summit Dr.

Assisting hostesses are Mrs. Byron Thady and Miss Jean Strang. The program on membership and classification is being planned with member participation by Mrs. Ava Lucas and her committee. The Altrusa board will convene at 7:15 p.m.

Mrs. Santry to Entertain Fortnightly Study Club

Fortnightly Study Club will meet for dessert at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Don Santry, Jr., 2011 N. Cascade Ave.

Mrs. Martha Moorman will present the program.

WITH WHAT?

RAWLINS, Wyo. (AP)—Jerry Bergstrand, 19, of Rawlins, escaped serious injury recently when his car collided head - on with a washing machine.

Investigating officers said vandals had taken the old washing machine from a nearby signboard and placed it on the highway near Rawlins.

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Double	Redouble	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Two of ♠

South became declarer at a contract of three notrump on a bidding sequence that one does not frequently encounter. North's opening bid was rather of the synthetic type. Every jack and every bit of distribution had to be combined in order to bring the hand within the legal limit of an "optional opening." The hand contains 11 points in high cards and two for distribution.

On behalf of North it must be said that possession of a good six card suit renders the rebidding problem somewhat simple. East, of course, doubled and South had a natural redouble, despite the lack of support for partner's suit. Having a hand that was equal to an opening bid, he had reason to contemplate either a game contract, or the collection of tribute from the enemy in the way of a penalty double. The way to announce such holding is by a redouble. West's pass asked partner to shift for himself and North made a peculiar rebid of two clubs.

This unnecessary rebid is a violation of the convention which requires that the redoubler be given the courtesy of the next "shot." The common sense interpretation of his bid would seem to be this: "Partner, I opened a rather weak hand with a long club suit and am not interested in a penalty double at a low level. You may act accordingly." South chose to contract for game at notrump, for which he had the necessary high card values.

West led the two of spades, dummy played the ten and East ducked. There was little doubt that declarer had the ace and he wished to deprive dummy of an additional entry. Declarer had then and there to decide whether to develop the club suit or the diamonds. He chose the clubs which could be established by relinquishing the lead only once. Not losing sight of the necessity for retaining an entry in dummy, he overtok the spade ten with the ace. This was followed by overtaking the king of clubs with the ace and continuing with the jack.

East won with the queen and shifted to the queen of hearts which declarer took with the king. A spade lead then put East in, but declarer was safe. He could cash five clubs, two hearts, and two spades.

This line of play involved the risk that West would have the queen of clubs and shift to a diamond upon winning that trick. But it could not be avoided. If three diamond tricks were available to the defense, the hand could not be won by going for diamonds, for the enemy would have time to shift to hearts and set up tricks in that suit.

Goldwater Will Launch Campaign In Grand Rapids

said "The treaty had more accrual of good to the Soviets than it did to the United States."

"But if you were president and you were able to renounce the treaty, would you do it?" he was asked.

"If it appeared to be to our advantage to test in the atmosphere, yes, I would do it," he said.

President John F. Kennedy signed the treaty last Oct. 7, and President Johnson has let it be known he thinks the agreement will stand as one of the most memorable achievements of his assassinated predecessor.

Despite his stand on the treaty, Goldwater said he would not close the door on disarmament negotiations with the Soviet Union.

"Anybody, I think, would be a fool to close the door on negotiations for everything, but until the Soviet shows some indications that they want to disarm . . . then I don't think negotiations are possible," he said.

Goldwater said he agrees with President Johnson's call for action instead of talk in response to a New Year's greeting in which Soviet Premier Khrushchev forecast an easing of the cold war.

If he were president would Goldwater have sent a similar reply?

"I would — along these lines: 'If you mean what you say, Mr. Khrushchev, put up or shut up' as we Western poker players say."

Goldwater said the United States could not "live in the United Nations with the charter having been ignored if Red China is admitted."

Rockefeller has criticized him for demanding withdrawal if Red China is admitted, and Goldwater said the governor "goes further.

"He says that I have advocated getting out of the United Nations and I can't recall ever having said that."

Goldwater, who calls the United Nations "a debating society, at best," said at Hartford, Conn., Oct. 24 that the United States should stay in the world body and try to improve it.

But he did call for withdrawal when the United Nations moved to put down the Congo's secessionist Katanga Province.

In Peoria, Ariz., a year ago, Goldwater said intervention in Katanga should convince the United States "to get out of the United Nations and take care of its own knitting."

Multi-Millionaire Stabbed to Death; Sister-in-Law Held

until she awoke later in a hospital.

Informed that Bartholomae had died, Carmen told Police Chief James Glavas: "He was such a good man. He was so good to Charles and me."

Adding to the mystery was a coroner's report which said that Bartholomae, in addition to the stab wounds, had numerous scratches, "possibly from fingernails," on his neck, face, arms, hands and chest.

Dr. Raymond A. Brandt, Orange County coroner, said the knife made internal thrusts "in several different directions," after entering the body.

Minola, through an interpreter, said she cut her hand when she picked up the knife after entering the kitchen and finding Bartholomae and her sister on the floor.

She said she had left the room to attend to Carmen's 3-month-old son.

Investigators said Bartholomae had planned to sail his $225,000 motor yacht, Sea Diamond, to Santa Catalina Island Sunday with his brother Charles and the two women but the trip was cancelled because of high winds.

Bartholomae, president of the Bartholomae Oil Co. of nearby Fullerton, settled a divorce suit last February with his former wife for an estimated $4,250,000.

Sara Bartholomae, 48, sued him for divorce in 1961, charging cruelty. She was awarded custody of their two children, William Jr., 19, and Sarajane, 16.

Pope Urges World Peace, Church Unity in Appeal

able possibility by which mutual understanding, respect and charity may be fostered so as to smooth the way to a future —and, please God, not too distant—meeting with our Christian brothers still separated from us."

In words that he apparently added at the last minute, the Pope addressed the leaders of the world.

"At this time when I leave Bethlehem, this place of purity and calm where was born 20 centuries ago He to whom we pray today as the Prince of Peace, we feel the great duty to renew to all chiefs of state and to all those who carry the responsibility of the people our pressing appeal for world peace," the pontiff said.

"The governments must hear this cry from our heart and let them generously follow their efforts to assure humanity the peace to which it earnestly aspires.

"Let them get from the Almighty and from their inmost human conscience a most clear intelligence, a most ardent wish and a new spirit of concord and generosity so as to eliminate at whatever cost the anguish and suffering to the world of a new world war whose consequences would be uncalculable. Let them collaborate more efficiently to gain peace and truth in justice, in freedom and in friendly love. This is the prayer that we have not ceased to make constantly in this pilgrimage."

Even before the Pope made his appeal for Christian unity, his pilgrimage had given a new impetus to the cause by his meetings with Patriarch Athenagoras I of Constantinople (Istanbul) and other patriarchs of the Orthodox churches.

Sunday's trip of approximately 175 miles twice crossed the Jordanian-Israeli border. For the occasion the barriers of deep national animosity were down.

All along the way, from Jerusalem up through the mountains of ancient Samaria, then circling through Galilee, and back down the coastlands of Israel, were the sites of religious history.

At Nazareth, the mountainside town of white limestone houses where Jesus grew up, the Pope stayed more than an hour, absorbing the atmosphere. Townspeople turned out in droves, with yellow and white papal flags fluttering from their hands.

He worshipped in the Church of the Annunciation, packed with assembled Israeli diplomatic and church dignitaries. It is the traditional place where the angel foretold the birth of Jesus to Mary.

On an isolated shore of the Sea of Galilee, against a backdrop of rolling hills, Pope Paul spent a brief interval of reverie gazing out over the blue lake.

Twice he leaned down and dipped his hands into the waters of the lake. Then, as he stood looking out over the sun-sparkling surface, he lifted his arms in his customary gesture of affection and his lips moved silently in prayer.

There, at a little church in a clearing ringed by pine and eucalyptus trees, is the spot where the risen Christ supposedly told the Apostle Peter: "Feed my sheep."

The Pope is regarded by Roman Catholicism as the successor of Peter, with the responsibility of chief shepherd of the flock.

Nearby was the Mount of Beatitudes, a high, gentle rise crowned with trees on which Jesus is believed to have preached his Sermon on the Mount.

The Pope also stopped at Capernaum, along the lake shore, where Peter lived and where Jesus often preached and made his headquarters after he began his ministry.

Swinging southward, greeted by rural folk at intervals along the way, the Pope followed the twisting road up to the brow of dome-shaped Mount Tabor. Here Jesus reputedly was transfigured before his apostles' eyes and a voice sounded from a bright cloud expressing God's pleasure with him.

The Pope's black sedan then headed southward through Israel to Jerusalem, where he prayed in the Cenacle, the chamber where Christ first celebrated the Lord's Supper.

Pope Paul, spiritual leader of the 550 million Roman Catholics, and Athenagoras, leader of 250 million Orthodox believers, hailed their meeting as the end of centuries of silence between their churches and voiced hope the meeting "may be a sign and prelude of things to come for the glory of God and the illumination of His people."

In a joint communique after a second meeting today, they said:

"This meeting cannot be considered otherwise than as a fraternal gesture inspired by the charity of Christ who left to His disciples the supreme commandment of loving one another, of forgiving offenses until seventy times seven and of being united among themselves."

The communique was seen as a prod to Christians of differing denominations to work for more harmonious relations and deeper understanding between churches.

The clean-shaven, 5-foot-8 Pope and the bearded, 6-foot-4 Patriarch met first Sunday night at the apostolic delegation on the Mount of Olives, where Christ in His last hours before His arrest prayed that all believers "may be one." It was the first meeting of a Pope and a Patriarch of Constantinople since 1439, a turning point in relations between the faiths which broke apart in the great schism of 1054.

At the beginning and end of their half-hour conversation, Pope and Patriarch grasped each other's shoulders and embraced in early Christianity's traditional "kiss of peace."

Pope Paul told the Patriarch: "Great is our emotion and profound our joy in this truly historic hour after centuries of silence. . . Doubtless the roads which lead to union may be long and sown with difficulties but these two paths converge toward one another and eventually reach the sources of the Gospel."

The first meeting of Pope Paul and Athenagoras came after an arduous, day-long trip by the pontiff to scenes of Christ's boyhood and evangelism in what is now Israel. As he passed through the Mandelbaum Gate back into Jordanian Jerusalem, the Pope said it had been "the most unforgettable day of my life."

During the event-packed day, the Pope was handed a letter from President Johnson, who said he hoped to meet the spiritual leader. The pontiff expressed warm response to Sargent Shriver, brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy and head of the U.S. Peace Corps, who delivered the letter at Nazareth.

The Pope said he would be happy to have such a meeting. Shriver told newsmen this did not necessarily mean Pope Paul intended leaving the Vatican for such an encounter.

The Pope also asked Shriver to convey to Kennedy's widow and mother his admiration for their exemplary conduct in their grief.

All during Sunday's tour, whether in Arab Jordan or Jewish Israel, the Pope was greeted by applauding and cheering crowds. Colored banners and arches of palm branches overhung his route, and even in remote regions, adults and children massed on roadsides.

The pontiff appeared to have recovered from his arrival in Arab Jerusalem Saturday, where he was jostled by over-enthusiastic crowds who prevented him from seeing all he probably would like to have seen of Christendom's holiest city.

Johnson Prepares For Big Battle With Congress

will want to know how he intends to manage this.

In the last days at his ranch, the chief executive put in long hours on a budget that he has said will be in the neighborhood of $100 billion and on his State of the Union message. How these are received may indicate how much cooperation the onetime Senate Democratic leader is likely to get from his former congressional colleagues.

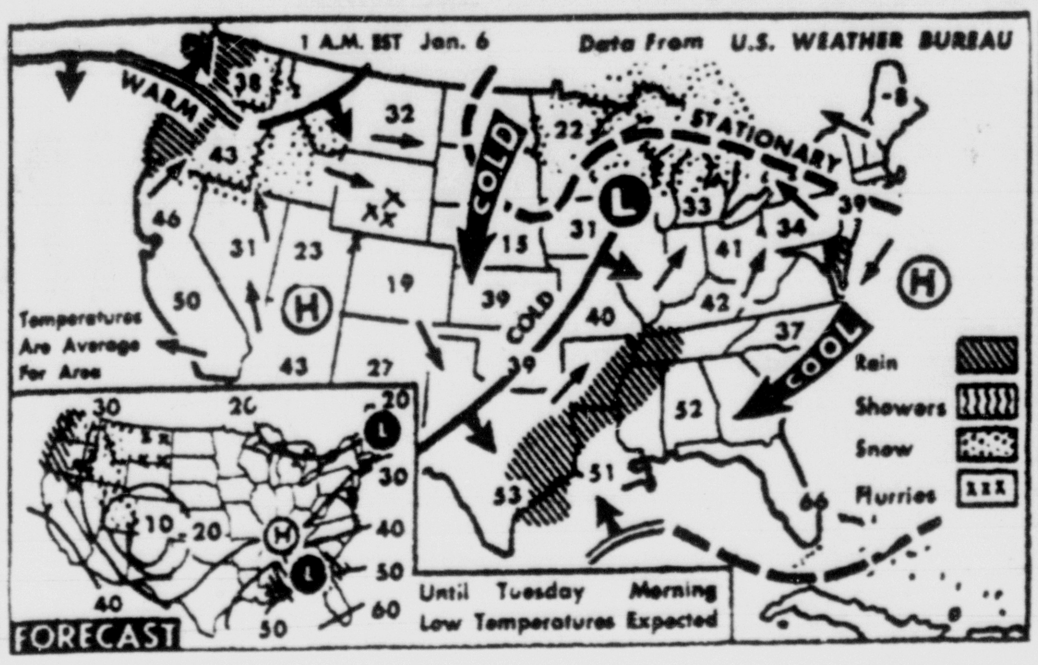
Johnson, Mrs. Johnson and their daughter, Lucy Baines, 16, attended services at St. Barnabas Episcopal Church at Fredericksburg Sunday.

Later, the President visited with Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., and called on Gov. John Connally at the state executive mansion in Austin.

Although Yarborough and Johnson both are Texans and Democrats, they had been bitter political foes. All that is past since Johnson became president.

Connally and Johnson are old friends. When the President called Sunday, several hundred persons had gathered outside the mansion. Before seeing the governor, who still wears a sling on the arm wounded when Kennedy was assassinated, Johnson threaded through the crowd, pumping hands and kissing a couple of babies.

He left Austin after nightfall, his jet arriving in the Washington area at 8:38 p.m. Johnson brought with him three relatives who will be staying awhile at the White House—uncle Huffman Baines and his wife, and a niece Susan Taylor.



WEATHER FORECAST — There will be precipitation Monday night in the northwest section of the nation falling as rain on the coast and light snow inland. Light snow is forecast for western New York and western Pennsylvania while rain is expected in parts of the Tennessee valley, the southern Atlantic states and the east Gulf coast. It will be colder from the Great Lakes southward into the southern Plains.

Crisis in Cyprus Grows Tense With New Accusations

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) —The crisis in Cyprus grew tense again today with accusations by the island's Turkish leader that Greek Cypriots plan a "general massacre on a larger scale than before."

No new fighting was reported. But a British spokesman for the joint British-Green-Turkish truce force on Cyprus said a Turkish school in the town of Larnaca was gutted by fire Sunday.

"Despite the cease-fire agreement, Turkish life and property are still in great and imminent danger in Cyprus," Vice President Fazil Kuchuk, leader of the Turkish community, said in an appeal Sunday to all "peace-loving nations."

Turkish Cypriots are outnumbered by Greek Cypriots by about four to one. Fighting between the two communities has taken an estimated 200 lives in the past two weeks.

Skiffington May Propose Increase In Sales Tax

"I will not introduce such a proposal," he said, "until I get assurance they will not increase the mill levy on property."

He said that the farmers, all from the Boone area, told him they were in favor of the sales tax. One of the men proposed a four-cent tax on cigarettes.

Skiffington said he had not considered the cigarette tax in his efforts to find new revenue for the state. He pointed out that this tax as proposed Sunday would bring in only from $6 to $8 million.

I told the delegation that I would only propose the sales tax increase if it was absolutely necessary, but they thought the cigarette tax should be levied anyway," Skiffington said.

Asked if he felt the sales tax would be necessary in view of the state's current fiscal problems, the state senator said he felt the current situation looked "pretty good."

The farmers told him they felt that property values in Colorado had reached a plane with other nearby states which did not have as high taxes. Skiffington said they told him that property taxes had increased $50 to $100 a year and are becoming "confiscatory."

The Republican senator pointed out that an increase on sales tax would have to be voted on by the people.

"But support for the proposal seems to be growing in view of the fact that property taxes may be increased," he said.

The farmers said they felt the sales tax would be more equitable than an increase in property tax, Skiffington said. He said the farmers felt everybody would be paying their share under such an increase, including the transient residents.

Skiffington said that revenue from such a tax could be used to finance the state's education program and construction of needed state institutions as well as to help finance the state Medicare program.

However, he emphasized that if he introduced such a measure, he would decline to have the funds earmarked for any particular area of expenditure.

Richard Browne Ends Marine Leave Here

Marine Cpl. Richard D. Browne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale L. Browne of 3182 W. Pikes Peak Ave., has returned to duty with the Marine Corps after spending leave here.

Cpl. Browne is being reassigned from his base at Camp Pendleton, Calif. to Headquarters, Marine Corps in Arlington, Va. where he will attend the Marine Security Guard School.

Upon completion of this course he will be assigned to special foreign duty with the Department of State at one of its overseas embassies or consulates.

Browne is a 1961 graduate of Palmer High School. He enlisted in the Marine Corps in March of that year, leaving for active duty the following July 4.

At the end of his basic training he was meritoriously promoted to Private First Class for displaying outstanding leadership qualities and performance of duty.

While stationed at the Marines' San Diego, Calif. base last summer he was awarded a Meritorious Mast (special commendation) for outstanding performance of duty by the Commanding Officer of Electronics-Communications School Battalion.

The Nation's Weather

Low pressure disturbances on the move across the Great Lakes and central Gulf Coast accounted for widespread precipitation this morning.

Rain fell in a long band from the Texas-Louisiana coast up into the Ohio Valley, while snow came down over a four-state area of the midwest, taking in North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Both New Orleans and Lake Charles, La., collected in excess of an inch of rainfall in six hours.

Wet weather also occurred in the northwest.

Rains accompanied a moist onshore flow and Pacific front, turning to snow in the mountains. The snow pack at some of the higher mountain elevations thus far in this season has built to over a foot.

On the fair side of the weather picture, high pressure sustained sunny skies thruout the southwest and in a like manner east of the Appalachians along the Atlantic seaboard.

Temperatures early this morning stood near or above seasonable normals. A major exception, sub-zero cold, visited northern New England where Caribou, Me., skidded to a minimum of 11 below zero and Newport, Vt., to eight below zero.

Another Surprise Assault Staged By Viet Reds

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

TAN AN, South Viet Nam (AP)—An estimated two battalions of Communist guerrillas slipped through encircling South Vietnamese troops before dawn today after battering back a day long airborne assault.

The Viet Cong sent a wall of machine-gun fire against U.S. helicopters and knocked out an armored personnel car before melting away from their fortifications. The crew of the car was killed by a shell from a recoilless cannon.

American pilots in rocket-firing helicopters believed they killed about 60 guerrillas, although only two bodies were found. The Viet Cong usually remove the bodies of their dead when they retreat.

The engagement, only 30 miles southwest of Siagon, was fought in view of passengers in buses and cars along the main north-south highway.

"As usual, they slipped by us last night," a Vietnamese officer said. "We just didn't have enough men to seal them in."

Government troops suffered eight killed and nearly 30 wounded.

It was the third time since New Year's Day that Viet Cong units of battalion strength or more have fought off an attack and escaped.

Most of the U. S. Army helicopters in the operation were hit. One returned with 19 holes.

Some officers said reinforcements were slow in arriving.

"It was heartbreaking," an American adviser said. "We came within a hair of smashing a really big unit—maybe part of the Viet Cong's 506 battalion, but they got out of it."

Government forces suffered another setback in a five-day operation that ended this weekend in heavily wooded Binh Duong Province, northwest of Saigon. U.S. military advisers said the operation was a total failure.

"We must do much better than this to make any impact on the Communists this year," one adviser commented. "We are still pussyfooting around defensively against the Viet Cong."

The operation began with a near debacle on New Year's Eve when a Ranger battalion came close to being wiped out despite the presence of reinforcements nearby.

Wisconsin freshman from Knoxville, Tenn., was en route to the campus. "I started early," she said, "because I was worried about the snow."

Navy Electrician 1. C. Donald Moog of Chicago was traveling to Jacksonville, Fla., to join the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt before his leave expired today. "There's not a chance of making it anymore," Moog said Sunday.

Maurice T. Horton, president of Local 1211, said the walkout was not a strike but "just a union meeting." He said under a two-year contract running to Oct. 31 members are entitled to time off to attend union meetings.

The daylong meeting didn't actually resolve any of the disputed working conditions, Horton said, But members decided to end the tieup in the interests of the public.

Horton said the local has a lengthy backlog of grievances awaiting company action.

'Clear Alternative' Being Promised By Rockefeller

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says that if the Republican party nominates him for president, he will offer voters a clear alternative to Democratic party philosophy.

"There are fundamental differences between my views and (Democratic) views," he said in reply to a charge by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona that Rockefeller is a "me-too" candidate.

Goldwater announced his candidacy Friday and opened his campaign by saying Rockefeller's views sound more like a Democratic platform than Republican philosophy.

Goldwater, chief spokesman for GOP conservatives, said no other Republican candidate — meaning Rockefeller — could offer voters a genuine alternative to the Democratic administration of President Johnson.

Rockefeller, who resumed his campaign in the New Hampshire presidential preference primary over the weekend, told a news conference in Concord, "I don't think that 'me-too' label has any application (to me). I think that was just a political statement on his part."

Goldwater begins his New Hampshire campaign Tuesday.

His assertion that Rockefeller espouses a New Frontier philosophy could become an issue in New Hampshire, where Republican ranks include a substantial bloc of conservatives.

Rockefeller knows his reputation as a liberal could be troublesome in New Hampshire. His first major political speech in this campaign contained a detailed analysis of his "fundamental differences" with Democrats on such issues as balanced budgets and centralized government.

Rockefeller also has cast himself in the role of the first volunteer for a dangerous mission who now sees others joining him.

He pointed out in his first major speech of the weekend that he was the only declared candidate for the Republican nomination at a time when many thought President John F. Kennedy would be unbeatable.

There was a revival of interest in the Republican nomination after Kennedy's death. Some observers believe the Republicans have a better chance of defeating Johnson.

But, Rockefeller said, he looks upon the nomination now as he did then.

"I am neither a 'summer soldier' or a 'sunshine patriot.'"

Rockefeller indicated at a news conference he would concentrate his immediate fire on Goldwater, avoiding specific criticism of the Johnson administration. He said Johnson had not produced concrete results on which to make a judgment.

Rockefeller will turn his attention to the home front this week.

The New York Legislature convenes on Wednesday and the governor is to deliver his sixth annual message.

Rockefeller will return to New Hampshire Thursday night for a speech at Manchester. He will fly to Washington to speak at the National Press Club on Friday.

Berlin Wall Sealed Again By East German Commies

again. We had become used to being separated from my mother and father."

Elevated trains coming from East Berlin's Friedrich Strasse station were packed tightly for the first time in years. The people were quiet or talked only in low voices. The eyes of many women were red from crying.

Two Associated Press men, correspondent Loyal Gould and and photographer Robert Rider-Rider, were detained for an hour by Communist state security officers and their films confiscated. The films of AP photographer Helmuth Lohmann and Colin Trickett, a British cameraman working for the American Broadcasting Co., also were confiscated.

Communist officials told Gould the newsmen lacked East German press credentials. Western newsmen were informed last month they did not need credentials to cover the crossings.

Sister Gabrielle Is Happy About Song Success

By FRED CHEVAL

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Two years ago a smiling but somewhat frightened nun walked into a Brussels recording studio, sat down with a second-hand guitar on her lap, and captured the hearts of two continents.

All Sister Luc Gabrielle wanted to do was have a few records made to send to some of the young girls who came to her nearby Convent of Fichermont for yearly retreats. She had amused them on their last visit with her sprightly, joyful, sometimes mischievously irreverent but always deeply spiritual songs, and the girls wanted mementos.

When the manager of the Philips Recording Studio heard the first tape of Sister Luc Gabrielle's music he rushed in to ask if she would do a full-blown album, to be distributed commercially.

The record became an immediate best-seller in Europe, and soon "The Singing Nun's" fame leaped the Atlantic. Her album became the top seller for more than a month, and one of her songs, "Dominique," became the No. 1 tune in the United States, adding a delightful freshness to disc jockey shows.

The convent receives the proceeds, which will help finance Sister Luc Gabrielle's order of Dominican nuns who are engaged chiefly in foreign missionary work.

Personal publicity for her has been sparse — her name is not even mentioned on the record; instead she is nicknamed Soeur Sourire, Sister Smile.

She is a former high school art teacher who decided in 1959 to enter the convent. She abandoned her art studies in favor of becoming a missionary.

"I would like to go to Asia," she said. "Africa also would be all right."

At present she is attending Louvain University in Brussels. She will graduate in two years and, presumably, enter the missionary field. She is 30.

She describes herself as an "untrained bear, with a turned-up nose, eyeglasses, and a poor temper." Actually she has a quite plain face, rosy cheeks and, most important, a crisp, clear and extremely refreshing voice.

Referring to herself as "a silly girl," she says she spotted the guitar in a Brussels shop "hanging by its neck." She bought it, and named it Adele.

"In answer to the Divine voice which invited her to the harvest, the silly girl — that's me — left town for a neighboring convent. Adele, the guitar, went with the luggage and began her novitiate, singing God's praise joyously and with a rich voice."

Sister Smile sings joyfully of her love for God, often adding gently humorous words. Plainly she has a happy view of Christianity.

Husband, Wife Jailed in Theft of Coat

A husband and wife were in City Jail this morning after being booked for stealing a coat from Fred's Bar in one of five theft cases reported by police this morning. The coat was stolen early Sunday morning, police said. Walter Glen Ruppert, 34, and Marie Bertha Ruppert, 53, of 2513 W. Pikes Peak Ave., admitted taking the $20 coat from the bar, which is located at 2507 W. Colorado Ave.

The victim of the theft was Harold G. Knight, 2806 W. Kiowa St., who told officers Ruppert put the coat on under another coat and left the bar. Knight followed the man and woman outside and got the coat back. He then called the police. The Rupperts were arrested at their home.

A Ft. Carson soldier is suspected of having stolen $60 from the home of Marion Sylvester Oliver, 432 E. Vrain St., Saturday night.

Oliver told officers the money was in his wife's billfold on a coffee table when the soldier, who is a friend of the family, visited the home Saturday night. After the soldier had left, Oliver noticed the money was missing.

Two, youths in their late teens were in custody this morning for stealing two cars, police said.

The two were arrested after police were tipped by a witness who saw them wiping fingerprints off the car of Majel P. Billingsley, 1416 N. Custer St., which they had stolen in Pueblo Saturday night. The arrest was made Sunday morning.

The two also stole a car from Ross Dudley Pogue, 1020 E. High St., police said. The car was taken over the weekend from the rear of Pogue's home, and has been recovered.

A 1964 Comet was found wrecked and abandoned at the B Street entrance to Ft. Carson early this morning. The car had been reported stolen from Ben Hinton Grove Jr., of 7 Ute Trail, Manitou Springs.

Grove told officers a man he had been drinking with apparently took the car from the 100 block of E. Colorado Ave. Sunday night. The car was found by the State Patrol. The amount of the damage has not been determined.

The Collier Lumber Co., 221 S. Chestnut St., was broken into over the weekend. Vending machines were damaged and an undertimed amount of money stolen.

Police said thieves entered by breaking the glass in a door. They then pryed open a cigaret machine and a pop machine. A window was broken and some candy stolen also, police said.

Vicitm of the theft was Thomas Matson Collier, 8 Elcanto St.

Cowder-Munday Nuptials Held at First Christian

Mary Alice Munday became the bride of Lt. James Richard Cowder in a double ring ceremony Dec. 29 at the First Christian Church, Greeley, with the Rev. Leslie L. Bowers, Jr. and the Rev. Clifford I. Cecil officiating. This was a formal military wedding with crossed sabres at the altar.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Munday, 1734 8th Ave., Greeley. The bridegroom, formerly of Colorado Springs, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Cowder, 409 Munger St., Hannibal, Mo.

The church was decorated with two floral arrangements of flocked ponderosa pine and white mums. The altar was decorated with seven - branched candelabra with 14 tapers. Pink and white satin marked the pews. Mrs. Daniel Wallace, organist, played the traditional nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of pure silk ivory organza over taffeta. The boat neckline was edged with Alencon lace and re-embroidered with seed and rice pearls. The gown had a fitted bodice with elbow - length sleeves, and a bell skirt extending to a chapel train. The chin length veil of French illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white mums.

The maid of honor, Miss Carolyn Crist, and the bridesmaid, Miss Ilene Ries, wore floor length gowns of cranberry slipper satin trimmed in brocade of the same color. The gowns had square necklines, long sleeves and semi-sheath skirts with detachable court trains. Their headpieces were Dior roses of powder pink with matching veils. They wore cranberry satin slippers and each carried a single pale pink rose.

The flower girl was Miss Jeane Noe. The ring bearer was Master Randy Kurtz. Lt. Wesley White was the best man. Jay Barbee, Lt. John Steele, Lt. Cary Bennett and Lt. Lawrence Steinbrink were the ushers.

The bride wore a cerise suit with a white fur pillbox hat, white gloves, black shoes and purse and a gardenia corsage when the couple left on their wedding trip to Water Wheel Lodge in Rocky Mountain National Park.

The bride attended Western State College in Gunnison and Colorado State College in Greeley. She is a member of Sigma Kappa sorority. The bridegroom attended La Grange Junior College, Hannibal, Mo. and is a 1963 graduate of the Air Force Academy. He is taking Pilot Training at Vance AFB, Enid, Okla. The couple's future residence will be 433 S. Polk, Enid, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Giersch of 1302 Park View Blvd. announce the marriage of their daughter, Judith Ann, to Charles Eugene Fetterhoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Fetterhoff of Playa del Rey, Calif.

The double ring ceremony was held at Shove Memorial Chapel at 2 p.m. Dec. 21. The Rev. Sigurd E. Burch Jr., officiated. The altar was decorated with baskets of white crysanthemums and silver pom pons accented with holly greens. A fourteen-spiral candelabrum accompanied each basket.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight brocade featuring a beaded empire bodice and a full skirt that extended to a chapel train. Her silk illusion veil was caught to a pillbox of seed pearls and ivory leaves. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and white orchids.

Miss Barbara Giersch, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were the Misses Linda Harmon of Greeley, Betty Porte of Colorado Springs, and Carolyn Roderick of Denver, cousin of the bridegroom. They wore ballerina gowns of deep blue brocade and silver pillbox hats with matching veils. They carried boughs of white evergreen accented with silver pine cones and silver bells.

The brother of the bridegroom, Jack Fetterhoff, served as best man. The groomsmen were Jim Shepard of Great Bend Kan., and Dave Wheaton of Las Vegas, N. M. The ushers were John Giersch, brother of the bride, Dave Slemon, and Lee Hubby, all of Colorado Springs.

The flower girl was Miss Gail Barrow who also wore a deep blue brocade dress. The ring bearer was Charles Fetterhoff, nephew of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride wore a green and gold sheath with gold accessories. The mother of the bridegroom wore a blue sheath of chiffon over silk and matching accessories. They wore corsages of white orchids.

After a wedding trip to Los Angeles, the couple will make their home in San Diego, Calif.

The bride attended Colorado University where she was pledged to Chi Omega Sorority. The bridegroom is a graduate from Colorado University where he was president of his fraternity, Kappa Sigma.

In 1940, the British Empire covered nearly 16 million square miles of the earth, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Huston Becomes Irish Citizen, Wife to Follow

DUBLIN, Ireland (UPI) — Missouri - born film director John Huston renounced his American citizenship here and became an Irish citizen "to get back to the roots of my ancestors."

At a brief, formal ceremony in the Department of Justice the 57-year-old Huston pledged his "loyalty and fidelity" to the Irish state and said his wife and two children would follow his example shortly.

For the past 12 years Huston has maintained his home at Craughwell, County Galway.

"Ireland is the only permanent home I have had since the war," the director said. "I guess you could call this move a sort of atavism—a desire to get back to the roots of my ancestors."

American law prohibited him from taking Irish citizenship without renouncing his U.S. citizenship, although there is no such requirement in Ireland.

Huston, whose films include "The African Queen," "The Asphalt Jungle" and "Moby Dick," said he would now have to apply for a work permit and a visa for the United States, but "I don't anticipate any difficulty about this."

Huston said he planned to devote much of his time to building up the film industry in Ireland.

"I believe there is great potential here," he said.

"All the memories of my children center around Ireland," the director said.

Automated Hospital Seen In Future by Economist

By WILLIAM C. HARRISON

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP)—Automation of almost everything except nurses will mark the hospital of the future, says a health economist. Cheerful nurses, relieved of drudgery by electronic slaves, will have more time for patients.

Each patient will have a small but private room. His bed, which may not resemble a bed at all, will supply an individual climate the way an incubator does for a premature baby.

Electronic devices will monitor his condition when needed.

The automated hospital of the future will house almost all patients under a doctor's care, further reducing home visits. Patients may be grouped in the hospital by type of illness rather than degree to receive specialized nursing care.

"Our research teams are looking ahead only about five years, not into an indefinite future," Dr. Blumberg says.

Many of the devices that will automate the hospital and hold down manpower requirements are presently available. Others are on the drawing board.

"Some already in use, such as those monitoring patients' temperature, pulse and respiration, need to be improved," Dr. Blumberg remarks. "Too many are designed as imitation nurses collecting information that is not terribly important."

Already, in post-operative recovery rooms, a monitor can automatically trigger an electric device to stimulate a faltering heart, for example. Others could flash to a central control panel signals of patient agitation, vomiting, hemorrhage, changes in breathing and clues to impending surgical shock.

In labor and delivery rooms, monitors could count frequency of labor pains, perhaps distinguish between true and false labor. An instrument could follow the heart rate of the baby being born to tell the doctor when to intervene.

"The bed," says Dr. Blumberg, "will be broken down into its functions, and some won't look like a bed at all."

Dr. Blumberg envisions the patient's body encased in a box-like tent of light, opaque material. The patient would need no upper sheet and blankets because circulating air would maintain desired temperature and humidity.

Dr. Blumberg says electricity has been used in the United States to induce anesthetic sleep, and work on electronarcosis for relatively normal sleep has been done by the Russians.

"At bedtime the nurse would just place electrodes on the insomniac patient's head, and wham — good night," he explains. A harmless amount of current shorts out the brain's wakefulness control center.

Automating the hospital is expensive. The devices probably will forestall some staff increases, Dr. Blumberg comments, but may fail to cut hospital costs. "They will result in better quality care," he states.

"I don't think automation will minimize tender loving care at all," says Dr. Blumberg. With electronic help the nurse "will have confidence and be more cheerful," he says.

"Instead of taking temperatures, she will have time to smile and say 'Hello.' "

Yugos Accuse China Of War-Mongering

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia accused Red Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai Sunday of going to Albania for warmongering and of being insincere during his African tour.

The official newspapers Borba and Politika responded hotly to Cou's charges Saturday that President Tito and Yugoslavia are "part of American imperialism."

RADIOS ON ROAD

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—A growing percentage of the radio receivers in the United States—perhaps one-fourth—are now on wheels, according to one of the country's leading suppliers of automotive radios. Denver College Dubbed Goliath; Hit by Solon

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER (AP) — State Sen. Roy McVicker, D-Wheat Ridge, an outspoken opponent of a new four-year state college for Denver, declares that every other state college and university will suffer financially if the proposed institution is established.

He dubbed it "the Goliath."

McVicker outlined his views in a discussion with a reporter.

"If a four-year college is established in Denver," he said, will become the largest in the state and in a decade or less it "it will become the largest in the state and in a decade or less it will become a university. It will be the state's largest university.

"If this happens, it will get state appropriations that otherwise would be available to a statewide program of higher education for all our institutions.

"Even though I come from this metropolitan area which would benefit, I cannot advocate that."

The senator, often mentioned a possible Democratic candidate for Congress from the northern Colorado district next fall, represents suburban Jefferson County.

Several years ago he headed the legislature's Committee on Education Beyond the High School which advocated expansion of junior colleges rather than development of additional four-year institutions.

McVicker fought bitterly against changeover of the Pueblo junior college from a locally supported two-year institution into a four-year state school now known as Southern Colorado State College. He also led legislative opposition to conversion of Ft. Lewis A&M College at Durango from a two-year institution to a degree-granting school. It operates on the trisemester system through which a student can obtain a degree in three years.

McVicker said he still doesn't believe the changes should have been made in the two institutions.

Both his personal opposition, and that of the committee, he says, was "on the basis we did not feel that statewide planning required new four-year facilities in these two areas."

The committee, McVicker said pointed out that Colorado's educational lag is in the vocational-technical field.

"The four-year college simply does not do this job," he insisted. On this basis, the Wheat Ridge Democrat said, his opposition to a Metropolitan State College is "totally consistent."

"There is a need for educational opportunity in Denver," he declared. "Make no mistake about that. This simply isn't the answer."

His recommendations to meet the need is two-fold:

1. Turn the University of Colorado's existing Denver Extension center—which now lacks authority to confer degrees — into an institution primarily for third and fourth-year students and graduate work.

"This, and only this," he said, "will meet the demands of industry in the area."

2. Set up a two-year junior college offering courses similar to that of a junior college, including both scholastic and vocational opportunities.

Congress Faces Emotional Civil Rights Issue Fight

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress opens Tuesday what promises to be a politically charged election year session with the emotion-packed civil rights issue offering an acid test of President Johnson's leadership.

Johnson is expected to place heavy emphasis on passage of a broad civil rights measure opening new doors to Negroes along with an $11-billion tax cut, health care for the elderly and other domestic proposals in his State of the Union message Wednesday.

These are leftover items from the Kennedy administration. To them Johnson is expected to add some proposals of his own and perhaps some specifics of his promised war on poverty.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield warned his colleagues as they concluded the marathon 1963 session Dec. 30 that it was "just a beginning" of the 88th Congress and that the second session would confront them with "some of the most difficult decisions which this or any Congress is likely to be required to reach."

"We face the issue of civil rights, which goes to the heart of our conscience as a free people—to the meaning of the United States to all of its citizens and the meaning of this nation in the history of the world," he said.

The House Rules Committee begins hearings on civil rights Thursday. If they drag on, advocates of the bill are expected to push a discharge petition to bring it before the House. The petition had been signed by 170 members when the House adjourned.

The House finally passed the tax cut measure Sept. 25 after long committee sessions and behind-the-scenes maneuvers. The Senate Finance Committee resumes work on the bill Wednesday with more than half of the 56 amendments proposed since House passage still to be considered.

Congress is going back to work after a scant, eight-day breather. Its 1964 timetable is complicated by the fact that the national political conventions will be held this summer.

"If we do not move faster," Mansfield said Sunday on the NBC television interview program "Sunday," "it will very likely mean that we will have to come back to the session after the conventions and we are apt to have another 12-month Congress."

To speed things up, Mansfield advocated changes in rules and procedures, particularly the cloture rule. Southern senators are expected to mount a filibuster against the civil rights bill. To choke them off, two-thirds of the senators present and voting must consent. Mansfield said he would like to see this eased to three-fifths.

Mansfield has said the administration-supported Social Security-financed health care for the aged plan will be pressed at this session. The House Ways and Means Committee, still reported predominantly opposed to the plan, resumes hearings on the legislation Jan. 20.

Already passed by the Senate, but never acted on by the House, are:

—A youth employment bill designed to provide thousands of jobs in conservation camps and on local public service projects.

—A bill to create a domestic peace corps.

A move to put an additional $455 million into the depressed areas program was rejected last session by the House but approved by the Senate. The House will have another chance to vote on it.

Ed Sullivan At Last Gets Competition

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The first serious competition in years for the Ed Sullivan show—good, old fashioned vaudeville—turned up Saturday night on ABC. "The Hollywood Palace" as the new series is called, is a vast improvement on the Jerry Lewis program it replaced.

ABC sweetened the premiere show with some big names. Bing Crosby was host. Bob Newhart did one of his telephone monologues. Mickey Rooney was in a comedy sketch although it failed to come off very well.

There was an acrobatic team of a father and three young daughters, a dandy ax magician and some nice singing—by Bing and also his No. 1 boy, Gary.

The most attractive number was the Andre Tahon puppets, a group of demure little marionettes in nuns habits which went through some paces close to dancing to the tune of "Dominque."

Sullivan on his CBS show had a trump, however. He showed a tape made in Belgium last week of the singing Dominican sisters with "Soeur Sourire" herself playing guitar and singing the song which is a surprise hit record. It was a charming and happy start for his fast-paced show.

Still another quiz show made its debut on CBS Sunday afternoon. It is called "Alumni Fun" and features a competition between teams of graduates from two colleges for scholarship money.

The questions are designed for the amusement of the audience rather than to show the brilliance of prominent alumni. Smart undergraduates on NBC's "College Bowl" are asked to rattle off answers to tough questions. The old grads were asked to identify Y. A. Tittle from a picture on which was painted an elaborate and disguising hair-do.

The special salute to Jackie Gleason on CBS Saturday night consisted primarily of clips from Gleason movies, television shows and interviews. They showed him as a stylish actor, a comedian with great timing, a pretty good golfer and pool player, and a man with firm opinions—none of which is exactly news to Gleason fans.

Art Carney who seemed ill at ease in an unaccustomed role, introduced the various bits and pieces illustrating Gleason's career.

Most disappointing program of the weekend was Saturday night's "The Defenders," in which it made its occasional stab at comedy. It had the usually serious father-and-son team trying to make peace in the warring cast of a Broadway-bound show trying out in Boston.

Man Does Not Know Why He Robbed

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Robert Lee Pruitt, 36, father of eight, was being taken to jail on two charges of armed robbery when he asked officers to let him stop at his home to hold a prayer service with his family.

Detective Capt. E. E. Peppers said Sunday that he and Patrolman J. T. Newsome waited in the living room while the family assembled for the regular evening service. After it was over, Pruitt was escorted to jail.

When the officers asked Pruitt why he had twice held up a grocery store near his suburban East Point home, he replied, "I don't know."

TACKLED—ALMOST

"He made a most dramatic escape that day. The play began on the Michigan 46-yard line and Roger was 19 yards back of the line of scrimmage when two tacklers hit him. Going down, he passed and the play gained one yard."

Musical Star Does Not Sing Single Note

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In her second movie, British musical star Julie Andrews doesn't sing a note.

Says the star of the original "My Fair Lady":

"They were thinking of putting a line in the movie where someone asks me if I can sing. 'Not at all,' I was supposed to say. But they decided against it, arguing that it would take me out of character."

Two Keatings Will Not Speak to Each Other

DENVER (AP) — Dist. Atty. Bert M. Keating won't permit his deputies to sit down with Dist. Judge Edward Keating and drink a cup of coffee.

The two aren't related. They're not even talking.

The spat began when Judge Keating told newspaper reporters this week that DA Keating was too often unavailable to his own assistants, that trials have had to be delayed because of lack of liaison in the prosecutor's office.

The district attorney retorted that he works harder than does the judge, and Friday he ordered his deputies to stop having coffee with the judge.

The district attorney noted that Raymond Buckles, a disbarred attorney and bondsman convicted of receiving stolen goods, is "the constant coffee companion of the judge.

Replied Judge Keating:

"I defy Bert Keating or anyone else to show that a man's simply getting a cup of coffee has influenced the rights of anybody in this court."

Besides, said the judge, the district attorney's deputies gave him the coffee pot in the first place.

Dynamite Used to Put Out Gas Well Blaze

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP) — A searing gas well fire, shaped like a Bunsen burner flame and towering 350 feet high, was attacked here by a fire fighter using dynamite as a weapon.

The fire burned out of control more than 24 hours at a well 20 miles north of Carlsbad. The intense gas well torch was fed by 60 million cubic feet of gas per day. It could be seen last night by residents in Hobbs, 70 miles away.

Longtime observers of oil and gas well fires in this area of New Mexico are calling the fire, estimated to have caused more than one-half million dollars damage, the worst in the area's history.

The fire followed an explosion which occurred about 9 p.m. Thursday when drillers had reached the 7,000-foot level in the well site.

The Ryuku Islands are located in the East China Sea area where as many as 45 typhoons form annually.

Danny Kaye Says He Has Plenty Material

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The wiseacres were predicting that Danny Kaye would soon run out of material when he embarked on a weekly television show.

"You know what has happened?" asked Kaye. "In the shows I've done so far this season I have used only one of my old routines. That was the 'Balling of the Jack' number, and I did it only because Gene Kelly wanted to do it with me.

"I may not use another one of my acts for the remainder of the season. We've come up with so much material that there is no need to dip into the files. And this is the way I like it."

All-Time High Noted For Liquor Revenues

DENVER (AP) — Colorado liquor tax collections in 1963 hit an all-time high of $7,413,057, up $261,744 from the former high in 1962.

Secretary of State Byron Anderson reported $5,375,551 came from distilled or spirituous liquor, $1,629,740 from beer and $407,763 from wines.

Casting Date Bait

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When you meet a man you want to see again, handle your first date this way:

Don't try too hard to impress him with how popular you are, how smart you are, or how sophisticated you are. From the youngest to the oldest, men like to do the impressing.

Don't tell him everything about yourself, so that there is nothing left for him to wonder about.

Chatter along when it is necessary to fill an awkward silence or put him at ease if he is the shy type, but don't talk so much he doesn't get a chance to do anything but listen.

You may be dying to know who he has been dating, but don't ask. That sounds too much as though you have designs on him.

Don't drag a girl friend and her date in on the party, unless he suggests it. Let him make the plans for the evening.

Don't stay out late on your first date. Bring it to an end while you're both having fun and wishing the evening didn't have to end so soon.

Don't give him any false impressions about yourself or your family. Let him accept you for exactly what you are.

No parking—even if he tries it. After all, if you park with him on your first date, he'll certainly assume that you are always that quick to get acquainted.

Don't ask him to call you, or try to rope him in on some doings your crowd is cooking up. Let him wnder if he is going to see you again.

Be sure that when you say good night you make it clear that the most pleasant thing about the evening was being with him.

MRS. MARRIN ROLF BROWN
—Nee Jo Anne Louise Nichols

* * * * * *

Lt. Marrin Rolf Brown Weds JoAnne Louise Nichols

JoAnne Louise Nichols became the bride of Lt. Marrin Rolf Brown Dec. 22 at Ent Air Force Base Chapel. Chaplain James Woodruff, officiating.

The bride, currently of Colorado Springs, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray U. Nichols, Auburn, Kan. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn E. Brown, Rarenden, Ark.

The church was decorated with two altar bouquets and two large baskets of red carnations and white mums. Traditional nuptial music was played.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The wedding gown, designed and made, by the bride, was of delustered satin and featured a fitted bodice with a high neckline. The neckline and waist were trimmed with seed pearls and the full street-length skirt was pleated. The ballerina length veil was caught to a double tiara of seed pearls. She carried a white orchid tipped with red and a cascade of white and red carnations.

The maid of honor, Miss Norma Hintz, Goodland, Kan., wore a carnation red dress of delustered satin. The bodice was identical to the bride's gown and also had a full skirt. She wore a white fur halo and carried a white fur muff trimmed with holly.

The best man was Hank Krauer of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

The bride's mother wore an ivory silk and wool brocade dress with a white carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother was unable to attend.

The bride wore a three piece wool knit traveling costume of black and aqua with black accessories and an orchid corsage, when the couple left on their wedding trip to Brownsville, Tex. Their future residence will be 916 N. Prospect St.

The bride attended Kansas State University in Manhattan, Kan. She is currently employed as a Home Economics teacher as West Junior High in Colorado Springs. The bridegroom attended Wichita University in Wichita, Kan. He is in the Air Force and is currently stationed at Ent Air Force Base.

WEATHER SWITCH

LONDON (UPI)—A year ago today, Britain was suffering its worst winter storms in centuries and cold and snow records were being broken across the nation.

Temperatures today were in the 50's in most British towns, outdoor cafes and tennis courts were crowded and the weatherman said the mild weather was expected to continue for several more days.

LT. AND MRS. FRITZ FRIANT

* * * * * *

Lt. Fritz Friant Weds Miss Gailen Woodburn

Miss Gailen Woodburn and Lt. Fritz Friant were united in marriage at 11 a.m. Dec. 21 at St. Andrews Episcopal Church in Roswell, N.M. The Rev. Charles R. Davies officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with pink and white carnations. Mrs. C. V. Wilson at the organ played traditional selections.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Woodburn of Roswell, N.M., Rt. 2, was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Col. and Mrs. Stuart T. Friant of 11 W. Madison St., Colorado Springs.

The bride wore a street length white knit dress, styled on empire lines, with small white hat and veil. She wore white kid gloves and carried a red poinsettia on a white prayer book.

Karen Pond of Taos was maid of honor, and William Hover of Boulder was best man.

A luncheon and reception were held at Hiway House, after which the couple left for Albuquerque, where they will make their home at 1036 St., S.E., Apt. 4. They also went to Phoenix for their honeymoon.

The bride's mother wore a pink crepe dress and the bridegroom's mother wore navy blue silk. Their corsages were pink orchids.

The bride chose for her traveling suit a blue wool ensemble. She received her B.A. degree at Colorado Woman's College, Denver, and is now teaching in the Albuquerque elementary schools.

The bridegroom received his B.A. in zoology at Colorado College and is now a first lieutenant in the U.S. Army stationed at Sandia Base, Albuquerque.

FOUR-YEAR SABBATICAL

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) — Danny, the Persian cat, has come home after an absence of four years. He disappeared in 1960, and suddenly showed up again.

"He comes in morning, noon and night and has settled down as if he'd never been gone," says Mrs. C. Howard Ball.

"I'd give anything to know what he's been doing these four years."

Word From The Unwise

Straight from Washington State Health Department comes this advice to busy housewives:

—"Scramble the work instead of finishing arduous tasks, one at a time, so as to use different sets of muscles.

—"Avoid hurrying. Frequent short rest periods are more valuable than one long rest period after a job is done.

—"Don't sit too long in one position."

Obviously nobody followed a busy housewife around for a week or two before offering that advice, or the observer would have seen that most of the words of caution are entirely unnecessary.

Any busy housewife, with under - school - age children has to scramble her work. If she ever gets to finish a job without interruption, it seems like a miracle.

As for sitting too long in one position, how the busy housewife wishes she could just find some time to sit! But sure as she sits down, a toddler gets into mischief and has to be rescued, or a young one gets hurt and needs to be comforted, or a kid fight has to be broken up — or if all should be quiet for a little while, the housewife's conscience tells her she really should tackle the windows that need washing or get back to the ironing board.

So the housewife doesn't need to be advised to keep her rest periods short. That is the only kind she ever gets, anyway.

She'll be well into her middle years before there is any danger of her sitting too long in one position.

If for just one day a busy housewife could finish an "arduous task" without a single interruption, and when it was finished get a good long rest, just by sitting a long, long time without the doorbell or the telephone ringing or any demands from the children, she would think she had had a fine day.

Celebrates 94th Birthday

Mrs. Amis was born Jan. 2, 1868 at Newpoint, Mo., in Holt County. She was the fifth of ten children of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shields. At the age of ten, she moved with her parents to Overland, Kan. where she lived to womanhood. At that time the family lived fifty miles from the nearest railroad.

When 16, Mrs. Amis obtained a special permit to teach school, which she continued to do until her marriage to James W. Amis on May 10, 1891. She has three sons, John and Robert of Colorado Springs, and James of Bellevue, Wash. Two other sons, Harold and Cecil are deceased.

Mrs. Amis has a brother, Ed B. Shields, 90, in Lebanon, Kan., and a sister, Mrs. Birdie Shields Wentworth, 87, of Cormen, Okla. She has three grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Mrs. Amis moved to Manhattan, Kan. in 1925 and was appointed house mother to Kappa Sigma fraternity, where she served for 12 years. She retired at the age of 70 and went to Wichita, Kan. to live with her

Yule Activities Listed by Camp Fire Groups

The Camp Fire Girls activities of the Pikes Peak Area Council were many and varied over the Christmas holidays, with most of the groups selecting a special service project.

Several groups made Christmas gifts and decorative items for the bazaar held for CARIH (Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital).

The TaWanKa girls of Audubone made and decorated felt socks and the Junior High Camp Fire girls caroled for several shut-ins. The Aya Ta Wa Ka and Ki-A-Wa-Ta Camp Fire groups of Stratton Meadows sang carols at several nursing homes and gathered for parties afterward. Pike School groups also entertained with singing.

A worthwhile project which embodies the Camp Fire motto "Give Service" was the Stratton Meadows Horizon Club which adopted a needy family for Christmas giving.

Tea Loaf Hails for the Northwest

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A reader asks, "what is a filbert nut?" Here's the answer and an easy recipe:

* * *

The filbert is a cousin of the hazelnut. They are larger and some say more flavorful, due in part to specialized care and the rich Oregon soil in which they grow. Filberts are rich in nutrients.

* * *

Oregon Filbert Tea Loaf
Yield: 1 loaf

¾ cup chopped filberts
3 cups biscuit mix
¼ teaspoon cardamom
½ cup milk
½ cup honey
1 egg, beaten
½ cup sherry wine or ½ cup milk
Grated peel of 1 lemon

Toast shelled filberts at 275 degrees for 20 minutes. Stir filberts and cardamom into biscuit mix. Mix together milk, honey, egg, wine or milk and lemon peel. Combine the two mixtures only until blended. Pour into 9x3-inch greased loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes. Remove from oven and let stand on cool surface for 5 minutes. Turn out on rack to cool.

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Mediterranean influence dominated trends in home furnishings in 1963 and will continue to play a role in 1964.

Designers of furniture, fabrics, floor coverings, lamps and accessories borrowed liberally from each country along the coast of the Mediterranean.

Wrought iron was used as a base for occasional tables, as contrasting accents to woods and fabrics on chairs and sofas, and on lamps and decorative accessories.

Framed panels and moldings emphasized the classic architectural feelings of Italy and Greece. Colors were bright and bold, reflecting the Mediterranean's marine blues and sunny golds.

Throughout the Mediterranean groups there was a borrowing from individual countries . . . architectural effects from Spain, France and Italy, Moorish and Byzantine embellishments, Greek-inspired columns.

Designers of Mediterranean furnishings cruised closer to the Greek Islands. Consequently, many tables are supported by legs shaped like Greek columns and bearing classic scrolls and embellishments at the top.

There is greater use of olive woods, bleached rosewoods, and a stronger emphasis on grains.

The clean, uncluttered lines of modern designs continued in 1963 to rate high with consumers. Traditionalists were a very strong influence, although sources discounted early 1963 predictions that Americans were ready to return to dark wall coverings.

Several manufacturers have returned to designs popular during the 1930's. These works are characterized by heavy, overstuffed arms on sofas and chairs and extra plush upholstery.

Furniture, although machine made, has a greater look of hand craftsmanship, revealing a trend among top manufacturers to employ artists and designer-craftsmen.

Danish modern is shedding its right angles and linear forms to accentuate curves and soft shapes, although there are many handsomely stated thin line pieces reflecting earlier Scandinavian stylings.

Danish renaissance styles based on designs of the 1600's are appearing on the scene. These pieces are heavy in appearance and done in textured, rustic, porous oak or a new antiqued finish in the smoky color of green tobacco.

In the floor coverings, a generation reared on wall-to-wall beige carpets will be introduced to bright-colored Orientals, Aubussons and Savonneries.

Interior designs and furniture manufacturers are having Napoleonic visions of grandeur as Empire fashions continue to highlight top collections.

There are Napoleonic campaign chests, folding canvas chairs, and drum tables. In accessories, busts and statues of Napoleon strike familiar poses for pure ornament or for lamp bases. Napoleon campaign scenes are used in murals in formal entertaining areas.

One item to complement the trend to sit-down dining is a "Dina - China," a hutch that opens up into a table. It is lined in white formica and has built-in outlets for electric appliances. Also interesting are serving carts that turn into breakfast bars for the space-conscious homemaker.

"Warmed - up" colors will be popular, but generally, the color picture remains questionable. Many stylists say that the trend is back to pastels as a relief from the many dark hues in use, while others declare the darker trend has yet to be accepted at the consumer level.

Meal and portion - size packages and containers freeze quickly and safely, take less time to defrost for use, and create fewer space problems in packing a freezer or refrigerator-freezer.

These tips come from an Iowa manufacturer, Amana Refrigeration, Inc., which has other suggestions for solving the leftover problem. Samples:

Slice, dice or chop cooked meat before packaging it so that it will be completely ready for use when you remove it from the freezer.

Freeze packages or containers of leftover stuffing and gravy separately. Make the carcass into a rich broth, then freeze it in ice cube trays or pans. Cubes are especially convenient when stored together in a heavy plastic bag: you can remove only as many as you need for one meal.

Leftover cranberry sauce also freezes well. If you want to save cooked vegetables for a salad, marinate them in French dressing before freezing.

Relishes and raw vegetables —carrot and celery sticks, for example—can be sauteed in a little butter or margarine, then frozen in muffin cups and stored in plastic bags. One portion adds flavor and nutritional value to stews, soups and casseroles.

Leftover fresh fruit salad may be frozen if bananas are omitted. Add about 2 tablespoons of simple syrup (sugar dissolved in water) if the fruit is unsweetened.

Both mince and pumpkin pies can be frozen as is, wrapped in moisture and vapor-proof material. Frozen pie can be reheated for 20-30 minutes in a preheated 375 - degree oven. Freeze individual mounds of whipped cream or hard sauce on pans lined with waxed paper, then package for storage.

Such leftovers should not be held more than a week or two in the freezing compartment of a single door refrigerator.

But most can be kept safely and without quality changes for three months or more in a zero-degree freezer. Cooked vegetables begin to decline in quality after four to six weeks. Baked goods keep longer than the three-month period.

Packaging material should be moisture and vapor proof. All foods should be wrapped or packaged tightly to eliminate air space. When freezing anything with liquids, allow ½-inch headroom in the container to allow for expansion.

Good wraps include coated and laminated freezer paper, plastic sheet film and bags (check to make sure they are not torn or punctured), and freezer foil. Lightweight household foil does not provide adequate protection.

All food should be chilled and frozen quickly to prevent spoilage. Packages to be frozen should be placed in direct contact with a freezing plate—on a horizontal shelf in an upright freezer or refrigerator freezing compartment, or against inside walls in chest type freezer.

LEFTOVERS SUPREME

Turkey casserole exceptional is easy to make with frozen leftovers. Butter bottom and sides of a 2-quart baking dish. Cover with two cups of turkey stuffing. Top with 1 cup each of chopped cooked turkey and turkey gravy, another 2 cups of stuffing and another cup each of turkey and gravy. Dot with ¼ cup of jellied cranberry sauce, cubed. Bake 30 minutes in preheated 350-degree oven. Serves 6.

Who Wants To Know?

When a homecoming husband asks his wife, "Well, Honey, what have you been doing all day?" it's no wonder she so often dismisses his routine question with, "Oh, nothing special."

If he assumes that means she has had an easy day, he is probably wrong.

But it is hard to make a husband listen to a real account of "her day," or appreciate her minor trials and tribulations, such as:

—Running a half-dozen errands and chauffeuring several children to and from schools.

—Waiting for the repairman who doesn't show up — even tho he promised he would.

—Going to several stores to find what she supposed would be an easy-to-find article.

—Baking cookies for some organization one of the children belongs to.

Such are the kind of items that make up a housewife's usual day, and they aren't exactly the kind of experiences that good conversation is made of.

But the housewife shouldn't worry too much about that. After all, when she asks her husband what kind of day he had, he usually gives her the same kind of noncommital answer. This probably means that his day was as full of routine, petty annoyances and simple drudgery as was hers.

And she probably isn't any more interested in having a detailed account of his day than he is in having a blow-by-blow account of hers.

Manitou Woman's Club to Have Program on Australia

Members of the Manitou Springs-Woman's Club will enjoy a trip Monday, in both sight and sound, as they go traveling musically with Mrs. William Aurand, and with movies and slides presented by Mr and Mrs George Price in their narration of their trip to Australia.

Mrs. Aurand will include in her musical review "South Pacific," Australia's National Anthem," God Save the King," their national song, "Waltzing Matilda" and other music related to Australia, the smallest continent in the world.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

To keep a little girl's hair ribbons always pressed . . . when you wash them, wrap them around empty thread spools and allow them to dry that way. The ribbons are always self-pressed.

Also, it is an easier way to keep them sorted and in order, and they never get wrinkled. —Mother

Could be fastened with a rubber - band. Great idea you shared, Mommy. —Heloise

Word Of Caution From A Reader:

I am a disgusted seamstress. I have taken out and replaced so many zippers that I would like to caution your readers to "Read The Fine Print On Zippers" before buying them. They often state "Iron as nylon" or "Do not use hot iron."

In the manufacturers opinion this is enough warning, but with a dozen cotton dresses coming in each day with this type of zipper, I would like someone to tell me how I can possibly iron a cotton dress (which always requires a hot iron) without touching the zipper?

It might save someone not only the trouble of going to town again and trying to find a metal zipper, but the expense, time and energy of replacing it. Read your label, gals. Let's stick by each other. —Seamstress

Remember Joe Blow? The little guy who writes the instructions? "read" before you buy . . . or try . . .

I agree with that seamstress. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I clean my clothespins by putting them in a pail of water and pouring half a cup of household bleach over them. I let this stand sometimes as long as overnight.

After they are bleached, put the pail under your water faucet and let the cold water run over them and tumble gently and the bleach is rinsed off.

Remove and lay on newspapers. The newspaper takes up the heavy moisture. Later, put them on the clothesline to dry. —Mrs. Burdin

Dear Heloise:

When tomatoes are plentiful, did you know that they can be frozen whole and are absolutely delicious in homemade soup? Just defrost them before placing them in the kettle. —Mrs. Een Weisz

Dear Heloise:

Here's a small hint from another mother.

I keep my baby food jars together in one neat, easy - to - reach spot in our refrigerator by keeping them in the plastic trays that packaged tomatoes come in!

It means no more grasping around for that lost jar, spilling the contents, etc. Every little jar is in place and easily reached without being spilled. Furthermore, by pulling out the plastic tomato tray, I can see the half-used jars . . . so nothing is wasted. —Mrs. M. L. R.

Dear Heloise:

I am an oldster. I am past 80. I have a daughter who is 52. I am cold-blooded and my daughter has arthritis. We have found that sleeping on blanket-sheets (an inexpensive type of cotton blanket that many people use in cold weather in place of sheets) are the best thing for us.

We have one complaint. Just how do you keep them on the bed? —Oldster

Anyone know? If so do drop a line and let's help this woman. Write to Heloise in care of this paper. And while you're at it . . . include your troubles, too. Maybe we can help you. —Heloise

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

1 cup converted long - grain rice
1 canned pimiento, cut in thin strips

In a 1-quart saucepan, stir together the salt, turmeric and boiling water; add the rice. Bring to simmering: cover; simmer over low heat until rice is tender and water absorbed—about 25 minutes. Fluff rice with a fork; turn into a serving dish and garnish with pimiento. Makes 3 servings.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Rough Deal!

DEAR ABBY: A friend took me to a card reader yesterday just for fun, and I haven't been able to sleep a wink since. Although I don't have any confidence in this woman's ability to read the future, she knocked me right off my feet. She said that my husband was going to die shortly, that he had been having blackouts at work but didn't want to tell me for fear of worrying me. She said I shouldn't let on that I know because it might upset him and he might die sooner. She also said someone wished me bad luck and she could break the spell by selling me some good luck charms at $10.00 each for myself and my children. (I didn't buy any. I think she's nuts.) She charges $5.00 a reading. I'd like to report this woman. But where? —DISTURBED

DEAR DISTURBED: Start with your local District Attorney. The "reader" sounds like a public nuisance. The "friend" sounds like an enemy.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl who has been wearing eyeglasses since I was 6. I have to wear them all the time now, for reading, writing, watching TV and for seeing things far away, too. My problem is the ugly red marks I get on my face. Do you know of any creams or treatments that will take off those terrible red marks? —MARKED

DEAR MARKED: Go to your optician and ask him to check your eyeglasses. If they fit properly, they should not make ugly red marks on your face.

DEAR ABBY: I read your reply to "JERSEY IN KOREA," who was having such a rough time being true to his wife back in the States. He must be in the Army or Air Force. I am a Marine Sgt., who is away from my family, too, and it will be a long time before I get home, but I'm not having that problem. You see, Abby, my father was on the road a lot when I was a kid and I asked him that same question. His answer to me has been my comfort these lonely nights. "Son," he said, "can you see me eating from the garbage can when I can look forward to a good meal served by your sweet and clean mother?" —Sincerely, JIM, U. S. M. C.

DEAR ABBY: My son thinks it is improper to give his intended wife an engagement ring until after she has received her final decree of divorce from her present husband. I disagree with him, especially since they have plans to marry immediately after the decree is granted. We have decided to go along with your opinion. Thank you. —HAPPY MOTHER-IN-LAW-TO-BE

DEAR HAPPY: I agree with your son.

Household Hints

United Press International

Don't throw away old handbags. Large ones make good first aid, sewing or "what-not" kits.

A few drops of lemon juice sprinkled on freshly cut fruit keeps the fruit from turning dark. The juice is a mild bleaching agent—it's also effective in keeping white vegetables white.

Rust spots can be removed from metal tools safely and easily with a typewriter eraser.

Put rings and watches in your pocket instead of laying them on wash basin when you wash your hands.

Whole eggs act as a binder in croquettes and meat loaves. They also thicken liquids as in pie fillings, custards, gravies, soups and sauces.

The enameled sections of a stove may crack if it is washed when hot.

Colored bed sheets make attractive summer bedspreads. Dress them up with an easy to iron on applique.

Tossed Green Salad
Bread Tray
Jellied Grapes Beverage

Jellied Grapes

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1½-cup sugar
2 cups orange juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ cups halved seeded white grapes

In the top of a double boiler, stir together the gelatin and sugar; add 1 cup of the orange juice. Stir over boiling water until orange juice is quite hot and glatin dissolves; remove from heat. Stir in remaining 1 cup orange juice and lemon juice; chill until slightly thickened. Fold in grapes. Spoon into six 6-ounce (¾ cup) custard cups or dessert dishes. Chill until set; cover until served. Gelatin will be soft but may be unmolded from custard cups; have water for dipping cups medium hot. Make 6 servings.

Note: Grapes may be peeled before halving and seeding.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. adv.

ANSWRES TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold: Spades, 6-3; Hearts, Q-9-6-2; Diamonds, A-K-Q-8; Clubs, 7-4-2.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Hrt.	1 Spd.	?

What do you bid?

A. — Three hearts. An approach bid of two diamonds, while it might work out as well, is not our choice. The three heart bid describes a hand with four trumps and at least 13 supporting points. Having made his call we are relieved of obligation to take any further drastic step.

Q. 2—As South you hold: Spades, 8; Hearts, K-9-8-6; Diamonds, K-10-5-3; Clubs, J-8-7-3.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 Hrt.	Dbl.	?

What do you bid?

A.—Three hearts. On hands of only moderate strength where a take-out double has been made and you possess a good fit with partner's opening, best results are usually obtained by offering an immediate jump raise. This serves to disrupt enemy communications, but at the same time does not prevent partner from proceeding to game if he has a really good hand.

Q. 3—As South you hold: Spades, K-2; Hearts, A-6-3-2; Diamonds, 8-6-5-4-2; Clubs, K-2.

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 Dia.	1 Spd.	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—Two spades. A doubleton honor is deemed to be normal trump support for an overcall. Nothing is to be gained by a bid of one notrump, for your hand is not exactly balanced and none of your strength is in the adverse bid suit.

Q. 4—As South you hold: Spades, K-Q-7; Hearts, A-J-10-6-3; Diamonds, J-6; Clubs, K-8-7.

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 Spd.	2 Dia.	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—Three notrump. You have 14 high card points facing a partner who was able to make an overcall at the two level. This should be enough to produce a game and in light of your spade holding, a nine trick contract should prove the easiest to fulfill. Since your partner chose to overcall rather than make a take-out double, the prospects for a good fit in hearts are greatly diminished.

Q. 5—As South you hold: Spades, Q-J-3-2; Hearts, J-10-9; Diamonds, 7-3; Clubs, Q-7-5-3.

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 Clb.	Pass	1 Hrt.	Dbl.
2 Hrts.	Pass	3 Hrts.	3 Spds.
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A. — Four spades. What appears to be a very indifferent holding to you should prove very welcome to a partner who could first double and then contract for nine tricks entirely on his own. Your trump holding plus the doubleton diamond should bring that total to 10.

Q. 6—As South you hold: Spades, K-Q-6-3; Hearts, 8-6-5; Diamonds, K-J-4; Clubs, K-Q-9.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 Clb.	Pass
1 Spd.	Pass	2 Spds.	Pass
3 Dia.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. At the outset your hand appeared to be the veriest of minimums, but in the light of bidding developments you have a very representative holding and it is suggested that you contract for game. Had partner's second bid been in hearts, no such action could be contemplated.

Q. 7—As South you hold: Spades, J-9-3; Diajonds, K-10-6-5; Clubs, K-J-10-8-7-3.

Partner opens one notrump.

What is your response?

A.—Three clubs. This is perhaps somewhat abnormal, but we can think of no better call. If partner rebids three hearts, a return to three notrump is indicated. If he bids anything other than three notrump, then you should plan to play at a minor suit contract.

Q. 8—As South you hold: Spades, A-Q-9-8-5-4-2; Hearts, K-Q-8; Diamonds, K-Q-2.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 Spd.	2 Clbs.	Pass	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three clubs. This hand possesses tremendous offensive possibilities despite partner's failure to take positive action. A jump rebid in spades is acceptable, but the cue bid is preferred because of your tolerance for a red suit contract should partner have great length in either of those suits. A reopening double is not recommended because of your lack of preparation for a "leave in."

Good Manners

British Study Nikita's Plan

LONDON (AP) — The British government saw little new Friday in Premier Khrushchev's note on renunciation of force in territorial disputes, but said it is being studied carefully.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said the government is interested in discovering whether Khrushchev is proposing any extension or elaboration of existing obligations under the United Nations charter.

The lengthy note was delivered to the Foreign Office Thursday by Soviet Ambassador Aleksandr Soldatov.

'RAG TIME KID'—Opening a two-week engagement at the Golden Bee in the Broadmoor International Center on Monday, is Percy Franks, "The Last of the Ragtime Kids." Franks is a 72-year-old kid who makes the piano shake, rattle and roll. Acclaimed nationally as one of the top ragtime piano players working in show business today, he has appeared with Jack Bailey and Herb Shriner and toured fifty weeks with Fred Allen who remembered Percy with warmth and praise on pages 197 and 198 of his autobiography, "Much Ado About Me." He is a veteran of the vaudeville circuits, Show Boats and the best honky tonk piano bars throughout the country. He records for Mel-O-Tone Rtcords. One of his specialties is doing a duet with himself during which his left hand plays "Dixie" while his right plays "Yankee Doodle." He can play 16 versions of "Merrily We Roll Along," ranging from Chinese to "long hair." Some of these are done as he faces the audience with his back to the piano; other numbers are played while he's wearing four pair of gloves. Sometimes he does a soft shoe dance while playing, and has been known to vary the entertainment by hammering out a rhythmic "Chopsticks" with his big toe. Another favorite antic is to play the "Twelfth Street Rag" with a black cloth spread over the piano.

Barbershoppers To Present Sweetheart Show

A dinner meeting in the Broadmoor Tavern hummed with the overtones of five local members of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America Friday night as they planned the upcoming parade of quartets to be presented in the City Auditorium Feb. 15.

Under the production and direction of Prof. Woodson Tyree of Colorado College, the local barbershoppers will present the Pikes Peak Barbership Chorus along with local and visiting quartets in singing of "Sweetheart Songs" done in barbershop style.

Quartets included in the presentation will be the current Central States District Champion "Hi-Chords from Colorado Springs and the 1958 International Champion "Gay-Notes" from Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Information about this show can be had by writing or calling Jack Slocum at 1616 Palmer Park Blvd.

When serving blocks of cheese or other hors d'oeuvres, instead of using the usual toothpicks inserted as a handle for easy eating, use a pretzel stick. Hors d'oeuvres and handles can both be consumed.

Duck Hunters Meet With Flock

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP)—Two Crossett, hunters met their quarry sooner than expected Wednesday when their light plane collided with a flock of ducks over the Arkansas River near Stuttgart.

Jack Stell was piloting the plane when ducks crashed through its windshield into the passenger compartment, broke landing lights, crushed the propeller spinner, damaged the leading edges of the wings and tail and broke open an oil line.

Stell, a veteran pilot, landed the plane safely on an ice-covered cotton field after the engine froze from lack of oil.

The passengers were covered with blood and feathers, but closer examination showed one hunter had only a broken fingernail and anohter two minor scratches.

They didn't estimate their "kill."

State Billing Patients for Complete Costs

DENVER (UPI)—State Institions Director David A. Hamil said Friday new rules had gone into effect for billing patients of state institutions for the full cost of their treatment.

The rules were formulated to comply with a new interpretation of the state law on billing by Atty. Gen. Duke Dunbar. The rules make patients or their relatives liable for the full average monthly cost of treatment.

Gov. John Love said earlier he planned to ask the 1964 Legislature, which convenes Wednesday, to adopt a more realistic law. Hamil said a bill had been drafted which would permit the state to determine a patient's ability to pay for his treatment, rather than billing each patient the same.

Under the proposed change in the law, Hamil said, the bill would be considered completely settled when the patient paid what he was charged on an ability to pay basis.

The new billing went into effect at the State Hospital at Pueblo and the State Home and Training Schools at Ridge and Grand Junction. The average monthly cost at the Pueblo Hospital is $316; $240.25 at Ridge and $193.75 at Grand Junction. Patients or relatives now pay $95 a month or less.

Temple Baptist Shares Bible Reading Program

The Temple Baptist Church, 1131 E. Columbine Blvd., will share in the International Bible Reading Program, "Once More In '64."

A similar program used in 1962 proved that one out of ten registered readers read the Bible thru in a single year.

The local pastor, the Rev. Philip N. Smith, presented and explained the program in full at the 11 p.m. service today. The pastor expects about 100 adult readers to register their intention to read the Bible during the next year.

The Rev. C. Chester Larson of Minneapolis, Minn., director and promoter of the program, reports that from a survey taken in 1960, only one out of 21 people had read the Bible thru at least once. In the same survey, he found that of those who read the Bible thru, one out of ten had done in a single year.

The Rev. Larson recently said, "Bible reading is basic to Bible study. Bible study is basic to Bible living. Bible living is basic in helping people solve their many complex problems of our age. Bible reading is one of the ways whereby people, both young and old, can reveal to a lost and dying, hopeless world a living, vital faith in an eternal God. If all who believe that the Word of God is the only hope in our world today would read it thru once more in 64, the impact would be felt around the world."

New York Board Plans Crack Down

NEW YORK (AP) — The Board of Education, whose school custodians have made as much as $53,000 a year, says it will adopt new schedules at its meeting Wednesday to prevent excessive earnings.

The custodians' union has threatened to strike if it does.

Witnesses at a public hearing last month testified the average "net retained" by custodians, quasi - independent contractors, was $17,000 in the last fiscal year.

A basic annual income of $5,700 to $12,000 for a 40-hour week would be established by the new schedules.

Said Harry J. Mundy, president of the Local 891, International Union of Operating Engineers, which represents 820 of the school system's 850 custodians:

Frostbite Is Ever Present Danger in Winter

Frostbite is an ever present danger in winter in much of the nation. It can be a serious injury.

First signs of frostbite are "pins and needles" prickly feeling and then numbness, says Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association. The affected part will turn white or gray, and later red.

Frostbite can be very painful for a long period, can result in amputations and leave the victim hypersensitive to cold for the rest of his life. In some ways the damage is similar to a burn.

Prevention is the best protection against frostbite. Dress properly in warm clothing, waterproof shoes and heavy dry socks. Cover face and ears. Keep clothring dry from outside moisture and from perspiration. Avoid tight clothing or garters that may restrict circulation.

Motorists should carry heavy clothing and shoes in the car. It might be necessary to hike to a garage for assistance if the motor stalls.

The first step in first aid is thawing of frozen body tissue. Bring the victim indoors to a warm room. Treat the frozen part with gentleness. Don't rub or massage. Ice or snow applied to the frozen part merely delays thawing.

Promptl medical treatment is important. Control of severe pain is required. Antibiotics and antitetanus injections may be needed if the skin is broken.

First degree frostbite, similar to sunburn, is likely to attack the ears, toes, fingers, cheeks or nose. Second degree frostbite produces blisters, and third degree freezing damages deep tissues. Much of the frozen part may be lost.

Most cases of frostbite need not have happened, if the victim had been properly dressed and had used judgment about staying out too long in subfreezing weather.

Maurice Baker Named Insurance Group Member

Maurice G. Baker of the Baker Realty Company, has been appointed to serve on the property committee of the National Association of Insurance Agents and as a member of the resolutions committee of the National Board of NAIA.

Five other prominent Colorado insurance executives have also been appointed to committees of the NAIA.

These are Peter J. Walsh, Denver, who will serve as chairman of the NAIA Casualty Committee and as a member of the technical conference committee Walker A. Garrott, Denver, who will serve as vice chairman of the fidelity and surety committee; Norman V. Cohn, Denver, vice chairman of the metropolitan and large lines committee; Gerard TeBockhorst, Denver, who has been appointed to his second term on the NAIA Special Advertising Committee; and Charles L. Lott, Greeley, who will serve on the educational committee.

Baker has long been active in the Colorado Springs Insurors Association, Inc. and the Colorado Insurors Association Inc., organizations of professional independent insurance agents affiliated with the National Association.

He has just completed three years' service as state national director for Colorado to the NAIA and is a past president of the Colorado Insurors Association.

Trading Heavy In Irregular Market Advance

NEW YORK (AP) —Steels were in demand as the stock market maintained an irregular advance early this afternoon. Trading was heavy.

The market was stronger early in the morning than it was later. Many recent high flyers were clipped by profit taking.

Brokers reported a pent-up demand by investment funds of various types to establish positions in common stocks.

A parade of sizable blocks, mostly at higher prices marked the opening. Once the initial wave of demand had been satisfied, however, the list backed away sharply.

Steels remained higher following a report of surprising strength in steel orders during the usually sluggish holiday weeks.

Nonferrous metals, rails and utilities also were on the upbeat. Motors turned mixed. Tobaccos, airlines, chemicals and aerospace issues also were irregular.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .7 at 287.9 with industrials up .4, rails up .7 and utilities up .6.

G. D. Searle, which soared following its admission to Big Board trading last week, fell more than 2.

American Tobacco held a fractional gain following word of its new cigarette brand which will be labeled for its contents of "tar" and nicotine. Other cigarette stocks showed a lower trend. The U.S. Public Health report on smoking and health is expected to be issued Saturday.

Prices moved higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were unchanged in moderately active trading.

Mexican Art Draws Crowds

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The line of people waiting to see the show sometimes extends around the block. On Sundays 4,000 have been turned away. It has been such a hit that it has been held over.

A new movie or stage sensation? No — some of the attractions in this show are 3,500 years old. It is the masterworks of Mexican art exhibit at the County Museum.

The museum has asked for and recived from the Mexican government an extension of the show until Feb. 23 — it was to close last week. By happy coincidence, President Johnson and President Lopez Mateos will be meeting in Los Angeles Feb. 22, and it is hoped that they will visit the show.

Such a distinguished visit would further enhance the remarkable success of the Mexican art exhibit, which demonstrates, says museum director Dr. Richard F. Brown, 'the public's hunger for first-class art events."

Brown expects a quarter of a million persons will have seen the show when the five-month run ends.

"The number of repeats is amazing," he said.

"We're also drawing a lot of the local Mexican-American population. Many of them have never been to Mexico and they are naturally interested to see their heritage of art."

What they see is a rich panorama, ranging from the vigorous pre-Columbian statuary to the modern classics of Rivera and Orozco to richly imaginative crafts of rural Mexico. Acquisition of the exhibit was a coup for Los Angeles since it has appeared in no other American city.

"The exhibit had toured 12 European cities and the Mexican government was getting a bit edgy about having its treasures gone so long," Brown related.

Brown had pleaded for the exhibit but the authorities made no decision. Then he and museum directors of other American cities were summoned to the Mexican Embassy in Washington last March to discuss possibilities.

"Fortunately my Spanish is pretty good," said Brown. "Also fortunately, I was placed at dinner beside the ambassador's wife and opposite the director of the exhibit. My pleas were fervent."

They also proved effective.

Study of Economics Urged for Americans

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ignorance of the American public on "simple economic principles is both shocking and frightening," Dean Helen C. Canoyer, Cornell University, reported at a recent meeting of the Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

Dean Canoyer, chairman of President Johnson's Consumer Advisory Council, suggested that every American learn elementary economics. She said there also is a crying need for more economic classes in schools.

Nose Should Be Blown With Open Nostrils

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nose should be blown only with both nostrils open, especially if you have a cold.

Blowing with one nostril closed, warns an editorial in the New York State Journal of Medicine, develops back pressure which may force open the tubes leading to the middle ear. During the acute stage of a cold, germ-laden secretion from the upper throat may thus be driven into the middle ear, and lead to infection there.

Home Fires Seen a National Problem

People everywhere today were asked to help prevent fires during the coming year and hold down the nation's tragic fire toll in lives and property damage.

"Preventing fires is the job of every individual, his next door neighbor, and the man down the street," said Lewis A. Vincent, general manager of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

"The loss of a single loved one is a family tragedy. Yet more than 11,800 persons lost their lives because of fire in the year 1962 and the present year promises to be no better.

A glance at the headlines on the day after Christmas shows this grim news: twelve sleeping children burned to death by fire, started as gifts were being placed under the Christmas tree; a family of six in Michigan, wiped out by fire; a Christmas tree fire in Indiana, with the death of two toddlers; an early morning blaze in Ohio, killing two brothers. This was but a partial report of tragedy at Christmas.

The same grim news of death by fire has appeared in the papers day after day all thru the year.

"Contrary to what you may think, these fire fatalities and fire injuries did not occur in one or two or three big multi-million dollar fires. Most occurred in the thousands of home fires which happen round - the - clock across the nation.

"These residential fires are responsible for the overwhelming majority of fire deaths and injuries. They, too, were a factor in pushing fire losses, dollarwise, to the highest on record in 1963."

Vincent estimated that fire losses in the U. S. in the year just ending totaled $1,411,000,000, an increase of 11.5 per cent over the preceding year.

Important factors contributing to the increasing fire waste, Vincent said, are: the upward trend in property values and construction costs; the millions of homes and other burnable structures which have been added to the national wealth in the post-war years, and the ever - increasing population whose carelessness is responsible for the bulk of all fires.

"The efficiency of the fire services for the nation as a whole has been rising, but the have to cope with has been ex- fire-fighting job the services have to cope with has been expanding, too," Vincent added.

It is in the category of home fires — the houses on your street, in the next block, and in the next town — that the large number of fires in our nation occur.

It will take continuing fire prevention awareness and activity at home and at work on the part of all of us in this country if we are to hold down fires during the coming year," Vincent said.

Art Center Will Show Mexican Art Exhibit

An exhibition of Mexican art, titled "The Bold Tradition," will open at the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center Tuesday for viewing thru January.

The exhibition contains some 15 paintings, 17 prints and a number of sculptures depicting all different periods in the bold tradition of art from this colorful country.

There is an excellent selection of Pre-Columbian sculpture with the paintings and prints dating from the Colonial thru the Contemporary period.

Examples by such well-known artists as Orozco, Tamayo, Galvan, Zalce Rivera and Siqueiros are to be seen in the exhibition of contemporary painting.

Of special interest to Colorado Springs is the representation of two artists, Roberto Montenegro and Jean Charlot, who have been on the faculty of the Fine Arts Center in past years.

The exhibition is being made available thru the courtesy of the International Business Machines Corp.

Dodge in State Tax Probed by Officials

DENVER (UPI)— The Colorado Department of Revenue reported Friday that an audit made in northeast Colorado showed residents dodged the state use tax on about $1 million worth of purchases made outside the state.

The audit was made primarily in Phillips, Sedgwick and Yuma counties. Revenue Director High H. C. Weed Jr. said the audit pointed up the need for a crackdown on persons who buy goods outside the state for use in Colorado and do not pay the use tax.

Violations were turned up by checking mortgage records held by county governments and by "leads supplied by Colorado merchants," Weed said. Most of the purchases were made in neighboring Nebraska, which does not have a sales tax, and they consisted principally of heavy farm equipment, he said.

Winter Driving Hazards Include Sudden Skids

In winter weather driving it is the sudden skid and inability to see out of windshields plastered wth snow and road-muck that often maims or kills the unprepared driver and his passengers.

This is the statement of one of the top authorities on winter driving hazards of the National Safety Council Traffic Conference. Prof. A. H. Easton, Chairman of the Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards and Director of the Motor Vehicle Research Laboratory, University of Wisconsin.

"Tests conducted each year by our committee have given us considerable knowledge about winter weather driving," Easton said. "It is my belief that many motorists have accidents simply because they neglect equipment."

The Committee on Winter Driving Hazards is made up of automotive engineers from Detroit, test drivers, government officials and university researchers.

"Our committee works in temperatures ranging down to 30 degrees below zero on frozen lakes and fields and snow packed roadways to come up with answers that may save lives," the traffic safety specialist said.

Here are some of Easton's suggestions for safe operation in snow, ice, freezing weather and fog.

"Drivers must be able to see and be seen. Early hours of darkness make it imperative that lighting systems are perfect, with both upper and lower beams properly aimed," he said.

"Keeping lights clean is often overlooked by motorists. Keep a cloth handy to wipe off road grime, and a brush to remove snow," Easton urged.

He maintains that failure to keep windshield wipers in top condition causes thousands of winter crashes.

"Drivers neglect their blades and when they hit snow or rain they drive almost blind, he said. "It is foolish to put lives and a vehicle costing several thousand dollars in jeopardy by neglecting maintenance of wiper arms and blades," Easton said.

"Wiper blade rubber must be checked frequently because summer sun bakes the rubber and causes it to harden. The arm pressure must be firm to avoid streaking. Manufacturers recommend an ounce of pressure for each inch of blade length for efficiency in clearing off rain, snow, sleet and road-muck," the educator explained.

"Equally important, our tests at Clintonville, Wis., and in Michigan have proved that in severe conditions, reinforced tire chans are needed," Easton said.

"Snow tires give you half again as much pulling power in snow as regular tires, but when conditions are bad, chains give up to five times as much traction," he said.

Easton urges every driver to keep a set of reinforced tire chains in the trunk for emergency conditions.

He warned motorists to be on guard when the temperature is just above freezing.

"Wet ice at 30 degrees is twice as slippery as ice at zero temperature. The 'polishing' by heavy traffic also makes ice more slippery," he said.

Hitler Got Advance Word On Bloody Dieppe Raid

By TOM A. CULLEN

LONDON (NEA)—The Dieppe raid, in which 3,372 Canadian commandos were either killed, wounded or taken prisoner, was one of the bloodiest Allied disasters of World War II.

The failure of the Dieppe invasion of August, 1942, usually is put down to a combination of bad planning and bad luck. But now it appears that Hitler may have been warned of the raid in advance.

Not only had the Germans broken the British naval code before the Dieppe raid, but they also may have received inside information concerning the raid from an Allied source.

Such is the view of David Irving, a young British historian, who has been examining captured German war documents. In fact, Irving, who is the author of a best - seller on the bombing of Dresden, has kicked up quite a controversy with his findings.

Among others, Capt. Stephen Roskill, the official British naval historian, denies the possibility that Hitler was tipped off in advance. It was the German victories against Russia which caused Hitler to anticipate an Allied attack on the French coast, according to Roskill.

The dictator correctly estimated that the Allies would attack in order to relieve Nazi pressure in the east, he claims. This, and not a security leak, explains the German high state of readiness in Normandy, says Capt. Roskill.

Certainly the Germans were waiting for the 5,000 men of the 2nd Canadian Division when they waded ashore at Dieppe at dawn on August 19, 1942. Some of them never reached the beach. Others died in the sand dunes where British honeymooners had once picnicked.

Those who made the shore met with only limited success. They occupied the casino, blasted snipers out of boarded-up hotels, destroyed gun emplacements. Many Canadians were shot down in Dieppe's narrow streets, or staggered, wounded back to the beach.

Nine hours after it started, the show was all over. The survivors backed off the flaming beach, leaving behind 593 dead commandos, 1,901 Canadians who were taken prisoner. Another 287 men were reported missing, while 591 wounded managed to get back to England.

Admiral Mountbatten, who had planned the raid, tried to make a victory out of it. "It is impossible to overestimate the value of the Dieppe raid," . . . I have no doubt that the Battle of Normandy was won on the beaches of Dieppe."

Mountbatten also denied that the Germans were tipped off to the raid in advance. "So little were the Germans suspecting an actual raid on this day, that they had given unusually late leave to the fighter pilots stationed in the vicinity."

But Irving claims that Hitler not only knew that the assault would take place on Dieppe, but he knew the approximate date.

According to the historian, Hitler, in a top secret dispatch, warned his commander-in-chief of the impending raid just five weeks before it happened.

Hitler said that an Allied landing was indicated by "a flood of reports from agents in Britain and other intelligence sources." He also spoke of a "strong concentration of assault craft in southern England."

The fuehrer concluded: "This is most urgent — the Channel coast area Dieppe - Le Havre-Normandy is held to be in particular danger, as this sector can be easily reached by the enemy air force with fighter cover."

Then on August 17, two days before the Dieppe raid, Luftwaffe squadron and wing commanders were summoned to a conference by Lieut. Gen. Kessler, director of Atlantic operations.

They were told that the Allies were planning to launch a five-pronged attack. Dieppe was to be the center of the attack, while sideshow attacks were to be launched in order to cut the town off from the flank and the rear.

As it happened, this was exactly the strategy which the Canadians, under command of Maj. Gen. John Hamilton Roberts, pursued. The result has sometimes been described as being as wasteful and as futile as the charge of the Light Brigade.

Combination Of Factors Cut Outflow of Gold

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Busy gold miners and wheat-hungry Russians and less jittery hoarders, each in their fashion, helped the United States hold down its losses of the metal in 1963.

Few expect the outflow to be stopped entirely in 1964 since the basic cause remains: Excess dollars in foreign hands. But government officials and international bankers alike take comfort in any partial plugging of the drain which reached alarming proportions in 1960 and persisted through 1961 and 1962.

Here are the cold figures: The U.S. Treasury's monetary gold stock dropped $465 million in 1963 to $15.5 billion, roughly what it was when World War II started in 1939. World upheaval had sent the U.S. reserves to their peak of $24.8 billion in August 1949.

Since then other nations busily rebuilding their own reserves and often using surplus U.S. dollars from our continuing deficit in the balance of payments have steadily whittled down the American gold reserves. The U.S. loss was $912 million in 1962 and $877 million in 1961.

But last year the United States and nine other leading financial nations agreed to help each other protect reserves from speculators or the temporary strains of trade imbalance. This pact apparently worked well.

At the same time gold mined outside the Communist part of the world rose five per cent to add $1.4 billion to gold supplies. Russians sold an estimated total of $400 million worth to the West, mostly for grain purchases, thus further fattening available supplies.

And speculators were fairly inactive, with the London free-market price holding close to the official one for U.S. Treasury sales, $35 an ounce, plus 8¾ cents handling charges. In the October 1960 rush to turn dollars in for gold, the price had gone above $40 an ounce in London.

Gold production outside the Communist world last year is estimated at 40 million ounces or more. About 10 million ounces of that went into monetary reserves, and an equal amount was taken for industrial uses. This would leave about 20 million ounces going into private hands, either for hoarding (historically popular in many parts of the world; or for speculation that the price might rise in the future.

Monetary reserves are usually a combination of gold and holdings of the currencies of other nations. The U.S. dollar is the favorite, with the British pound next. Most European nations like to keep most of their reserves in gold.

Gold holdings of all the non-Communist nations save the United States are now around $24 billion. So the $15.5 billion U.S. Treasury stock is considered by many in financial circles a pretty healthy percentage, about the same ratio as before the World War II rocking of the international monetary boat.

Police Seek Witness to Hit-Run Mishap

The Colorado Springs Police Department Monday requested that a woman who witnessed a hit-and-run accident on Dec. 22, contact police.

PLANE TROUBLE

GUNNISON (UPI)— Gov. John Love made it back to Denver Sunday, but it took the State Patrol to do it. The governor was aboard a Frontier Airlines plane which blew a tire on landing here. No one was injured. Love made the rest of his trip by car, changing patrol cars on Monarch Pass, Trout Creek Pass, and just east of Kenosha Pass, where his official car went to meet him. Love had been in Grand Junction to address the Western Colorado Horticultural Society Friday night.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — One of the refreshing aspects of the Johnson Administration is that the new President is giving us political slogans again. They had been out of style under JFK, who went in for campaign themes and never even tried to coin a slogan.

With Johnson it is certainly different. He has come up with a "peace offensive" aimed at seeking a new "peace breakthru."

But even more clearly tuned to presidential 1964 is Johnson's tag of "A home for every man" placed on the comprehensive housing program he will send to Congress.

The President has also been emphasizing in his drive for federal economies that he wants "a dollar's value for a dollar spent."

These are all good, solid phrases with considerable merit and are likely to catch on as just the kind of slogans that tend to simplify (or oversimplify) issues in a national election.

That "home for every man" slogan could have significant political oomph. It recalls Huey Long's use of a somewhat similar phrase to build up his political power back in the depression days of the 1930s —"Every man a king."

As a sucker in the past for a good political slogan, we think it will lend excitement and sparkle to the fall elections to have them tossed around again, whether they confuse or help the voter make up his mind.

They did not really go out of style until the 1960 campaign, altho they started to get old-fashioned in 1956. Before that, political slogans were traditional in election campaigns.

THAT CHICKEN IN EVERY POT

Remember in 1956 — when the Republicans pushed "Everything booming but the guns." Back in 1928 there was Hoover's White House appeal of "Two cars in every garage — a chicken in every pot."

In 1916, Woodrow Wilson won reelection on "He kept us out of war," and for many years before that the GOP capitalized effectively on "the full dinner pail."

"Of course, thru recent years there have been like partisan phrases that have a slogan quality about them — like "soft on Communism," "90 miles from our shores" and "throw the rascals out."

Or, for that matter, the hackneyed but still effective "peace and prosperity" slogan.

It is our guess that the President's "unrelenting peace offensive" and his "home for every man" will be repeated many and many a time between now and the November election. And as the campaign develops, a whole flock more of Johnsonisms of the slogan variety will crop up.

This could not have been true had John F. Kennedy lived. As we said, he was a theme man, not a slogan man.

The same was true in 1960. Richard M. Nixon also was a theme man. In effect, they both subscribed to the Murray Chotiner theory of how best to run a campaign. Chotiner managed Nixon's campaign for the Vice Presidency in 1952.

Chotiner always opposed a slogan for a campaign, holding that too many times the opposition may twist it or turn it.

RECALLS IKE'S 1952 THEME

He has explained in the book "Politics U. S. A." (Doubleday, publishers) the value of a theme as opposed to a simple slogan. In the 1952 first Eisenhower campaign, he points out, the theme was: "There was a mess in Washington."

But it would appear at this time, as Johnson tries out phrases like "A home for every man," that the President leans to the view that a slogan has a lot more merit than Chotiner thinks.

If so, he probably would agree with the opinion of L. Richard Guylay, who disagrees with Chotiner and is a former public relations director of the Republican National Committee.

"The public is slogan-conscious," says Guylay. "It likes to have its ideas presented in capsule form. A good slogan is a powerful asset. It does a job night and day, but we have to remember this — that no matter what the slogan is, it is good or it becomes effective only thru constant use."

But, as Chotiner, argued before, a slogan is tricky. It can lash back, once events occur over which politicians have no control. In 1946, for example, the Republicans swept the Congressional elections making significant use of "Had enough? Vote Republican."

In 1948, the voters had had enough of a Republican Congress, and the "had enough" slogan contributed greatly to Harry Truman's surprise victory over Gov. Dewey.

The "peace, prosperity and progress" chant of Republicans in 1956 similarly backfired in 1958 off-year elections.

IT GAVE KENNEDY SOME WEAPONS

It even gave Kennedy in 1960 a convenient peg to hang his debating hat on, for he charged that instead of peace the Eisenhower Administration has produced "brinkmanship", instead of prosperity there was an economic lag and instead of progress there had been eight years of standing still.

So if any influential Democrat wants to do a good deed for his party this early in the year, he might urge the White House to go easy on tossing out slogans without first having the smartest Madison Avenue publicists in for a huddle.

The "peace offensive" business aimed at achieving a new "peace breakthru" could come a cropper overnight. The late President Kennedy never allowed the American people to think there was a Chinaman's chance of his achieving "peace in our time."

But, of course, he was a theme advocate and, because he was, he carefully avoided giving the public the impression — thru a slogan — that he would try to deliver what he felt he couldn't.

Child Actress Taken From Her Father

Chief Deputy Dist. Atty. Manley J. Bowler issued the complaint after seeing a letter which he said indicated the mother, Mrs. Barbara Gardner, 30, has the child somewhere in California.

Fire Department Assists Stricken Man

The fire department was called at 9:26 p.m. Sunday when Dr. R. M. Fulbright, 89, had difficulty in breathing at his home, 525 N. Nevada Ave. The Company 1 resuscitator crew responded and an inhalator was used for 20 minutes, when normal breathing was restored.

At 8:01 p.m. Sunday resuscitator crews of Companies 1 and 5 treated Herbert Owen Barnes, 53, who suffered an apparent heart attack at 3221 W. Colorado Ave. He was then taken to St. Francis Hospital.

A trash fire in a garage at the residence of Wilbur Almquist, 2920 Hayman St., did a small amount of damage Sunday. Company 4, responding to a 10:45 a.m. alarm, extinguished the blaze. The fire was of undetermined origin.

Fingerprints Found in 11th Boston Slaying

BOSTON (AP) —Fingerprints found in the apartment of 19-year-old Mary Ellen Sullivan apparently offer the only solid clue to the 11th unsolved sex strangling in this area since June 1962.

Miss Sullivan's nude body was found Saturday night in her second-floor apartment on Charles Street, at the foot of Boston's Beacon Hill. Like the victims in the other 10 unsolved cases, she had been sexually molested.

The fingerprints found in Miss Sullivan's apartment, which she shared with two other young women, were sent to Washington for check with FBI files.

Police Commissioner Edmund McNamara assigned 30 detectives to a house-to-house check of the Beacon Hill area. The killer throttled Miss Sullivan with a nylon stocking and two nylon scarves.

An 18-year-old boy from suburban Newton was questioned for hours after two young women reported he forced them at knife point to drive him to Newton Saturday night from the Boston Common underground garage. The garage is only a short distance from the Sullivan apartment.

Miss Sullivan, a clerk in a Boston finance company, moved into the apartment Jan. 1. She had been living in Whitman, Mass.

The manner of Miss Sullivan's slaying bore many similarities to the other unsolved stranglings. Only one woman had been strangled manually. The others were killed with articles of clothing, usually stockings. In each case there was no evidence of forced entry into the victims' homes.

Miss Sullivan was the youngest victim. The oldest was Ida Irga, 75, slain Aug. 19, 1962, in her apartment, only a few blocks from Miss Sullivan's home.

Pikes Peak Region Yesterdays

By DORA FOSTER

Now we are reaching for our new calendars.

Calendars, as we all know, are those man-made conveniences that fix our divisions of time, our years, months, weeks and days as adapted to our civil life. Happily as yet man has not fixed our minutes so we can do as we please with them, use them or waste them. But just wait; as soon as the brains of this present age, finished with the exploration of the stratosphere, watch out; those brains will begin meddling with our minutes and other minute matters on this earth and then we will be in for trouble.

But as for the moment we are thankful for these calendars. We hang them on our walls and place them on our desks and in that way we know when to hang out the wash, when to go to church and even on what day to pay our taxes. Great helps these calendars. They even allow us an extra day each leap year.

There is another reason why we need calendars. If it were not for them we would never know just what years we could divide the date by four and thus arrive at the leap year. And the leap year is an important one to many folk, besides being an important one to February, that little month that springs into prominence only once every four years. All unmarried ladies and girls should herald its arrival with hope and joy. It is just possible that the modern women do not lean so heavily on leap years as did the feminine portion of the civilized world when I was a girl. Then, and only then, was it proper for us to propose marriage to any of our boy friends. (We used to call them beaus or our steadies).

A leap year happened along while I was in high school and our class made the most of it. Florence Benjamin, about the oldest member of our class, was a master at getting up our parties and we had a lot of them. She asked the different members of the class to provide the home for the gathering, appointed a committee to see to the refreshments and took over generally so that all we had to do was to attend and enjoy the occasion.

Florence's idea of a successful leap year party was for the girls to invite the boys instead of the boys inviting the girls. The boys were to call at our homes for us as no real lady would think of venturing to a boy's home to take him out for the evening. But there was an innovation; no girl was to ask her steady. We were all to choose some other boy as our special guest.

I happened to be at home with a cold the day the names were handed out for us to choose from, and the next day when I appeared at school the list of eligibles had been narrowed down to two. I balked at one of those names and was not too happy about the other. However, Florence was having trouble with Pierre Barber, who was shipping about the study hall and almost jumping over desks to keep from being invited by one of the girls he did not wish to have choose him. Pierre ordinarily was a quiet, friendly sort of boy and as he sat near me in the study hall I figured I could slip him a note and perhaps, just perhaps, save him from so much jumping about. It worked all right and I reported to Florence that her worries concerning Pierre were over.

Nora Thomas, my best chum, had taken my steady over for the evening and I had no doubt but that he would be well taken care of, so I could devote my time and smiles to my leap year escort. We had a very happy party that year, held as it was at the home of Pierre's mother in her big house on East Boulder Street.

I recall we each had a long colored cord to follow about the large rooms and at the end of the cord we were to find our fortunes, written on slips of paper. We followed the strings about quite happily for a while until we all got our cords tangled hopelessly on the spreading gas chandelier in the back parlor. I can see that scene yet, red, blue, yellow and green cord all converging on the center of that beautiful room and none of us able to tell our fortunes from those of our neighbors.

But we had a wonderful leap year party and spent the closing hour before the ushering in of the New Year, with Clara Waugh at the paino while we all gathered around singing "Polly Wolly Doodle," "Brown and White," our school song, and closing with "Auld Lang Syne" and "Good Night, Ladies."

As we all left the party that evening Nora, Frank, Pierre and I walked to Nora's home together, since I was staying at her house all night, as I often did. The last car left the car barns on South Tejon Street for the Cheyenne Canon area at 11 o'clock, too early for a New Year's celebration.

Nora lived at 622 N. Corona St., and we had gone about half way when Pierre, who was a bad tease, said. "We have come this half way ahead of them; let's get behind them the rest of the way." They were half a block or so down the street, so we slowed down until they had caught up with us but did not go on ahead.

We strolled along hoping they would pass u but still they kept behind us. So Pierre and I speeded up, and when we had gotten a little further he said, "Let's try it again." and this time we thought they would go on ahead of us. We lagged along. It was a bright moonlight night and as they came up to us again we fairly loitered but still they stayed behind us. We all four almost stood still, but Frank and Nora refused to pass us. After a few minutes we saw that our efforts to force them to go ahead would not work, and so we gave up.

The Thomas home, facing Corona Street, had its back entrance on the alley that ran north and south thru the block, and when we were going home to her house we often cut thru the vacant lot next to the grocery store that stood near the corner of Wahsatch and Willamette Avenues, entering the yard thru the little gate in the high board fence.

But this night, or when we had boys with us, we always walked around onto North Corona Street, keeping on Willamette for another block, and this we did that night, going on around the block so as to enter the house by the front door.

We had gone so far ahead of that couple that we had to wait at Nora's front door for her to come up to us and unlock it. It took a lot of giggles and talk after Nora and I had gone to bed, and until then, dear, unsuspecting Nora never knew that we were enjoying a joke on her and her date.

Yesterday I called some of the members of that high school class, but only Mrs. Edna Desch Hardy had any remembrance of whom she had taken to the party. She thinks it was Melville Clotworthy. Mrs. Ethel Waugh Lilley, Miss Clara Waugh and Miss Lou Allen are not sure about their escorts.

As you may see, several members of our group, including Pierre Barber of Tonawanda, N. Y., have never taken advantage of the many leap years that have been placed at their disposal.

USO Receives Yule Services From Residents

Thanks to many Colorado Springs residents, the Colorado Springs USO Club, 211 E. Colorado, has some services most homes never offer at the home-away-from-home for men of the Armed Services.

Starting with Thanksgiving when 300 were served at an evening buffet, the holiday season has been marked with many extras. For instance, American Legion Post No. 5 gave two cartons of cigarettes and a supply of cigars has been available courtesy of Dunhill of London as part of a USO-wide distribution.

Music lovers had an opportunity to enjoy Verdi's Requiem, courtesy of the Colorado Springs Symphony Society and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stannet-Brown of B & B Motel.

Unused tickets to any entertainment in Colorado Springs are always welcomed at the USO. Telephone calls to the club and to the box office can save an actual trip downtown.

Colorado Springs' famous Loo-Art Christmas cards were even available at the USO writing desks. They were given by Dietz Brothers after Christmas 1962 and carefully saved for 1963.

The Christmas buffet had an estimated 200 served with sandwiches offered on Christmas eve and on other holiday occasions. Many individuals sent in a variety of pastries to add to the homelife atmosphere.

Barry to Go All The Way in Race For White House

By WALTER R. MEARS

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)— Conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, seeking the Republican presidential nomination to offer the nation "a clear choice" of philosophies, is determined to go all the way in his bid for the White House.

Win or lose in the presidential primaries he enters, Goldwater will stick with his race for the nomination until the Republican national convention chooses its candidate next July.

Nevertheless, Goldwater announced also for re-election to the Senate seat he has held for 12 years.

"I find no incompatibility in these two candidacies," he said.

The filing deadline for the Arizona senatorial primary is July 10, three days before the GOP convention opens in San Francisco.

Goldwater, who had insisted he would not run for both the Senate and the White House, would not say whether he will withdraw from the Senate race if he wins the presidential nomination.

"I will cross that bridge when I come to it," he said.

Four years ago, Goldwater called President Johnson a political trickster when the Texan ran for both the vice presidency and the Senate.

Kitchel said both he and Goldwater are confident the senator can win the nomination.

"I think we'll probably have it wrapped up by early spring," he said in an interview.

Goldwater and his wife plan to return to Washington today to launch the campaign he announced Friday when he hobbled on crutches to the patio of his hilltop home.

"I will seek the Republican presidential nomination . . . because of the principles in which I believe and because I am convinced that millions of Americans share my belief in those principles," he declared.

"I have decided to do this also because I have not heard from any announced Republican candidate a declaration of conscience or of political position that could possibly offer to the American people a clear voice in the next presidential election."

Goldwater's first business as a candidate: removal of a heavy cast from his right foot. He had a calcium deposit removed from his heel four days before Christmas and is still on crutches.

When the cast is swapped for a lighter version, Goldwater is expected to discard the crutches. That will give him more of the mobility a candidate needs.

Armed Forces News

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON (Special to Gazette Telegraph) — Army's Mobility Command, an element of the Army Materiel Command, is undergoing a major reorganization. As of now the AMC is headquartered in Detroit. In the reorganization, a Mobility Supply Center will be set up in St. Louis and the one now located in Columbus, Ohio, will be closed down.

Army officials at the Pentagon level are making no comment at this time regarding talk here that Maj. Gen. Alden K. Sibley, CG of the Mobility Command may be assigned to Headquarters of the Army Materiel Command.

The inspector general of the Army has been directed to investigate the performance of equivalent or "makeup" training time of not only the National Guard but also of the Reserve.

Vice Adm. E. P. Holmes will move from Pacific Fleet Amphibious Force to First Fleet, with Rear Adm. John B. Colwell getting the Pacific Command and his third star.

The Air Force recently screened more than 9,500 active duty Air Reserve officers who were completing 20 years of active duty and, from his selected approximately 1,900 for an additional retention tour of two years. An additional 100 were selected for "indefinite retention." Active duty Reserve officers of both the Army and Air Force normally retire after 20 years of service with 50 per cent retired pay whereas the regular officers are expected to stay for 30 when they receive 75 per cent retired pay.

The Air Force fight to retain its pro pay program is reported as being productive of good morale. The other services are still working on a solution to the change the last pay raise law caused with many protests still coming in from affected enlisted men. As explained by Pentagon personnel planners the Army and Navy raised monthly pro pay to $50, $75 and $100 but reduced the number that could qualify. The Air Force on the other hand decided to make no change in its rate of $30 and $60 monthly pro pay and left the number of eligibles unchanged.

Civilian teachers in U.S. operated schools overseas were given a $100 annual increase effective at the beginning of the current school year. Tentative reports studied by Pentagon personnel planners seem to indicate that this raise in pay has not proved as stimulating as anticipated so the word is that the 1965 budget may ask for an additional $200 annual increase for these teachers. Plans now being worked out may raise this amount dependent on what savings the Pentagon can make in other areas.

Recently Defense officials referred to our having a "comparative" force of six divisions in Europe which has been the subject of some controversial discussions here. No definition as to the meaning of "comparative" has been made public by the Pentagon.

In the current issue of "Army," the official magazine of the Association of the U.S. Army, Army retired Gen. Bruce Clarke, former CinC USA Europe, has a recommended-reading article on this. It is his contention that the claim to "having equivalent of six divisions may prove awkward later and that it is inaccurage military bookkeeping." Gen. Clarke contends that what we now have in Germany is a balanced five-division force tailored for the military conditions "we are likely to face there."

The Department of Labor has issued an official statement that the cost of living index reached 107.4 per cent in November. When it has reached 108.4 per cent, the retired pay of the military will be increased.

The Air Force has vacancies for officers and airmen for assignment as air attaches, in more than 40 countries. Selection is now being made by Headquarters of the Air Force. An average of 12 to 14 months training is required for this type of assignment.

Pentagon sources say that 26 skills of the Air Force limited to staff sergeants, will soon be opened to AIC's. Changes in the airman classification manual on this are due out in June but will not be effective until September.

New personnel policies of the Air Force will give thousands of airmen, scheduled for administrative discharge, a second change "to make the grade." The Air Force annually separates 10,000 airmen as "unfit" or "unsuitable" for the service.

The Pentagon will make a strong drive in 1964 among congressional members for retention of the provision in the pending ROTC bill that retired officers and non-commissioned officers be employed in the program to replace active duty personnel, or, to supplement the active duty personnel so detailed, as administrators and instructors. Retired personnel hired under the proposed program would receive the full amount of their retired pay plus an additional amount equal to the difference in retired pay and the full pay and allowances that they would receive if on active duty. The government would pay half of this additional income.

With respect to the junior ROTC instructional staff, the pending measure contains authority for the Defense Department to recall retired officers and men to active duty to perform instructional and administrative duties.

Army "JAG" Maj. Gen. Charles L. Decker is retiring from active duty to take a civilian appointment as director of a national project aimed at securing more effective legal counsel for those defendants unable to pay for it. The project will be organized by the National Legal Aid and Defender Association and is to be financed over a five-year period by a $2.3 million dollar grant from the Ford Foundation.

The last individualistic "symbol" of the Navy, the wearing of brown soes with summer uniform by its officers, is reported to be "out" by Pentagon sources. The Marines, earlier in 1963, dropped brown shoes. The anticpated action by the Navy will mean that all of the services will wear black shoes the year round.

The Air Force is expected to make public late in January its list for promotions to temporary major. If final touches are completed in time, the "continuation" list of captains will be made public at the same time.

The new Defense Department joint regulations effective in March will replace separate "regs" for each of the services. These will govern shipment to and from overseas of military personnel-owned cars. New regulations are not expected to change any present entitlements.

Pentagon sources say that the Army and Air Force Motion Picture Service will not increase the theatre admission price of 25 cents. Every now and then when the military theatre runs a special and the admission prices are slightly higher.

So far, the Pentagon has not effectuated its directive that local commanders put local business places "off limits" if such establishments do not de-segregate. One recommendation has been rejected. This would set up a corps of "special integregation" officers to work at the local level. Defense officials say that they prefer to handle the problem thru the chain of command system.

Hawaiian Head To Visit AFA Wednesday

The lieutenant governor of the newest of the 50 states will visit the Air Force Academy Wednesday.

The Hon. William S. Richardson, lieutenant governor of Hawaii, is scheduled to arrive at the academy around 1 p.m. He will be met by one of the top officers and will receive the mission briefing and tour of academic area facilities.

Richardson is in the U. S. to attend meetings of the 7th Civil Defense Region which includes western states and Hawaii.

He is being accompanied by Maj. Gen. Robert L. Stevenson, adjutant general of the Hawaii National Guard and State Senator Sakae Takahashi.

The lieutenant governor will also visit NORAD during his stay.

OFFICERS INSTALLED—Four new officers of the National Assn. of Letter Carriers, Branch 204, were installed at a dinner held in the Moors Restaurant Saturday evening. AFA Shares Christmas With 6,000 Visitors

A total of 5,957 Colorado residents and tourists attended the 32 performances of the Academy Planetarium's annual Christmas program, "The Star in the East."

Attending the program has become a tradition with many Colorado Springs and Denver area families.

The current planetarium program, "Our Island Universe," runs until March 15 and is open to the public. Performances are scheduled Saturday and Sunday afternoons at 2 and 3:15 p.m.

Palmer High To Enter Machine Contest

William J. Palmer High School is one of nine schools in Colorado which are participating in a Vocational Education Machine Shop Contest. The contest is national in scope and is being sponsored by the Wilkie Brothers Foundation in cooperation with the American Vocational Association.

The contest will begin with local competition between four students in the Palmer High School Vocational Machine Shop under the supervision of the instructor, J. Russell Barron.

Projects constructed by these students during the specified contest time will be judged by a local committee. The winning project will be sent to Denver to be judged by a state committee along with local winners from the eighth other schools in Colorado.

The prize for the winner of the state contest and his instructor will be an all-expense trip to the 1964 New York World Fair for one week.

The student and the instructor will spend a part of this week working in the Wilkie Brothers exhibit which will depict the historical development of machine tools, the contribution of machine tools to the standard of living of man, and the importance of vocational training to prepare qualified machinists and machine tool operators.

Projects built in competition for this contest must be made up of two or more articulating parts and must involve the use of a minimum of four major machine tools from a list specified by the contest sponsors.

Students at Palmer High School who will participate are: Dale Gardner, Gene Lind, Gary Johnson, and Jerry Greible. Judging for the local contest will be held late in February and for the state contest early in March. Contest winners will attend the Worlds Fair sometime between April 22 and Oct. 18, 1964.

CU Extension To Teach Man, Society Course

"Man Against Society," taught by John Morris, will begin Wednesday, from 8 to 10 p.m. at the University of Colorado Extension Center.

The class will meet once a week for 10 weeks.

Selected readings and films will be utilized as the class explores ideas of conformity, rebellion, isolation, freedom and community. Enrollment for the class is still open at the C.U. Extension Center offices, 1105 N. Nevada Ave.

Col. Semmens Assigned to Plans Division

Lt. Col. Clifton P. Semmens has been assigned to the Plans Division, G-3 (Operations and Training) Section, at Army Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs.

Col. Semmens was stationed in Colorado Springs from September, 1959, to August, 1962, where he was in the Plans Division, Directorate of Operations (J-3), at headquarters of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD).

During World War II, the colonel successively held several positions with the 472nd Anti-aircraft Artillery (Automatic Weapons) Battalion, culminating in his appointment as commanding officer of the unit. He saw combat duty with the 472nd in the Southwest Pacific Theater of Operations.

Among other assignments, he has been assistant operations officer of the Fourth U. S. Army at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., and chief of the Air Defense Plans Branch, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations, Department of the Army, Washington, D. C.

Col. Semmens, his wife, and their two sons are living at 2010 Meyers Ave.

The colonel is not to be confused with his brother, G. L. Semmens, also a lieutenant colonel in the Army, who was assigned at ARADCOM headquarters from the summer of 1956 to the summer of 1959.

Roger Nunez Enlists In U.S. Marines

The course is designed to prepare selected officers for duty as commanders and general staff officers at division, corps and field Army levels. In addition to U. S. Army personnel, officers from allied nations attended the course.

The 32-year-old officer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton R. Isaacson, 6004 Seventh ave., N., Seattle, Wash., is assigned to Headquarters and A Company of the 5th Infantry Division's 705th Maintenance Battalion at Ft. Carson, Colo.

He was graduated from Ballard High School, Seattle, Wash., in 1949.

Two Injured As Car Hits Culvert Sunday

Two men were injured when their pickup truck struck a concrete culvert in the 3100 block of N. Cascade Ave. early Sunday morning, the State Patrol reported.

The driver, James R. Lee, 21, of 2921 W. Kiowa St., suffered bruises and abrasions. A passenger, Timothy Oyer, 21, of 3011 W. Kiowa St., received lacerations and abrasions. Both were treated at Penrose Hospital.

State Patrolman Nathan Boals said the truck was going north when it ran off the road and hit the culvert. Boals estimated damage to the truck was $400.

Local Students Named to Dean's List at CSC

Four residents of Colorado Springs have been named to the Dean's Distinction List at Colorado State College.

The award is based on the cumulative grade average of the student for all course work taken at the college. Cumulative grade averages must be a near-perfect 4.76 out of a possible 5.0 or A.

The students, their class majors, grade point averages and addresses are as follows: Linda Gaye Chamney, Freshman, Elementary Education, 4.77, Myron Stratton Home; Ronald Burke Joyal, Freshman, Mathematics, 4.94, 1331 Kingsley Dr. Katherine Leu Smardo, Junior, Foreign Languages, 4.80, 641 Sequoia Dr. Carolyn Marie Jones, Senior, Elementary Education, 4.77, 615 N. Foote Ave.

Colorado State College, now in its 73rd year, is recognized as one of the top five teacher colleges in the United States. A poll of 103 college presidents in 11 Rocky Mountain states last spring placed CSC as the number one teacher training institution in this area.

Burglars Get $212.44 Sunday

Burglars got away with $212.44 from Ed and Toms Frontier Service, 201 W. Fillmore St., the sheriff's department reported Sunday.

According to Deputy Sheriff Bob Snuggs and Woodrow Littrell, entry was made by breaking out the glass in the door. A check for $5 and a $3.90 credit slip were also taken.

Warren Tells Details of Defense Award

The Superintendent of the United States Air Force Academy, Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren, has announced details governing the 1964 competition for the annual Thomas D. White National Defense Award.

The award, named for Gen. Thomas Dresser White, Air Force Chief of Staff from 1957 to 1961, is conferred each year on "the United States citizen who is judged to have contributed most significantly to the national defense and security of the United States during the years preceding the award." Famed Nuclear Physicist Dr. Edward Teller, the principal architect of the H-bomb, was the first recipient in 1962.

Last year, the award was won by world renowned Aerodynamicist Dr. Theodore von Karman, pioneer in the development of jet propulsion and rocket engines.

Active duty military personnel, may be nominated.

The Air Force Academy will request nominations from Headquarters USAF, major Air Force Commands, and Joint Commands. It is planned in future years to request nominations from other organizations.

The 1964 recipient of the Thomas D. White National Defense Award will be named approximately March 1. The presentation ceremony is tentatively scheduled for April 4, during Founder's Week at the Academy.

Gen. White, who retired from active duty June 30, 1961, after 41 years service, was Air Force Chief of Staff during the formative years of the Air Force Academy; as it became fully established at the permanent site north of Colorado Springs, graduated its first class and moved toward buildup to the full cadet complement.

Gen. White commanded the Air Force during a period of revolutionary change. He stocked it with supersonic fighters, spearheaded the "mixed force" concept of strategic bombers and ballistic missiles, and saw the Air Force move into the aerospace age.

Born in Walker, Minn., Aug. 6, 1901, he graduated from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point in 1920 as a second lieutenant of Infantry. He completed pilot training in 1925 and in 1927 transferred to the Air Corps.

Down thru the years his many and varied assignments included attache duty in Russia, Italy, Greece, and Brazil; assistant Chief of staff for intelligence; and command of the 7th Air Force on Saipan and the 5th Air Force in Japan. He became Air Force vice chief of staff in 1953.

A scholar as well as an air strategist, Gen. White speaks Chinese, Russian, Italian, Spanish, and Portuguese. Now 62, he serves on the staff of NewsWEEK magazine as contributing editor on military affairs on national security subjects.

Man Reports Loss Of Wallet to Sheriff

Ed Kramer of 328 S. Hancock Ave. reported to the sheriff's department over the weekend that he lost his wallet at the Caravan Night Club Saturday.

It contained $40, Kramer told Deputy Sheriff Charles Dietsche, driver's license and other personal papers.

MEMBERSHIP CHECK—Arnold Burton, (right) presented Bill Smartt with his application and check for membership in the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce. This was the first membership received for the new year and one of 500 new members that the Chamber will be securing this year. Burton is a salesman for the Smartt Realty Co. and according to Bill Smartt, he is certainly starting the new year out right. Smartt was elected ranch boss of the Round Up Club for 1964. He previously served two consecutive years in this position before being elected to presidency and later appointed as chairman of the military affairs committee.

CHECKING IN — Mrs. Norman Harloff, Red Cross nurse who administered Type Two Sabin oral polio vaccine to shut-ins Sunday, returns unusued supplies to Dr. Terry Carle at K-O Polio Headquarters in the Naval Reserve Training Center. A final chance to receive Type Two serum will be offered next Sunday from 11:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. at the Palmer High School gymnasium.

72,000 Take Part in K-O Polio Drive; Mop-Up Set

Type Two K-O Polio Sunday was termed an "unqualified success" as 72,000 persons, 3,000 more than received Type One in November, flocked to 50 clinics yesterday.

To allow another opportunity to persons who were out of town or, for other reasons, did not receive the Sabin oral polio serum, the El Paso County Medical Society announced that a "Mop Up" Sunday will be held next Sunday from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., in the Palmer High School gymnasium on Wahsatch.

Hundreds of volunteer physicians, dentists, osteopaths, nurses, pharmacists, PTA members, truckers, sheriff's posseman and others were on duty making the largest public health program in the history of El Paso and Teller counties a success.

The unprecedented turnout kept volunteers of Red Ball and the Sheriff's Possee in their cars continually as vaccine had to be transferred from clinic to clinic. Every dose in the Central Supply Depot had been delivered by noon after which time vaccine was transferred between schools as some of the busier clinics ran out.

Washington School Clinic closed at 4 p.m., and latecomers had to go to other schools when the supply ran out too late to allow for delivery of more. Additional vaccine has been ordered for next Sunday's clean-up and for the Type 3 program in February.

Several thousand residents received the serum free of charge, while the vast majority paid 25 cents a dose to offset costs of the program.

This inexpensive public health program was possible because of the tremendous volunteer effort, donation of Holly Sugar cubes and other supplies and the low cost made possibly by the huge order of the vaccine from Wyeth Laboratories.

Type Three vaccine will be available on February 16.

War Symposium To Explore Legal Aspects of War

Lawyers and scholars will discuss problems of guilt and responsibility for World War II and the impact of totalitarianism on human personality during Colorado College's Jan. 12-18 symposium on the causes, conduct and consequences of the war.

Among those discussing these problems will be Telford Taylor, former U.S. chief counsel for war crimes; Dr. Karl D. Bracher, professor of political science and history at Bonn University in Germany; Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, professor of psychology and psychiatry at the University of Chicago; author and critic Dwight MacDonald; and former Colorado Supreme Court Chief Justice John C. Young, who was a presiding judge at the Nuremberg war crimes trials, and Denver attorney Edwin M. Sears.

Dr. Bettelheim will lecture on "The Impact of Totalitarianism on Human Personality" at 8:15 p.m. next Monday in Shove Chapel.

At 9 o'clock the following morning, he will discuss the lecture with Prof. Bracher and Prof. Richard C. Bradley of the Colorado College physics department, in the Bemis Dining Room.

A panel discussion of "The Problem of Guilt and Responsibility" will be held in the atrium of the Charles Leaming Tutt Library at 10 a.m. Jan. 14.

Taking part in the discussion will be Profs. Bracher and Bettelheim, MacDonald and Sears.

Judges Taylor and Young will join Colorado College political science Prof. J. Douglas Mertz, also an attorney, in a panel discussion at 4 p.m. Jan. 16 in Perkins Hall on "The Third Reich: Legal Guilt and Moral Responsibility."

The two panels and the lecture are three of 50 programs to be featured during the symposium. Thirty-five authorities from Asia, Europe and the U.S. will join 40 Colorado College faculty members in the full scale examination of the war.

Ent AFB Will Compute AFA Personnel Pay

Military personnel at the Air Force Academy have received their last pay checks—from the academy accounting and finance office that is!

Beginning Wednesday, pay of officer and airmen assigned to the Academy will be computed at Ent AFB. Payment of civilians and cadets will continue to be processed as in the past.

The change is in keeping with an Air Force-wide program of mechanization of military pay functions.

Personnel actions affecting pay of military members of the Academy staff are now being sent directly to Ent.

Clinton McClain Staff College Course

Maj. Clinton McClain, whose wife, Freeda, lives at 469 Loomis Ave., completed an 18-week associate course at the U. S. Army Command and General Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kan. Dec. 20.

The course is designed to prepare selected officers for duty as commanders and general staff officers at division, corps and field Army levels. In addition to U. U. Army personnel, officers from allied nations attended the course.

The 37-year-old officer is assigned to the 5th Infantry Division at Ft. Carson, Colo.

McClain, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. McClain, Route 1, Carlisle, Ark., entered the Army in Setptember 1950.

Classes Start For '10 o'clock' Scholars at AFA

A total of 20 courses ranging in subject matter from international relations to child development are being offered during the winter quarter by the Southern Colorado State College. Classes meet in the Pine Valley Junior High.

The off-duty study program is open to military personnel, federal civilian employes, adult dependents of military and civilian staff members, and adult residents of School District 20.

Registration for the courses is open until Friday in the Academy Education Services Office, room 211, Harmon Hall. Cost for each course is $9 per quarter hour.

William Bailey, director of education and training, said most courses are continuations from the previous quarter but five new college level courses are scheduled.

In addition to the SCSC classes, three non-credit courses will be offered: A Review of grammar, intermediate Gregg shorthand, and introduction to real estate taught by Colorado Springs realtor Robert Willis.

The courses include: developmental and education processes, principles of accounting II, Far Eastern history II, American literature, functional mathematics II, introduction to business, freshman English II, and American public schools II. Monday and Wednesday; child development, Monday only; functional mathematics IV, Introduction to statistics, developmental and education processes, international politics, geomorphology, salesmanship, U.S. History, and sociology II, Tuesday and Thursday.

Foreign language classes available are beginning German II, Monday and Wednesday, and beginning Spanish and French II, Tuesday and Thursday.

German Composer And Colleagues to Appear at CU

Karlheinz Stockhausen, controversial young German composer, and three of his colleagues will make free, public appearances Jan. 13 and 14 at the University of Colorado.

Performing in an 8 p.m. recital next Monday, and an 11 a.m. lecture-recital Jan. 14, in the Music Hall of the CU College of Music will be Stockhausen, pianist David Tubor and percussionists Christoph Caskel and Max Neuhaus.

The entire program will consist of music by Stockhausen piano, drums and various electronic devices.

Stockhausen has studied with such modern composers as Olivier Messiaen and Darius Milhaud, and his compositions are regarded as extremely experimental.

Tudor, an American pianist from Philadelphia, has appeared frequently with Stockhausen. Two years ago he appeared at CU with John Cage, another modern experimental composer. Caskel and Neuhaus are both German.

The Monday evening program which the group will do thruout America during 1964, will include "Zyklys for one percussion player," "Piano Pieces," "Refrain for three players" and "Kontakte for electronic sounds, piano and percussion.

Roger Isaacson Has Finished Staff Course

Roger L. Nunez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Nunez of 1432 N. Wahsatch Ave. has enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps.

Nunez left by plane Dec. 31 for the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif. where he will receive the first three months of his basic training.

The remaining month of the four-month basic training cycle will be spent at Camp Pendelton, Calif. undergoing intensive individual combat and advanced weapons instruction.

Following the above training the new Marine will be given a 20-day leave before assigned to a Marine Corps school or to a unit for on-the-job training.

ADC Gets New Personnel Chief

Col. Robert H. Jones will assume duties as deputy chief of staff for personnel, Air Defense Command on Jan. 20. He replaces Brig. Gen. William A. Tope, who will become director of personnel, J-1, the Joint Staff, Washington D. C., Tuesday.

Col. Jones was born Jan. 12, 1916 in Oklahoma City, Okla. He attended the University of Idaho and graduated in 1939 with a bachelor of arts degree.

After graduation, Jones became an aviation cadet, earning his wings in 1940. He is a veteran of some 300 combat hours. During World War II, he commanded the 343d Fighter Group, 11th Air Force, in the Aleutian Islands.

After the war, Col. Jones was Air Inspector at Randolph Field, Texas, from 1946-47. He was a student in the Air Command and Staff School at Maxwell AFB, Ala., 1947-48. After graduating, he served as an instructor at the Armed Forces Staff College, Norfolk, Va., for three years. In 1951, Col. Jones was assigned to the Pentagon in the office of the director of intelligence where he worked until 1955 when he was sent to Canada as Air Attache. From August, 1958 until June, 1959, he attended the National War College, Washington, D.C. Following this, he served tours as commander of the Portland Air Defense Sector and deputy commander of the 33rd Air Division (SAGE) at Richards - Gebaur AFB, Mo. When the 33rd became the 29th Air Division in July 1961, Col. Jones retained the post of Deputy Commander.

Human Body Fight In Cold Recovery Is Amazing

Some amazing things go on inside the human body when a cold catches hold and the body fights to recover.

'But a cold can lower resistance to secondary bacterial infection and a lot of trouble can follow," Dr. Paul J. Roesler said today.

Dr. Roesler, as a member of the Board of Directors of the Tuberculosis Association, reminds citizens in Colorado Springs that the time tested one-two-three precaustions should be taken to keep well as cold weather firms its icy grip on the region. The TB Association is interested in preventing all respiratory infection.

"Put simply," he said, "the wisest way to deal with colds is to prevent them by (1) adequate rest (2) adequate diet and (3) avoiding exposure."

Dr. Roesler said that colds too often lower the individual's resistance and other bacteria can take hold in the throat, ear, or the bronchial tubes which means a case of bronchitis, or even pneumonia.

A case of bronchitis involves an area dangerously close to the lungs and should be regarded seriously. The bronchial tubes lead directly to the lungs. When they become infected, the tiny hair-like "cilia" are not able to do as good a job of coaxing unwanted fluids away from the lungs, the doctor explained. And making it still more difficult, the blood supply is increased, adding still more fluids which need to be expelled. "This accounts for the coughing and wheezing associated with the infection," Dr. Roesler said.

It is when the bronchial infection gets out of hand that an even greater danger looms as "when it goes deeper into the lungs it becomes a case of pneumonia."

A little care can go a long way toward health this winter, Dr. Roesler cautioned. "The precautions are easy and sensible and they can save a lot of time which would otherwise be spent recuperating."

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Belief in Monsters

During the dark ages men believed in dragons, sea serpents and other monsters. Ogres were thought to live in strong castles. Giants dwelt in lands "far away." Strange creatures having many heads, tails, legs, eyes, enormous power, etc., hovered thru the night air and brought harm to the unwary. There were witches and evil spirits and demons.

The tendency of human beings to imagine monsters of various sizes, shapes and potential evil, is an ancient pastime.

Unfortunately, in modern times, many men are still subject to this same tendency. Tho there are now only a few who believe in witches and in the stories of evil entities having power over human beings, our preoccupation with politics has apparently softened our heads and caused us to view the world somewhat unrealistically.

After all, people who will believe that politicians can and will serve their best interests can believe in almost anything.

And so today, by means of politics, we have begun to conjure up a new horde of demons. The demons are those persons who belong to the opposing political party. Obviously, if they don't agree with our party, they must be motivated by dark and harmful desires.

Oh, we've gone a lot further with it than that in recent years. To an anti-Communist, a member of the Communist Party is a monster of unrecognized potential for terrible things. In the minds of anti-Communists the red has a superior intellect and a superior organization. Reds just don't make mistakes. Examine the written and spoken statements of the anti-Communists. Every event that occurs can be construed into proof of an overwhelmingly frightening plot in which the human race is to be destroyed by Communist fiends.

But, behold the reverse. The Communists and their dupes are running around painting every anti-Communist and every conservative with colors unimaginable and entirely unhuman. The anti-Communists are fiends who would stop at nothing to stop Communists. The anti-Communists are nine feet tall. They are a terror. They are against progress. They are filled with hate. And so on and so on and on.

This tendency to create monsters which exists on both sides of the political barrier, is probably one of the major reasons why we make progress so slowly. When human minds are peopled with creatures of their imaginations, it is difficult to get thru these phantasmagoria to the real world of ideas and concepts. We become intent on avoiding a discussion of ideas. If only we can call a few names and disparage a few people we don't like or with whom we disagree, then we possibly won't ever have to understand the ideas at all. If "our side" can only win because we are big enough, then possibly we won't have to learn what the war is all about, ever.

At least, that is the way the situation frequently looks to us.

Now, the truth is that the contest of our age is a contest between two whole sets of ideas. And the people who support one or another set are not monsters. None of them is. There are no monsters except those in our own minds. Communists are not equipped with super-brains, super-power, super-organization, or super anything else. Actually, Communists are a little stupid.

But anti-Communists aren't a group of devils out to set back the clock, either. They are just people who believe in certain things. And they can act just as stupidly as Communists can act.

It isn't a conspiracy of monsters we have to fear, it is a widespread reliance on fear, superstition, ignorance and covetousness. If you can put aside your terror of those who disagree with you, possibly you can become effective in learning truth and in assisting others to learn it, too.

Trap

It is better to avoid the flatterer and to disbelieve flattery than to find one's self in the trap which undue praise baits for us.

Enforcement of Contracts

One of the interesting things about any study of economics is the recognition of the behavior of certain phenomena in the market place, provided only that human compulsion and violence is not inserted.

In other words, if we grant the conditions that would pertain in a free market, we can, thru the process of logic and observation, detect with considerable accuracy certain forces that will move goods and services in an effort to satisfy human wants.

Many economists favor a free market within limits. They ask for a government of limited powers but one which will intervene in the market place as little as possible. Some economists seem to believe that government must be the sole agency for the protection of life and property in the market. However, one splendid economist we recently met had few problems in this area. He may not have been certain that the market place was capable of engendering private devices for protection, but he was willing to direct his attention to another aspect of the problem.

The major worry of this particular savant fell into the area of enforcement of contract. His view, which we are sure would be a popular one, is that some agency of force must be on hand in order to enforce an agreement, even when the agreement is entered into voluntarily.

We've been thinking about this worry of his for a bit and we'd like to offer what we believe are valid arguments in favor of enforcing contracts by means other than governmental.

First, we would like to suggest that a society of contract is absolutely mandatory. Whether we have a government enforcer or not, human beings will have to enter into agreements with each other in order to live on this earth with any degree of certainty or pleasure. So, if we examine contractual relationships, we will discover at once that human well being is closely tied to them. The violation of a contract, then, is a primary matter and no light and trivial event.

This being true, and we fancy the truth will be recognized and conceded, then there will be strong currents in any market place flowing in the direction of sanctity of contract.

We are thinking, for instance, of the kind of contractual relationship which marks buying and selling of stocks and bonds thru the major stock exchanges. Exchanges in millions of dollars occur daily on the basis of an accepted trust.

A man picks up the telephone and says to his broker: "Buy me a thousand shares of this or that." Or he may say: "Sell a thousand shares of amalgamated shaving cream for me."

If the broker knows the man and trusts him he will act at once to do the bidding of his client.

Does he check to find out if the man has the money to pay for the stock? Does he check to learn if the man has the stock he proposes to sell? Not for a minute. He acts in implicit faith that the verbal contract will be fulfilled.

What enforcement does the broker have? We know of none save the force of public opinion and the recognition that, if a man violates his word in such a matter, he will never be trusted again.

What would happen if a man gave an order to a broker and then could not fulfill his own part of the contract? Probably the broker would have to make good.

But in the case of a telephoned order, it would not be possible for the broker to prove in court that such an order had ever been given. So what? It is not necessary. In thousands and thousands of exchanges every day, with millions of dollars passing from hand to hand, enforcement proceedings are virtually unheard of.

We are not concerned here with the countless legal requirements which now hedge virtually all other aspects of the stock market. We are talking about the fact that special policemen and special laws do not stand ready to punish the customer if he cheats his broker. Yet the broker still trusts him and does business with him profitably.

If we had ZERO in the way of enforcement agencies in other areas of the market, we are of the view that the same amount of enforcement as seen in the stock market would be required. Little or none. Why? Because contracts are so important. The well being of all is involved in honest contractual relations. Knowing that no enforcement agency is available to compel a person to live up to a bargain would, we believe, result in the following conditions:

1. We would enter into contracts only with people we believed could be trusted.

2. Since entering into contracts is vital to all people, more and more people would strive to get a reputation for trust and reliance.

3. Since there is only one way to get such a reputation, and that is by being trustworthy, there would be less and less reason to suppose that contracts need to be enforced.

4. Since contractual relationships are absolutely vital to the operation of any kind of economic system, the recognition that there is no enforcement agency would tend to accomplish what the stock market has accomplished.

In other words, we do not see that a government agency is necessary to enforce contracts because it is in the interest of all contracting parties (every human being) to be trustworthy so that he can be trusted and hence enter into valid and binding agreements.

Question Box

Question No. 405:

Would the Gazette Telegraph suggest that a person not ask for Social Security benefits if he can get by O.K. without them, if he has paid into Social Security?"

Answer: From the "benefits" of government "support" must be subtracted its costs. This is always a minus amount when the degradation of character is included in the costs.

Our questioner also asks: "In a case where a citizen of this country is not being helped in any other way, would the Gazette Telegraph agree to the use of tax money to keep him from suffering from the lack of food, clothing or shelter?"

The answer is no. In the long run it would increase poverty and suffering by bringing on state communism.

Of course, there is no absolute security, but the best security of all is to have the individual so live that when misfortune overtakes him, someone wants to voluntarily help him.

As the good book says, "Men must live by the sweat of their brow." It is up to the individual to so live and try to provide for his declining years and be individually independent and responsible. If he does meet misfortune, then the goodness of mankind will give him more assistance and more protection than the government could give him.

Most of the misfortune comes from the government making laws that violate natural laws.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

Peace Disupted

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

Yesterday morning, while sitting here in the kitchen of our apartment in My Motel in this little ghost town, I watched as the south wall bent sharply inwards and a medicine cabinet shuddered before its door slowly opened. Our big black cat, Zsa Zsa, sank swiftly to the floor, then looked at me, her hair on end. Glasses tinkled and dishes rattled, we heard the roar of the jet which had let loose the crack of doom and I went to the kitchen window from which I could see the vapor trail of the offender. I told ZsaZsa the jet was probably piloted by a general with political ambition and she told me what she thought of the entire situation.

Of course we became accustomed to this sign of progress before we departed from Canoga Park, California, where our neighbor's hens were regularly knocked off their roosts. We didn't realize the jets would also take aim at this little ghost town but it happens with disgusting regularity.

A year ago I watched a living room window pane crack, while our cats all scurried under the bed, complaining loudly. An acquaintance who saw the window glass crack insisted I should jot down the time, check the motel for other damage and then try to collect from government. I tried to explain the situation to him, unsuccessfully.

Government has nothing but what it steals from you and me and everybody who does not consent to the thievery. If I file some kind of a complaint and if government decides to pay any attention to it, how much would it cost us eventually if government paid for the damage which it also created at our expense?

After January 1, government will play military games in this general area, at the expense of the people. In advance, government will try to obtain permission from land owners to use their property. Government will also bribe the landowners by telling them it will pay for any damages to the property and in order to pay those damages, government will do some more stealing from everybody including the owners of the damaged land.

Sooner or later, some darned fool will say to me, "Hey, maybe the army (or whatever) will want to take over your motel. You'll really be able to make some money out of that."

Then I'll try to explain how I feel about such things and what I will do if such a thing should happen, and the darned fool will know I am a darned fool no matter how sound the logic of my premise.

True, government could use its authority to take over this property for its use BUT government will not obtain my permission to make use of it. I will not make a deal with government for the use of the motel and if the government did use it and did then send a check in payment for the use, the check would never be cashed. It's as simple as that because I will not be a willing accessory to government thievery.

If land owners in Mohave County were to take a similar stand, government would be in trouble but don't hold your breath. Most of the property owners will simply hope to be able to figure out a way to get the best of the deal, while refusing to accept the absolute fact that nobody can get the best of a deal with government.

So I will be told I'm a darned fool and that my stand will make no difference in the long run so why don't I get mine while the getting is good, and I will not agree and the man will walk away, slowly shaking his head in confusion and disgust with my thick-headedness.

Oddly enough, my decision will make him uncomfortable but I will be comfortable with my decision. I am concerned with my conscience, not his.

I've asked myself a thousand times or more why apparently intelligent human beings are unable to understand the simple fact that government has nothing but what it takes from the people. I always get the same answer; it's not a matter of being able to understand, it's a stubborn refusal to face the most obvious facts.

The only thing I can do about it is to continue to document the facts and hand them over to you.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

These Days

A New Ball Game

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

It's been proclaimed a new ball game in many places as 1963 moves into the shadows. And, inasmuch as some of the pitchers have been changed, the proclamations could be true. Pitching is normally eighty per cent of the game.

To continue the baseball metaphors, we touched a few bases during Christmas week in hope that it might add to our own scoring punch. In the Delegates' dining room at the U.N. we listened to a couple of knowledgeable correspondents recapitulate the events of the past year as these events impinged on the U.N. bailiwick. Fred Gruin talked about the "spirit of pause" that seems to have pervaded the U.N. deliberations. Not so long ago, he said, the U.N. line-ups reflected a three-bloc division of the world. There were the capitalist nations (the free world), the Communist Moscow-Peiping axis (with the Russians speaking for the absent Red Chinese in the U.N. General Assembly) and the "uncommitted," or neutralist, bloc. It was to reflect this partition of the globe that Khrushchev had suggested that the U.N. be run by a "troika," with the neutralist bloc holding the balance of power.

In 1963, a "troika" in the U.N. based on the old alignments could have run into unpredictable troubles. For the world had become divided into a capitalist group, a lonesome De Gaulle unit, a "neutralist" Moscow - cum - European - satellite group, a couple of competing Afro-Asian blocs (one looking to Peiping, another still holding to "neutralism") and a few free-wheeling double dealers such as the Fidel Castro mob. For 1964, then, we may predict that U.N. affairs will be wrapped in obfuscation as various nations explore the still fluid implications of the new ball game.

PREDICTIONS

Touching another base, we talked with people, at Radio Liberty and elsewhere, who keep up with the internal situation behind the iron curtain. Isaac Don Levine, who spent some time in the summer of 1963 visiting archives and archivists inside Soviet Russia, did not make his trip with the idea of reporting on social conditions under Khrushchev's rule. But he had to live while traveling — and in the course of merely observing, listening and eating he became convinced that Russia would find itself with severe troubles along about March, 1964. Livestock would have to be slaughtered to provide food. The Radio Liberty people, good on Soviet food problems all along, more or less check this observation. So, for 1964, we may predict that Khrushchev will limit himself to bluster on the cold war front. Armies still move on their stomachs.

Touching still another base, we heard talk in Washington of the hopes for the "Kennedy Blueprint" (or the Walt Rostow Blueprint) for a series of peaceful "detentes" in future U.S. foreign policy. This blueprint for peace is based on the theory that Soviet Russia, as it moves away from the memories of both the Lenin-Trotsky Revolution and the Stalinist epoch, must become something like Mexico, where one is scarcely aware of the paradox implied in the very name of the dominant Mexican "Party of Revolutionary Institutions." At the heart of the Kennedy, or Rostow, plan is the assumption that all third-generation "revolutionaries" cease to have an appetite for adventures or conquest. They don't want to endanger the institutions they have created.

SET THE PACE

Since famine is going to force a continuing cover-up attitude on Khrushchev, it is our prediction that the conditions behind the "Kennedy Blueprint" will seem propitious for 1964. But it is also our prediction that no good will come to us from this if we let Khrushchev dominate the pace and the direction of peaceful "compromise." We hold the cards, so why play the game as if Khrushchev had a royal flush? Let's name our own conditions, on Cuba, Eastern Europe, and so on.

Touching still another base, we recall that the best prediction we made a year ago was that the seven million car year had come to stay. Renewing the prediction, we anticipate no drastic trouble for the U.S. economy as a whole. It still moves to the music of Detroit's wheels.

Finally, after touching the bases with various politicos, we predict that Lyndon Johnson will defeat any Republican candidate for President who tries to be like Lyndon Johnson.

FATAL FLAW

To the Editor:

The "Liberty Amendment" designed to repeal the personal income tax and get the federal government out of competition with private enterprise, while being a brilliant and sincere effort by courageous men to stem the tide of dictatorial government, is not the answer. Should the resolution finally be enacted into law, which is highly improbable, it will be found to contain a fatal flaw.

That flaw is embodied in the following words written into the resolution and which, in fact, pervade the whole idea of government itself: ". . . except as specified in the Constitution." THAT, with public opinion and the widespread misunderstanding of the nature of government being what they are, constitutes a signed blank check begging to be filled out and cashed.

At this point, two questions come to mind: How is it decided what is to be specified in the Constitution? And, if the absence of a specific permit in the Constitution is supposed to protect against governmental inroads, then how did we come to be saddled with the income tax amendment in the first place?

What is the answer, then? The answer, it would seem, can only exist in a process of reeducation on an individual basis which would result in the realization that the present dangerous state of affairs was brought about, for the most part, by political action on the part of sincere and good-intentioned men.

Such a process of individual reeducation might well begin with the reading of a book written by Professor Bruno Leoni. The book, "Freedom and the Law," published by Van Nostrand, may be obtained from The Freedom School, Box 165, your city.

A NEW YEAR

To the Editor:

Time is for us to use and the year ahead of us is like a valuable gift to be spent on vain things or to be invested in a refining process for each one of us mortals. When you and I have reached the limit of our physical growth after twenty years of living — what then? Following these years, the body requires less nourishment than most of us think when supplying its needs with discrimination. A human being is born into this world with an inheritance that is far more extensive than the time it takes to mature his body. Even while his earthly structure grows to full stature, a beginning is made for his spiritual growth.

Directly ahead of us is one complete year. In a larger sense, one year is as a moment that it takes to enter a room and to walk out of it thru a door on the other side. Yet, this brief period means much to one whose vision and faith extends beyond his own limitations. While life lasts, a New Year is a gift to pay dividends to each one of us. This present year belongs to you and to me — how are we going to accept it? Hide it in fear that it is too good to be true that this great wealth is ours? Or is it to be spent in such a manner that a year from today we are found among those who have fallen by the wayside? Or are we willing to look up to the Creator to ask for wisdom and nourishment to walk in the path of righteousness; to be an example to others who have lost The Way; so that they too may receive new inspiration for making this year a time for eternal investments?

In past years we may have been deceived at the shrine of vain hopes. This is no reason for you and for me to hold onto false idols that vanish with the setting sun. There is every reason for mankind to worship in spirit and in truth as revealed by the word and proclaimed in many languages thruout the world. Accepting this Word of inspiration, we shall walk in the light of the New Year, which we have now inherited.

Allen-Scott Report

'Carrot And Stick' Policy: Cuba

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The Johnson administration is just as sharply split as its predecessor over cracking down on Fidel Castro's widespread subversive machinations in the Caribbean.

The Kennedy administration could never make up its mind about taking forceful measures against these pernicious Communist operations. Now its successor appears equally chary.

Whether that review of Cuban policy ordered by President Johnson leads to anything is a toss-up. So far, the backstage indications are not promising.

A key reason for this is the State Department's apparent domination of the study. Unannounced guide lines have been laid down by Secretary Rusk which definitely favor the department's viewpoint in this protracted backstage controversy.

The State Department is very much opposed to any course savoring of the use of force against the bearded Red-puppet dictator.

The department's position, strongly supported by hold-over Kennedy foreign affairs advisers in the White House, can be summed up as follows: In the Organization of American States, the U.S. to press for additional economic and diplomatic sanctions against the Castro dictatorship. At the same time, the U.S. to "hold out a carrot" in the form of an offer to restore the Cuban Communist ruler to OAS membership if he halts arms shipments and subversion in the Caribbean, and "cuts back" his ties with the Soviet.

This so-called "carrot and stick" policy is vigorously challenged as "unrealistic" and "futile" by a group that includes the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Central Intelligence Director John McCone.

It is their emphatic contention that Castro's persistent subversive activities can be blocked only by decisive military and diplomatic measures.

HOW TO STOP HIM

1) Seek the authorization and cooperation of the Organization of American States for an expanded air and naval blockade of the Caribbean; 2) offer Caribbean and other Latin American countries the aid of U.S. planes and naval vessels to intercept Red arms shipments; 3) increase and intensify the surveillance of all outbound Cuban shipping.

Also advocated by the group is economic and military assistance to Cuban refugees waging war against Castro from Caribbean bases. They are urgently in need of weapons and other support to build up effective pockets of resistance in Cuba.

The Kennedy administration steadfastly opposed such anti-Castro measures. The State Department wants the policy continued, and so far is having its way.

Thomas Mann, newly-named assistant secretary of state for Latin America, is authoritatively credited with holding the same view. He is understood to have advised President Johnson to make no decision on Cuba until after conferring with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos in late February in Los Angeles.

HIGHLIGHTS

The significant guide-lines drawn up by Rusk for the Cuban policy review indicate a belief that Castro can be wooed away from the Kremlin. Highlights of this revealing backstage document are as follows;

"Cuba represents a special case of Communist penetration of the community of free nations through the capture of an indigenous and popularly accepted revolution. For the first time, the Sino-Soviet bloc is openly in league with a Communist government thousands of miles from its perimeter. While distance and personality of Fidel Castro present some problems for the Sino-Soviet bloc, Cuba is a useful and willing instrument of bloc foreign policy and as such poses a series of potential and active threats to the peace and security of the hemisphere:

"1) A potential threat as a Communist offensive nuclear base against the U.S.; 2) a potential threat as a Communist offensive base for limited non-nuclear aggression against Latin American nations; 3) a current threat as a basis for indirect aggression against Latin American nations; 4) a current threat as an example of the possibility of creating and holding a nation under Communist rule in this hemisphere, enflaming and strengthening the Communist forces and their allies in Latin American nations.

"Contingency plans should be re-examined and brought up to date against numbers one and two. Contingency plans should be prepared for action on the basis of OAS resolutions if firm evidence of Cuban involvement in indirect aggression in Venezuela is established.

"The threat of (numbers three and four) increases the urgency of the Alliance for Progress program and the effort to detach the political movement for progress and reform in Latin America from Communist influence."

FLOUTING THE U.S.

Haiti's volatile President ("Papa Doc") Duvalier is refusing to see Benson Timmons, new U.S. ambassador, even tho his appointment was accepted by Duvalier. When Timmons called on Duvalier to present his credentials, the latter wouldn't meet him. Apparent reason was a report that Timmons intended to inform Duvalier that he should quit or ease his despotic rule ... Ambassador Murat Williams will be shifted from El Salvador to the Dominican Republic. The one-time Rhodes scholar was brought into the diplomatic service by the late President Kennedy on the recommendation of Secretary Rusk . . . Brazil's left-winging President Goulart is slated to visit Bolivia. The U.S. has poured more than $350 million in economic and military aid into Bolivia; Brazil, racked by runaway inflation and gross governmental mismanagement, has not given Bolivia a dime. But Goulart, who has long played footsie with Communists, is virtually certain of a tumultuous welcome.

Great Books Club to Meet Wednesday

The Wednesday evening Great Books group will meet from 8 to 10 p.m. Wednesday in the periodical room of the public library, 21 W. Kiowa St. for a discussionof Dr. Loren Eiseley's "The Immense Journey," a book of essays on anthropology.

Marion Wood will conduct the questioning in a manner meant to bring forth three levels of discussion as to what the author says, what the author means, and how that meaning may be applied in present time.

This is in line with the method of the Great Books Foundation of Chicago, and this group, in its 11th year here, is continuing under the sponsorship of the public library as a project in adult education.

Anyone may participate who reads the text as assigned and limits his discussion to that material. New assignments will be made for Jan. 22, and for the second and fourth Wednesday evenings in February.

The list of contemporary readings includes Hamilton's "The Greek Way," T.S. Eliot's play, "The Cocktail Party," Whitehead's "Essays on Philosophy," and Tillich's "The New Being." Further information will be given to those who call Myrtle Allen, 635-8540, or Margaret Gibson, 633-3397.

ACM Group To Meet at Village Inn

The Association for Computing Machinery (ACM) will meet Thursday at the Village Inn.

Dr. A. R. Brown of the Air Defense Command will be guest speaker for the dinner meeting which will get underway at 6 p.m. with a social hour.

Reservations for the meeting of the professional organization should be made by contacting Don Rieger at 634-1457.

On Breeding Prosperity

(The Freeman)

F. A. HARPER

The population explosion in our country and around the world is commonly met with mixed emotions. On the one hand, there is the discomfort of being so pressed together that we stand on each other's feet, elbow our way through crowded subways, become submerged in traffic jams, or find distant recreation forests about as peaceful as Times Square at 5:15 p.m. On the other hand, there is the appeal of more customers for all who believe that a rising population assures prosperity.

The fact that the population has been rising rapidly during recent decades, and that more is in prospect for some time, seems beyond question. A common prediction is that the present world population of nearly three billion will reach nearly five billion by 1984.

Some authors in a Science article a few years ago reported that by extrapolating from past trends of recorded data, the world population will approach infinity on November 13, AD 2026. But the outlook cannot be as gloomy as that. Before that time the trend would flatten out from a new Malthusian corrective because persons would become crushed to death. And even before that, as a university president once reminded us, the population increase will probably terminate before reaching the point of standing room only, due to other obvious reasons.

Leaving these predictions for others to ponder, our present concern is with an economic notion which seems even more prolific than the human organism itself, namely that increasing population assures prosperity. To review the notion briefly, as any restaurant owner or storekeeper knows, his sales and profits are raised by more persons entering his store to buy. And they cannot enter his store without having first been born. Each birth today, then, means more persons in stores later; diapers will be bought at once, children's clothes later, and adult needs on through life. The more the births, the more will have to be sold to meet the growing needs, ipso facto, according to this simple reasoning. But on further thought and analysis, is this reasoning sound?

Wants Are Insatiable

Let us begin to analyze it this way: Human wants, over-all, are insatiable. If a President of the United States with "rigorous economy" spends $111,000,000,000 in a year, it seems probable that he might easily spend the entire national income if he were to let himself go on a spending binge.

Any one person's capacity to eat popcorn at one sitting may have its limits, but there is no known limit to his capacity to own more suits, cars, servants, servants for the servants. . . So if there is any limit to human wants, it surely lies beyond the horizon of our imagination. This means that the limit on sales in stores, and the like, is set by something other than too few persons. By the same reasoning, more persons do not assure more sales and more welfare. What is it that sets the limit?

The limit to the satisfaction of wants is set by the quantity of things produced. Should some of production be wasted, fewer wants will be satisfied, but no miracle is available by which to satisfy wants with things not produced. Some persons may get more of the supply and others less, but that is a question separate from the one we are discussing: and in any event it does not make consumption any greater than production.

What Limits Production

The total quantity of goods and other services produced in the nation in a year depends on three things:

1. The number of persons working.
2. The number of hours worked per person.
3. The output of product per hour.

We are considering prosperity, and the effect of an increase in population on prosperity. Our concern is with the welfare of the individual, not the nation. China or India produce more than Switzerland or Canada as a national total, but who yearns for that sort of prosperity? Thus, we can largely ignore from our concern in this connection the first factor of the number of persons, because as increasing population brings more producers it also brings more stores for more consumers to enter. Over-all, persons as producers are also consumers, and in part storekeepers.

The number of hours worked can also be largely ignored for our present concern. The change over time has not been drastic; it is minor as compared with other factors. We used to point, with pride that might be questioned in certain respects, to the reduction of about three - sevenths in the average hours worked in the United States. Now the careful research of Sebastian de Grazia brings this into serious doubt, when account is taken of the added hours getting ready to work and getting to and from the "forty hours of work." In grandfather's day, most workers when they awoke in the morning were only a pair of overalls and a closed door away from their day's task.

This leaves us only the last point as having much to do with our question, namely, the output per hour of work. What effect does an increasing population have on that?

Output per hour of work is almost entirely a matter of the tools at hand to aid the efforts of those who produce. They are of many types and forms. Some tools aid physical work, and others aid mental work or the processes of spirit, morals, and motivation. In the latter category, especially, there are negative as well as positive tools. Among the negative tools, I would suggest, are all those economic misconceptions which prevail and persist in the minds of most persons in our society. Among these misconceptions is the notion that increases in population assure prosperity—by which one would have to conclude that even illegitimate children are a contribution to national welfare and thereby worth the mounting costs of public aid to support them.

In our society in the United States, from the standpoint of energy alone, we have devised ways to bring to the aid of the average worker the equivalent of more than thirty diligent slaves to help him. In addition, there are untold ways by which we have harnessed additional help for him which is not measure in terms of energy horsepower. But in measuring increases in economic welfare of persons in the United States over its entire history, or the differences between nations in this respect at the present time, the amount of energy harnessed to aid the average worker serves amazingly well as a measure.

What Raises Production?

The question then resolves into the processes by which tools are brought to the aid of the average worker. In outline, these are the steps involved:

1. Basic discoveries
2. Innovations and adaptions of discoveries
3. Savings invested in tools
4. Effective use of tools

Nothing is so vital to the whole process of progress in the development and use of tools of production as is liberty of individual persons in society. Slavery in any of its varied forms and by any name is poison to the processes required. If slavery has any advantage anywhere over paying free - workers, the prevailing wage, which is doubtful, it is for menial tasks like piling stones upon one another to build pyramids, and the like. Tools once produced can be enslaved, but enslavement of mankind is birth control at its worst for tool-creation.

Thinking now of a single newborn babe in the neighbor's family, the question at its core can be tested by this simple question: Does the fact of his birth as one more census unit add one iota to any of these four parts of the job as compared with any other person previously born and already in our society? He may turn out to be a discoverer, but is there any reason to expect him to be more so than a random selection of a person already here? Any more an innovator or adapter than someone already here? Any more a saver and investor? Any more an efficient user of tools? I see no reason to expect him to be superior to another baby born yesterday.

The final and important fact is that at birth each addition to the population automatically reduces the tools available per person in the population. At birth, in other words, the little precious is clearly an economic parasite who dilutes rather than enhances welfare. The way it does this is clear from a simple analysis.

In the United States at present the investment in production assets is over $20,000 per production worker, both in manufacturing and in agriculture. This represents the "more than thirty slaves" the average worker has at his command to aid his own efforts in production. If we assume for sake of illustration that there were a hundred workers in some isolated society who have an average of $20,000 of tools to help them, and two lone survivors of a shipwreck — about the current annual rate of population increase in the United States — float to the island to join them, the tools per worker immediately decline to about $19,600. And with more shipwreck additions, it would decline more and more until it would eventually sink the island into starvation.

It may be noted, of course that tools can be added to the pile in use. But whatever the original hundred persons invent, create, and add must not only replace the wear that goes on year by year, but must be shared with the immigrants. The additions to the population will add to the average tools per worker only after they have themselves saved and added to that society more than $20,000 worth of effective tools in use. Until their contribution reaches $20,000, they are in this sense economic parasites on the society they have joined.

How soon will it be until the neighbor's newborn babe can add the required $20,000 to the nation's tools-in-use? That is our question in its essential form. We could go on down the street to other neighbors' newborn babes, but that merely compounds our question in magnitude rather than to change it in essence.

The merchant selling diapers may do quite well for a while when this goes on and on in the nation, but only at the even greater loss of business by someone selling other things which the parents cannot now buy instead. Soon, by reason of discouragement if not bankruptcy, they will have to close up shop and go into business selling diapers, or something. The advantage to the diaper salesman then disappears, and he is ready to read some dusty article like this to see why his forecast of hope from help by the storks went afoul. He is then ready to ponder the question which should have occurred to him at the outset: If population increases cause prosperity per se, why were countries like China and India in persistent poverty over untold centuries?

In a country of extremely sparse population, special circumstances can exist whereby an increase in population can cause enough increase in the efficiency of use of tools they already have to result in rising welfare for a time. But this is not the situation in our nation, or perhaps any nation in the world today.

In summary we may, therefore, herald with goodwill the coming into our society of newborn babes, but the joy should not be because they will automatically bring with them any sort of economic welfare. When they come, they will not bring with them the $20,000 of capital equipment needed to carry their share of productive means now operating in our society. Each of them will dilute the ratio of tools to persons, which is the only real base for prosperity. Each of them, or someone else, will have to save and provide more than $20,000 of tools before their presence will have the effect of increasing the average prosperity of the nation.

It's Up To You

By Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

Ten years ago the Communist Central Committee of the U.S.S.R. declared that heavy industry had been set up and that the next problem was to produce sufficient food. An abundance was promised in a matter of two or three years. This could easily have been realized if the land was turned back to individual farmers. It has not been done, however, under the collective system.

In 1960 half a billion hectares of land (one hectare equals 2.47 acres) produced about half of the meat, animal fats, milk, eggs, cheese and high -value foods consumed in the Soviet Union. The other half came from the little plots of land that the collective farmers were allowed to farm for their families and for sale in the local, uncontrolled markets. This acreage totaled only a little more than 1 per cent of the collectivized land.

One may conclude, therefore, that 1 per cent of the land, farmed by individuals in their own interest, is approximately equal, so far as these high - value protein foods are concerned, to the other 99 per cent farmed collectively. Of course the collectively - operated farms produced the grains and bulk products, but they have not proven successful for meat, eggs, milk, cheese, and quality foods.

Foreign minister Gromyko of the U.S.S.R. has written to Secretary General U Thant of the United Nations proposing that 1965 be named as International Cooperation Year. All the cooperating he proposes, however, is to be from one side only. Germany is to be permanently divided and a nuclear free zone established in Europe. Red China is to be admitted to U.N. and foreign troops taken out of South Korea and South Viet Nam allowing the unification of both of these countries under Communist rule. All Western colonialism is to be ended but Communist colonialism perpetuated.

Unity, Not Unanimity

(Chicago Tribune)

President Johnson wisely acknowledged in his speech to Congress that American unity does not depend on or require unanimity. "We have differences," he said; "but now, as in the past, we can derive from those differences strength, not weakness; wisdom, not despair."

For of course it is always true that well founded objections to any action or proposal prompt examination, that examination and debate are the way to expose weakness and error, and that a closer approximation to wisdom results after a thorough canvass of all pertinent arguments. This is fundamental to the political process; indeed, it should be self-evident.

But the fact needs to be restated because of what looks very much like a concerted attempt to equate political dissent with "hatred." This thesis has been related to the assassination of President Kennedy by a great many people who ought to know better. The contention is advanced that the whole of the American people are somehow guilty of complicity because reasoned differences were expressed with New Frontier philosophy and legislative proposals.

How could it be otherwise, whoever the President might have been? There has always been a political division in this country. Different parties exist in order to reflect differences of opinion, although far too often their intellectual substance seems to merge into one another Mr. Kennedy came to office on the vote of less than a majority of the electorate. From the start, he could not hope to command the support of half the citizens who vote.

Nevertheless, this fact is ignored by those who are promoting the deadly syllogism that to dissent is to hate, that this supposed product of "hatred" infects the whole climate of public opinion and is thus capable of toppling the shaky balance of some already deranged mentality, and that therefore everyone is responsible for the act of a man whose very existence was unknown to his fellow countrymen.

This perverted thesis may be reduced to an attempt, naked and without apology, to liquidate dissent in the United States, to portray the constitutional guarantee of freedom of expression as an abomination to be scrapped forthwith, and to reduce public opinion to monoform expression. In Hitler's day, this was known as the "feuhrerprinzip."

Thus Chief Justice Warren has decried the "forces of hatred and malevolence" which he says commonly stimulate such acts as that of the assassin, and he calls on us to "abjure" accusations that divide us. Walter Lippmann, trotting in his tracks, demands a "purge" of this same supposed "hatred" and a return to the "American community," where everyone sits in rows, as in kindergarten, seen but not heard.

Sen. Thruston Morton of Kentucky has very properly replied that the accused assassin's mind was warped by an alien violence, not a native condition. The senator remarked:

"Something desperately needs to be said in defense of America at this terrible time when a sense of sorrow becomes a sense of guilt It was not a flaw in the American system or the American character that struck down John Kennedy. It was not the sin of a city or its citizens.

"We do not serve the best interests of our nation, of truth, or of the memory of a murdered President by letting wrongly placed recriminations overcome the good sense of this great nation and its people."

In fact, the man accused of the crime had so little connection with the rest of the American people that he tried to disavow his country and become a citizen of communist Russia. He had so little connection with Dallas that he was an out-of-towner who came to that city Oct 14 to plan his crime. It is indefensible that the act of such a man should be used in an attempt to besmirch all Americans and to silence their rignt to political expression.

Between the Bookends

TEENAGERS LEARN POLITICAL - ECONOMIC TRUTHS

If any group of people in America has been ignored, overlooked, and not properly taken into account in political, economic and social matters that affect them, it is our teenaged youth. Witness, for example, the over-$300 billion debt that they are inheriting—although they have not been consulted on the matter.

This failure has troubled many thinking citizens, without their having any clear-cut idea of what to do about it.

Suzanne Vance, California mother of a teen-aged daughter, decided that the first thing to do was to point out the mistakes of her generation, and take some positive steps to correct them. One of her positive steps was to write "Youth On A Pendulum" (published by the Caxton Printers, Ltd., Caldwell, Idaho, $2.00).

Three Themes

The book has three basic, over-riding themes: 1) Thirty years of left-wing "liberal" government have brought us to an urgently critical situation; 2) "Liberal" leaders are decoying our people down the one-way road to socialism and statism; and 3) If we do not correct the mistakes which have brought our country into this mess, and inform our children of the dangers, then "their children will either perish in an atomic holocaust or languish as slaves of the Communists."

Mrs. Vance uses the technique of devoting a single chapter to each of the points on which there is widespread misunderstanding and misinformation among youth — and, indeed, among many adult citizens, as well. "Is Communism Just A Political Belief?" "What Good is A Loyalty Oath?", "How Could There Be Communism In The Churches?", "Is The Constitution Out Of Date?" and "What Is Wrong With The United Nations?" are some of the chapter headings.

"Youth On A Pendulum" makes clear the magnitude of the threat we face in the subvert transformation of our constitutional Republic into a socialist-type "people's democracy." Entirely beyond the loss of individual freedom, the undermining of the right to own private property, the destruction of the profit system, and the smothering of free enterprise, there is always the goal of "coalescence" with Soviet communism.

Solutions Proposed

Fortunately, the author does more than just recite problems. She also provides solutions that she believes will return our nation to its proper direction. In this area, she explains the proposed Liberty Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The teen-age simplicity of the book makes it easy reading. Yet, it is neither written up to teen-agers nor down to them. Its direct style will be well within the understanding of adults, too, despite our longer exposure to the statist philosophies.

In his foreword to the book, Chester Ward, Rear Admiral, U.S. Navy (Retired) says, "This book can awaken us to act now ... to bequeath to our children the third choice: To be neither dead nor any shade of Red; but instead to continue to be free Americans."

PAVLOV'S DOG OR A HUMAN SOUL

REV. I. E. HOWARD

Matthew 10:28 Fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell.

In 1902, the Russian physiologist, Ivan Petrovich Pavlov, performed an experiment that has had more influence on social thought than any other in modern times. He found that by repeatedly ringing a bell when he fed meat to a dog, he could eventually cause the dog to salivate when the bell was rung without the meat. He also found that the dog could adjust to the bell without the meat, or to the meat without the bell, or to both, but if he kept changing the combination, he could produce a nervous breakdown in the dog.

The Soviets have made much of Pavlov's discovery, and in the opinion of some observers, it is a key to their foreign policy. By alternating between threats of war and offers of peace, these observers believe, the Soviets hope to break down the resistance of the West, producing a condition tantamount to a national nervous breakdown.

In their early days, the Soviets applied Pavlov's conditioned reflex to their educational system. They assumed that education is a process of conditioning children to fit whatever pattern of social cooperation the State chooses. However, in more recent times, the Soviet education has departed from so-called "progressive education" and has returned to emphasizing content and intellectual discipline.

John Dewey borrowed the Pavlovian concept for his educational theory. Man is little more than a collection of conditioned reflexes. Dewey taught a generation or more of modern progressive educators. Consequently, under their tutelage, Johnny did not learn to read. He was conditioned to adjust to his social environment.

Pavlov's conditioned reflex became bedrock of a vast anti-intellectual movement of the twentieth century known as "liberalism." So-called liberalism was sure that man is not a responsible, rational being capable of determining his own future, but a product of environment, shaped by forces beyond his control. Christianity, especially the Calvinistic variety, has always recognized the presence of a certain amount of determinism in the human situation, but it has also insisted upon man's rationality, as one created in the image of God, which rationality makes man responsible for his own future.

The "liberal" anti-intellectualism entered politics and subtly changed the approach of politicians to the voters. The consent of the governed became something to "engineer." Voters were no longer treated as rational beings capable of discussing real issues and deciding for or against a question. Raising wrong issues so that the real issues would not be debated, became the studied technique of the "liberal." A common example has been the issue of human rights versus property rights. So-called liberals raise this false antithesis to confuse the voters. Voters can usually be counted upon to support human rights instead of property rights because they frequently do not understand that property rights are a human right. Without the right to property—to own, control and dispose of—a man is not a free man. However, the last thing a "liberal" wants to discuss is the merits of private property. Such a discussion might reveal his real intentions. As a result of this avoidance of real issues, American elections have evolved into popularity contests.

By way of contrast modern Americans should study The Federalist. It is shocking to remember that these political essays were written in defense of the Constitution for a New York newspaper. Today, college students complain that the essays are too difficult to read!

At the time the Constitution was being debated, political leaders assumed that voters were rational people, able to comprehend an abstract argument and form an opinion about it. As a result, political leaders of that generation did not circumvent real issues and were able to produce that political masterpiece which is the United States Constitution.

The twentieth century has also seen Pavlov's anti-intellectualism invade economics. Whatever faults classical economists had, they assumed that the consumer is a rational person capable of choosing his best interests in the use of his money. He might make mistakes, but classical economists assumed that making mistakes was the privilege of the consumer in a free market.

Keynesian economics, following the anti-intellectualism of modern "liberalism," has introduced a different set of assumptions about the consumer. According to the Keynesian system, which rules Washington today, the consumer does not know what is good for him He should not be free to spend and to save as he pleases. These economic decisions should be guided by the experts. Instead of outright seizure of property in the Marxian fashion, the Keynesians recommended controlling the citizen by manipulating the currency, huge government spending in areas chosen by the experts for reasons best known to themselves, and a tax system whose purpose is not to raise revenue, but to redistribute wealth and to channel consumption in the direction chosen by the experts.

Assuming that man is a dog, not a soul, has brought us to a sorry state of affairs. The real enemies of freedom are the people who make this assumption. Jesus warned: "Fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell (Matthew 10:28).

Hopeful Racial Sign

(California Feature Service)

Earnest students of the multifold problems involved in the growing effort of racial minorities, especially the Negroes, to achieve the rights the Constitution guarantees them have long deplored the apparent inability of some groups to provide much-needed self help. There are obvious reasons why such activity is difficult, but it has not seemed impossible.

A most encouraging development in this field has been revealed in San Francisco, where two young and successful Negro business men have announced an ambitious and far-reaching self-help program designed to raise the commercial and cultural level of Negro life in the city. In the belief that people of their race must "get a stake in the community" before ghettoes can be eliminated, these men have set out to raise from three to five million dollars in capital, which will be invested in two basic areas: an intensive educational program, and a unique employment service they believe would enable qualified Negroes to find employment in top white collar positions.

Welfare types of aid—however well meant and administered—usually perpetuate the Negro "ghetto" mentally, the San Franciscans declare. Their plan, called PACT, for Plan of Action for Challenging Times, by enlisting the aid of top Negro leaders in all fields would appeal to racial pride and avoid the paternalism of charity. It is, indeed, the most encouraging undertaking to come out of the momentous changes the nation now is experiencing on the level of human relations.

Eddie Fisher to Start Divorce Proceedings

PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico (AP) — The Mexican judge who granted Sybil Burton her divorce says singer Eddie Fisher is expected to start divorcing Elizabeth Taylor today or Monday, at the latest.

Miss Taylor and Sybil's ex-husband, actor Richard Burton, remained secluded at their villa overlooking Puerto Vallarta and could not be reached for comment. Lawyers here for conferences with the pair declined to comment on Judge Arcadio Estrada Quinones' prediction.

If Estrada's prediction proves accurate, Burton, 40, and the 31-year-old actress could marry by the middle of the month.

Fisher is not expected to come here for the divorce proceedings. Mrs. Burton didn't when she got hers.

Burton and Miss Taylr have been living here since last October, when the Welsh actor arrived to make the film "Night of the Iguana."

Carson Parents To Learn About Dental Decay

The fact that almost all dental decay takes place during school years will be brought to the attention of Ft. Carson parents in a letter they will receive next week.

Maj. David E. Layman, preventive dentistry officer at the mountain post, and Superintendent Dean Fleishauer of the Fountain-Ft. Carson public schools are cosigners of the letter to be sent to parents of school children. The letter contains four basic rules of dental health:

1. Visit your dentist regularly, so that minor flaws can be corrected before they become serious problems.

2. Eat well-balanced diets of wholesome foods, using fruits and vegetables for between-meal snacks.

3. Brush your teeth properly, preferably immediately after each meal. Rinse with water where brushing is not possible.

4. Use a good toothpaste. A sample of a recommended dentrifrice will be given every schoolchild.

The stannous fluoride service has been found effective in reducing decay by 60 per cent. While this aids reduction of tooth decay, it does not stop existing decay and cannot cope with poor oral hygiene or unrestricted snacking with carbohydrates and sweets.

Pirates Defeat Mullen For First League Win

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

DENVER — Dan Wright stepped into a big pair of basketball shoes when he took over duties as St. Mary's basketball coach this winter — but early returns are indicating that it may be a comfortable fit.

Evidence of that continued to accumulate Sunday afternoon as Wright's youth-packed Buccaneers, showing definite effects of sound coaching, parlayed poise, hustle, and blossoming talent into a 65-60 victory over Mullen and thereby came scrambling back into the Denver Parochial League race.

The victory was the fifth in sixth starts for the Pirates, but it was a curcial one. The first loss was a disheartening one, 62-50, to Regis Friday night in the opening round of DPL play and St. Mary's coaches and fans were obviously wondering here Sunday just how well the team would rebound from that disappointment.

To answer that — the Pirates bounced back like a good, sharp dribble. There were a few minutes of Regis hangover early in the contest but, sparked by Mike Conway, Dick Pfalmer, and a pair of talented young guards, the Bucs snatched the lead before halftime and then fought off a pair of flurries by the Mustangs in the late going to post their first victory over Mullen in Denver in four years.

Conway slipping thru the Mustang defenses time and again off well-executed patterns, backboarded-in the key points in the Pirates' drive for the lead and finished the afternoon with a total of 20, the highest single game output by a member of the team this winter. Pfalmer, the lithe senior jumping-jack, added 15 points and yanked away a whopping 20 rebounds to give St. Mary's a clear-cut dominance in that area.

Still, the Pirates were sputtering until Wright fired in a pair of swift young guards who quickly smoothed out the burrs in the offense.

Tom McCarthy, a 5-8 junior, and Joe Jezek, a 5-9 sophomore, handled the ball well, worked together as tho they had a direct wire between them on the fast break, and contributed 15 points to the cause. They promise to give the Pirates some of the soundest backcourt play the team has had in several seasons as the winter rolls on.

Pfalmer, with aid from Conway and Dave Grantz, led St. Mary's to a comfortable 46-37 edge in the backboard wars. The Bucs also had the better of the shooting, hitting slightly over 40 per cent from the field. Mullen also had a hot hand, especially from far outcourt, but the Mustangs seemed to lose their grip at the free throw line and it was here that a possible victory escaped them. Awarded 31 shots during the afternoon, they could convert only 10. St. Mary's, meanwhile, was sinking 19 of 30.

Mullen grabbed control of the boards in the early going and also precision bombing of the Pirates' defense. Several arching jump shots from far outcourt found the mark and spurred the team to a quick lead which had grown to 17-11 with less than 30 seconds left in the first quarter. Pfalmer's follow shot 18 seconds before the buzzer made it 17-13 at the first break.

The Pirates had led once at 5-4 but did not get back on top until Jezek spun in a driving layup off a fast break with 4:10 left in the half. That put the Bucs ahead 21-20 but Mullen quickly went back in front by three points before Pfalmer tied it at 25-25 with 1:45 left. McCarthy then hit a pair of jump shots from the side and a layup to guide the Bucs into a 33-29 lead at halftime.

St. Mary's quickly blew the lead to 10 points in the third quarter and had a 47-36 margin with 2:56 left in the period when Mullen, behind some fantastic outcourt pumping by Jim Wedow, scored nine straight points to trim the tally to 47-45 going into the final quarter. Mullen grabbed one brief lead in the final stanza, at 54-53, before the Bucs pulled away again to a 58-54 margin. Back came the Mustangs again to deadlock the count at 58-58 with 2:20 left but Jezek dumped a free throw, Grantz a field goal, and then McCarthy and Conway sealed the victory with four straight conversions from the charity line in the final minute.

AFA's Cagers Start Week's Busy Schedule

A busy week of activity on the local collegiate scene was to start today in both basketball and hockey involving the Air Force Academy and Colorado College.

The week's schedule was to kick off with a game this afternoon between the Air Force and North Dakota University at the AFA's Cadet Gymnasium. The contest was slated to start at 4:15 p.m. It's the first appearance at home for the Falcons in the last five games and they now own a 4-4 record for the season and should be a heavy favorite to get ahead of the break-even mark for the second time this season.

Meanwhile, on the road, the Colorado College hockey team continues a series of games on the east coast and tonight will take on Colgate University at Hamilton, N. Y. This game will be broadcast in Colorado Springs over radio KRDO starting at 7:30 p.m.

The Tigers are fresh from capturing the big silver trophy in the annual Brown University Invitational tournament at Providence, R. I., where they bounced Providence last Friday night, 8-5, and then came back to win a thriller from the host Brown sextet on Saturday, 4-3.

After tonight's single game with Colgate, CC travels on to Othens, O., for games Tuesday and Wednesday nights against Ohio University, a newcomer to collegiate hockey circles. The Tigers were originally slated to play Ohio State of the Big Ten on Wednesday, but at the last minute former CC mentor Tom Bedecki who is now with the Buckeyes cancelled out after a lop-sided loss to Ohio U.

This weekend the only home games will be played by Colorado College's basketball troops as they make their season's local debut and start their last season in the Rocky Mountain Conference at the same time. CC will host Adams State College of Alamosa both Friday and Saturday nights at the City Auditorium.

The Air Force five will get right back on the road again this weekend after only a brief stay at home, as Friday the Falcons will travel to meet Utah State at Logan, Utah, and on Saturday they'll be at Missoula against Montana State University.

The CC hockey team remains away from home this weekend with two games at Grand Forks against the Universityof North Dakota. This will be the second series in Western Collegiate Hockey Association action for the Tigers after splitting an earlier home set against Michigan State. The Nodaks are considered prime contenders for the WCHA crown as defending national champion from one NCAA tournament.

Altho North Dakota's Sioux can strike fear into any team when they strap on the skates for a hockey game, their basketball brethren are hardly quite so awesome. Last Saturday night they started a series thru Colorado with a 73-44 loss to Colorado State University at Ft. Collins.

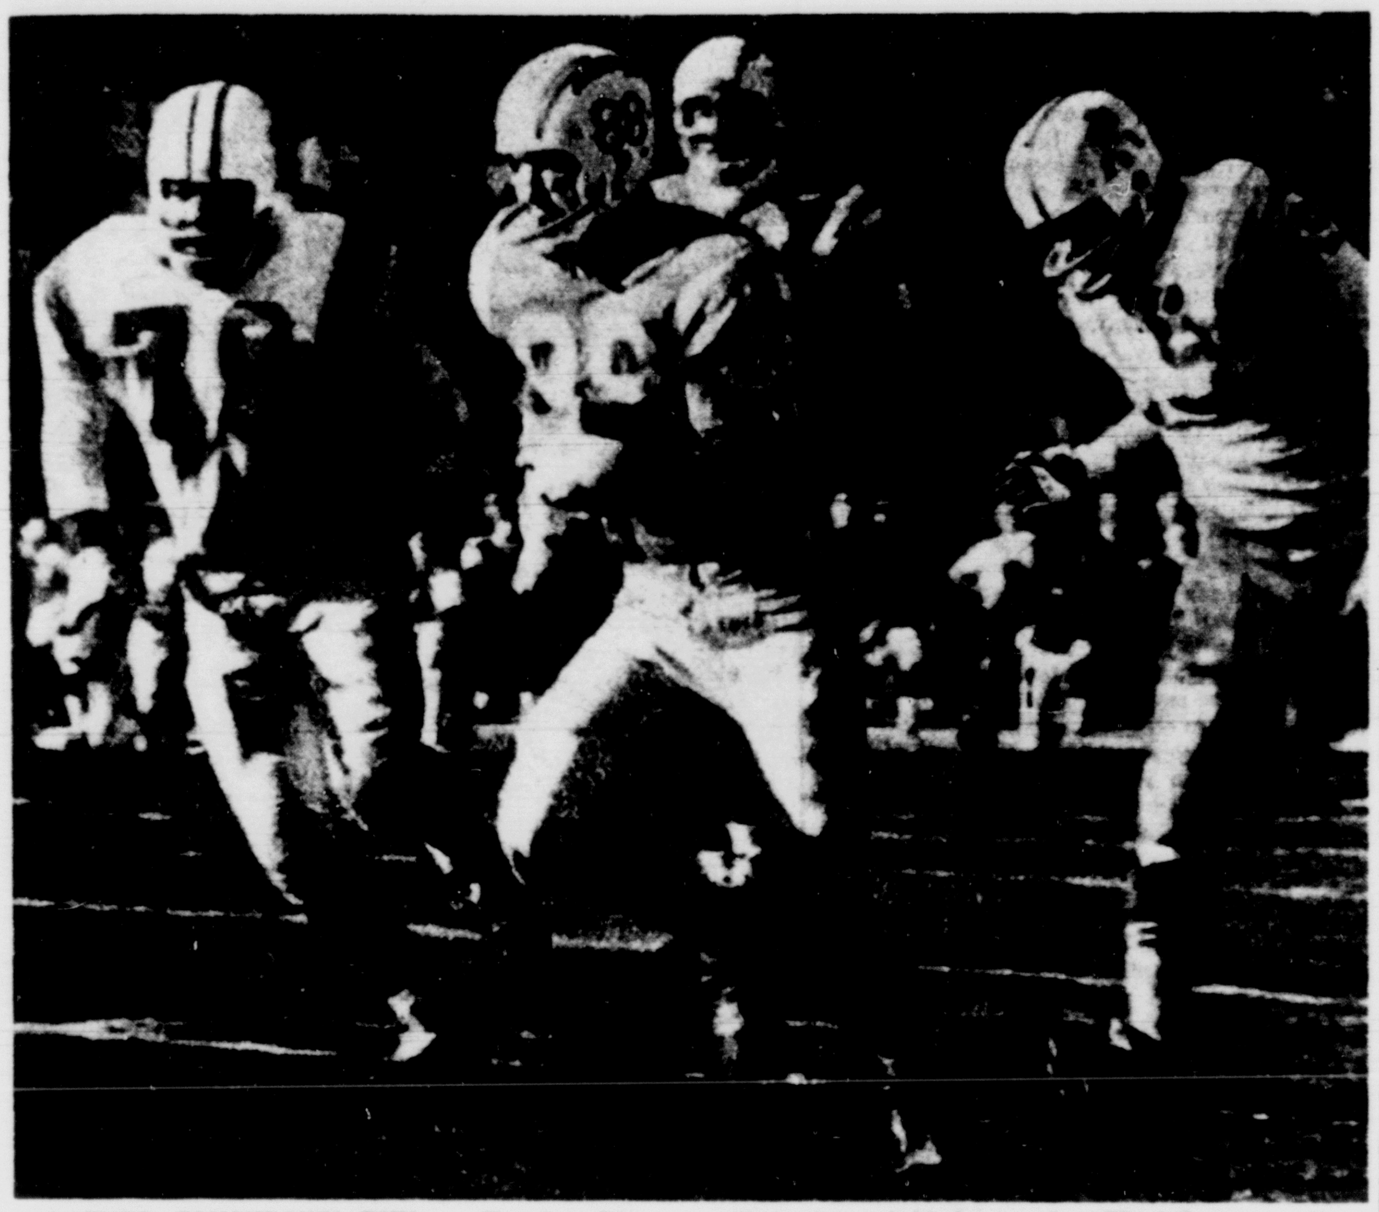
Chargers Easily Win AFL



ANOTHER TOUCHDOWN RUN — The San Diego Chargers made long touchdown runs a habit in their AFL Championship playoff game with the Boston Patriots in San Diego, Sunday. Here, end Don Norton gallops down field for another TD followed by Jim Hunt (79) and Bob Dee (89) of the Patriots. The Chargers won the game and the championship, 51-10. (AP Wirephoto)

Coach Wants No Playoff With NFL Champions

By CHARLIES MAHER

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The San Deigo Chargers have established to the eminent satisfaction of most precincts, and to the actute dissatisfaction of Boston, that they are the finest team in the American Football League.

And San Diego Coach Sid Gillman declared Sunday—after the Chargers won their first AFL title by demolishing Boston 51-10 — that his club wouldn't disgrace itself in a game with the National Football League champions.

To which AFL Commissioner Joe Foss added that a football World Series between the AFL and NFL champions may be only a year or two away.

For the present, the suggestion that the Chargers are ready for the Chicago Bears is likely to provoke nothing more than an interminable debate. But it was clear Sunday that the Chargers were ready for something substantially better than Boston.

The Chargers gained 610 yards rushing and passing. San Diego's Keith Lincoln, in the greatest performance ever given by an AFL running back, made 206 yards as a rusher, 123 more as a pass receiver and 20 as a passer. That gave him the astonishing sum of 349 yards gained in a single game and made him almost the unanimous choice as the game's outstanding player.

Foss, asked about the possibility of a title game between the AFL and NFL champions, told The Associated Press:

"It wouldn't surprise me if such a game were to come about within a year or two. And it wouldn't surprise me if we started playing exhibition games next summer."

Foss expected a close game Sunday. But it took the Chargers less than five minutes of the first quarter to score enough points to win.

The Patriots led the league in total defense this season and had great success with the red dog or blitz rush. On a sloppy field in Boston, the Patriots contained Lincoln and Charger halfback Paul Lowe and lost to San Diego by a single point, 7-6.

But the field was dry Sunday and the Chargers quickly neutralized the blitz by using pitchouts and lob passes to the outside. Several times the Boston rushers broke through the line beautifully, then discovered that the play was not in front of them but to the outside, where the Patriots had nobody waiting.

On such a play Lincoln took a pitchout from quarterback Tobin Rote and ran 67 yards for the second San Diego touchdown. The Chargers had the game won then, with 10:48 to play in the first period.

San Diego's defense held Boston to 75 yards rushing and to 186 yards passing. The Charger offense meanwhile, gained 318 yards rushing and 292 passing.

Big Eight Loop Race Opens Tonite

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Big Eight basketball championship race opens in earnest tonight with top-rated Kansas State meeting Colorado, second-rated Oklahoma State facing Kansas and surprising Missouri taking on Oklahoma.

All three teams—K-State, OSU and Mizzou—will be playing at home and strongly favored. In the other game tonight, Iowa State rates the nod over Nebraska at Ames.

K-State's impressive sweep through the conference holiday tournament sent its stock soaring. The Wildcats will match an 8-3 season record against Colorado's 5-6 and have seven-foot Roger Suttner and 6-6 Willie Murrell to control the back boards. Colorado's 6-8 Jim Davis leads the league in rebounding but he'll need more help than he's been getting against K-State.

Oklahoma squeezed by Kansas 65-63 in overtime Saturday in the only league game to date. But the Sooners, 5-6, will have rebound trouble against Missouri, 6-3, which is led by Ray Bob Carey, George Flamank and Ned Monsees.

Iowa State, 4-6, will find Nebraska smarting from nine straight defeats after an opening victory over Wyoming.

DU Captures Intercollegiate Ski Meet

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Denver University massed 387.8 points in two days of competition to win the Steamboat Springs Intercollegiate Ski Meet Sunday.

Individual winners in the Sunday events were Arnee Valkama of DU in jumping, and Valdimir Sabich of Colorado University in the downhill race.

Loris Werner of Western State collected 361.6 points to merit the Skimeister Award. It is given to the skier who gains the most points in all four events.

Downhill—1. Sabich, one minute, 6 3-10 seconds. 2. Myke Baar, DU 1:06.9. 3. Norman Liman, CU 1:07.9. 4. 5. (tie), Dave Gorsuch, Western State, and Jim Barrows, CU. 108.3.

Bowls Roundup

College Grid Slate Ended Last Weekend

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The North received the kickoff after every touchdown, it rained in Honolulu and Duke Carlisle played defense.

That just about sums up the final day of the extended college football season Saturday on which three all- star contests were played.

The South downed the North 28-21 in the Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala.; the North whipped South 20-13 in the Hula Bowl at Honolulu and the Nations' trampled the Southwest 66-14 in the Challenge Bowl at Corpus Christi, Tex.

The Senior Bowl introduced the kickoff on receive option, which permits the trailing team to receive the ball after it scores. The North, behind all the way, took advantage of the innovation and nearly pulled out a victory in the final quarter.

Behind 28-7, the North roared back in the fourth period on two touchdown passes by Utah State's Bill Munson, who was one of a number of star quarterbacks in the game.

Miami's George Mira passed for one touchdown for the South as did Billy Lothridge of Georgia Tech.

Lothridge's scoring aerial came on a bizarre play. Lothridge was set to attempt a field goal, but Larry Rakestraw, Georgia quarterback, fumbled the snapback. Lothridge scooped up the ball and fired a six-yard pass to Tech end Billy Martin.

In Honolulu, rain bothered just about everyone except Pete Liske. The Penn State quarterback led the North to two touchdowns and was named the game's outstanding back.

After Liske led the North on an 85-yard scoring march, Charlie Taylor of Arizona State tallied on a 26-yard run. That and the extra point gave the South a 7-6 lead. But Liske came right back, engineered another successful drive and ran for the two-point conversion.

Emmitt Augustus Carlisle III, the Duke who brilliantly passed and ran Texas to the big Cotton Bowl victory over Navy, played for the Southwest in the Challenge Bowl but only on defense in the losing cause. The Texan preferred defense because that's the position he's aiming for in the pros.

Bork passed for three touchdowns, ran for another and set up two more as he completed 20 of 27 tosses for 243 yards. Rohrschneider, Bork's Northern Illinois teammate, caught 10 basses for 207 yards and helped set up four touchdowns.

Snell, of Ohio State, scored four times while Byrd, of Boston University, tallied three times.

Oregon States' Wilcox Gets Hula Bowl Lineman Award

The big Beaver end, used only on defense in the North's 20-13 victory over the South in Saturday night's mud-splattered, 18th renewal of the all-star classic, walked off with the top lineman award. He thus became the first lineman to win the prize for defensive play alone.

Wilcox also overshadowed such All-American stars as Minnesota's Carl Eller and Texas' Scott Appleton. Wilcox consistently beat out his opposition in the South line and spent most of the game in South's backfield.

Penn State's Pete Liske, who scored one touchdown and passed for another to Oregon's All-American end Vern Burke, was the choice for the outstanding back award.

Liske, as did the Baylor quarterback Don Trull for the South, ignored the heavy rain at Honolulu Stadium and tossed 19 passes. He completed nine for 135 yards.

Trull threw 14 passes and completed nine for 111 yards. His nine-yarder to Southern California's Willie Brown closed out the scoring after the North had opened a 20-7 lead in the fourth quarter.

The North broke a scoreless battle in the second period when Paul Martha of Pittsburgh smashed over from the two to climax an 85-yard drive.

The South edged into the lead, 7-6, in the third period on a 26-yard run by Charley Taylor of Arizona State and Pete Beathard's conversion.

But Liske's two-yard plunge and two-point conversion in the same period and his scoring pass to Burke early in the fourth period put the game out of South's reach.

New Rule Takes Toll On South

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—"It almost killed us," said South Coach Tom Landry of a new rule that prevented his Rebels from routing the Yanks in the 15th annual All-Star Senior Bowl game.

"It's good for this type of game," he conceded. But as far as his National Football League (NFL) is concerned: "No never."

Those words were echoed by North Coach George Wilson, whose fulltime job is coaching the Detroit Lions in the NFL. The rule, designed to keep the score close, almost allowed the North to stage a breathtaking come from behind victory.

"But there wasn't enough time," said Wilson, whose Yankees lost 28-21 before 37,000 spectators on a rainswept field after trailing 28-7 in the fourth quarter.

The rule allows the trailing team the option of whether it wanted a kickoff or receive after a score. It played a major role in keeping the South from routing the North. In the second half, the Yanks got off 34 plays to the South's four.

The winning Rebels each pick up $900 from the Senior Bowl in the first professional game for the ex-collegiate stars. The losers each got $700. At least 46 of the 50 boys who participated have signed pro contracts. The South now has a 10-5 series edge.

CSC Rides Atop RMC Standings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two league games — the only two of the season so far—have placed Colorado State College in a comfortable position at the top of the Rocky Mountain Conference basketball standings.

Western State College of Gunnison, victom of both defeats, is at the bottom. But the three other conference members—Colorado Mines, Adams State and Colorado Collete—are untested in games that count toward the standings.

Saturday's 65-61 victory over Western State was the seventh consecutive triumph for CSC this season but it was by no means as easy an accomplishment as the previous night's 87-41 beating of the Gunnison team.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN

	Conference			All Games
	W.	L.	Pct.	W.	L.	Pct.	Pts.	OP
Colo State Col	2	0	1.000	7	0	1.000	605	487
Colorado Mines	0	0	.000	5	4	.556	482	516
Adams State	0	0	.000	4	4	.500	682	706
Colorado Coll.	0	0	.000	0	2	.000	108	118
Western State	0	2	.000	3	6	.333	622	658

With 12 minutes left in the game, CSC held a 52 - 40 lead. But Western rushed back to close the difference to four points, scoring five points in the last 40 seconds of play.

The Nebraskans were fooled by the Miners' deliberate tactics during the first half, and Mines led 32-29 at intermission. But the Miners could score only 16 points in the second half.

Further light should be cast on league capabilities Friday. Adams State will be at Colorado College, and Mines will be at Western State.

In a nonconference game, CSC will be at Southern Colorado State.

Vikings' End Shoots Self

CLEVELAND (AP) —Jim Marshall, defensive end for the Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League, was in Forest City Hospital today after surgery to remove a bullet that struck him when a pistol he was trying to unloaded discharged.

Marshall, 26, who is visting his in-laws here, was listed in fair condition.

The 6-foot-3, 235-pound former Ohio State star said he was alone in his car in the driveway at his father-in-law's home when the accident occurred.

Carry Back Gives Birth to Foal

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The big news in racing over the weekend wasn't on the track —it was the arrival of the first foal by Carry Back.

The blessed event was sure to warm the hearts of racing fans as another step in the saga of the poor, little colt who won fame and fortune on the turf in the best Horato Alger tradition.

Carry Back's first foal is a dark bay filly out of Stefanne. She arrived Sunday night at 7:35 in the same stall at the Ocala, Fla., Stud Farm where her daddy was born in 1959.

John S. Dolan, Cincinnati sportsman and breeder who owns the foal, said he would ask the Jockey Club to register her name as Back To Back.

Carry Back, sired by Saggy out of the little known mare Joppy, was regarded as an unfashionable colt when he was born, but he became an equine millionaire and thrilled racing fans with his come-from-behind finishes that won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness in 1961 and made him the best of the four-year-olds in 1962.

Mickey Wright 'Delighted' Over Award

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The willowy blonde belter of the women's professional golf tour, Mickey Wright, was "flabbergasted" and "delighted" when told she had been named Woman Athlete of the Year.

Miss Wright, a native of California who now calls Dallas her home, won the honor in the annual Associated Press year-end poll.

She massed 311 points to 127 for tennis star Maria Bueno in second place and was first choice on 87 of the 134 ballots cast.

The golf star won 13 official tournaments on the ladies Professional Golf Association tour last year. She racked up $34,027 in prize money, too, the most ever by a woman golfer in one year.

Carson to Step Up Training In 1964

Intensified training on all fronts is the prospect for 1964, according to Lt. Col. Q. L. Gates, 5th Division Operations and Training officer at Ft. Carson.

Mountain post units can look forward to a quickening of the pace now that the holiday season is over. Training will be designed to hone the 5th Division's fighting edge for its mission.

In the offing: "Exercise Cherry Tree," the only off-post maneuver so far announced for the year. Scheduled to take place near Coronado, Calif., between Feb. 19 and March 10, the joint Army-Navy exercise will culminate with an amphibious landing by one of Ft. Carson's battalions.

Other plans for the new year include more counterguerrilla training and continued close air support in conjunction with joint air-ground tactics.

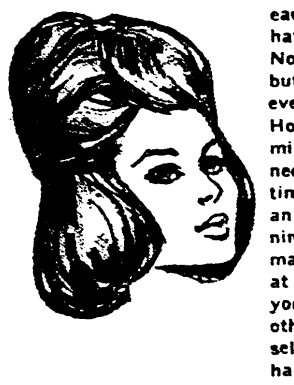
FASHIONABLE

WIGS



The one beauty accessory each smart woman should have is a fashionable wig. Not only is this a luxury, but also a convenience that every woman can appreciate. How many times after swimming or skiing have you needed a wig? How many times have you been late for an appointment or an evening engagement? How many hours have you spent at the beauty salon when you could have been doing other things? Well ask yourself this question: What hair problem do I have that a wig can solve?

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: Optical Illusions.

NEEDED: A ruler.

DO THIS: Answer the questions, then check your answers with the ruler.

1. Is the hat taller than it is wide?
2. Do lines B and C make a bulge in the center of the drawing?
3. Which lines in this drawing are parallel?
4. Which line is longer, A or B?

EXPLANATION. We see in terms of relationships between dimensions rather than the true dimensions. Certain lines appear to be long or short because of the other geometry of the picture. The ruler "sees" only one line at a time, and is not fooled by relationships between dimensions and shapes.

A collection of these scientific puzzles is in book form under the name "Science Circus." It is in bookstores and libraries.

Yule Trees Can Be Taken to Memorial Park

Still wondering what to do with that dried-out Christmas tree?

Take it to Memorial Park. The Pikes Peak Chapter No. 34, Izaak Walton League, is sponsoring a conservation program which will use the trees to prevent soil erosion in areas around Colorado Springs.

George W. Thomas, chapter president, said the collection area for discarded trees and wreaths is just south of the softball field at Memorial Park. He stressed, however, that the club wants no trash thrown in with the greenery.

Club members and volunteers will use the city's shredding machine and grind up the trees on Sunday morning, Jan. 12. Then the ground-up material will be loaded into trucks and taken out to fill erosion and gulley-washes at the Garden of the Gods and Austin Bluffs.

Joe Stammen, chairman of the conservation committee, is also chairman of the tree project. The Izaak Walton League is in its in its sixth year of sponsorship in the program. The city's fire department now is in the business of tree-burning.

Stammen and Thomas said discarded trees and greens may be taken to the collection area at any time between now and next Sunday

Buckaroos Topple Invaders

By United Press International

The Portland Buckaroos, sparked by the blazing stick of Art Jones, are starting to show flashes of last season's championship form.

Portland romped to the northern division title of the Western Hockey League last season and extended the San Francisco Seals to seven games before losing in the league playoffs. But the Buckaroos got off to a slow start this season and were having trouble climbing out of the second division.

That all changed last night as Portland beat the league-leading Denver Invaders 7-4 and moved from a tie for fourth place into a tie for second place. The setback snapped Denver's eight-game winning streak.

The hero for Portland was Jones, who pushed home three goals and collected an assist.

The Denver - Portland game was the only one on Sunday's abbreviated schedule. All teams are idle tonight. The schedule resumes Tuesday night with Seattle at Los Angeles and Denver at Vancouver.

Standings:

Lombardi Complains of Defense In Packers' Rout of Browns

By FRANK EIDGE
United Press International

MIAMI (UPI) — Bart Starr was at the peak of his game and Jimmy Brown was far from it. That just about sums up the story of the Green Bay Packers' 40-23 victory over the Cleveland Browns in the National Football League's Playoff Bowl game.

To the crowd of 54,921 in the Orange Bowl and to a nationwide television audience, it appeared that the Packers gave a fine performance in this battle of the NFL's two runnerup teams.

To Vince Lombardi, Green Bay's perfectionist coach, there was a flaw.

"No defense," he summed up soberly.

Jimmy Brown could hardly agree with Lombardi. The Browns blockbuster, first pro back to gain a mile in one season, was held to 61 yards in 11 carries by the Packers.

"We didn't have a special defense set up for him," Lombardi said after the game. "We didn't think it was necessary. After all, we normally have a pretty good defensive team."

Starr's performance won him the game's most valuable player award by the unanimous vote of the writers who covered the contest. Starr completed 15 of 18 passes for a total of 259 yards and three touchdowns.

And even though Lombardi complained about looseness in the defense, the crowd enjoyed the barrage of eight touchdowns two field goals and a safety.

Starr by far had the better of his duel with rival quarterback Frank Ryan, as well as with the rushing efforts of Brown.

Starr matched the NFL record for the longest touchdown pass, a 99-yard flip and run to Tom Moore which, while it doesn't count in the record books, was something to see. Standing in his own end zone, Starr faked line-busting Jim Taylor into the middle and then lifted a pitch to Moore at the 23. Moore lugged all the way down the sidelines for the game's outstanding feature.

There was a defensive gem, too, when the Browns marched 76 yards to a first down on the Packer one—and couldn't hammer it across in four all-out shots at the line. They gave the great Jim Brown two shots and his 228 pounds were stopped cold. Ernie Green smacked in there twice with his 210 pounds and both times was held with no gain. The Packers took over—and Starr uncorked that 99-yard touchdown play.

Before it was over Starr also pitched a 15-yard scoring pass to Max McGee and a three-yarder to Ron Kramer. Starr's passes also set up a one-yard touchdown plunge by Moore and a two-yard scoring dive by Taylor. Rounding it out, Jerry Kramer kicked five extra points and an eight-yard field goal.

Ryan pitched touchdown passes to Rich Kreitling and Bob Crespino and his aerials also set up a five-yard scoring plunge by Green. Lou (The Toe) Groza kicked two extra points and a 35-yard field goal.

Statistically it was a close game, Green Bay getting 27 first downs with 231 yards rushing and 259 passing for a 490 total while Cleveland had 20 first downs on 108 rushing yards and 310 by passing for a 418 total. But the Green Bay defense choked off the Browns and did a good job of bottling up Brown.

Kollen Drops From Skating Competition

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pieter Kollen, a former national figure skating champion, has withdrawn from this year's competition because of a brain injury suffered by his partner, Patti Gustafson, 16, Lynn, Mass.

Kollen, Ann Arbor, Mich., was on the U.S. figure skating team last year and placed ninth in the world championship. This year he and Dorothyann Nelson of Chicago won the national senior pairs championship.

Withdrawal of Kollen and Miss Gustafson was announced today by officials preparing for the 1964 championships, which start here Thursday.

Top Vaulter Admits Past Jump Fears

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pole vaulter John Pennel, who admits he had a "jumping complex even when I was little," today was jumping with joy over his selection as winner of the 1963 James E. Sullivan Award.

"I'm completely thrilled and overwhelmed," said the 23-year-old senior from Northeast Louisiana State College after being notified that he had finished first in the voting for the most coveted prize of amateur athletes.

"I never thought I'd be selected. Although I had always coveted the significance of the award," added the only man ever to clear 17 feet in the pole vault. "In fact, even after I learned I had been nominated for the final voting this year, I never realized I had a chance to win."

Pennel received 165 first place votes and a total of 1,115 points in the balloting of 524 sportsmen, who were asked to select the American amateur athlete who "by performance, example and good influence did the most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship" in 1963.

Hawaiian weightlifter Tommy Kono was runnerup in the voting for the third straight year, totaling 140 first place votes and 931 points. Sprinter Bob Hayes of Florida A&M, "the world's fastest human," garnered 54 first place votes and 628 points to finish third.

Fourth in the voting was hurdler Hayes Jones of Detroit, followed by gymnast Mrs. Muriel Davis Grossfeld of New Haven, Conn., swimmers Donna De Varona of Santa Clara, Calif., Chet Jastremski of Toledo, Ohio, and Robyn Ann Johnson of Arlington, Va., and discus champion Jay Silvester of Trementon, Utah.

Harney Nurses Narrow Lead Over Palmer in L. A. Open

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — History, at best a frivolous sort of thing, may repeat itself today as Paul Harney nurses a fragile lead going into the final round of the $50,000 Los Angeles Open golf tournament.

People, mostly money hungry fellow professional golfers, were peering down his neck as play resumed over the par 36-35—71 Rancho Club Course Sunday.

By sheer coincidence, this was exactly Palmer's position one year ago when Art Wall Jr., was the leader. Palmer made up the difference en route to victory, and did it by three shots, with Wall somewhat shaken back five strokes in arrears.

Immediately behind the greying golfing pride of Worcester, Mass., were Bobby Nichols and Jimmy Clark. Harney had a 54-hole score of 209, Nichols and Clark 210.

Jay Hebert was alone at 211 and then came Palmer, along with Al Geiberger and Al Balding.

Included in the 214 group were Gene Littler, Dow Finsterwald and West Ellis, Jr., along with James Black, the one-day opening round surprise.

Harney fired a brilliant 66 Sunday which included the biggest shot of the day, a seven-iron blast that traveled 155 yards and plopped in for an eagle two on the 14th hole.

Palmer's jinx rode again at the ninth hole, the one he took a 12 on in 1961, seven strokes over par. Sunday he hit over the fence onto a practice range and took a seven.

But Palmer got into no more trouble and his two birdies gave him a round of 39-33—72, and a chance for today's $7,500 first prize.

Lakers Topple Celts Again On Barnett's Charity Tosses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Perhaps the Los Angeles Lakers made a New Year's resolution never to lose to the Boston Celtics again.

At least that's the way the Lakers suddenly are acting.

The National Basketball Association's Western Division leaders lost all three games they played with the Celtics before 1964 started. Now in one weekend Los Angeles has won two clashes with the East's perennial pacesetters.

Dick Barnett's two free throws with five seconds remaining brought Los Angeles a 97-95 triumph Sunday night.

New York walloped Philadelphia 142-118, St. Louis belted Detroit 116-99 and Cincinnati outlasted Baltimore 111-106 in other games Sunday.

The Celtics appeared on their way to victory, leading 80-72 after three quarters. But the Lakers fought back until Barnett fired in a jump shot, tying the score 86-86. The lead then switched back and forth before Barnett's pair of points ended it.

Jerry West scored 29 points and Elgin Baylor 25 for Los Angeles. Sam Jones led Boston with 25.

Los Angeles took Boston 125-118 in overtime Saturday night while Cincinnati defeated New York 125-116 and Philadelphia whipped Baltimore 123-113.

Tech Engineers Upset Over Touted Wildcats

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Old Man Upset whistled Dixie Saturday night and led the Southland's top basketball powers, Kentucky and Vanderbilt, into the sea for the first time this season.

The spectre, playing havoc with national rankings for the second successive week, drew assists from Kentucky-killer Georgia Tech, 76-67 victor over the top-rated Wildcats, and Tennessee, surprise 57-55 winner over sixth-ranked Vandy.

The Kentucky and Vanderbilt setbacks in Southeastern Conference openers left UCLA, Davidson and DePaul with the only perfect records among major college fives and vaulted the Bruins, No. 2 in last week's Associated Press poll, into the heir-apparent role.

UCLA walloped Washington State, 121-77, for victory No. 11 and its 13th straight in a carry-over from last season. The Bruins' unbeaten string is the longest in the nation after Vanderbilt's run of 15 was broken by Tennessee.

Loyola of Chicago, replaced by Kentucky in the No. 1 spot last week, got back into the 100-plus point groove with a 127-85 romp over Morehead State. The Ramblers, No. 3 and 10-1, equalled their all-time scoring output as Vic Rouse, Jack Egan, Les Hunter and Ron Miller all hit for 20 points or more.

Fifth-ranked Michigan defeated Northwestern, 85-73, in a Big Ten opener, and Duke, No. 9, overpowered North Carolina State, 91-70, while two other members of the top ten, Cincinnati and Oregon State, were knocking each other off in a weekend set.

The fourth-ranked Bearcats, now 8-3, edged the eighth-ranked Beavers, 57-53, Friday. OSU's seven-foot Mel Counts evened matters Saturday with a 38-point performance that helped riddle Cincinnati, 82-61. Oregon State's record is 11-2.

Villanova, No. 10 and 9-1, was idle Saturday.

Georgia Tech, a thorn in Baron Adolph Rupp's side for some time, made a wreck of Kentucky for the third straight time and sixth in the teams' last nine meetings. The Wildcats, weary after their two-game Sugar Bowl set earlier in the week, managed a two-point half-time lead but fell behind to stay early in the final period. Tech captain R. D. Craddock was the game's top scorer, with 25.

Tennessee's collapsing zone defense held Vanderbilt in check and R. W. Davis and Larry McIntosh hit free throws in the final seconds to sink the Commodores.

In other games involving major powers: St. Joseph's topped NYU, 82-76; St. John's surprised Syracuse, 84-71; Oklahoma City routed Creighton, 101-85; Ohio State defeated Wisconsin by the same count; St. Bonaventure nipped Duquesne, 97-95; Iowa stunned Indiana, 72-71; Seattle outscored Arizona State, 100-96; North Carolina beat Notre Dame, 78-68; Wichita belted Drake, 67-49; Stanford clubbed USC, 62-46, and Illinois trimmed Michigan State, 87-66.

Redskins, Lobos Set For Battle

By DICK STUART
Associated Press Sports Writer

A battle Saturday night between Utah's little Redskins and New Mexico's big Lobos shapes up as the first big game of the Western Athletic Conference basketball season.

And it's somewhat of a surprise that the Salt Lake City meeting should mean so much to both.

Preseason forecasting had the championship virtually forfeited to Arizona State University.

But while the defending champion Sun Devils have collapsed, Utah and New Mexico have stepped forward.

The Utes have an 11-1 preconference record. Last week they rapped St. Joseph's, Pa., College 83-78 to take third place in New York City's Holiday Festival. Then they dumped Cincinnati, fourth ranked nationally by the Associated Press, 76-68.

WESTERN ATHLETIC

	Conference			All Games
	W.	L.	Pct.	.	l.	pct.	Pts.	OP
Utah	0	0	.000	11	1	.917	1046	878
New Mexico	0	0	.000	10	1	.909	781	613
Brigham Young	0	0	.000	7	4	.636	854	854
Arizona	0	0	.000	6	5	.545	714	662
Arizona State	0	0	.000	5	5	.500	890	840
Wyoming	0	0	.000	5	5	.500	819	834

The biggest Redskins have been 6-foot-1 Doug Moon, 5-11 Skip Kroeger and 6-2 Spence Thurgood.

New Mexico has used a strong defense and ball control to post a 10-1 mark. Key personnel have been 6-8 Ira (Large) Harge, 6-6 Claude Williams and 6-5 Mike Lucero.

The Lobos can also score. They warmed up for the conference campaign last week by blasting Oklahoma Christian 92-40 and West Texas State 85-63.

A-State, meanwhile, continues to slip. The Sun Devils lost 100-96 to Seattle last Saturday, putting their record at 5-5 and breaking a string of 52 straight home court victories. The Sun Devils had a 61-60 victory over Stanford earlier in the week.

The WAC firing begins Friday when New Mexico visits improving Brigham Young University and Utah entertains so-so Wyoming.

BYU upped its record to 7-4 last week by defeating Montana 89-65 and Montana State 96-83 after losing 68-58 to Oregon State in the finals of the Far West classic.

Rangers Shed NHL Cellar Via Third Straight Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Rangers, in danger of dropping into the National Hockey League cellar a week ago, are closing in on fourth-place Detroit, thanks to an unbeaten 1964 record and the return to form of goalie Jacques Plante.

The Rangers won their third straight of the new year Sunday night, tripping Toronto, 3-2, rookie Dave Richardson's first NHL goal. The Red Wings, beaten by New York Saturday, 5-2, rallied on Norm Ullman's goal with less than five minutes remaining to tie Montreal, 3-3, and keep a three-point spread between themselves and the Rangers for the final Stanley Cup Playoff berth.

Chicago topped the last-place Boston Bruins, 5-3, in the other game to open its league lead to three points over Montreal and five over third-place Toronto.

Sudan Skeletons To Provide Medical Data

Well preserved skeletons, possibly dating back 15 centuries and recently discovered by University of Colorado archaeologists in the Republic of Sudan, are expected to provide significant medical data.

CU, under National Science Foundation and State Department grants totaling nearly $140,000, is conducting archeological operations on the banks of the upper Nile River, attempting to salvage knowledge before the area is flooded at the completion of the Aswan High Dam.

The second and final season of the 15-man project is entering its third month. It will end in March.

The skeletons, recovered from a cemetary which could be more than 1,500 years old, are in excellent condition because of the rainless climate and dry, sandy soil, according to Asst. Prof. Mark Papworth, field director of the expedition.

Health data on persons who lived long before the days of industrially processed foods, preventive medicine, atmospheric contamination and fall-out can be used for comparison with data on modern populations, he said.

To obtain biological data from some of the periods not available in the CU area, the anthropologists will be able to study burial material excavated by some of the other expeditions working in the vicinity.

The Colorado expedition is one of the 23 archaeological groups working in the Upper Nile region, representing the largest concentrated archaeological effort in history.

This season about 150 professionally trained archaeologists and approximately 1,000 local workmen are engaged in the effort to rescue historic and prehistoric information from the rising waters back of the new dam.

The CU expedition is divided into three parts — excavation of ancient villages; excavation of old stone age, or paleolithic, campsites, and work on skeletal remains.

The excavation of villages is being carried out south of work completed last year and has revealed a Christian period floor over 1,000 years old, Papworth said. The floor is thought to overlie structure of the X-Group period, dated 300 to 550 A. D.

The 21,442 pots and fragments of pots collected last year have been classified, tabulated and charted. Cataloging is continuing on current digging. Many of the whole pots discovered this year are finely finished and decorated, Papworth noted.

The paleolithic crew is working a few hundred yards north of the campsite which last year yielded a fossil human lower jaw. The current campsite has given evidence of more than one period of human habitation, the director said.

The fossil jaw, after plastic casts, careful measurements, drawings, photographs and X-rays were made, was returned this fall to the Sudan Government Antiquities Service for deposit in the Kartoum Museum.

Papworth took over as field director this year from Prof. Gordon Hewes who remains administrative director of the project, but is staying on the Boulder campus.

Carson Offers Foreign Language Study Classes

In response to Department of the Army's official encouragement to all officers and enlisted men to become proficient in at least one language other than English, the Education Center at Ft. Carson is offering foreign language group study classes on post.

Beginning conversation classes in German, French, Spanish and Russian will be held on Saturday mornings from 8 to 10:30, starting Saturday and continuing until Feb. 15. Only those with little or no experience should enroll in these beginning classes.

Advanced group study classes including conversation, reading, writing, and grammar in German, French, Spanish and Russian will be held Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9. These classes begin Jan. 14, running until March 26. Only students with previous experience in one of these languages will be accepted for the advanced classes.

It was announced that military dependents and government employees may also enroll on a space-available basis.

Russian Professor Plunges in Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—A Russian philosophy professor who applied last week for asylum in this country was in critical condition at a Cambridge hospital today after a three-story fall.

Dr. Jouri Aseyef, 35, of the University of Leningrad, who has been studying at Harvard on a cultural exchange since September, plunged Thursday night from the apartment of an American friend with whom he had been staying, the State Department disclosed Friday.

Martin Cramer of the State Department confirmed that Aseyef had applied for asylum. He said there was no immediate explanation for Aseyef's plunge but added the professor's family in Leningrad "was under heavy psychological strain."

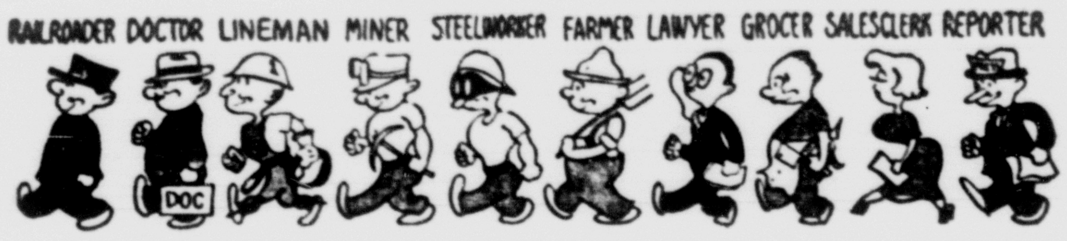
THE STORY OF TEN LITTLE FREE WORKERS

THESE ARE THE WORKERS



Ten little free workers in this country fine and fair.
But if you cherish your freedom—worker have a care!
Ten little free workers—Reddy was doing fine
Until the socialists got him—then there were nine.

Nine little free workers laughed at Reddy's fate
Along came federal medicine—then there were eight.

Eight little free workers thought this country heaven
But the government took over the railroads, then there were seven.

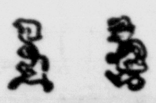
Seven little free workers—'till the miners got in a fix.
Uncle said coal's essential and took over leaving six.

Six little free workers 'till the day did arrive
The steel mills too were federalized—then there were five.

Five little free workers—but the farmers are free no more
The farms have been collectivized—that leaves only four.

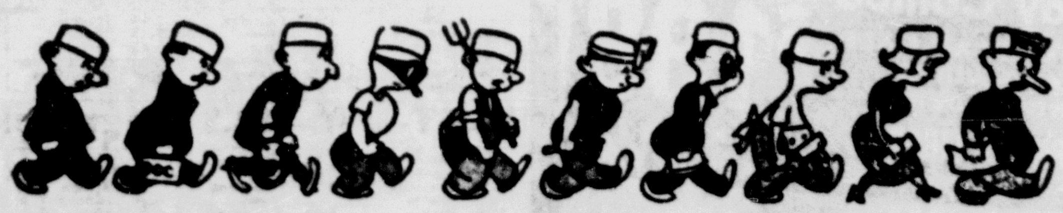
Four little free workers till the government did decree
All must have free legal advice—then there were three.

Three little free workers—the number is getting few,
But with government groceries selling food—then there were two.



Two little free workers—our story's almost done,
With clerk's at work in federal stores—that leaves only one.

One little free worker—the reporter son-of-a-gun
Mustn't criticize government—so now there are none.



Ten little workers—but they are no longer free
They work when and where ordered, and at a fixed rate you see,
And it all could have been prevented if they'd only seen fit to agree
And work together instead of saying "it never can happen to me!"

Yes . . . this could happen to you. This little story could come true unless each of us works to preserve free enterprise.

Bangs of False Hair Newest Note in Fashion

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
Associated Press Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Setting the tender trap was the subject of study Sunday by more than 200 Leap Year-minded fashion writers here for the opening sessions of Press Week.

The varied program of man-lures included big flirtatious hats, siren hairpieces, shadowy black stockings, fast track shoes and a web of intriguing costumes woven by romantic little silk worms.

The New York Couture Group and the American Designers Group are conducting competing spring previews for the writers. Somehow everybody got enough of the messages to pass them along to the girls back home.

Busts of Cleopatra watched from pedestals in a Cairo night club atmosphere as stylist Lilly Dache explained that the siren of '64 has replaced the sweet young thing of 1963.

To prove it, one sweet young thing in a basic straight hairdo blunt cut just below the ear lobe was transformed into a half-dozen different types of seductress with pin-on pieces of hair.

Not wigs, the pieces included false bangs, a cluster of back curls, Southern style, long guiche sideburns; and puffed-up pillow chignons. Disguising a headful of curlers was a pink satin head band with blonde hair cascading nearly to the waist. The quick-change hair whimsies supposedly either enchant or confuse men into surrendering.

Miss Dache's hat lures are big black mesh cartwheels festooned with black roses, or glistening black patent leather turbans, of blinding turned-down brims with peek-a-boo holes; or flower-entwined straw snoods.

The 1964 siren will avoid tans at all costs, says Miss Dache. Her skin will be pale in contrast to strong eye shadow and bright lips. Black and brown stockings will create the smoky, tantalizing leg effect under black dresses with tch-tch necklines and fluttery short skirts.

The International Silk Show presented fashion allures of temptresses around the world, ranging from Greek goddesses molded in filmy silk chiffon to harem beauties steeped in mystique and shrouded in 14-karat gold embroidered saris and veils. A Formosan danced with two long red silk veils.

But whether the fashion flavor was foreign as a fiery flamenco dancer or as American as a backyard hostess, it was utterly feminine, and naturally silk. There were rustling ruffles, lacy flounces, slithery bias-cuts, bareness, softness, gauziness, gaudiness, a little naughtiness, and some silliness.

A reminder that the married woman should not be less a temptress during Leap Year, either, was "the other woman" dress—black, of course, bare-shouldered, with two-tiers of clingy crepe.

However, the show ended appropriately with a wedding dress, giddy with white ostrich feathers, symbolic that it's the early Leap Year bird who catches the worm.

At the Millinery Institute show earlier "best hatted" women in seven categories were announced as golden hat award winners. They are: Debbie Reynolds, motion pictures; Maureen O'Sullivan, theater; Jane Morgan, popular music; Kitty Carlisle, television; Rise Stevens, classical music; Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke, society; and Mrs. Mark O. Hatfield, wife of the Oregon governor, public affairs.

The less shoe the better is the trend on foot for spring, the fashion writers learned during the National Shoe Institute program. Lace effects, latticework, and cut-outs will reduce the shoe to little more than its sole.

Picking Up Find Can Be Too Dangerous

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — Stephen Fox didn't pick up his $59,333 at police headquarters Friday. Too dangerous, he said.

The money is his share of $89,000 in unclaimed cash he turned up with his bulldozer in Jericho, Long Island, on June 2, 1960. It was in a metal box.

The state Supreme Court awarded him the sum last month. Fox said he's pick it up with an armored truck. Police armed with shotguns waited at the appointed hour.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but my client has decided against coming because of security reasons."

There is a bank 100 feet across the street from police headquarters.

SUPERIOR PERFORMANCE—Lee Sayre, secretary to the North American Air Defense Command Director of Communications receives a certificate of superior performance from U.S. Army Brig. Gen. William B. Latte, NORAD deputy chief of staff for communications and electronics. The award was made to Miss Sayre for outstanding performance of her duties during the one year period, Nov. 19,1962 until Nov. 19, 1963. Employed at the NORAD headquarters since May 1961, Miss Sayre resides at 1131 North Cascade Ave.

Looking at Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

FILMLAND'S 'MR. CIRCUS,' FRANK WHITBECK, DIES

HOLLYWOOD — "The last of the giants is gone," was the way one friend of Frank Whitbeck described his passing. No Hollywood tycoon ever commanded the love, respect, and admiration enjoyed by Frank. He was the heart of this business — never had an enemy. Whitbeck was at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer 32 years, adding color and glamor to all their premieres, narrating trailers with his exciting, sexy voice, making friends for Hollywood wherever he went, and most of all, looking after his girls, the elephants that used to live on the back lot. Judy Garland told me he introduced her to elephants: 'He was so kind and gentle." Joe Pasternak says of him. "Frank loved pictures, elephants, and people — and I loved him." From Director David Miller: "He was truly a man of peace."

The Mailman, an old pal, sat in his living room the other day waiting for Frank to finish a letter to the man who got him his first theater job in 1920. Whitbeck had heard his benefactor was in a bad way financially, and sent him a check. He never finished the letter. He died at 1:30 in the afternoon. At the same moment Lucille Ball was finishing a business conference in which she'd proposed the idea of getting Frank, the town's greatest authority on circuses, to do a sequence for "Greatest Show." Years ago, he'd told her a circus story; she planned to call and see if he'd put it on paper: "Imissed him by an hour," she said.

M-G-M retired him at 65 — big business does that to so many fine people. He had money and friends, but his heart was in the razzle-dazzle of show business. He never really adjusted to a life of ease.

In my den is a purple elephant Frank sent me. When I look at it, I'll remember a wonderful man, a great asset to Hollywood. He loved the piace. It was the closest thing to a circus he could find outside the big tent.

Carolyn Jones spent Christmas with her mother, but Aaron Spelling surprised her with a diamond bracelet. "Ten years is 10 years," he said. "I couldn't dislike her, no matter what. When she was doing well and I wasn't, she helped me; introduced me to people, spent money on me."

We were saddened to learn that Van Johnson goes into Memorial hospital in New York City the middle of January for another operation. He had surgery here five months ago and thought he was entirely cured, but, alas, no. Van will play a night club in Canada before entering the hospital.

Mary Carr, of "Over the Hill" fame, writes: "After reading of Bing Crosby's mother's illness and his discovery of her real age, I thought, wow! She has a year and three months on me, so I said a prayer of thanks with the hope that I make my 90th. If I continue in my present state of health, may even make 100."

Joe X. Hymas, back from London where he wrote about Elke Sommer, says, "In terms of sex appeal she has all the other girls standing still." He picked up a story that Kim Novak collects bats — pins them on her wall. Hymas, who's had run-ins with many movie stars, including Ava Gardner, is taking fencing lessons. Is it a warning — or just for exercise that Bob Hope's daughter, Linda, is in his class?

Gilbert Roland's two talented daughters are moving here to pursue their careers. Linda's a sculptress-painter, Gyl an actress already set for the Peyton Place series on TV. Their mother, in case you forgot is Constance Bennett.

Sidney Poitier's so busy back east he won't have time to come here and campaign for the Oscar. He doesn't have to — his performance in "Lilies of the Field" does that for him.

BIGGEST GAME

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The hunter's determination finally won out for Dorsey Prescott, who has hunted bear in Alaska, and other game throughout the United States.

He made his most serious hunt when he discovered his wallet was missing after a day of hunting near Punta Gorda. Rainy weather did not stop his hunt on Sunday, Monday or Tuesday. On Wednesday he tried one last time.

"We circled a flooded area, came upon a trail I recognized, found a spot where we had stopped the jeep—and there, 10 feet away, was my wallet with money and important papers intact," he said.

The meat and poultry industry payroll is $1.5 billion a year in the United States.

Metals Hopeful on Sales Profits During 1964

By ROBERT J. REGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — United States non-ferrous metals companies enter 1964 with a greatly improved price structure, a hardly burdensome inventory position, and hopes for better sales and profits.

With the start of the second quarter of 1963, the industry broke out in a rash of price hikes that pushed up tags on aluminum, lead, and zinc at the primary level, and a broad range of products at the semi-fabricated and finished product level.

Aluminum, for instance, made considerable headway toward recovering ground lost in price areas during the final third of 1962. Not all aluminum's efforts were successful, however. The December retreat by Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp. from its one cent per pound price advance was the most notable example.

Kaiser's retreat was forced by the reluctance of Aluminum Co. of America to raise its primary price while "the present world supply of metal is too abundant to make such an increase realistic."

A half-cent increase initiated by Reynolds Metals Co. a few weeks earlier did stick, however, enabling domestic producers to recapture at least a third of the 1½ cents per pound cut forced by stiff internal and import competition in December, 1962.

The aluminum producers and fabricators marked up prices on a wide range of semis in 1963, but stressed that they had only partially recovered larger reductions in 1962.

In the production and shipment columns, however, aluminum outdid itself. Monthly and quarterly production records toppled in quick succession and new annual peaks in consumption and production for 1963 as a whole were assured. By the three-quarter mark, the industry was shipping ingot and mill products at an annual rate of 3.37 million tons, compared to actual shipments of 2,836,000 tons in 1962. Kaiser, Alcoa, and Reynolds each indicated expectations of an even better year in 1964.

The key word in the copper industry in 1963 was price stability and this is also likely to be the watchword for 1964. The 31-cents per pound tag on Electrolytic copper in the U.S. will celebrate its third birthday in May 1964. This stability stands in sharp contrast to the metal performance in the preceding several years and fulfills one of the copper industry's most desired goals.

Twin cornerstones of this stability are the price support program for copper on the London Metal Market started by African Copperbelt producers in 1961, and disciplined production schedules here and abroad. Copper producers give no sign that any change in policy is contemplated in the foreseeable future.

There are also uncertainties in key copper producing areas outside the U.S. which may come to a head in 1964. The political situation in the former Rhodesian Federation is in a state of flux almost matching that in the Congo. Toward the end of 1962, there were press reports that Chile, another large copper producer and the site of large Kennecott Copper Corp. and Anaconda Co. mines and plants, could possibly emerge with a Communist government after the 1964 elections.

Zinc and lead prices moved up 1½ cents and 2½ cents per pound respectively during 1963, recovering from levels considered severely depressed by the industry in 1962. Demand for both metals rose sharply in 1963 with a strong assist from the automotive industries and further improvement is looked for in 1964, although further price rises are expected to be fewer and farther between.

Taxpayers May Help Pay for Wheat Transport

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's still not clear whether American taxpayers will help pay the ocean freight on 37 million bushels of U.S. wheat sold to the Soviet Union.

The sale is for cash, about $78.5 million. But it is not a simple cash sale.

The deal involves about $26 million in government subsidies—money which Uncle Sam originally got from those who pay taxes. What's not clear at the moment is whether the $26 million includes any of the cost of moving the grain from American to Soviet shores.

The sale was disclosed Friday by both the Agriculture Department and the Continental Grain Co., the big New York grain company that engineered the deal with the government's blessing.

The wheat sold the Russians will have a value of about $90 million at U.S. ports. The Soviet Union will pay approximately $68.5 million for the grain delivered at their ports.

For years the Agriculture Department has been offering export subsidies on wheat because U.S. prices have been held above comparative world levels by grower price-support programs. Exporters have been able to make sales abroad only when the subsidies were sufficient to make up the difference between the higher U.S. prices and the lower world prices.

But the size of the subsidy approved for the Continental sale appeared to be larger than necessary to make up the difference between the domestic and world prices. The subsidy goes to the seller, not the buyer.

When the late President John F. Kennedy directed last fall that Soviet-bloc areas be made eligible for export subsidies, he specified that half the grain sold such areas be moved in U.S.-flag ships to the extent available.

The Russians balked at use of American boats because their freight rates are higher than those of foreign vessels. For a time it appeared that Soviet sales might not develop because of the freight question.

The possibility that the Continental deal may carry indirect freight subsidies to meet Soviet opposition to the higher rates of U.S. ships was seen in the export subsidies the department will pay on nearly 13 million bushels of durum-class wheat involved in the Soviet sale.

The department agreed to pay a subsidy averaging 72.5 cents a bushel on the durum. This was upwards of 15 cents more than the agency had paid on other recent subsidized sales of this type wheat. Durum is used for making macaroni, spaghetti and similar products.

This extra amount in the durum subsidy was equivalent to about $1,750,000 based on the difference between recent subsidy payments and that approved for Continental.

The subsidy rates on the remaining part of the 37 million bushels range from 51 to 65 cents a bushel, depending on class of wheat and ports from which it will be shipped. The other types are used mainly for flour for bread and other baking purposes.

Jewelry for Gentlemen Shows Wide Price Range

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nice thing about jewelry as a Christmas gift for men is the price range. You can get tie tacks and tie clips as low as $2 or $3 or you can pay up to about $19,000 for a Swiss watch with a diamond forming the crystal.

For evening wear watches are studded with diamonds and the price can be monumental. But there are handsome wrist watches as low as $10 to $15.

Here are some specific jewelry suggestions:

Tiffany's has a pair of cufflinks with a cultured pearl about the size of a large pea (around 9 millimeters) in a ring of small diamonds set in platinum for $1,450 the pair and matching studs for $285. Cartier's has a pair of cufflinks with black pearls, tapered baguette diamonds and platinum settings for $4,000. George Jensen has a pair as low as $22 and you can get a tie tack with a pearl for only $5.

If you get off into the field of Swiss watches you can find anything from chronographs with many dials to watches with polished wood dials (Ideal-$500) to skeleton movements with front and back crystals (Audemars Piguet - $1,350) to skin divers watches with a decompression gauge on the dial and an alarm that can be heard 600 feet under water.

For a homesick traveler Ardath has a double dial. One shows local time and the other "home" time. ($125). A unitime watch shows the time anywhere in the world. Another is a bivouac watch for parachute jumping and other strenuous outdoor sports.

Not quite in the jewelry department but Shields, Inc., has three automatic items: A battery-operated Shine - O - Matic shoe shiner ($5.95), a battery-operated hand vauum cleaner ($5.95) and a battery-powered Reflect -o - Matic safety signal with four plastic reflectors and a metal stand for road emergencies. The top rotate ($7.95).

In the smoking division there is an antique pistol lighter ($6.95), a giant executive lighter ($12.95), a Rolls-Royce cigarette container and lighter ($10.95) and a 1910 Model T Ford lighter which lights when you blow the born ($5.95).

Some leather suggestions by Dante: a pocket secretary with ball point pen ($7.50); pass case billfold ($7.50), key shield with pocket ($3), flat fold wallet ($7.50). There are "salute the Americas" cuff links and tie tack sest ranging from $10 to $37.50 — American agate, jade, hematite, mosaics from North America and black onyx, striped agate, lapiz and topaz from South America.

For the man who wants to know about tomorrow's weather the Taylor Instrument Co., has a "stormoscope" barometer ($65) in which the most common pressure range between 29 and 31 inches has been magnified so you can see the pointer jump.

For a man who wants to take his hi-fi with him Pilot Radio Corp., has one in an airplane luggage type case with a Garrard record changer and speakers for monaural and stereo records with space for an AM-FM stereo tuner. ($199). Standard Radio has the world's tiniest 8 - transistor superheterodyne radio which is about the size of a book of matches and weighs about the same as a lipstick ($39.95). Standard also has a 3-band portable fishermen, boatmen and hunters which weighs 3½ pounds ($99.-95).

Some ideas in the clothing field: A "boiled wool" sweater with a thickly felted surface impervious to wind and dampness (Pebble Beach - $17.95); double-knits which include cardigan and turtleneck pullover (Coventry, $21), a cropped Eisenhower jacket (Sebastian, $20), tailored sports jackets (McGregor, about $25).

If that's too expensive there are other ideas in wool—knitted headbands for $2, knitted gloves with leather palms for $6, wool mittens, socks and turtleneck dickeys.

In the shoe field Bates makes -a shearling - lined water-repellent after ski boot worn by the Olympic team ($15), a hand-sewn loafter type slipover for $17. For an evening at home Mr. Oomphies by Danvers has a shiny patent slip on. There is also a hair seal after ski boot with acrilic fleece lining and one inch padded sole ($15). An especially comfortable one for the man who isn't doing anything at all is a loden green glove leather slipon $18). Nunn-Bush has a moccasin toe slip-on and concealed elastic gore and stitching around vamp and toe ($23.95); Edwin Clapp has a three-eyelet moc in black or brown llama ($34).

O'Briens to Note Third of Century Of Marriage

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This month Eloise and Pat O'Brien celebrate a third of a century of marital union in a town not noted for lengthy marriages.

Thirty-three years, four children and six grandchildren later, the O'Briens seem as devoted as newlyweds. They now work together, and that has made their marriage even more solid than before.

"We met when I reported to the Chicago Company of Broadway in 1927," O'Brien recalled. "I saw this beautiful doll walk through the stage door and I patted her on the dierriere. She slapped my face, and that's how it all started."

They were married Jan. 21, 1931," after Pat had risen to stage fame and then made the leap to movies. As Eloise Taylor, Mrs. O'Brien also did some films, then retired to be wife and mother.

Twenty-five years passed, and Pat found that his stage and night club appearances kept him away from home much of the time. When he got an offer for a Midwest play, he asked her: "Why don't you appear in it with me?"

"Oh, I don't know," she said. "It's been so long."

"Well, give it a try."

In the past five years the O'Briens have appeared together all over the country in such plays as "Our Town," "Holiday for Lovers" and "Father of the Bride."

Pat is celebrating another event Wednesday night. He appears in his first Western—"The Virginian" on NBC.

"I don't know how I ever missed Westerns in my years at Warners," he said. "Cagney and Bogie did one, but I never did."

The fruit-and-vegetable plant industry has 172,400 employes in the United States and a payroll of $591 million a year.

(a) Transferred by board action from operations and maintenance to general fund expenses.

We have examined the above Statement of Cash Receipts and Disbursements of the Rock Creek Mesa Water District for the fiscal year ended November 30, 1963.

Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, applicable to cash basis statements, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the statement presents fairly the recorded cash transactions of the District for the fiscal year ended November 30, 1963, and correctly states the cash position of the District as of that date.

In compliance with Section 66-1-3 (b), Colorado Revised Statutes, 1953, as amended (1963) the Colorado State Board of Public Health will hold a public hearing at the State Department of Public Health Building, Room 105, 4210 East 11th Avenue, Denver, Colorado, January 13, 1964, at 2:00 o'clock P.M., to develop standards for the quality of the air in this state, including the maximum allowable standards of emissions from motor vehicles, at which all interested persons will be afforded the opportunity to appear and file statements or be heard.

Dated this 10th day of December, A.D. 1963.

Dr. Roy L. Cleere
Secretary, Colorado
State Board of Health

LEGAL NOTICE

Burglar Takes Money From Salvation Army

RUTLAND, Vt. (AP) — The Rutland Herald reported that a burglar who looted a laundry took a Salvation Army collection box.

The story drew a letter to the editor, which said, in part:

"In that article, the proprietor of the laundry states that a Salvation Army container was taken by the thief. Well, this is entirely untrue as I had no intention of stealing any such charity box.

"I brushed it off the counter upon leaving. The Salvation Army does good work with almost nothing in the way of funds.

"If you would be so kind as to print a retraction I would be eternally grateful."

The letter was unsigned.

Costa Rica Volcano Erupts Once Again

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) —Irazu volcano, whose constant activity has brought this Central American republic to the edge of a national emergency, erupted anew this weekend.

The fresh eruptions Saturday and late Friday thickened the cloud of volcanic ash that makes this capital city of 250,000 seem wrapped in fog.

In noisy, fiery eruptions could be seen and heard from San Jose, 30 miles away. Hundreds of rocks too hot to touch were showered down the mountainside.

Russian Peace Offensive Aimed At West, China

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia's 1964 peace offensive is aimed primarily at the United States and Communist China, Western diplomats said.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev kicked off the campaign with a four-point, 4,000-word appeal to heads of government to ban force in settling territorial disputes.

(In Washington, the State Department said the Khrushchev initiative represented a slanted approach to the problem of settling territorial disputes.

(There was no immediate Peking reaction to the proposal.)

Western analysts here said the proposal represented an apparent new departure in Soviet policy since it suggests disapproval of armed settlement of border and territorial disputes regardless of the merits of the case.

The four-point project included a provision that no foreign territory should be the object of invasion, attack, or military occupation.

As applied to the United States, this would appear to require a withdrawal of U.S. forces from South Vietnam, South Korea and overseas bases—particularly the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba.

The general terms of the proposal also would appear to preclude the use of force to defend access to Berlin, according to initial U.S. State Department reaction.

SUNDAY VETERAN

GREENVILLE, Ill. (UPI) — Mrs. Fred Woker has taught Sunday school for 50 years. She has in her class grandchildren of some of her former pupils.

She started teaching at St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Beaver Prairie, Ill., where her father was pastor. Now she's at Redeemer Lutheran Church, Greenville.

It Could Happen Only in Nut House

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — It could only happen in a nut house. A female clerk wielding a pound of peanut brittle routed a holdup man.

Police said Gladys McKinney of Covington, Ky., was working at Morrow's Nut House downtown Sunday night when a man came and asked for two pounds of peanut brittle.

She put one pound on a scoop scale. The man pulled a revolver and told her to forget the rest of the candy and open the cash register.

Mrs. McKinney threw the scoopful of peanut brittle in the man's face and screamed. He fled.

RECEIVES MEDAL — M. Sgt. Ralph O. Albin received the Air Force Commendation Medal recently from Maj. Gen. Benjamin J. Webster, Air Defense Command Chief of Staff, for his meritorious service while stationed at Truax Field, Wisc., in ADC's 30th Air Division. From Oct. 9, 1961 to June 28, 1963, Sergeant Albin was instrumental in the mechanization program for 30th Air Division consolidated base personnel offices and developed a mechanized system to expedite recording of promotion board scores, priority listings and score sheets. He was cited for his "ingenuity, personal initiative, job knowledge and management ability." (U.S. Air Force Photo)

Three Fishermen Float On Huge Ice Floe

GLASTONBURY, Conn. (AP) —Three perch fishermen spent several frantic minutes floating down the Connecticut River on a giant cake of ice.

Charles Gilmore, 64, Hartford, Peter H. Phillips, 56, Glastonbury, and an unidentified man were fishing from an outcropping of ice Sunday when an oil tanker came around a bend in the river.

"We grabbed our things and headed for shore," Phillips said "but before we could make it there was a big boom and the ice broke off from the shore."

Phillips said the floe was about 12 inches thick and a quarter of an acre in area. He said they floated down the river for about 200 yards before two men in a motorboat rescued them.

Despite the scare, Phillips said it was a pretty good day, explaining: "We caught five gallons of perch."

FEWER FARMERS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The farm revolution keeps rolling. Melvin Briggs of the Federal Farm Credit Board thinks the farm population will drop another 5 per cent in a dozen years. He figures that corn belt farms will average 400 to 600 acres then and that more people will actually live in rural areas than now, but most will be non-farmers.

Burglar Collects Parking Lot Fees

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A young man broke into a downtown parking lot office. Cars began to pull into the lot. Pretending he was an empoyee, he parked the cars and collected 50 cents from each driver.

Police said Sunday the man fled with about $20 in parking fees and the change from a soft drink machine.

Troops for Borneo Requested in Britain

LONDON (AP)—Britain has asked Australia and New Zealand to send troops to Malaysia's Borneo states, but the two Commonwealth partners are reportedly reluctant to meet the British request.

Britain fears an outbreak of war between Malaysia and Indonesia, which share the island of Borneo. There have been numerous incidents along the Malaysia - Indonesia frontier in North Borneo since the British-protected Federation of Malaysia gained nationhood last September.

Nutrition Research Can Help Wives Save Husbands' Hearts

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Food Nutrition Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The old-fashioned mother's advice to the bride, "Feed the brute," is outdated. Today's young wife needs to be more than a fancy cook.

To keep her youthful husband in peak physical condition and to prevent circumstances that might lead to heart attacks at an early age, the modern bride needs the guidance of medical and nutrition research. Thanks to the nutrition and health columns of newspapers and magazines and to reliable popular books, this guidance is easily available.

Theodore B. Van Itallie, M.D., director of medicine at New York's St. Luke Hospital, says research studies now in progress will help young adults find out whether heart attacks can be avoided or delayed thru intelligent diet planning and regular physical activity.

"If such a program is found effective, it will mean attention must be given to diet and activity from early adulthood on, or even earlier, since coronary disease often has its beginnings in the teens."

Altho diet is believed to be the major environmental factor affecting the blood level of cholesterol and other fats implicated in heart disease, physical activity also may be important. Dr. Van Itallie adds:

"There is evidence that a physically active person can eat richer and higher calorie diets with great safety than can a sedentary one."

He cites studies made in Switzerland of hard-working farmers. Their diets were higher in dairy fats and calories than those of men of the same age leading more sedentary lives in the nearby city of Basel. Even so, the farmers had a lower cholesterol level.

There is still only circumstantial or inferential evidence that lowering cholesterol levels by diet or other means will reduce heart disease. But if you accept — as many scientists do — evidence and believe it possible to delay the rate of progression of heart trouble by keeping the cholesterol low then the earlier you start the better."

Because young persons with high cholesterol levels have a greater risk of developing heart disease than individuals of the same age and sex with low levels, the doctor believes the determination of blood cholesterol levels can be a useful part of the annual physical examination.

"If a young person's cholesterol is high, he should consult his doctor about a suitable table diet and other measures to help reduce it," advises Dr. Van Itallie, who is also associate clinical professor of medicine at Columbia University.

There are many reasons why regular physical activity is desirable from the health standpoint, but such exercise must be part of the daily program and not merely reserved for occasional weekends and vacations.

To young wives Dr. Van Itallie says, "Encourage your husband to get regular exercise by walking more, playing golf, swimming, bowling — whatever form of activity he gets most fun out of. Join him as often as possible. Make planned physical activity a way of your young married life."

The promise in Dr. Van Itallie's advice, as well as that of many other leading medical and nutrition researchers, is this:

Intelligent diet and regular physical activity can keep young hearts younger longer.

Don't worry about any probable bad effects of exercise on your heart. "Exercise and Health," published by the American Medical Association researchers, state:

Despite the popular belief to the contrary, the life expectancy of athletes (persons exposed to vigorous exercise) is as high as the average expectancy, and excluding accidents, is probably higher than the average.

Vigorous exercise reasonably applied under rational conditions will not damage healthy young hearts. Proper exercise as a way of life helps to keep healthy hearts healthy and to prevent the onset of cardiovascular disease.

To burn up thru exercise 100 calories of the food he has eaten, a 180-pound person can do any of the following:

Walk at 2 miles an hour for 30 minutes.

Bicycle at moderate speed for 21 minutes.

Dance the waltz for 18 minutes.

Walk downstairs for 14 minutes.

Saw wood for 11 minutes.

Swim for 10 minutes.

Walk upstairs for 4.6 minutes.

The heavier one is, the more calories are used in any given time in activities involving the use of the entire body. A 250-pound person would spend 100 calories in walking at 2 miles an hour for 21 minutes instead of the 30 minutes required by the 180-pounder.

The next installment tomorrow.

Gate Two Will Soon Be Opened At Ft. Carson

Troops returning to Ft. Carson after holiday leaves are greeted with an open highway at Gate 2 as the $392,000 cloverleaf nears completion.

Deputy post engineer Robert Watson said that the road into Gate 2 should be open within the week. The overpass bridges Ft. Carson and the NORAD "Hard Site".

The project was begun in March by Segrist Company of Denver, using Federal Highway funds and Army - Air Force money. Gate 2 has been closed since July 1.

the interchange includes three miles of loops, ramps and two to three — lane roadways. The cloverleaf will accommodate both Fort Carson and NORAD's Combat Operations Center in Cheyenne Mountain.

The ground surrounding the asphaltic pavement interchange has been landscaped and seeded.

Gate 2 at Ft. Carson has been moved 1500 feet back from Highway 115 to make room for the traffic interchange.

At the same time, opening of the Harrison Interchange to Circle Drive and Highway 24 was another New Years present for Carson drivers who travel regularly to and from the northeastern sector of the city and to Peterson Air Field.

Food for Fitness Means Daily Nutritional Meals

By Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

No matter how old or young, how heavy or slight, you need some food every day from each of four basic food groups. They are all supermarket foods, familiar and pleasant to eat. Plan your meals around them daily, eating more or less of them according to your calorie limitations. But eat some food from each group every day. That is the basic nutritional rule for physical fitness.

MILK GROUP

Children, 3 to 4 cups
Teen-agers, 4 or more cups
Adults, 2 or more cups

MEAT GROUP

2 or more servings of beef, veal, pork, lamb, poultry, fish, eggs.

As alternates — dry beans, dry peas, nuts.

VEGETABLE GROUP

4 or more servings. Include a citrus fruit or other fruit or vegetable important for vitamin C; a dark-green or deep yellow vetetable for vitamin A (at least every other day); other vegetables and fruits, including potatoes.

BREAD CEREAL GROUP

4 or more servings of whole grain, enriched or restored. This group includes cornmeal, crackers, grits, macaroni and spaghetti, noodles, rice, etc. Also quick breads and other baked goods made with whole grain or enriched flour.

To round out meals and satisfy the appetite, use some foods not specified — butter, margarine, other fats, oils, sugars or unenriched refined grain products. These are often ingredients in baked goods and mixed dishes. Fats, oils and sugars are also added to foods during preparation and at table.

These "other" foods supply calories and can add to total nutrients in meals.

Use this 1,500-calorie menu pattern as base for easy planning of balanced and calorie-limited menus according to your particular tastes and requirements. For the average woman about 1,500 calories a day is about right, for the average moderately active man, about 2,200 calories is enough.

Those sample menus for breakfast, luncheon and dinner demonstrate how the foods from the four basic food groups — Foods for Fitness — can be incorporated in normal supermarket meals. Add or subtract foods according to your weight range.

BREAKFAST

Citrus fruit or tomato
Egg, 1
Whole-wheat or enriched bread, 1 slice
Butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon
Cereal, ½ cup with milk (part of total 1 pint for day)
Coffee or tea

LUNCH

Lean meat or meat substitute, 2 ounces
Vegetable or salad

BREAKFAST

Whole-wheat or enriched bread, 1 slice
Butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon
Fruit
Whole milk (part of total allowed for day)
Coffe eor tea

DINNER

Lean meat or meat substitute 3 ounces
Vegetable
Potato, 1 small
Salad
Whole-wheat or enriched bread, 1 slice
Butter or enriched margarine, 2 teaspoons
Fruit
Whole milk (part of total allowed for the day)
Coffee or tea

Cow Stomach Yields Diet of Hardware

COLLETE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—The second stomach of cows often contains so many metallic objects it has come to be known as the "hardware basket," Texas A&M University reports.

The university says sharp objects can work from the stomach into the heart of the animal, resulting in death.

ADC Receives Talbott Award For Procurement

Maj. Gen. Von R. Shores, Air Defense Command Deputy Chief of Staff, Materiel, received the Brig. Gen. Nelson S. Talbott Award from Lt. Gen. Thomas P. Gerrity, Hq. USAF Deputy Chief of Staff for Supply and Logistics, in Washington, D.C. Friday.

The Talbott Award is given for general excellence or outstanding performance in major air command central procurement activities. This is the first time that Air Defense Command has ever won the semi-annual award.

A contributing factor in winning this award was ADC's outstanding work in connection with the relocatable housing program.

Command purchasing officials were charged with procuring approximately 1000 relocatable houses for Air Force use in various locations across the nation. The success of their efforts is evidenced by tonight's award.

Pope Urges World Peace, Church Unity As He Concludes Journey to Holy Land

CHRISTIAN LEADERS MEET — Pope Paul VI, left, leader of 550 million Roman Catholics, and Patriarch Athenagoras I, leader of 250 million Orthodox believers, are shown as they met in Jerusalem. The meeting was the second between the church leaders during Pope Paul's three-day Holy Land pilgrimage. They hailed the end of centuries of silence between their churches.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

BETHLEHEM (AP) — From the birthplace of Christ, Pope Paul VI appealed to world leaders today to keep peace in the world and for Christians to unite.

Packing history into the last day of his three-day pilgrimage of peace to the Holy Land, the supreme pontiff of 550 million Roman Catholics returned to Jerusalem to join Patriarch Athenagoras I, spiritual leader of world orthodoxy, in praying that their meetings will be a "prelude of things to come for the glory of God."

These were the final highlights of the Pope's unprecedented visit to the Holy Land, for then he drove to Amman, the Jordan capital, and flew back home.

As his historic three-day pilgrimage in the Holy Land neared its end, the 66-year-old pontiff issued greetings of good will to all men—Christians and non-believers. Departing from his prepared text, he called on the world's chiefs of state to press for peace.

The Pope urged Roman Catholics to do all they can to revitalize their church in the quest for unity and appealed to non-Catholic Christians to join in the cause.

"Today the will of Christ is pressing upon us and obliging us to do all that we can, with love and wisdom, to bring to all Christians the supreme blessing and honor of a united church," he said.

The Pope journeyed the winding road from Jerusalem to Bethlehem on the Feast of Epiphany, commemorating the visit of the three wise men to the manger and the first manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles.

Thousands thronged the town of Christ's birth for the pontiff's historic visit and for Orthodox Christmas Eve services starting three hours after the Pope's visit. Jordanian troops and police took extraordinary precautions to prevent the mob scene that threatened the Pope's safety in the old city of Jerusalem Saturday.

Coils of barbed wire, iron barriers and rows of armed troops ringed Manger Square outside the Church of the Nativity. Police and troops closed the winding road from Jerusalem long before the Pope's arrival, and only about 2,000 children and other spectators were allowed in the square. Surrounding rooftops and streets were jammed.

Robed in red, Pope Paul stooped to enter the doorway of the old church—less than four feet high—and descended the 16 worn steps to the Grotto of the Nativity to celebrate Mass.

The pontiff knelt at the Chapel of the Manger in the cave, 34 feet by 12 feet. Nearby, sunk in the marble floor, was the 14-point silver star of Bethlehem which tradition says marks the spot where Christ was born.

The Pope's voice was loud and resonant as he uttered the ancient words of the Mass. Loudspeakers carried it to the crowd in the church above and to the throng outside.

After the Mass, the Pope made his address in the presence of the 12 persons with him in the grotto. His words were carried by loudspeaker to worshipers in the Church of St Catherine above and to the crowd outside.

"This is the historic hour in which the Church must live her profound and visible unity," the Pope said.

"It is the hour in which we must correspond with the wish of Jesus Christ 'that they may be perfectly one, so that the world may know, Father, that it is Thou who has sent me."

The pontiff reiterated what the late Pope John XXIH had made clear when he called the Vatican Ecumenical Council for Christian unity—that the Roman Catholic Church would not abandon what it considers basic truths.

"Yet we declare once again," said Pope Paul, "that we are ready to consider every reason-

2,000 Exhibits Arranged at Stock Show

DENVER (UPI)—Officials of the 58th annual National Western Stock Show say they will have more than 2,000 exhibitions from 35 states at their nine-day show opening Friday in Denver. Gen. Manager Willard Simms says an estimated 15,000 persons are expected to attend the first day's show and about 160,000 are expected for the entire event. Spectators will watch 412 cowboys from 20 states riding for more than $70,000 in rodeo prize money.

Multi-Millionaire Stabbed to Death; Sister-in-Law Held

Bartholomae, whose cattle, oil and mining fortune was estimated at $11 million, was found Sunday morning with two stab wounds in his abdomen.

On the floor beside him was his sister-in-law, who later told police she had fainted.

Police said Carmen told them that when Bartholomae, wearing a bathrobe and pajamas, entered the kitchen she was standing at the kitchen sink preparing breakfast.

"He didn't look good," she said.

She said she remembers holding two knives and seeing Bartholomae "tumbling" before she fainted.

She remembers nothing more

1,500 Stranded In Indianapolis Greyhound Strike

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—About 1,500 travelers were stranded in the Indianapolis bus terminal up to 22 hours Sunday when 200 Greyhound drivers walked off the job.

By the time drivers agreed to return to work Sunday night, all but 100 of the passengers had been accommodated by rival lines. Most of the buses tied up had left by midnight.

Many of the stranded travelers were service men and women, college students and parents with dozing babies returning from long holiday vacations.

"I could just scream," said Mrs. Richard Hoveland, 18, St. Paul, Minn., after she had been waiting seven hours. She and her 13-month-old daughter were returning from a trip to Charleston S.C.

"I was absolutely stranded with no money," the young mother explained. "Somebody stood in line for me a good hour or more to get a ticket transfer."

R. S. Armstrong, New York Utilities clerk from Denville, N.J., complained, "If I don't get to work by Monday morning, I'll lose my job." Armstrong was returning from a vacation trip in San Francisco.

There was no warning of the walkout. About 100 baggage clerks, ticket agents and other terminal employes joined the drivers in the work stoppage shortly before midnight Saturday. All are members of Local 1211, Motor Coach Employes Division. Both union and management officials blamed the walkout on disputed working conditions and rules interpretations.

Passengers expecting a few minutes layover found it stretching into hours. Card games sprang up to while away the time. Some passengers milled around sipping coffee to stay awake. Others slept.

Indianapolis is the crossroads for major east-west and north-south routes. "This is the hub," said driver Jim Larent. It's the criss-cross point for all over. They feel it."

Goldwater Will Launch Campaign In Grand Rapids

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater launches his campaign for the White House tonight — after vowing that if he gets there and finds it "to our advantage" he will renounce the limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

The Arizona senator, his sights trained on the Republican presidential nomination, makes his first speech as a candidate tonight before a GOP fund-raising dinner at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Tuesday he turns to the top target in his quest for the nomination: New Hampshire. Goldwater plans to spend three days there campaigning for votes in the March 10 presidential primary that will be the nation's first of 1964.

"Gov. Rockefeller is used to giving money away and I'm not, that's the difference," Goldwater said in calling for revision of the U.N. charter to force its members to pay their dues or lose their votes.

Goldwater also took a crack at President Johnson, calling his government economy drive a show with little substance.

"He is putting up a good front," the senator said. "The neon lights are blinking and the tilt balls are rolling, but he is not an economizer."

Goldwater, one of 19 senators who voted against ratification of the treaty that outlaws nuclear tests in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space, said in the NBC television interview program Meet the Press that his vote on the test ban was sound.

"I still think it is of no advantage to the United States," he

Legislature Will Be Asked to Cut State Spending

By JOHN M. NOLAN

DENVER (UPI) — The 1964 Colorado Legislature convenes Wednesday to tighten the state's purse-strings and to consider a flock of proposals aimed at making drastic changes in the way Colorado government is run.

Republicans will be at the helm again when gavels fall at 10 a.m. to open the second session of the 44th General Assembly. It's the year for the so-called short or financial session, but a heavy work load may keep legislators at their desks for more than two months.

GOP Gov. John Love will deliver his "state of the state" message early in the session, possibly before the end of the week. He plans to deliver his message on the budget later in a separate address. He may meet with GOP legislators early this week for a pre-session caucus.

There are many thorny problems to be decided by the Legislature, but finances appears to be one of the toughest.

Berlin Wall Sealed Again By East German Commies

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Communists sealed the Berlin wall again today, ending 17 days of joyous family reunions and heart-breaking partings.

A record number of more than a quarter million West Berliners poured into the Communist zone Sunday — the last day for visits under a Christmas agreement negotiated between the West Berlin city government and the Communist East German regime. The crossings started Dec. 19.

The crush was so big that tens of thousands returning to West Berlin were still waiting at the snow-covered Communist checkpoints when the visiting period expired at midnight.

Authorities said 1,318,000 permits were issued for crossings, but many West Berliners made several trips.

"The honeymoon is over," observed a Westerner.

There were flickering hopes the West Berlin government could negotiate a new agreement with the Reds in talks scheduled to start this week.

The Western allies, who are responsible for the security of West Berlin, have given their blessings to the talks. But they have warned Mayor Willy Brandt not to jeopardize the Western stand against recognition of the East German Communist regime.

The Communists have tried to use previous talks to support their theory that there are three Germany's — East, West and a "free city" of Berlin.

They have also been using the reunions to feed their propaganda mill, claiming the crossings were made possible by Communist humanitarianism.

Under the expired agreement, only West Berliners with close relatives were permitted to make the crossings. For many it was their first family reunion since construction of the wall on Aug. 13, 1961.

"I wish I had not gone over there," sobbed a West Berlin optician after returning from a reunion with his wife. "The parting with my wife was horrible. We don't know when we will see each other again."

A worker who returned with his wife and baby after seeing his parents said: "we cried and cried. The wounds were opened

Attorney's Pay In Newcomer Case Is Ordered

A Denver Federal District Court Judge today ordered the trustee of the Joe Newcomer Finance Co. to pay attorney's fees in a foreclosure suit against the defunct firm.

Judge Hatfield Chilson ordered Fred M. Betz to pay Attorney Dale Holst $500 on or before June 9 of this year.

Holst represented Charlotte and Roy Pring in a foreclosure suit against the company last July. The JNFC was late in making its annual payment to the Prings on the Columbine Estates which is the most valuable piece of property in possession of the bankrupt company.

The annual payment was due June 9, 1963, a little over a month after the Newcomer firm was closed by the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission. When the payment was not made on time, the Prings sought to foreclose and relclaim the property.

The following month, the JNFC Creditors Committee petitioned the court to order Betz to pay off the mortgage on the note for the estates. Betz was strongly opposed to the petition and the Judge disallowed it without prejudice to the committee to reenter the petition at a later date.

Following the aborted foreclosure action, Holst sought to gain his fee from the company and later filed a petition in federal court asking that the company pay him.

Judge Chilson today ordered Betz to pay the attorney on or before June 9 of this year which is also the date for the annual payment to the Prings.

Betz is expected to file plans for reorganization of the company early next month at which time a federal judge will rule on the reorganization or declare the company bankrupt.

Johnson Prepares For Big Battle With Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson was back at his White House desk today, preparing for what may be a grueling January to December job: trying to get Congress to enact his legislative program.

Johnson will outline his objectives in a State of the Union message Wednesday. He is expected to urge passage of key elements of the Kennedy administration program carried over from the last session — civil rights, tax reduction and health care for the elderly — and add some requests of his own.

Relaxed after a 12-day work-and-play vacation at his Texas ranch, the President scheduled a conference with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and McGeorge Bundy, presidential adviser on national security affairs. He also goes over legislative prospects with Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

In his first days in office, Johnson was pretty much immune from political criticism. Now that the moratorium that followed President John F. Kennedy's assassination is over, political criticism once more is in vogue. Democrats and Republicans will be firing at each other with old time fervor in this election year.

Johnson has pledged a war on poverty. Legislators will be eager for specifics and they may come in the State of the Union address. Johson has promised economy in government without hampering the nation's space and defense efforts. Legislators

Gen. Withycombe Killed in Texas Auto Collision

The accident happened on Interstate Highway 20, six miles east of Big Spring.

Police said that Gen. Withycombe turned his car left onto the Freeway and was hit head-on by the station wagon driven by Bobby Pherige, 15, of Coahoma, Tex. The youth was in-

Skiffington May Propose Increase In Sales Tax

State Sen. Lawrence T. Skiffington, despite apparent growing support from area farmers and ranchers, maintained Sunday he would not push for an increase in the sales tax unless it was absolutely necessary.

"I would first want to meet with the governor and my party before making such a proposal," the Manitou Springs legislator told the Gazette Telegraph.

He said he plans to meet with the Governor and members of his party Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

Skiffington made the comments Sunday after a group of Pueblo County farmers met with him in Manitou to urge passage of the sales tax.

The veteran state senator said he would propose a 1 per cent sales tax increase if the Legislature acts to increase or perpetuate the state property tax. He said his proposal would bring the state an additional $25 to $30 million annually which could be used to finance the operation and construction of state institutions.

Skiffington emphasized that he

Arsonist Blamed for Fire In Astor Hotel Ballroom

NEW YORK (AP)—An arsonist set a fire that swept the Astor Hotel's grand ballroom today, then fled when chased by hotel employes, officials said.

About 400 guests left their rooms as heavy smoke poured through the 11-story hotel, attracting a huge crowd outside the Times Square landmark. Damage was estimated at $1 million.

"Thank God nobody was hurt," said William Zeckendorf Jr., an official of the Zeckendorf Hotel Corp., chain of which the Astor is part.

Zeckendorf said the heavily damaged ballroom was renovated about two years ago at a cost of nearly $1 million.

Fire Commissioner Edward Thompson said the fire definitely was set.

"We have two witnesses who actually saw the man start the fire, and we have a good description of him," Thompson said. "These witnesses chased the man but they lost him."

Police and fire officials questioned a man who answered the general description of the suspected arsonist, but he was released.

Police described the firebug as being between 30 and 35 years old, about 6 feet tall and wearing a trench coat and glasses.

George Paquette, 37, a hotel employe, said he was working with five other men near the ballroom when he heard a noise and spotted the fire and a man walking away from it.

"Hey, be careful, there's fire up there." Paquette said he shouted. The man darted out the ballroom with Paquette calling after him, "Hey, stop!"

The fire apparently began in draperies along the empty ballroom's lower balcony. It spread quickly to the second and third tiers, which at one point threatened to collapse.

Another hotel employe, Earl Kinlaw, 32, said he and others heard a "whoosh" as they approached the blaze with a fire extinguisher, and that was followed by flames leaping wildly to other furnishings.

Thompson said the arsonist apparently used "a device to spread the flames."

Firemen searched the rooms for possible fires or victims of smoke inhalation before guests were allowed to return to their quarters at around 2 a.m. about two hours after the fire broke out.

The hotel, which faces Broadway between 44th and 45th streets, was built in 1904 and is the site of numerous social events.

Auburn School Integration Remains Quiet

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Auburn University's first Negro student, Harold A. Franklin, begins studies today with a class in Russian history after breaking segregation barriers without trouble last weekend.

Franklin, 31, registered without incident Saturday. He spent a quiet weekend at his dormitory. A university spokesman said the 6-foot Franklin had several visitors, including some white students.

"Everything is fine," Franklin told an Associated Press reporter who telephoned him Sunday night.

Four Auburn students were suspended Sunday after state troopers caught them removing campus signs warning unauthorized persons to keep off the grounds.

Franklin got a dormitory room under an order issued Friday by U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. in Montgomery. The judge ordered Auburn to provide campus housing for Franklin. Johnson earlier had directed the state university to admit Franklin to its graduate school.

Franklin arrived under strict security enforced by 100 state troopers and local police officers. The only outward reaction in this east Alabama town of 18,000 was some jeers by a few students when Franklin went to the registration center.

No New Trace Found of Lost Plane in Pacific

HONOLULU (AP) — A massive search of half a million miles of the Pacific for a downed Air Force C124 Globemaster and the nine men aboard, entered its fifth day today with no positive trace of the lost men.

The hunt was intensified during daylight hours Sunday in the greatest effort so far for the eight airmen and one sailor, who disappeared Thursday on a flight from Wake Island to Honolulu.

Hopes were raised when search planes reported hearing distress signals and sighting debris.

The first of these reports was termed "of no significance" when it was established the two signals came from outside the area where the plane could have crashed, an Air Force spokesman said.

The other report, that debris was sighted 167 miles southwest of Honolulu, was being investigated.

The plane, with a crew of eight and a Navy passenger escorting the body of a sailor, was last heard from Wednesday night after a radio check with Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii.

Johnson City Will Have Tourist Sign

The President was born in a small frame house adjacent to what is now the LBJ Ranch, 15 miles west of here. As a youngster he lived and went to school here, and he has relatives living here.

In addition to the highway signs, the chamber has had hundreds of automobile bumper stickers printed and distributed to merchants.

Inactivity Lies Behind 'Creeping' Overweight

(Fifth of Six Articles)

By GAYNOR MADDOZ
Food & Nutrition Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

An increasing number of young adults who are overweight should heed growing scientific emphasis on physical activity, advises Dr. Jean Mayer, Ph.D., Sc.D., of the Harvard School of Public Health.

Recognized internationally for his researches in the causes of obesity, Dr. Mayer says, "Overeating is one factor. But inactivity is the most important factor explaining 'creeping' overweight in such a large percentage of young men and women today."

Senior executives and day laborers generally have fewer weight problems than career girls and men on their way up, Dr. Mayer notes. "Whenever he wants, the chairman of the board can take time off for golf or tennis or any other sport he likes. He has the money to pay for it. The janitor gets his weight - controlling exercise through hard physical work every day."

The doctor criticizes American cities and towns for not providing enough free recreational areas for young adults with little spare time or money. "We spend countless millions on high school and college and university gymnasiums, swimming pools and playing fields. But unlike most European cities, ours do not support enough community recreation centers for those unable to afford private athletic clubs."

Mayer says that greater activity increases a young person's strength, stamina, flexibility, looks, enjoyment of his work and probably enables him to enjoy it longer.

"Regular activity is vital to control of body weight. It also helps keep the cardiovascular system in an elastic state. And it promotes psychologic health, as well."

Office conflicts and family quarrels often touch off anger that produces a set of physical circumstances that make the heart beat faster and blood pressure go up.

The Harvard researcher says: "A swim, a game of tennis or handball, or an hour's bowling usually disperse these harmful tensions. But how many young men and women can find time for, or afford, these escapes?

He believes young women, particularly those married, tend to keep themselves in better shape than men because of household chores pushing the grocery cart, and running after the kids all day. "Also, women are more weight conscious because the style of their clothes reveals every extra pound. Men can more easily hide their bulges," he adds.

"We need more public recreation centers near their homes for young adults. I am certain that if more local voters would campaign vigorously for them and win, a greater number of overweight young men and women would start personal programs for leaner and stronger bodies."

Many YMCAs throughout the country are offering husband - and - wife activities to young marrieds at moderate cost available to everyone. "We find it easier to get wives interested when their husbands participate with them," reports Dr. Harold T. Friermood, YMCA's national Health and Physical Education Director. "Among the activities is jiu - jitsu, particularly popular with young women determined to protect themselves.

Another YMCA fitness program is "The Measured Mile" to foster more walking. Mile routes are marked off on city streets in downtown areas. Young office workers and business men and women are encouraged to walk a mile during their lunch period.

"Walking is one of the easiest, most pleasant and most effective forms of exercise." Dr. Friermood comments. "There are no fees. All one needs is a pair of shoes."

The next installment tomorrow.

ALL PURPOSE TEACHING

HONOLULU (AP) — Mrs. Romalda Bishop Spalding believes that writing, spelling, speaking and reading should be taught as a single subject and has devised a method to do so. Her method is based on phonics, which teaches students the sounds of the language and the alphabetic letters which prod those sounds. She has lectured throughout the United States on the method and it is being used today in private schools in Texas, New York, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Ohio, Louisiana, California, Washington and Alaska.

Disagreements Noted Among Colorado GOP

At the same time State Auditor John Proctor issued a statement saying, "I regret that the governor has seen fit to degrade the reports of the independent C.P.A.'s (certified public accountants) who not only have provided constructive, unbiased reports but have served also as an outstanding training course for the existing state auditor's staff."

Proctor is a Republican. He was elected for a four-year term in 1962.

Eckles said Thursday that he intended to oppose legislation pending in Congress for creation of wilderness areas.

"My position — and I am sure it will be the state position — is that we do not appose the wilderness bill concept but do have an interest and obligation to make sure that specifics (in the pending bill) do not interfere with the development of Colorado land and resources."

The issue developed because a congressional subcommittee headed by Rep. Wayne N. Aspinall, D-Colo., will conduct hearings in Denver next Friday and Saturday on the pending bill.

Love said he plans to attend the opening of the hearing before leaving for Loveland to open his Governor's Forum there at 1 p.m. Friday. He said he doesn't know whether he or some other person will give the state's official testimony.

Eckles, the governor said, will confer with several interested state agencies before the hearing, including the Department of Game, Fish and Parks and the Water Conservation Board.

Proctor's statement was prompted by a remark of Love during a Thursday news conference that so far audits made by private firms working under contract with Proctor "have not produced many affirmative changes in procedure."

"It appears to me," Proctor said in his statement, "that the governor has not been properly advised of audit reports — or the action being taken by some of the departments in implementing recommendations from the auditor's office."

Proctor listed a series of recommendations and actions which he attributed to the reports. Among them was the investigation launched by the governor into statements by auditors that persons not entitled to unemployment compensation have received the jobless benefits. On the basis of a sample, the auditors claimed these payments might total $11 million during the last six years.

At the same time Proctor released his statement he made public an audit of the Colorado Penitentiary at Canon City criticizing the handling of accounts covering inventories.

Proctor said that accounting changes would "eliminate distortion of annual statements used as a basis for appropriation by the (legislature's) Joint Budget Committee.

The auditor emphasized that all funds were accounted for.

The audit was made by Ernst and Ernst, Denver firm.

More Jobs Proposed Thru Boost in Overtime Pay

By FRANK CORMIER

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson's demand for new thinking in devising solutions to the nagging unemployment problem has produced a hint of possible action that could affect virtually every American worker.

After conferring with Johnson at the LBJ Ranch, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz suggested to newsmen it might be wise to study the present time-and-a-half pay rate for overtime work.

If the rate were raised, Wirtz said, employers might be encouraged to eliminate overtime chores and hire additional workers.

He said elimination of overtime would open up the equivalent of 919,000 full-time jobs.

Wirtz' suggestion came three days after a Johnson aide had told newsmen the President wanted new thinking on possible ways to cope with persistent unemployment troubles.

Johnson indicated Friday he is trying hard to keep his new budget, for the 1965 fiscal year that begins July 1, below $100 billion. He even said it might wind up one or two percentage points below that level.

A cut of two per cent from $100 billion would yield a spending blue-print of $98 billion, or less than the record-breaking budget of $98.8 billion submitted to Congress a year ago by the late President John F. Kennedy.

However, it seemed unlikely that Johnson could avoid a budget bigger than ever.

And he reported that he had sliced several hundred million dollars each from the spending requests of the Agriculture Department, the Atomic Energy Commission and the space agency.

But he didn't say whether he was cutting these programs below current totals or simply reducing requests that traditionally exceed going levels.

He did state there will be no pullback from the commitment to put an American on the moon by 1970, a project that could cost as much as $40 billion.

And Wirtz, meeting with reporters at press headquarters in Austin, said that in his department there will be no cuts in "human needs" activities. He said these will proceed "full speed ahead."

Budget problems were due for another airing today at a ranch get-together of Johnson and Administrator Najeeb E. Halaby of the Federal Aviation Agency.

Johnson once again got in some late-afternoon relaxation Friday by taking a helicopter ride to Travis Lake for some boating. Before that, he:

Assigned Esther Peterson, an assistant secretary of labor, additional duties as a new presidential assistant to look after consumer interests.

Studied a new Soviet proposal —branded as disappointing in Washington — to bar the use of force in settling international disputes. He got some advice on this score from Charles E. Bohlen, U.S. ambassador to France, and David K. E. Bruce, envoy to Britain, who were ranch guests.

Created a three - member emergency board to study a nationwide dispute between the Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen and the railroads.

Rep. Powell Says He Will Agree To Finance Probe

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., sad here he would permit a court audit of his financial status if he loses an appeal on a $211,500 libel judgment against him.

The judgment was awarded in Supreme Court last April 4 to Mrs. Esther M. James, a Harlem widow, in her defamation of character suit charging Powell with calling her a "bag woman," or graft collector, for the police department.

Powell's appeal was scheduled to be heard before the appellate division Jan. 24. He signed a statement Friday agreeing to the audit within a 15-day period if he loses the appeal.

The state Supreme Court held Rowell in contempt last Friday for refusing to answer a subpoena, and he was ordered to appear in court Monday. However, the court appearance was cancelled when the agreement on the statement was reached.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas—For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a Texas firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to satisfy everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But how can any man or woman be sure what is actually causing their hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Actually, there are at least 18 scalp conditions that can cause hair loss. No matter which one is the cause of your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have hair (or at least some fuzz) on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it, before its too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will suppy you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered promptly, by mail and without obligation. Adv.

WARMTH WITHOUT WEIGHT

Many Northerners envy those living below the Mason-Dixon line at this time of the year. Wintry blasts and subzero weather can be unpleasant, especially for the commuter, shopper, or student. The healthy can take it, but it creates a hazard for those with respiratory infections, heart disease, or poor circulation.

We are warm - blooded animals and built to withstand a reasonable amount of exposure. The surface blood vessels contract whenever a person goes out of doors in freezing weather. As a result, the vital fluid remains in the deeper tissues to retain body heat. The constricted surface capillaries limit the flow of blood and the skin becomes pale, bluish, and cold. This is most noticeable in the extremities. Meanwhile, goose flesh enhances this protective mechanism. Shivering is helpful also; it represents an involuntary contraction of the muscles to produce more heat. This has the same effect as exercise in keeping us comfortable on raw days.

There is obviously a limit to this protective device. Humans must live in heated homes and wear abundant clothing to withstand the elements in comfort. Several layers are better than one. In the coldest weather the outer garments should be windproof and the inner garment should be made of wool, cotton, or other absorbable material. The trend at present is to make clothes lighter without sacrificing warmth. It allows for more freedom of activity. The manufacturers of ski clothing are setting the pace for those who love the winter out of doors.

The extremities also should be protected. Leather gloves lined with wool or cotton are adequate for most of us. Chilling is more likely to occur if the skin is damp and we fare best by keeping it dry. High winds and humidity also intensify the cold. A sharp prickling sensation is the first indication of frostbite, especially when it develops over a yellowish - white numb area of hard skin. Heed the warning because it means the skin has had enough.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accomapnies request.

Lessen the load on the heart by getting more rest, reducing tension, and avoiding anything that overworks the old ticker. If strain is associated with high blood pressure, the usual remedies for this condition are effective. Meanwhile, live as near a normal life as possible because "heart strain" is not that serious.

Hot Meals

H. L. writes: We read about providing hot lunches for school children. Why? Does the stomach know the difference between hot and cold foods?

Reply

Probably not, but the child likes. "Hot lunch" usually means a meal of soup, meat, potatoes, and vegetables. These dishes are not as tasty when served cold.

Inflamed Thyroid

J. C. V. writes: 1. What is the cause of thyroiditis? 2. Is it contagious?

Yes, because cats often carry on their paws the causative organisms that lead to cat scratch fever even though they are not ill.

Family Arches

Mrs. J. writes: My husband and his father's sister were born with extremely high arches, which the doctor calls cavus. Is this deformity inherited. I'm concerned because I am pregnant.

Possibly, but why worry if the defect has not proved a serious handicap to your husband or his aunt?

Goldwater Will Launch Campaign In Grand Rapids

said "The treaty had more accrual of good to the Soviets than it did to the United States."

"But if you were president and you were able to renounce the treaty, would you do it?" he was asked.

"If it appeared to be to our advantage to test in the atmosphere, yes, I would do it," he said.

President John F. Kennedy signed the treaty last Oct. 7, and President Johnson has let it be known he thinks the agreement will stand as one of the most memorable achievements of his assassinated predecessor.

Despite his stand on the treaty, Goldwater said he would not close the door on disarmament negotiations with the Soviet Union.

"Anybody. I think, would be a fool to close the door on negotiations for everything, but until the Soviet shows some indications that they want to disarm . . . then I don't think negotiations are possible," he said.

Goldwater said he agrees with President Johnson's call for action instead of talk in response to a New Year's greeting in which Soviet Premier Khrushchev forecast an easing of the cold war.

If he were president would Goldwater have sent a similar reply?

"I would — along these lines: 'If you mean what you say, Mr. Khrushchev, put up or shut up' as we Western poker players say."

Goldwater said the United States could not "live in the United Nations with the charter having been ignored if Red China is admitted."

Rockefeller has criticized him for demanding withdrawal if Red China is admitted, and Goldwater said the governor "goes further.

"He says that I have advocated getting out of the United Nations and I can't recall ever having said that."

Goldwater, who calls the United Nations "a debating society, at best," said at Hartford, Conn., Oct. 24 that the United States should stay in the world body and try to improve it.

But he did call for withdrawal when the United Nations moved to put down the Congo's secessionist Katanga Province.

In Peoria, Ariz., a year ago, Goldwater said intervention in Katanga should convince the United States "to get out of the United Nations and take care of its own knitting."

Multi-Millionaire Stabbed to Death; Sister-in-Law Held

until she awoke later in a hospital.

Informed that Bartholomae had died, Carmen told Police Chief James Glavas: "He was such a good man. He was so good to Charles and me."

Adding to the mystery was a coroner's report which said that Bartholomae, in addition to the stab wounds, had numerous scratches, "possibly from fingernails," on his neck, face, arms, hands and chest.

Dr. Raymond A. Brandt, Orange County coroner, said the knife made internal thrusts "in several different directions," after entering the body.

Minola, through an interpreter, said she cut her hand when she picked up the knife after entering the kitchen and finding Bartholomae and her sister on the floor.

She said she had left the room to attend to Carmen's 3-month-old son.

Investigators said Bartholomae had planned to sail his $225,000 motor yacht, Sea Diamond, to Santa Catalina Island Sunday with his brother Charles and the two women but the trip was cancelled because of high winds.

Charles met Carmen during a tour of Spain four years ago.

able possibility by which mutual understanding, respect and charity may be fostered so as to smooth the way to a future—and, please God, not too distant—meeting with our Christian brothers still separated from us."

In words that he apparently added at the last minute, the Pope addressed the leaders of the world.

"At this time when I leave Bethlehem, this place of purity and calm where was born 20 centuries ago He to whom we pray today as the Prince of Peace, we feel the great duty to renew to all chiefs of state and to all those who carry the responsibility of the people our pressing appeal for world peace," the pontiff said.

"The governments must hear this cry from our heart and let them generously follow their efforts to assure humanity the peace to which it earnestly aspires.

"Let them get from the Almighty and from their inmost human conscience a most clear intelligence, a most ardent wish and a new spirit of concord and generosity so as to eliminate at whatever cost the anguish and suffering to the world of a new world war whose consequences would be uncalculable. Let them collaborate more efficiently to gain peace and truth in justice, in freedom and in friendly love. This is the prayer that we have not ceased to make constantly in this pilgrimage."

Even before the Pope made his appeal for Christian unity, his pilgrimage had given a new impetus to the cause by his meetings with Patriarch Athenagoras I of Constantinople (Istanbul) and other patriarchs of the Orthodox churches.

Sunday's trip of approximately 175 miles twice crossed the Jordanian-Israeli border. For the occasion the barriers of deep national animosity were down.

All along the way, from Jerusalem up through the mountains of ancient Samaria, then circling through Galilee, and back down the coastlands of Israel, were the sites of religious history.

At Nazareth, the mountainside town of white limestone houses where Jesus grew up, the Pope stayed more than an hour, absorbing the atmosphere. Townspeople turned out in droves, with yellow and white papal flags fluttering from their hands.

He worshipped in the Church of the Annunciation, packed with assembled Israeli diplomatic and church dignitaries. It is the traditional place where the angel foretold the birth of Jesus to Mary.

On an isolated shore of the Sea of Galilee, against a backdrop of rolling hills, Pope Paul spent a brief interval of reverie gazing out over the blue lake.

Twice he leaned down and dipped his hands into the waters of the lake. Then, as he stood looking out over the sun-sparkling surface, he lifted his arms in his customary gesture of affection and his lips moved silently in prayer.

There, at a little church in a clearing ringed by pine and eucalyptus trees, is the spot where the risen Christ supposedly told the Apostle Peter: "Feed my sheep."

The Pope is regarded by Roman Catholicism as the successor of Peter, with the responsibility of chief shepherd of the flock.

Nearby was the Mount of Beatitudes, a high, gentle rise crowned with trees on which Jesus is believed to have preached his Sermon on the Mount.

The Pope also stopped at Capernaum, along the lake shore, where Peter lived and where Jesus often preached and made his headquarters after he began his ministry.

Swinging southward, greeted by rural folk at intervals along the way, the Pope followed the twisting road up to the brow of dome-shaped Mount Tabor. Here Jesus reputedly was transfigured before his apostles' eyes and a voice sounded from a bright cloud expressing God's pleasure with him.

The Pope's black sedan then headed southward through Israel to Jerusalem, where he prayed in the Cenacle, the chamber where Christ first celebrated the Lord's Supper.

Pope Paul, spiritual leader of the 550 million Roman Catholics, and Athenagoras, leader of 250 million Orthodox believers, hailed their meeting as the end of centuries of silence between their churches and voiced hope the meeting "may be a sign and prelude of things to come for the glory of God and the illumination of His people."

In a joint communique after a second meeting today, they said:

"This meeting cannot be considered otherwise than as a fraternal gesture inspired by the charity of Christ who left to His disciples the supreme commandment of loving one another, of forgiving offenses until seventy times seven and of being united among themselves."

The communique was seen as a prod to Christians of differing denominations to work for more harmonious relations and deeper understanding between churches.

The clean-shaven, 5-foot-8 Pope and the bearded, 6-foot-4 Patriarch met first Sunday night at the apostolic delegation on the Mount of Olives, where Christ in His last hours before His arrest prayed that all believers "may be one." It was the first meeting of a Pope and a Patriarch of Constantinople since 1439, a turning point in relations between the faiths which broke apart in the great schism of 1054.

At the beginning and end of their half-hour conversation, Pope and Patriarch grasped each other's shoulders and embraced in early Christianity's traditional "kiss of peace."

Pope Paul told the Patriarch: "Great is our emotion and profound our joy in this truly historic hour after centuries of silence. . . Doubtless the roads which lead to union may be long and sown with difficulties but these two paths converge toward one another and eventually reach the sources of the Gospel."

The first meeting of Pope Paul and Athenagoras came after an arduous, day-long trip by the pontiff to scenes of Christ's boyhood and evangelism in what is now Israel. As he passed through the Mandelbaum Gate back into Jordanian Jerusalem, the Pope said it had been "the most unforgettable day of my life."

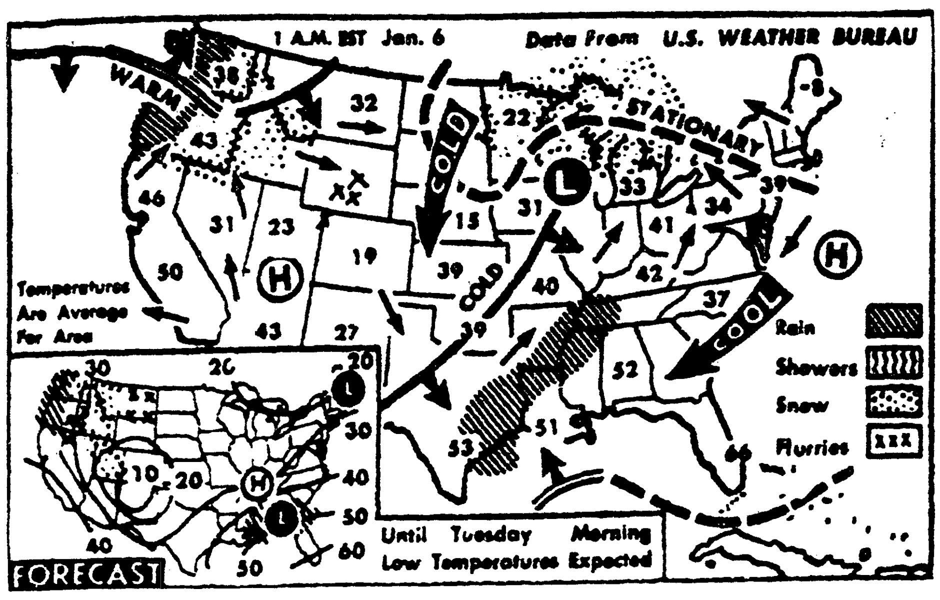
During the event-packed day, the Pope was handed a letter from President Johnson, who said he hoped to meet the spiritual leader. The pontiff expressed warm response to Sargent Shriver, brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy and head of the U.S. Peace Corps, who delivered the letter at Nazareth.

The Pope said he would be happy to have such a meeting. Shriver told newsmen this did not necessarily mean Pope Paul intended leaving the Vatican for such an encounter.

The Pope also asked Shriver to convey to Kennedy's widow and mother his admiration for their exemplary conduct in their grief.

All during Sunday's tour, whether in Arab Jordan or Jewish Israel, the Pope was greeted by applauding and cheering crowds. Colored banners and arches of palm branches overhung his route, and even in remote regions, adults and children massed on roadsides.

The pontiff appeared to have recovered from his arrival in Arab Jerusalem Saturday, where he was jostled by over-enthusiastic crowds who prevented him from seeing all he probably would like to have seen of Christendom's holiest city.



WEATHER FORECAST — There will be precipitation Monday night in the northwest section of the nation falling as rain on the coast and light snow inland. Light snow is forecast for western New York and western Pennsylvania while rain is expected in parts of the Tennessee valley, the southern Atlantic states and the east Gulf coast. It will be colder from the Great Lakes southward into the southern Plains.

will want to know how he intends to manage this.

In the last days at his ranch, the chief executive put in long hours on a budget that he has said will be in the neighborhood of $100 billion and on his State of the Union message. How these are received may indicate how much cooperation the one-time Senate Democratic leader is likely to get from his former congressional colleagues.

Johnson, Mrs. Johnson and their daughter, Lucy Baines, 16, attended services at St. Barnabas Episcopal Church at Fredericksburg Sunday.

Later, the President visited with Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., and called on Gov. John Connally at the state executive mansion in Austin.

Although Yarborough and Johnson both are Texans and Democrats, they had been bitter political foes. All that is past since Johnson became president.

Connally and Johnson are old friends. When the President called Sunday, several hundred persons had gathered outside the mansion. Before seeing the governor, who still wears a sling on the arm wounded when Kennedy was assassinated, Johnson threaded through the crowd, pumping hands and kissing a couple of babies.

He left Austin after nightfall, his jet arriving in the Washington area at 8:38 p.m. Johnson brought with him three relatives who will be staying awhile at the White House—uncle Huffman Baines and his wife, and a niece Susan Taylor.

Crisis in Cyprus Grows Tense With New Accusations

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) —The crisis in Cyprus grew tense again today with accusations by the island's Turkish leader that Greek Cypriots plan a "general massacre on a larger scale than before."

No new fighting was reported. But a British spokesman for the joint British-Greek-Turkish truce force on Cyprus said a Turkish school in the town of Larnaca was gutted by fire Sunday.

"Despite the cease-fire agreement, Turkish life and property are still in great and imminent danger in Cyprus," Vice President Fazil Kuchuk, leader of the Turkish community, said in an appeal Sunday to all "peace-loving nations."

Turkish Cypriots are outnumbered by Greek Cypriots by about four to one. Fighting between the two communities has taken an estimated 200 lives in the past two weeks.

Skiffington May Propose Increase In Sales Tax

"I will not introduce such a proposal," he said, "until I get assurance they will not increase the mill levy on property."

He said that the farmers, all from the Boone area, told him they were in favor of the sales tax. One of the men proposed a four-cent tax on cigarettes.

Skiffington said he had not considered the cigarette tax in his efforts to find new revenue for the state. He pointed out that this tax as proposed Sunday would bring in only from $6 to $8 million.

I told the delegation that I would only propose the sales tax increase if it was absolutely necessary, but they thought the cigarette tax should be levied anyway," Skiffington said.

Asked if he felt the sales tax would be necessary in view of the state's current fiscal problems, the state senator said he felt the current situation looked "pretty good."

The farmers told him they felt that property values in Colorado had reached a plane with other nearby states which did not have as high taxes. Skiffington said they told him that property taxes had increased $50 to $100 a year and are becoming "confiscatory."

The Republican senator pointed out that an increase on sales tax would have to be voted on by the people.

"But support for the proposal seems to be growing in view of the fact that property taxes may be increased," he said.

The farmers said they felt the sales tax would be more equitable than an increase in property tax, Skiffington said. He said the farmers felt everybody would be paying their share under such an increase, including the transient residents.

Skiffington said that revenue from such a tax could be used to finance the state's education program and construction of needed state institutions as well as to help finance the state Medicare program.

However, he emphasized that if he introduced such a measure, he would decline to have the funds earmarked for any particular area of expenditure.

Richard Browne Ends Marine Leave Here

Marine Cpl. Richard D. Browne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale L. Browne of 3182 W. Pikes Peak Ave., has returned to duty with the Marine Corps after spending leave here.

Cpl. Browne is being reassigned from his base at Camp Pendleton, Calif. to Headquarters, Marine Corps in Arlington, Va. where he will attend the Marine Security Guard School.

Upon completion of this course he will be assigned to special foreign duty with the Department of State at one of its overseas embassies or consulates.

Browne is a 1961 graduate of Palmer High School. He enlisted in the Marine Corps in March of that year, leaving for active duty the following July 4.

At the end of his basic training he was meritoriously promoted to Private First Class for displaying outstanding leadership qualities and performance of duty.

While stationed at the Marines' San Diego, Calif. base last summer he was awarded a Meritorious Mast (special commendation) for outstanding performance of duty by the Commanding Officer of Electronics-Communications School Battalion.

The Nation's Weather

Low pressure disturbances on the move across the Great Lakes and central Gulf Coast accounted for widespread precipitation this morning.

Rain fell in a long band from the Texas-Louisiana coast up into the Ohio Valley, while snow came down over a four-state area of the midwest, taking in North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Both New Orleans and Lake Charles, La., collected in excess of an inch of rainfall in six hours.

Wet weather also occurred in the northwest.

Rains accompanied a moist onshore flow and Pacific front, turning to snow in the mountains. The snow pack at some of the higher mountain elevations thus far in this season has built to over a foot.

On the fair side of the weather picture, high pressure sustained sunny skies thruout the southwest and in a like manner east of the Appalachians along the Atlantic seaboard.

Temperatures early this morning stood near or above seasonable normals. A major exception, sub-zero cold, visited northern New England where Caribou, Me., skidded to a minimum of 11 below zero and Newport, Vt., to eight below zero.

Another Surprise Assault Staged By Viet Reds

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

TAN AN, South Viet Nam (AP)—An estimated two battalions of Communist guerrillas slipped through encircling South Vietnamese troops before dawn today after battering back a day long airborne assault.

The Viet Cong sent a wall of machine-gun fire against U.S. helicopters and knocked out an armored personnel car before melting away from their fortifications. The crew of the car was killed by a shell from a recoilless cannon.

American pilots in rocket-firing helicopters believed they killed about 60 guerrillas, although only two bodies were found. The Viet Cong usually remove the bodies of their dead when they retreat.

The engagement, only 30 miles southwest of Siagon, was fought in view of passengers in buses and cars along the main north-south highway.

"As usual, they slipped by us last night," a Vietnamese officer said. "We just didn't have enough men to seal them in."

Government troops suffered eight killed and nearly 30 wounded.

It was the third time since New Year's Day that Viet Cong units of battalion strength or more have fought off an attack and escaped.

Most of the U. S. Army helicopters in the operation were hit. One returned with 19 holes.

Some officers said reinforcements were slow in arriving.

"It was heartbreaking," an American adviser said. "We came within a hair of smashing a really big unit—maybe part of the Viet Cong's 506 battalion, but they got out of it."

Government forces suffered another setback in a five-day operation that ended this weekend in heavily wooded Binh Duong Province, northwest of Saigon. U.S. military advisers said the operation was a total failure.

"We must do much better than this to make any impact on the Communists this year," one adviser commented. "We are still pussyfooting around defensively against the Viet Cong."

The operation began with a near debacle on New Year's Eve when a Ranger battalion came close to being wiped out despite the presence of reinforcements nearby.

1,500 Stranded In Indianapolis Greyhound Strike

Wisconsin freshman from Knoxville, Tenn., was en route to the campus. "I started early," she said, "because I was worried about the snow."

Navy Electrician 1. C. Donald Moog of Chicago was traveling to Jacksonville, Fla., to join the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt before his leave expired today. "There's not a chance of making it anymore," Moog said Sunday.

Maurice T. Horton, president of Local 1211, said the walkout was not a strike but "just a union meeting." He said under a two-year contract running to Oct. 31 members are entitled to time off to attend union meetings.

The daylong meeting didn't actually resolve any of the disputed working conditions, Horton said, But members decided to end the tieup in the interests of the public.

Horton said the local has a lengthy backlog of grievances awaiting company action.

'Clear Alternative' Being Promised By Rockefeller

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says that if the Republican party nominates him for president, he will offer voters a clear alternative to Democratic party philosophy.

"There are fundamental differences between my views and (Democratic) views," he said in reply to a charge by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona that Rockefeller is a "me-too" candidate.

Goldwater announced his candidacy Friday and opened his campaign by saying Rockefeller's views sound more like a Democratic platform than Republican philosophy.

Goldwater, chief spokesman for GOP conservatives, said no other Republican candidate — meaning Rockefeller — could offer voters a genuine alternative to the Democratic administration of President Johnson.

Rockefeller, who resumed his campaign in the New Hampshire presidential preference primary over the weekend, told a news conference in Concord, "I don't think that 'me-too' label has any application (to me). I think that was just a political statement on his part."

Goldwater begins his New Hampshire campaign Tuesday.

His assertion that Rockefeller espouses a New Frontier philosophy could become an issue in New Hampshire, where Republican ranks include a substantial bloc of conservatives.

Rockefeller knows his reputation as a liberal could be troublesome in New Hampshire. His first major political speech in this campaign contained a detailed analysis of his "fundamental differences" with Democrats on such issues as balanced budgets and centralized government.

Rockefeller also has cast himself in the role of the first volunteer for a dangerous mission who now sees others joining him.

He pointed out in his first major speech of the weekend that he was the only declared candidate for the Republican nomination at a time when many thought President John F. Kennedy would be unbeatable.

There was a revival of interest in the Republican nomination after Kennedy's death. Some observers believe the Republicans have a better chance of defeating Johnson.

But, Rockefeller said, he looks upon the nomination now as he did then.

"I am neither a 'summer soldier' or a 'sunshine patriot.' "

Rockefeller indicated at a news conference he would concentrate his immediate fire on Goldwater, avoiding specific criticism of the Johnson administration. He said Johnson had not produced concrete results on which to make a judgment.

Rockefeller will turn his attention to the home front this week. The New York Legislature convenes on Wednesday and the governor is to deliver his sixth annual message.

Rockefeller will return to New Hampshire Thursday night for a speech at Manchester. He will fly to Washington to speak at the National Press Club on Friday.

Berlin Wall Sealed Again By East German Commies

again. We had become used to being separated from my mother and father."

Elevated trains coming from East Berlin's Friedrich Strasse station were packed tightly for the first time in years. The people were quiet or talked only in low voices. The eyes of many women were red from crying.

Two Associated Press men, correspondent Loyal Gould and and photographer Robert Rider-Rider, were detained for an hour by Communist state security officers and their films confiscated. The films of AP photographer Helmuth Lohmann and Colin Trickett, a British cameraman working for the American Broadcasting Co., also were confiscated.

Communist officials told Gould the newsmen lacked East German press credentials. Western newsmen were informed last month they did not need credentials to cover the crossings.

Sister Gabrielle Is Happy About Song Success

By FRED CHEVAL

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Two years ago a smiling but somewhat frightened nun walked into a Brussels recording studio, sat down with a second-hand guitar on her lap, and captured the hearts of two continents.

All Sister Luc Gabrielle wanted to do was have a few records made to send to some of the young girls who came to her nearby Convent of Fichermont for yearly retreats. She had amused them on their last visit with her sprightly, joyful, sometimes mischievously irreverent but always deeply spiritual songs, and the girls wanted mementos.

When the manager of the Philips Recording Studio heard the first tape of Sister Luc Gabrielle's music he rushed in to ask if she would do a full-blown album, to be distributed commercially.

The record became an immediate best-seller in Europe, and soon "The Singing Nun's" fame leaped the Atlantic. Her album became the top seller for more than a month, and one of her songs, "Dominique," became the No. 1 tune in the United States, adding a delightful freshness to disc jockey shows.

The convent receives the proceeds, which will help finance Sister Luc Gabrielle's order of Dominican nuns who are engaged chiefly in foreign missionary work.

Personal publicity for her has been sparse — her name is not even mentioned on the record; instead she is nicknamed Soeur Sourire, Sister Smile.

She is a former high school art teacher who decided in 1959 to enter the convent. She abandoned her art studies in favor of becoming a missionary.

"I would like to go to Asia," she said. "Africa also would be all right."

At present she is attending Louvain University in Brussels. She will graduate in two years and, presumably, enter the missionary field. She is 30.

She describes herself as an "untrained bear, with a turned-up nose, eyeglasses, and a poor temper." Actually she has a quite plain face, rosy cheeks and, most important, a crisp, clear and extremely refreshing voice.

Referring to herself as "a silly girl," she says she spotted the guitar in a Brussels shop "hanging by its neck." She bought it, and named it Adele.

"In answer to the Divine voice which invited her to the harvest, the silly girl — that's me — left town for a neighboring convent. Adele, the guitar, went with the luggage and began her novitiate, singing God's praise joyously and with a rich voice."

Sister Smile sings joyfully of her love for God, often adding gently humorous words. Plainly she has a happy view of Christianity.

Husband, Wife Jailed in Theft of Coat

A husband and wife were in City Jail this morning after being booked for stealing a coat from Fred's Bar in one of five theft cases reported by police this morning. The coat was stolen early Sunday morning, police said. Walter Glen Ruppert, 34, and Marie Bertha Ruppert, 53, of 2513 W. Pikes Peak Ave., admitted taking the $20 coat from the bar, which is located at 2507 W. Colorado Ave.

The victim of the theft was Harold G. Knight, 2806 W. Kiowa St., who told officers Ruppert put the coat on under another coat and left the bar. Knight followed the man and woman outside and got the coat back. He then called the police. The Rupperts were arrested at their home.

A Ft. Carson soldier is suspected of having stolen $60 from the home of Marion Sylvester Oliver, 432 E. Vrain St., Saturday night.

Oliver told officers the money was in his wife's billfold on a coffee table when the soldier, who is a friend of the family, visited the home Saturday night. After the soldier had left, Oliver noticed the money was missing.

Two youths in their late teens were in custody this morning for stealing two cars, police said.

The two were arrested after police were tipped by a witness who saw them wiping fingerprints off the car of Majel P. Billingsley, 1416 N. Custer St., which they had stolen in Pueblo Saturday night. The arrest was made Sunday morning.

The two also stole a car from Ross Dudley Pogue, 1020 E. High St., police said. The car was taken over the weekend from the rear of Pogue's home, and has been recovered.

A 1964 Comet was found wrecked and abandoned at the B Street entrance to Ft. Carson early this morning. The car had been reported stolen from Ben Hinton Grove Jr., of 7 Ute Trail, Manitou Springs.

Grove told officers a man he had been drinking with apparently took the car from the 100 block of E. Colorado Ave. Sunday night. The car was found by the State Patrol. The amount of the damage has not been determined.

The Collier Lumber Co., 221 S. Chestnut St., was broken into over the weekend. Vending machines were damaged and an undertimed amount of money stolen.

Police said thieves entered by breaking the glass in a door. They then pryed open a cigaret machine and a pop machine. A window was broken and some candy stolen also, police said.

Vicitm of the theft was Thomas Matson Collier, 8 Elcanto St.

Gen. Withycombe Killed in Texas Auto Collision

jured slightly. No charges have been filed.

Withcombe left the Academy in July to assume his new post. He was promoted from colonel to brigadier general after his transfer.

The officer was assigned to the Air Force Academy as chief of staff in 1960 and held the post until his transfer. He was succeeded at the Academy by Col. Ralph J. Hallenbeck.

A native of San Jose, Calif. and a graduate of San Jose State College, He spent his first three and a half years of service as an Air Force training officer at training bases in Texas.

He completed pilot training and was commissioned a second lieutenant at Brooks Field, San Antonio, in September of 1941.

Withycombe was group operations officer at Webb AFB, then known as Big Spring, for nine months in 1942. He returned to command the base 21 years later.

The officer served in the Pacific during World War II and held the Distinguished Flying Cross. After the war, he was assigned to Washington, D.C. and later was sent to assist the U.S. Occupation Forces in Germany in 1952.

Survivers include his widow, Audry, and two sons, Howard J. Jr., a student at Texas Christian University and Keith, a student at the Air Force Academy.

Huston Becomes Irish Citizen, Wife to Follow

DUBLIN, Ireland (UPI) — Missouri - born film director John Huston renounced his American citizenship here and became an Irish citizen "to get back to the roots of my ancestors."

At a brief, formal ceremony in the Department of Justice the 57-year-old Huston pledged his "loyalty and fidelity" to the Irish state and said his wife and two children would follow his example shortly.

For the past 12 years Huston has maintained his home at Craughwell, County Galway.

"Ireland is the only permanent home I have had since the war," the director said. "I guess you could call this move a sort of atavism—a desire to get back to the roots of my ancestors."

American law prohibited him from taking Irish citizenship without renouncing his U.S. citizenship, although there is no such requirement in Ireland.

Huston, whose films include "The African Queen," "The Asphalt Jungle" and "Moby Dick," said he would now have to apply for a work permit and a visa for the United States, but "I don't anticipate any difficulty about this."

Huston said he planned to devote much of his time to building up the film industry in Ireland.

"I believe there is great potential here," he said.

"All the memories of my children center around Ireland," the director said.

WOULDN'T STEP ON IT

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A school principal was surprised to walk into a classroom and find a barefoot teacher carefully sweeping the floor while the pupils sat with feet pulled up on their seats.

The teacher explained she had lost one of her new contact lenses. She discovered a short time later that it had just slipped to one side of her eye and the class returned to normal.

Automated Hospital Seen In Future by Economist

By WILLIAM C. HARRISON

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP)—Automation of almost everything except nurses will mark the hospital of the future, says a health economist. Cheerful nurses, relieved of drudgery by electronic slaves, will have more time for patients.

Each patient will have a small but private room. His bed, which may not resemble a bed at all, will supply an individual climate the way an incubator does for a premature baby.

Electronic devices will monitor his condition when needed.

The automated hospital of the future will house almost all patients under a doctor's care, further reducing home visits. Patients may be grouped in the hospital by type of illness rather than degree to receive specialized nursing care.

"Our research teams are looking ahead only about five years, not into an indefinite future," Dr. Blumberg says.

Many of the devices that will automate the hospital and hold down manpower requirements are presently available. Others are on the drawing board.

"Some already in use, such as those monitoring patients' temperature, pulse and respiration, need to be improved," Dr. Blumberg remarks. "Too many are designed as imitation nurses collecting information that is not terribly important."

Already, in post-operative recovery rooms, a monitor can automatically trigger an electric device to stimulate a faltering heart, for example. Others could flash to a central control panel signals of patient agitation, vomiting, hemorrhage, changes in breathing and clues to impending surgical shock.

In labor and delivery rooms, monitors could count frequency of labor pains, perhaps distinguish between true and false labor. An instrument could follow the heart rate of the baby being born to tell the doctor when to intervene.

"The bed," says Dr. Blumberg, "will be broken down into its functions, and some won't look like a bed at all."

Dr. Blumberg envisions the patient's body encased in a box-like tent of light, opaque material. The patient would need no upper sheet and blankets because circulating air would maintain desired temperature and humidity.

Dr. Blumberg says electricity has been used in the United States to induce anesthetic sleep, and work on electronarcosis for relatively normal sleep has been done by the Russians.

"At bedtime the nurse would just place electrodes on the insomniac patient's head, and wham — good night," he explains. A harmless amount of current shorts out the brain's wakefulness control center.

Automating the hospital is expensive. The devices probably will forestall some staff increases, Dr. Blumberg comments, but may fail to cut hospital costs. "They will result in better quality care," he states.

"I don't think automation will minimize tender loving care at all," says Dr. Blumberg. With electronic help the nurse "will have confidence and be more cheerful," he says.

"Instead of taking temperatures, she will have time to smile and say 'Hello.'"

Yugos Accuse China Of War-Mongering

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia accused Red Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai Sunday of going to Albania for warmongering and of being insincere during his African tour.

The official newspapers Borba and Politika responded hotly to Cou's charges Saturday that President Tito and Yugoslavia are "part of American imperialism."

RADIOS ON ROAD

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—A growing percentage of the radio receivers in the United States—perhaps one-fourth—are now on wheels, according to one of the country's leading suppliers of automotive radios. A record 1.4 million auto and truck radios will be sold by the Radio Division of the Bendix Corporation in 1963, and the company expects to surpass that mark next year when it delivers its 10 millionth custom auto radio.

Denver College Dubbed Goliath; Hit by Solon

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER (AP) — State Sen. Roy McVicker, D-Wheat Ridge, an outspoken opponent of a new four-year state college for Denver, declares that every other state college and university will suffer financially if the proposed institution is established.

He dubbed it "the Goliath."

McVicker outlined his views in a discussion with a reporter.

"If a four-year college is established in Denver," he said, will become the largest in the state and in a decade or less it "it will become the largest in the state and in a decade or less it will become a university. It will be the state's largest university.

"If this happens, it will get state appropriations that otherwise would be available to a statewide program of higher education for all our institutions.

"Even though I come from this metropolitan area which would benefit, I cannot advocate that."

The senator, often mentioned a possible Democratic candidate for Congress from the northern Colorado district next fall, represents suburban Jefferson County.

Several years ago he headed the legislature's Committee on Education Beyond the High School which advocated expansion of junior colleges rather than development of additional four-year institutions.

McVicker fought bitterly against changeover of the Pueblo junior college from a locally supported two-year institution into a four-year state school now known as Southern Colorado State College. He also led legislative opposition to conversion of Ft. Lewis A&M College at Durango from a two-year institution to a degree-granting school. It operates on the tri-semester system through which a student can obtain a degree in three years.

McVicker said he still doesn't believe the changes should have been made in the two institutions.

Both his personal opposition, and that of the committee, he says, was "on the basis we did not feel that statewide planning required new four-year facilities in these two areas."

The committee, McVicker said pointed out that Colorado's educational lag is in the vocational-technical field.

"The four-year college simply does not do this job," he insisted. On this basis, the Wheat Ridge Democrat said, his opposition to a Metropolitan State College is "totally consistent."

"There is a need for educational opportunity in Denver," he declared. "Make no mistake about that. This simply isn't the answer."

His recommendations to meet the need is two-fold:

1. Turn the University of Colorado's existing Denver Extension center—which now lacks authority to confer degrees — into an institution primarily for third and fourth-year students and graduate work.

"This, and only this," he said, "will meet the demands of industry in the area."

2. Set up a two-year junior college offering courses similar to that of a junior college, including both scholastic and vocational opportunities.

Congress Faces Emotional Civil Rights Issue Fight

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress opens Tuesday what promises to be a politically charged election year session with the emotion-packed civil rights issue offering an acid test of President Johnson's leadership.

Johnson is expected to place heavy emphasis on passage of a broad civil rights measure opening new doors to Negroes along with an $11-billion tax cut, health care for the elderly and other domestic proposals in his State of the Union message Wednesday.

These are leftover items from the Kennedy administration. To them Johnson is expected to add some proposals of his own and perhaps some specifics of his promised war on poverty.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield warned his colleagues as they concluded the marathon 1963 session Dec. 30 that it was "just a beginning" of the 88th Congress and that the second session would confront them with "some of the most difficult decisions which this or any Congress is likely to be required to reach."

"We face the issue of civil rights, which goes to the heart of our conscience as a free people—to the meaning of the United States to all of its citizens and the meaning of this nation in the history of the world," he said.

The House Rules Committee begins hearings on civil rights Thursday. If they drag on, advocates of the bill are expected to push a discharge petition to bring it before the House. The petition had been signed by 170 members when the House adjourned.

The House finally passed the tax cut measure Sept. 25 after long committee sessions and behind-the-scenes maneuvers. The Senate Finance Committee resumes work on the bill Wednesday with more than half of the 56 amendments proposed since House passage still to be considered.

Congress is going back to work after a scant, eight-day breather. Its 1964 timetable is complicated by the fact that the national political conventions will be held this summer.

"If we do not move faster," Mansfield said Sunday on the NBC television interview program "Sunday," "it will very likely mean that we will have to come back to the session after the conventions and we are apt to have another 12-month Congress."

To speed things up, Mansfield advocated changes in rules and procedures, particularly the cloture rule. Southern senators are expected to mount a filibuster against the civil rights bill. To choke them off, two-thirds of the senators present and voting must consent. Mansfield said he would like to see this eased to three-fifths.

Mansfield has said the administration-supported Social Security-financed health care for the aged plan will be pressed at this session. The House Ways and Means Committee, still reported predominantly opposed to the plan, resumes hearings on the legislation Jan. 20.

Already passed by the Senate, but never acted on by the House, are:

—A youth employment bill designed to provide thousands of jobs in conservation camps and on local public service projects.

A move to put an additional $455 million into the depressed areas program was rejected last session by the House but approved by the Senate. The House will have another chance to vote on it.

Ed Sullivan At Last Gets Competition

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The first serious competition in years for the Ed Sullivan show—good, old fashioned vaudeville—turned up Saturday night on ABC. "The Hollywood Palace" as the new series is called, is a vast improvement on the Jerry Lewis program it replaced.

ABC sweetened the premiere show with some big names. Bing Crosby was host. Bob Newhart did one of his telephone monologues. Mickey Rooney was in a comedy sketch although it failed to come off very well.

There was an acrobatic team of a father and three young daughters, a dandy ax magician and some nice singing—by Bing and also his No. 1 boy, Gary.

The most attractive number was the Andre Tahon puppets, a group of demure little marionettes in nuns habits which went through some paces close to dancing to the tune of "Dominque."

Sullivan on his CBS show had a trump, however. He showed a tape made in Belgium last week of the singing Dominican sisters with "Soeur Sourire" herself playing guitar and singing the song which is a surprise hit record. It was a charming and happy start for his fast-paced show.

Still another quiz show made its debut on CBS Sunday afternoon. It is called "Alumni Fun" and features a competition between teams of graduates from two colleges for scholarship money.

The questions are designed for the amusement of the audience rather than to show the brilliance of prominent alumni. Smart undergraduates on NBC's "College Bowl" are asked to rattle off answers to tough questions. The old grads were asked to identify Y. A. Tittle from a picture on which was painted an elaborate and disguising hair-do.

The special salute to Jackie Gleason on CBS Saturday night consisted primarily of clips from Gleason movies, television shows and interviews. They showed him as a stylish actor, a comedian with great timing, a pretty good golfer and pool player, and a man with firm opinions—none of which is exactly news to Gleason fans.

Art Carney who seemed ill at ease in an unaccustomed role, introduced the various bits and pieces illustrating Gleason's career.

Most disappointing program of the weekend was Saturday night's "The Defenders," in which it made its occasional stab at comedy. It had the usually serious father-and-son team trying to make peace in the warring cast of a Broadway-bound show trying out in Boston.

Man Does Not Know Why He Robbed

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Robert Lee Pruitt, 36, father of eight, was being taken to jail on two charges of armed robbery when he asked officers to let him stop at his home to hold a prayer service with his family.

Detective Capt. E. E. Peppers said Sunday that he and Patrolman J. T. Newsome waited in the living room while the family assembled for the regular evening service. After it was over, Pruitt was escorted to jail.

When the officers asked Pruitt why he had twice held up a grocery store near his suburban East Point home, he replied, "I don't know."

TACKLED—ALMOST

"He made a most dramatic escape that day. The play began on the Michigan 46-yard line and Roger was 19 yards back of the line of scrimmage when two tacklers hit him. Going down, he passed and the play gained one yard."

Musical Star Does Not Sing Single Note

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In her second movie, British musical star Julie Andrews doesn't sing a note.

Says the star of the original "My Fair Lady":

"They were thinking of putting a line in the movie where someone asks me if I can sing. 'Not at all.' I was supposed to say. But they decided against it, arguing that it would take me out of character."

Two Keatings Will Not Speak to Each Other

DENVER (AP) — Dist. Atty. Bert M. Keating won't permit his deputies to sit down with Dist. Judge Edward Keating and drink a cup of coffee.

The two aren't related. They're not even talking.

The spat began when Judge Keating told newspaper reporters this week that DA Keating was too often unavailable to his own assistants, that trials have had to be delayed because of lack of liaison in the prosecutor's office.

The district attorney retorted that he works harder than does the judge, and Friday he ordered his deputies to stop having coffee with the judge.

The district attorney noted that Raymond Buckles, a disbarred attorney and bondsman convicted of receiving stolen goods, is "the constant coffee companion of the judge.

Replied Judge Keating:

"I defy Bert Keating or anyone else to show that a man's simply getting a cup of coffee has influenced the rights of anybody in this court."

Besides, said the judge, the district attorney's deputies gave him the coffee pot in the first place.

Dynamite Used to Put Out Gas Well Blaze

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP) — A searing gas well fire, shaped like a Bunsen burner flame and towering 350 feet high, was attacked here by a fire fighter using dynamite as a weapon.

The fire burned out of control more than 24 hours at a well 20 miles north of Carlsbad. The intense gas well torch was fed by 60 million cubic feet of gas per day. It could be seen last night by residents in Hobbs, 70 miles away.

Longtime observers of oil and gas well fires in this area of New Mexico are calling the fire, estimated to have caused more than one-half million dollars damage, the worst in the area's history.

The fire followed an explosion which occurred about 9 p.m. Thursday when drillers had reached the 7,000-foot level in the well site.

The Ryuku Islands are located in the East China Sea area where as many as 45 typhoons form annually.

Danny Kaye Says He Has Plenty Material

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The wiseacres were predicting that Danny Kaye would soon run out of material when he embarked on a weekly television show.

"You know what has happened?" asked Kaye. "In the shows I've done so far this season I have used only one of my old routines. That was the 'Balling of the Jack' number, and I did it only because Gene Kelly wanted to do it with me.

"I may not use another one of my acts for the remainder of the season. We've come up with so much material that there is no need to dip into the files. And this is the way I like it."

All-Time High Noted For Liquor Revenues

DENVER (AP) — Colorado liquor tax collections in 1963 hit an all-time high of $7,413,057, up $261,744 from the former high in 1962.

Secretary of State Byron Anderson reported $5,375,551 came from distilled or spirituous liquor, $1,629,740 from beer and $407,763 from wines.

Celebrates 94th Birthday

Mrs. Amis was born Jan. 2, 1868 at Newpoint, Mo., in Holt County. She was the fifth of ten children of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shields. At the age of ten, she moved with her parents to Overland, Kan. where she lived to womanhood. At that time the family lived fifty miles from the nearest railroad.

When 16, Mrs. Amis obtained a special permit to teach school, which she continued to do until her marriage to James W. Amis on May 10, 1891. She has three sons, John and Robert of Colorado Springs, and James of Bellevue, Wash. Two other sons, Harold and Cecil are deceased.

Mrs. Amis has a brother, Ed B. Shields, 90, in Lebanon, Kan., and a sister, Mrs. Birdie Shields Wentworth, 87, of Cormen, Okla. She has three grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Mrs. Amis moved to Manhattan, Kan. in 1925 and was appointed house mother to Kappa Sigma fraternity, where she served for 12 years. She retired at the age of 70 and went to Wichita, Kan. to live with her

Yule Activities Listed by Camp Fire Groups

The Camp Fire Girls activities of the Pikes Peak Area Council were many and varied over the Christmas holidays, with most of the groups selecting a special service project.

Several groups made Christmas gifts and decorative items for the bazaar held for CARIH (Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital).

The TaWanKa girls of Audubone made and decorated felt socks and the Junior High Camp Fire girls caroled for several shut-ins. The Aya Ta Wa Ka and Ki-A-Wa-Ta Camp Fire groups of Stratton Meadows sang carols at several nursing homes and gathered for parties afterward. Pike School groups also entertained with singing.

A worthwhile project which embodies the Camp Fire motto "Give Service" was the Stratton Meadows Horizon Club which adopted a needy family for Christmas giving.

Tea Loaf Hails for the Northwest

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A reader asks, "what is a filbert nut?" Here's the answer and an easy recipe:

The filbert is a cousin of the hazelnut. They are larger and some say more flavorful, due in part to specialized care and the rich Oregon soil in which they grow. Filberts are rich in nutrients.

FILBERT NUT tea loaf is easy to make.

Oregon Filbert Tea Loaf
Yield: 1 loaf

¾ cup chopped filberts
3 cups biscuit mix
¼ teaspoon cardamom
½ cup milk
½ cup honey
1 egg, beaten
½ cup sherry wine or ½ cup milk
Grated peel of 1 lemon

Toast shelled filberts at 275 degrees for 20 minutes. Stir filberts and cardamom into biscuit mix. Mix together milk, honey, egg, wine or milk and lemon peel. Combine the two mixtures only until blended. Pour into 9x3-inch greased loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes. Remove from oven and let stand on cool surface for 5 minutes. Turn out on rack to cool.

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Mediterranean influence dominated trends in home furnishings in 1963 and will continue to play a role in 1964.

Designers of furniture, fabrics, floor coverings, lamps and accessories borrowed liberally from each country along the coast of the Mediterranean.

Wrought iron was used as a base for occasional tables, as contrasting accents to woods and fabrics on chairs and sofas, and on lamps and decorative accessories.

Framed panels and moldings emphasized the classic architectural feelings of Italy and Greece. Colors were bright and bold, reflecting the Mediterranean's marine blues and sunny golds.

Throughout the Mediterranean groups there was a borrowing from individual countries . . . architectural effects from Spain, France and Italy, Moorish and Byzantine embellishments, Greek-inspired columns.

Designers of Mediterranean furnishings cruised closer to the Greek Islands. Consequently, many tables are supported by legs shaped like Greek columns and bearing classic scrolls and embellishments at the top.

There is greater use of olive woods, bleached rosewoods, and a stronger emphasis on grains.

The clean, uncluttered lines of modern designs continued in 1963 to rate high with consumers. Traditionalists were a very strong influence, although sources discounted early 1963 predictions that Americans were ready to return to dark wall coverings.

Several manufacturers have returned to designs popular during the 1930's. These works are characterized by heavy, overstuffed arms on sofas and chairs and extra plush upholstery.

Furniture, although machine made, has a greater look of hand craftsmanship, revealing a trend among top manufacturers to employ artists and designer-craftsmen.

Danish modern is shedding its right angles and linear forms to accentuate curves and soft shapes, although there are many handsomely stated thin line pieces reflecting earlier Scandinavian stylings.

Danish renaissance styles based on designs of the 1600's are appearing on the scene. These pieces are heavy in appearance and done in textured, rustic, porous oak or a new antiqued finish in the smoky color of green tobacco.

Stained, leaded glass fronts ornament chests, end tables and dressers.

In the floor coverings, a generation reared on wall-to-wall beige carpets will be introduced to bright-colored Orientals, Aubussons and Savonneries.

Interior designs and furniture manufacturers are having Napoleonic visions of grandeur as Empire fashions continue to highlight top collections.

There are Napoleonic campaign chests, folding canvas chairs, and drum tables. In accessories, busts and statues of Napoleon strike familiar poses for pure ornament or for lamp bases. Napoleon campaign scenes are used in murals in formal entertaining areas.

One item to complement the trend to sit-down dining is a "Dina - China," a hutch that opens up into a table. It is lined in white formica and has built-in outlets for electric appliances. Also interesting are serving carts that turn into breakfast bars for the space-conscious homemaker.

"Warmed - up" colors will be popular, but generally, the color picture remains questionable. Many stylists say that the trend is back to pastels as a relief from the many dark hues in use, while others declare the darker trend has yet to be accepted at the consumer level.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

To keep a little girl's hair ribbons always pressed . . . when you wash them, wrap them around empty thread spools and allow them to dry that way. The ribbons are always self-pressed.

Also, it is an easier way to keep them sorted and in order, and they never get wrinkled. —Mother

Could be fastened with a rubber-band. Great idea you shared, Mommy. —Heloise

---

Word Of Caution From A Reader:

I am a disgusted seamstress. I have taken out and replaced so many zippers that I would like to caution your readers to "Read The Fine Print On Zippers" before buying them. They often state "Iron as nylon" or "Do not use hot iron."

In the manufacturers opinion this is enough warning, but with a dozen cotton dresses coming in each day with this type of zipper, I would like someone to tell me how I can possibly iron a cotton dress (which always requires a hot iron) without touching the zipper?

It might save someone not only the trouble of going to town again and trying to find a metal zipper, but the expense, time and energy of replacing it. Read your label, gals. Let's stick by each other. —Seamstress

---

Remember Joe Blow? The little guy who writes the instructions? "read" before you buy . . . or try . . .

I agree with that seamstress. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I clean my clothespins by putting them in a pail of water and pouring half a cup of household bleach over them. I let this stand sometimes as long as overnight.

After they are bleached, put the pail under your water faucet and let the cold water run over them and tumble gently and the bleach is rinsed off.

Remove and lay on newspapers. The newspaper takes up the heavy moisture. Later, put them on the clothesline to dry. —Mrs. Burdin

Dear Heloise:

When tomatoes are plentiful, did you know that they can be frozen whole and are absolutely delicious in homemade soup? Just defrost them before placing them in the kettle. —Mrs. Een Weisz

Dear Heloise:

Here's a small hint from another mother.

I keep my baby food jars together in one neat, easy-to-reach spot in our refrigerator by keeping them in the plastic trays that packaged tomatoes come in!

It means no more grasping around for that lost jar, spilling the contents, etc. Every little jar is in place and easily reached without being spilled. Furthermore, by pulling out the plastic tomato tray, I can see the half-used jars . . . so nothing is wasted. —Mrs. M. L. R.

Dear Heloise:

I am an oldster. I am past 80. I have a daughter who is 52. I am cold-blooded and my daughter has arthritis. We have found that sleeping on blanket-sheets (an inexpensive type of cotton blanket that many people use in cold weather in place of sheets) are the best thing for us.

We have one complaint. Just how do you keep them on the bed? —Oldster

Anyone know? If so do drop a line and let's help this woman. Write to Heloise in care of this paper. And while you're at it . . . include your troubles, too. Maybe we can help you. —Heloise

---

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

Yellow Rice

- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon turmeric
- 1¼ cups boiling water
- 1 cup converted long-grain rice
- 1 canned pimiento, cut in thin strips

In a 1-quart saucepan, stir together the salt, turmeric and boiling water; add the rice. Bring to simmering: cover; simmer over low heat until rice is tender and water absorbed—about 25 minutes. Fluff rice with a fork; turn into a serving dish and garnish with pimiento. Makes 3 servings.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Rough Deal!

DEAR ABBY: A friend took me to a card reader yesterday just for fun, and I haven't been able to sleep a wink since. Although I don't have any confidence in this woman's ability to read the future, she knocked me right off my feet. She said that my husband was going to die shortly, that he had been having blackouts at work but didn't want to tell me for fear of worrying me. She said I shouldn't let on that I know because it might upset him and he might die sooner. She also said someone wished me bad luck and she could break the spell by selling me some good luck charms at $10.00 each for myself and my children. (I didn't buy any. I think she's nuts.) She charges $5.00 a reading. I'd like to report this woman. But where? —DISTURBED

DEAR DISTURBED: Start with your local District Attorney. The "reader" sounds like a public nuisance. The "friend" sounds like an enemy.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl who has been wearing eyeglasses since I was 6. I have to wear them all the time now, for reading, writing, watching TV and for seeing things far away, too. My problem is the ugly red marks I get on my face. Do you know of any creams or treatments that will take off those terrible red marks? —MARKED

DEAR MARKED: Go to your optician and ask him to check your eyeglasses. If they fit properly, they should not make ugly red marks on your face.

DEAR ABBY: I read your reply to "JERSEY IN KOREA," who was having such a rough time being true to his wife back in the States. He must be in the Army or Air Force. I am a Marine Sgt., who is away from my family, too, and it will be a long time before I get home, but I'm not having that problem. You see, Abby, my father was on the road a lot when I was a kid and I asked him that same question. His answer to me has been my comfort these lonely nights. "Son," he said, "can you see me eating from the garbage can when I can look forward to a good meal served by your sweet and clean mother?" —Sincerely, JIM, U. S. M. C.

DEAR ABBY: My son thinks it is improper to give his intended wife an engagement ring until after she has received her final decree of divorce from her present husband. I disagree with him, especially since they have plans to marry immediately after the decree is granted. We have decided to go along with your opinion. Thank you. —HAPPY MOTHER-IN-LAW-TO-BE

DEAR HAPPY: I agree with your son.

Household Hints

United Press International

Don't throw away old handbags. Large ones make good first aid, sewing or "what-not" kits.

A few drops of lemon juice sprinkled on freshly cut fruit keeps the fruit from turning dark. The juice is a mild bleaching agent—it's also effective in keeping white vegetables white.

Rust spots can be removed from metal tools safely and easily with a typewriter eraser.

Put rings and watches in your pocket instead of laying them on wash basin when you wash your hands.

Whole eggs act as a binder in croquettes and meat loaves. They also thicken liquids as in pie fillings, custards, gravies, soups and sauces.

The enameled sections of a stove may crack if it is washed when hot.

Colored bed sheets make attractive summer bedspreads. Dress them up with an easy to iron on applique.

Jellied Grapes

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1½-cup sugar
- 2 cups orange juice
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1½ cups halved seeded white grapes

In the top of a double boiler, stir together the gelatin and sugar; add 1 cup of the orange juice. Stir over boiling water until orange juice is quite hot and glatin dissolves; remove from heat. Stir in remaining 1 cup orange juice and lemon juice; chill until slightly thickened. Fold in grapes. Spoon into six 6-ounce (¾ cup) custard cups or dessert dishes. Chill until set; cover until served. Gelatin will be soft but may be unmolded from custard cups; have water for dipping cups medium hot. Make 6 servings.

Note: Grapes may be peeled before halving and seeding.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. adv.

Goren on Bridge

By CHARLES H. GOREN

ANSWRES TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold: Spades, 6-3; Hearts, Q-9-6-2; Diamonds, A-K-Q-8; Clubs, 7-4-2.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Hrt.	1 Spd.	?

What do you bid?

A. — Three hearts. An approach bid of two diamonds, while it might work out as well, is not our choice. The three heart bid describes a hand with four trumps and at least 13 supporting points. Having made his call we are relieved of obligation to take any further drastic step.

Q. 2—As South you hold: Spades, 8; Hearts, K-9-8-6; Diamonds, K-10-5-3; Clubs, J-8-7-3.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 Hrt.	Dbl.	?

What do you bid?

A.—Three hearts. On hands of only moderate strength where a take-out double has been made and you possess a good fit with partner's opening, best results are usually obtained by offering an immediate jump raise. This serves to disrupt enemy communications, but at the same time does not prevent partner from proceeding to game if he has a really good hand.

Q. 3—As South you hold: Spades, K-2; Hearts, A-6-3-2; Diamonds, 8-6-5-4-2; Clubs, K-2.

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 Dia.	1 Spd.	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—Two spades. A doubleton honor is deemed to be normal trump support for an overcall. Nothing is to be gained by a bid of one notrump, for your hand is not exactly balanced and none of your strength is in the adverse bid suit.

Q. 4—As South you hold: Spades, K-Q-7; Hearts, A-J-10-6-3; Diamonds, J-6; Clubs, K-8-7.

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 Spd.	2 Dia.	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—Three notrump. You have 14 high card points facing a partner who was able to make an overcall at the two level. This should be enough to produce a game and in light of your spade holding, a nine trick contract should prove the easiest to fulfill. Since your partner chose to overcall rather than make a take-out double, the prospects for a good fit in hearts are greatly diminished.

Q. 5—As South you hold: Spades, Q-J-3-2; Hearts, J-10-9; Diamonds, 7-3; Clubs, Q-7-5-3.

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 Clb.	Pass	1 Hrt.	Dbl.
2 Hrts.	Pass	3 Hrts.	3 Spds.
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A. — Four spades. What appears to be a very indifferent holding to you should prove very welcome to a partner who could first double and then contract for nine tricks entirely on his own. Your trump holding plus the doubleton diamond should bring that total to 10.

Q. 6—As South you hold: Spades, K-Q-6-3; Hearts, 8-6-5; Diamonds, K-J-4; Clubs, K-Q-9.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 Clb.	Pass
1 Spd.	Pass	2 Spds.	Pass
3 Dia.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. At the outset your hand appeared to be the veriest of minimums, but in the light of bidding developments you have a very representative holding and it is suggested that you contract for game. Had partner's second bid been in hearts, no such action could be contemplated.

Q. 7—As South you hold: Spades, J-9-3; Diajonds, K-10-6-5; Clubs, K-J-10-8-7-3.

Partner opens one notrump.

What is your response?

A.—Three clubs. This is perhaps somewhat abnormal, but we can think of no better call. If partner rebids three hearts, a return to three notrump is indicated. If he bids anything other than three notrump, then you should plan to play at a minor suit contract.

Q. 8—As South you hold: Spades, A-Q-9-8-5-4-2; Hearts, K-Q-8; Diamonds, K-Q-2.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 Spd.	2 Clbs.	Pass	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three clubs. This hand possesses tremendous offensive possibilities despite partner's failure to take positive action. A jump rebid in spades is acceptable, but the cue bid is preferred because of your tolerance for a red suit contract should partner have great length in either of those suits. A reopening double is not recommended because of your lack of preparation for a "leave in."

Good Manners

Easiest way to keep peace with neighbors — don't take sides in their family disputes.

Trading Heavy In Irregular Market Advance

NEW YORK (AP) —Steels were in demand as the stock market maintained an irregular advance early this afternoon. Trading was heavy.

The market was stronger early in the morning than it was later. Many recent high flyers were clipped by profit taking.

Brokers reported a pent-up demand by investment funds of various types to establish positions in common stocks.

A parade of sizable blocks, mostly at higher prices marked the opening. Once the initial wave of demand had been satisfied, however, the list backed away sharply.

Steels remained higher following a report of surprising strength in steel orders during the usually sluggish holiday weeks.

Nonferrous metals, rails and utilities also were on the upbeat. Motors turned mixed. Tobaccos, airlines, chemicals and aerospace issues also were irregular.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .7 at 287.9 with industrials up .4, rails up .7 and utilities up .6.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .96 at 768.64.

Both averages were above record closing highs they established Friday.

G. D. Searle, which soared following its admission to Big Board trading last week, fell more than 2.

American Tobacco held a fractional gain following word of its new cigarette brand which will be labeled for its contents of "tar" and nicotine. Other cigarette stocks showed a lower trend. The U.S. Public Health report on smoking and health is expected to be issued Saturday.

Prices moved higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were unchanged in moderately active trading.

Mexican Art Draws Crowds

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The line of people waiting to see the show sometimes extends around the block. On Sundays 4,000 have been turned away. It has been such a hit that it has been held over.

A new movie or stage sensation? No — some of the attractions in this show are 3,500 years old. It is the masterworks of Mexican art exhibit at the County Museum.

The museum has asked for and recived from the Mexican government an extension of the show until Feb. 23 — it was to close last week. By happy coincidence, President Johnson and President Lopez Mateos will be meeting in Los Angeles Feb. 22, and it is hoped that they will visit the show.

Such a distinguished visit would further enhance the remarkable success of the Mexican art exhibit, which demonstrates, says museum director Dr. Richard F. Brown, 'the public's hunger for first-class art events."

Brown expects a quarter of a million persons will have seen the show when the five-month run ends.

"The number of repeats is amazing," he said.

"We're also drawing a lot of the local Mexican-American population. Many of them have never been to Mexico and they are naturally interested to see their heritage of art."

What they see is a rich panorama, ranging from the vigorous pre-Columbian statuary to the modern classics of Rivera and Orozco to richly imaginative crafts of rural Mexico. Acquisition of the exhibit was a coup for Los Angeles since it has appeared in no other American city.

"The exhibit had toured 12 European cities and the Mexican government was getting a bit edgy about having its treasures gone so long," Brown related.

Brown had pleaded for the exhibit but the authorities made no decision. Then he and museum directors of other American cities were summoned to the Mexican Embassy in Washington last March to discuss possibilities.

"Fortunately my Spanish is pretty good," said Brown. "Also fortunately, I was placed at dinner beside the ambassador's wife and opposite the director of the exhibit. My pleas were fervent."

They also proved effective.

Study of Economics Urged for Americans

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ignorance of the American public on "simple economic principles is both shocking and frightening," Dean Helen C. Canoyer, Cornell University, reported at a recent meeting of the Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

Dean Canoyer, chairman of President Johnson's Consumer Advisory Council, suggested that every American learn elementary economics. She said there also is a crying need for more economic classes in schools.

Nose Should Be Blown With Open Nostrils

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nose should be blown only with both nostrils open, especially if you have a cold.

Blowing with one nostril closed, warns an editorial in the New York State Journal of Medicine, develops back pressure which may force open the tubes leading to the middle ear. During the acute stage of a cold, germ-laden secretion from the upper throat may thus be driven into the middle ear, and lead to infection there.

Consumers still buy most of their potatoes fresh, the U.S. Department of Agriculture notes. However, one-fourth of the potatoes eaten last year were chip, frozen French fries, dehydrated or other forms of processed potatoes.

Hitler Got Advance Word On Bloody Dieppe Raid

By TOM A. CULLEN

LONDON (NEA)—The Dieppe raid, in which 3,372 Canadian commandos were either killed, wounded or taken prisoner, was one of the bloodiest Allied disasters of World War II.

The failure of the Dieppe invasion of August, 1942, usually is put down to a combination of bad planning and bad luck. But now it appears that Hitler may have been warned of the raid in advance.

Not only had the Germans broken the British naval code before the Dieppe raid, but they also may have received inside information concerning the raid from an Allied source.

Such is the view of David Irving, a young British historian, who has been examining captured German war documents. In fact, Irving, who is the author of a best-seller on the bombing of Dresden, has kicked up quite a controversy with his findings.

Among others, Capt. Stephen Roskill, the official British naval historian, denies the possibility that Hitler was tipped off in advance. It was the German victories against Russia which caused Hitler to anticipate an Allied attack on the French coast, according to Roskill.

The dictator correctly estimated that the Allies would attack in order to relieve Nazi pressure in the east, he claims. This, and not a security leak, explains the German high state of readiness in Normandy, says Capt. Roskill.

Certainly the Germans were waiting for the 5,000 men of the 2nd Canadian Division when they waded ashore at Dieppe at dawn on August 19, 1942. Some of them never reached the beach. Others died in the sand dunes where British honeymooners had once picnicked.

Those who made the shore met with only limited success. They occupied the casino, blasted snipers out of boarded-up hotels, destroyed gun emplacements. Many Canadians were shot down in Dieppe's narrow streets, or staggered, wounded back to the beach.

Nine hours after it started, the show was all over. The survivors backed off the flaming beach, leaving behind 593 dead commandos, 1,901 Canadians who were taken prisoner. Another 287 men were reported missing, while 591 wounded managed to get back to England.

Admiral Mountbatten, who had planned the raid, tried to make a victory out of it. "It is impossible to overestimate the value of the Dieppe raid," . . . I have no doubt that the Battle of Normandy was won on the beaches of Dieppe."

Mountbatten also denied that the Germans were tipped off to the raid in advance. "So little were the Germans suspecting an actual raid on this day, that they had given unusually late leave to the fighter pilots stationed in the vicinity."

But Irving claims that Hitler not only knew that the assault would take place on Dieppe, but he knew the approximate date.

According to the historian, Hitler, in a top secret dispatch, warned his commander-in-chief of the impending raid just five weeks before it happened.

Hitler said that an Allied landing was indicated by "a flood of reports from agents in Britain and other intelligence sources." He also spoke of a "strong concentration of assault craft in southern England."

The fuehrer concluded: "This is most urgent — the Channel coast area Dieppe - Le Havre-Normandy is held to be in particular danger, as this sector can be easily reached by the enemy air force with fighter cover."

Then on August 17, two days before the Dieppe raid, Luftwaffe squadron and wing commanders were summoned to a conference by Lieut. Gen. Kessler, director of Atlantic operations.

They were told that the Allies were planning to launch a five-pronged attack. Dieppe was to be the center of the attack, while sideshow attacks were to be launched in order to cut the town off from the flank and the rear.

As it happened, this was exactly the strategy which the Canadians, under command of Maj. Gen. John Hamilton Roberts, pursued. The result has sometimes been described as being as wasteful and as futile as the charge of the Light Brigade.

Combination Of Factors Cut Outflow of Gold

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Busy gold miners and wheat-hungry Russians and less jittery hoarders, each in their fashion, helped the United States hold down its losses of the metal in 1963.

Few expect the outflow to be stopped entirely in 1964 since the basic cause remains: Excess dollars in foreign hands. But government officials and international bankers alike take comfort in any partial plugging of the drain which reached alarming proportions in 1960 and persisted through 1961 and 1962.

Here are the cold figures: The U.S. Treasury's monetary gold stock dropped $465 million in 1963 to $15.5 billion, roughly what it was when World War II started in 1939. World upheaval had sent the U.S. reserves to their peak of $24.8 billion in August 1949.

Since then other nations busily rebuilding their own reserves and often using surplus U.S. dollars from our continuing deficit in the balance of payments have steadily whittled down the American gold reserves. The U.S. loss was $912 million in 1962 and $877 million in 1961.

But last year the United States and nine other leading financial nations agreed to help each other protect reserves from speculators or the temporary strains of trade imbalance. This pact apparently worked well.

At the same time gold mined outside the Communist part of the world rose five per cent to add $1.4 billion to gold supplies. Russians sold an estimated total of $400 million worth to the West, mostly for grain purchases, thus further fattening available supplies.

And speculators were fairly inactive, with the London free-market price holding close to the official one for U.S. Treasury sales, $35 an ounce, plus 8¾ cents handling charges. In the October 1960 rush to turn dollars in for gold, the price had gone above $40 an ounce in London.

Gold production outside the Communist world last year is estimated at 40 million ounces or more. About 10 million ounces of that went into monetary reserves, and an equal amount was taken for industrial uses. This would leave about 20 million ounces going into private hands, either for hoarding (historically popular in many parts of the world; or for speculation that the price might rise in the future.

Monetary reserves are usually a combination of gold and holdings of the currencies of other nations. The U.S. dollar is the favorite, with the British pound next. Most European nations like to keep most of their reserves in gold.

Gold holdings of all the non-Communist nations save the United States are now around $24 billion. So the $15.5 billion U.S. Treasury stock is considered by many in financial circles a pretty healthy percentage, about the same ratio as before the World War II rocking of the international monetary boat.

PLANE TROUBLE

GUNNISON (UPI)— Gov. John Love made it back to Denver Sunday, but it took the State Patrol to do it. The governor was aboard a Frontier Airlines plane which blew a tire on landing here. No one was injured. Love made the rest of his trip by car, changing patrol cars on Monarch Pass, Trout Creek Pass, and just east of Kenosha Pass, where his official car went to meet him. Love had been in Grand Junction to address the Western Colorado Horticultural Society Friday night.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — One of the refreshing aspects of the Johnson Administration is that the new President is giving us political slogans again. They had been out of style under JFK, who went in for campaign themes and never even tried to coin a slogan.

With Johnson it is certainly different. He has come up with a "peace offensive" aimed at seeking a new "peace breakthru."

But even more clearly tuned to presidential 1964 is Johnson's tag of "A home for every man" placed on the comprehensive housing program he will send to Congress.

The President has also been emphasizing in his drive for federal economies that he wants "a dollar's value for a dollar spent."

These are all good, solid phrases with considerable merit and are likely to catch on as just the kind of slogans that tend to simplify (or oversimplify) issues in a national election.

That "home for every man" slogan could have significant political oomph. It recalls Huey Long's use of a somewhat similar phrase to build up his political power back in the depression days of the 1930s —"Every man a king."

As a sucker in the past for a good political slogan, we think it will lend excitement and sparkle to the fall elections to have them tossed around again, whether they confuse or help the voter make up his mind.

They did not really go out of style until the 1960 campaign, altho they started to get old-fashioned in 1956. Before that, political slogans were traditional in election campaigns.

THAT CHICKEN IN EVERY POT

Remember in 1956 — when the Republicans pushed "Everything booming but the guns." Back in 1928 there was Hoover's White House appeal of "Two cars in every garage — a chicken in every pot."

In 1916, Woodrow Wilson won reelection on "He kept us out of war," and for many years before that the GOP capitalized effectively on "the full dinner pail."

"Of course, thru recent years there have been like partisan phrases that have a slogan quality about them — like "soft on Communism," "90 miles from our shores" and "throw the rascals out."

Or, for that matter, the hackneyed but still effective "peace and prosperity" slogan.

It is our guess that the President's "unrelenting peace offensive" and his "home for every man" will be repeated many and many a time between now and the November election. And as the campaign develops, a whole flock more of Johnsonisms of the slogan variety will crop up.

This could not have been true had John F. Kennedy lived. As we said, he was a theme man, not a slogan man.

The same was true in 1960. Richard M. Nixon also was a theme man. In effect, they both subscribed to the Murray Chotiner theory of how best to run a campaign. Chotiner managed Nixon's campaign for the Vice Presidency in 1952.

Chotiner always opposed a slogan for a campaign, holding that too many times the opposition may twist it or turn it.

RECALLS IKE'S 1952 THEME

He has explained in the book "Politics U. S. A." (Doubleday, publishers) the value of a theme as opposed to a simple slogan. In the 1952 first Eisenhower campaign, he points out, the theme was: "There was a mess in Washington."

But it would appear at this time, as Johnson tries out phrases like "A home for every man," that the President leans to the view that a slogan has a lot more merit than Chotiner thinks.

If so, he probably would agree with the opinion of L. Richard Guylay, who disagrees with Chotiner and is a former public relations director of the Republican National Committee.

"The public is slogan-conscious," says Guylay. "It likes to have its ideas presented in capsule form. A good slogan is a powerful asset. It does a job night and day, but we have to remember this — that no matter what the slogan is, it is good or it becomes effective only thru constant use."

But, as Chotiner, argued before, a slogan is tricky. It can lash back, once events occur over which politicians have no control. In 1946, for example, the Republicans swept the Congressional elections making significant use of "Had enough? Vote Republican."

In 1948, the voters had had enough of a Republican Congress, and the "had enough" slogan contributed greatly to Harry Truman's surprise victory over Gov. Dewey.

The "peace, prosperity and progress" chant of Republicans in 1956 similarly backfired in 1958 off-year elections.

IT GAVE KENNEDY SOME WEAPONS

It even gave Kennedy in 1960 a convenient peg to hang his debating hat on, for he charged that instead of peace the Eisenhower Administration has produced "brinkmanship", instead of prosperity there was an economic lag and instead of progress there had been eight years of standing still.

So if any influential Democrat wants to do a good deed for his party this early in the year, he might urge the White House to go easy on tossing out slogans without first having the smartest Madison Avenue publicists in for a huddle.

The "peace offensive" business aimed at achieving a new "peace breakthru" could come a cropper overnight. The late President Kennedy never allowed the American people to think there was a Chinaman's chance of his achieving "peace in our time."

But, of course, he was a theme advocate and, because he was, he carefully avoided giving the public the impression — thru a slogan — that he would try to deliver what he felt he couldn't.

Child Actress Taken From Her Father

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Police today are seeking the mother of child actress Wendy Diane Wayland on a child stealing complaint that accuses her of taking the 7-year-old girl from her father.

Chief Deputy Dist. Atty. Manley J. Bowler issued the complaint after seeing a letter which he said indicated the mother, Mrs. Barbara Gardner, 30, has the child somewhere in California.

Fire Department Assists Stricken Man

The fire department was called at 9:26 p.m. Sunday when Dr. R. M. Fulbright, 89, had difficulty in breathing at his home, 525 N. Nevada Ave. The Company 1 resuscitator crew responded and an inhalator was used for 20 minutes, when normal breathing was restored.

At 8:01 p.m. Sunday resuscitator crews of Companies 1 and 5 treated Herbert Owen Barnes, 53, who suffered an apparent heart attack at 3221 W. Colorado Ave. He was then taken to St. Francis Hospital.

A trash fire in a garage at the residence of Wilbur Almquist, 2920 Hayman St., did a small amount of damage Sunday. Company 4, responding to a 10:45 a.m. alarm, extinguished the blaze. The fire was of undetermined origin.

Fingerprints Found in 11th Boston Slaying

BOSTON (AP) —Fingerprints found in the apartment of 19-year-old Mary Ellen Sullivan apparently offer the only solid clue to the 11th unsolved sex strangling in this area since June 1962.

Miss Sullivan's nude body was found Saturday night in her second-floor apartment on Charles Street, at the foot of Boston's Beacon Hill. Like the victims in the other 10 unsolved cases, she had been sexually molested.

The fingerprints found in Miss Sullivan's apartment, which she shared with two other young women, were sent to Washington for check with FBI files.

Police Commissioner Edmund McNamara assigned 30 detectives to a house-to-house check of the Beacon Hill area. The killer throttled Miss Sullivan with a nylon stocking and two nylon scarves.

An 18-year-old boy from suburban Newton was questioned for hours after two young women reported he forced them at knife point to drive him to Newton Saturday night from the Boston Common underground garage. The garage is only a short distance from the Sullivan apartment.

Miss Sullivan, a clerk in a Boston finance company, moved into the apartment Jan. 1. She had been living in Whitman, Mass.

The manner of Miss Sullivan's slaying bore many similarities to the other unsolved stranglings. Only one woman had been strangled manually. The others were killed with articles of clothing, usually stockings. In each case there was no evidence of forced entry into the victims' homes.

Miss Sullivan was the youngest victim. The oldest was Ida Irga, 75, slain Aug. 19, 1962, in her apartment, only a few blocks from Miss Sullivan's home.

Barry to Go All The Way in Race For White House

By WALTER R. MEARS

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)— Conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, seeking the Republican presidential nomination to offer the nation "a clear choice" of philosophies, is determined to go all the way in his bid for the White House.

Win or lose in the presidential primaries he enters, Goldwater will stick with his race for the nomination until the Republican national convention chooses its candidate next July.

Nevertheless, Goldwater announced also for re-election to the Senate seat he has held for 12 years.

"I find no incompatibility in these two candidacies," he said.

The filing deadline for the Arizona senatorial primary is July 10, three days before the GOP convention opens in San Francisco.

Goldwater, who had insisted he would not run for both the Senate and the White House, would not say whether he will withdraw from the Senate race if he wins the presidential nomination.

"I will cross that bridge when I come to it," he said.

Four years ago, Goldwater called President Johnson a political trickster when the Texan ran for both the vice presidency and the Senate.

Kitchel said both he and Goldwater are confident the senator can win the nomination.

"I think we'll probably have it wrapped up by early spring," he said in an interview.

Goldwater and his wife plan to return to Washington today to launch the campaign he announced Friday when he hobbled on crutches to the patio of his hilltop home.

"I will seek the Republican presidential nomination . . . because of the principles in which I believe and because I am convinced that millions of Americans share my belief in those principles," he declared.

"I have decided to do this also because I have not heard from any announced Republican candidate a declaration of conscience or of political position that could possibly offer to the American people a clear voice in the next presidential election."

Goldwater's first business as a candidate: removal of a heavy cast from his right foot. He had a calcium deposit removed from his heel four days before Christmas and is still on crutches.

When the cast is swapped for a lighter version, Goldwater is expected to discard the crutches. That will give him more of the mobility a candidate needs.

Armed Forces News

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON (Special to Gazette Telegraph) — Army's Mobility Command, an element of the Army Materiel Command, is undergoing a major reorganization. As of now the AMC is headquartered in Detroit. In the reorganization, a Mobility Supply Center will be set up in St. Louis and the one now located in Columbus, Ohio, will be closed down.

Army officials at the Pentagon level are making no comment at this time regarding talk here that Maj. Gen. Alden K. Sibley, CG of the Mobility Command may be assigned to Headquarters of the Army Materiel Command.

The inspector general of the Army has been directed to investigate the performance of equivalent or "makeup" training time of not only the National Guard but also of the Reserve.

Vice Adm. E. P. Holmes will move from Pacific Fleet Amphibious Force to First Fleet, with Rear Adm. John B. Colwell getting the Pacific Command and his third star.

The Air Force recently screened more than 9,500 active duty Air Reserve officers who were completing 20 years of active duty and, from his selected approximately 1,900 for an additional retention tour of two years. An additional 100 were selected for "indefinite retention." Active duty Reserve officers of both the Army and Air Force normally retire after 20 years of service with 50 per cent retired pay whereas the regular officers are expected to stay for 30 when they receive 75 per cent retired pay.

The Air Force fight to retain its pro pay program is reported as being productive of good morale. The other services are still working on a solution to the change the last pay raise law caused with many protests still coming in from affected enlisted men. As explained by Pentagon personnel planners the Army and Navy raised monthly pro pay to $50, $75 and $100 but reduced the number that could qualify. The Air Force on the other hand decided to make no change in its rate of $30 and $60 monthly pro pay and left the number of eligibles unchanged.

Civilian teachers in U.S. operated schools overseas were given a $100 annual increase effective at the beginning of the current school year. Tentative reports studied by Pentagon personnel planners seem to indicate that this raise in pay has not proved as stimulating as anticipated so the word is that the 1965 budget may ask for an additional $200 annual increase for these teachers. Plans now being worked out may raise this amount dependent on what savings the Pentagon can make in other areas.

Recently Defense officials referred to our having a "comparative" force of six divisions in Europe which has been the subject of some controversial discussions here. No definition as to the meaning of "comparative" has been made public by the Pentagon.

In the current issue of "Army," the official magazine of the Association of the U.S. Army, Army retired Gen. Bruce Clarke, former CinC USA Europe, has a recommended-reading article on this. It is his contention that the claim to "having equivalent of six divisions may prove awkward later and that it is inaccurage military bookkeeping." Gen. Clarke contends that what we now have in Germany is a balanced five-division force tailored for the military conditions "we are likely to face there."

The Department of Labor has issued an official statement that the cost of living index reached 107.4 per cent in November. When it has reached 108.4 per cent, the retired pay of the military will be increased.

The Air Force has vacancies for officers and airmen for assignment as air attaches, in more than 40 countries. Selection is now being made by Headquarters of the Air Force. An average of 12 to 14 months training is required for this type of assignment.

Pentagon sources say that 26 skills of the Air Force limited to staff sergeants, will soon be opened to AIC's. Changes in the airman classification manual on this are due out in June but will not be effective until September.

New personnel policies of the Air Force will give thousands of airmen, scheduled for administrative discharge, a second change "to make the grade." The Air Force annually separates 10,000 airmen as "unfit" or "unsuitable" for the service.

The Pentagon will make a strong drive in 1964 among congressional members for retention of the provision in the pending ROTC bill that retired officers and non-commissioned officers be employed in the program to replace active duty personnel, or, to supplement the active duty personnel so detailed, as administrators and instructors. Retired personnel hired under the proposed program would receive the full amount of their retired pay plus an additional amount equal to the difference in retired pay and the full pay and allowances that they would receive if on active duty. The government would pay half of this additional income.

With respect to the junior ROTC instructional staff, the pending measure contains authority for the Defense Department to recall retired officers and men to active duty to perform instructional and administrative duties.

Army "JAG" Maj. Gen. Charles L. Decker is retiring from active duty to take a civilian appointment as director of a national project aimed at securing more effective legal counsel for those defendants unable to pay for it. The project will be organized by the National Legal Aid and Defender Association and is to be financed over a five-year period by a $2.3 million dollar grant from the Ford Foundation.

The last individualistic "symbol" of the Navy, the wearing of brown soes with summer uniform by its officers, is reported to be "out" by Pentagon sources. The Marines, earlier in 1963, dropped brown shoes. The anticpated action by the Navy will mean that all of the services will wear black shoes the year round.

The Air Force is expected to make public late in January its list for promotions to temporary major. If final touches are completed in time, the "continuation" list of captains will be made public at the same time.

The new Defense Department joint regulations effective in March will replace separate "regs" for each of the services. These will govern shipment to and from overseas of military personnel-owned cars. New regulations are not expected to change any present entitlements.

Pentagon sources say that the Army and Air Force Motion Picture Service will not increase the theatre admission price of 25 cents. Every now and then when the military theatre runs a special and the admission prices are slightly higher.

So far, the Pentagon has not effectuated its directive that local commanders put local business places "off limits" if such establishments do not de-segregate. One recommendation has been rejected. This would set up a corps of "special integregation" officers to work at the local level. Defense officials say that they prefer to handle the problem thru the chain of command system.

Hawaiian Head To Visit AFA Wednesday

The lieutenant governor of the newest of the 50 states will visit the Air Force Academy Wednesday.

The Hon. William S. Richardson, lieutenant governor of Hawaii, is scheduled to arrive at the academy around 1 p.m. He will be met by one of the top officers and will receive the mission briefing and tour of academic area facilities.

Richardson is in the U. S. to attend meetings of the 7th Civil Defense Region which includes western states and Hawaii.

He is being accompanied by Maj. Gen. Robert L. Stevenson, adjutant general of the Hawaii National Guard and State Senator Sakae Takahashi.

The lieutenant governor will also visit NORAD during his stay.

AFA Shares Christmas With 6,000 Visitors

The Air Force Academy shared its Christmas with nearly 6,000 visitors in 1963!

A total of 5,957 Colorado residents and tourists attended the 32 performances of the Academy Planetarium's annual Christmas program, "The Star in the East."

Attending the program has become a tradition with many Colorado Springs and Denver area families.

The current planetarium program, "Our Island Universe," runs until March 15 and is open to the public. Performances are scheduled Saturday and Sunday afternoons at 2 and 3:15 p.m.

Palmer High To Enter Machine Contest

William J. Palmer High School is one of nine schools in Colorado which are participating in a Vocational Education Machine Shop Contest. The contest is national in scope and is being sponsored by the Wilkie Brothers Foundation in cooperation with the American Vocational Association.

The contest will begin with local competition between four students in the Palmer High School Vocational Machine Shop under the supervision of the instructor, J. Russell Barron.

Projects constructed by these students during the specified contest time will be judged by a local committee. The winning project will be sent to Denver to be judged by a state committee along with local winners from the eighth other schools in Colorado.

The prize for the winner of the state contest and his instructor will be an all-expense trip to the 1964 New York World Fair for one week.

The student and the instructor will spend a part of this week working in the Wilkie Brothers exhibit which will depict the historical development of machine tools, the contribution of machine tools to the standard of living of man, and the importance of vocational training to prepare qualified machinists and machine tool operators.

Projects built in competition for this contest must be made up of two or more articulating parts and must involve the use of a minimum of four major machine tools from a list specified by the contest sponsors.

Students at Palmer High School who will participate are: Dale Gardner, Gene Lind, Gary Johnson, and Jerry Greible. Judging for the local contest will be held late in February and for the state contest early in March. Contest winners will attend the Worlds Fair sometime between April 22 and Oct. 18, 1964.

CU Extension To Teach Man, Society Course

"Man Against Society," taught by John Morris, will begin Wednesday, from 8 to 10 p.m. at the University of Colorado Extension Center.

The class will meet once a week for 10 weeks.

Selected readings and films will be utilized as the class explores ideas of conformity, rebellion, isolation, freedom and community. Enrollment for the class is still open at the C.U. Extension Center offices, 1105 N. Nevada Ave.

Col. Semmens Assigned to Plans Division

Lt. Col. Clifton P. Semmens has been assigned to the Plans Division, G-3 (Operations and Training) Section, at Army Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs.

LT. COL. C. P. SEMMENS

* * *

Col. Semmens was stationed in Colorado Springs from September, 1959, to August, 1962, where he was in the Plans Division, Directorate of Operations (J-3), at headquarters of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD).

During World War II, the colonel successively held several positions with the 472nd Anti-aircraft Artillery (Automatic Weapons) Battalion, culminating in his appointment as commanding officer of the unit. He saw combat duty with the 472nd in the Southwest Pacific Theater of Operations.

Among other assignments, he has been assistant operations officer of the Fourth U. S. Army at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., and chief of the Air Defense Plans Branch, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations, Department of the Army, Washington, D. C.

Col. Semmens, his wife, and their two sons are living at 2010 Meyers Ave.

The colonel is not to be confused with his brother, G. L. Semmens, also a lieutenant colonel in the Army, who was assigned at ARADCOM headquarters from the summer of 1956 to the summer of 1959.

Roger Nunez Enlists In U.S. Marines

The course is designed to prepare selected officers for duty as commanders and general staff officers at division, corps and field Army levels. In addition to U. S. Army personnel, officers from allied nations attended the course.

The 32-year-old officer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton R. Isaacson, 6004 Seventh ave., N., Seattle, Wash., is assigned to Headquarters and A Company of the 5th Infantry Division's 705th Maintenance Battalion at Ft. Carson, Colo.

He was graduated from Ballard High School, Seattle, Wash., in 1949.

Two Injured As Car Hits Culvert Sunday

Two men were injured when their pickup truck struck a concrete culvert in the 3100 block of N. Cascade Ave. early Sunday morning, the State Patrol reported.

The driver, James R. Lee, 21, of 2921 W. Kiowa St., suffered bruises and abrasions. A passenger, Timothy Oyer, 21, of 3011 W. Kiowa St., received lacerations and abrasions. Both were treated at Penrose Hospital.

State Patrolman Nathan Boals said the truck was going north when it ran off the road and hit the culvert. Boals estimated damage to the truck was $400.

Local Students Named to Dean's List at CSC

Four residents of Colorado Springs have been named to the Dean's Distinction List at Colorado State College.

The award is based on the cumulative grade average of the student for all course work taken at the college. Cumulative grade averages must be a near-perfect 4.76 out of a possible 5.0 or A.

The students, their class majors, grade point averages and addresses are as follows: Linda Gaye Chamney, Freshman, Elementary Education, 4.77, Myron Stratton Home; Ronald Burke Joyal, Freshman, Mathematics, 4.94, 1331 Kingsley Dr. Katherine Leu Smardo, Junior, Foreign Languages, 4.80, 641 Sequoia Dr. Carolyn Marie Jones, Senior, Elementary Education, 4.77, 615 N. Foote Ave.

Colorado State College, now in its 73rd year, is recognized as one of the top five teacher colleges in the United States. A poll of 103 college presidents in 11 Rocky Mountain states last spring placed CSC as the number one teacher training institution in this area.

Burglars Get $212.44 Sunday

Burglars got away with $212.44 from Ed and Toms Frontier Service, 201 W. Fillmore St., the sheriff's department reported Sunday.

According to Deputy Sheriff Bob Snuggs and Woodrow Littrell, entry was made by breaking out the glass in the door. A check for $5 and a $3.90 credit slip were also taken.

Warren Tells Details of Defense Award

The Superintendent of the United States Air Force Academy, Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren, has announced details governing the 1964 competition for the annual Thomas D. White National Defense Award.

The award, named for Gen. Thomas Dresser White, Air Force Chief of Staff from 1957 to 1961, is conferred each year on "the United States citizen who is judged to have contributed most significantly to the national defense and security of the United States during the years preceding the award." Famed Nuclear Physicist Dr. Edward Teller, the principal architect of the H-bomb, was the first recipient in 1962.

Last year, the award was won by world renowned Aerodynamicist Dr. Theodore von Karman, pioneer in the development of jet propulsion and rocket engines.

Active duty military personnel, may be nominated.

The Air Force Academy will request nominations from Headquarters USAF, major Air Force Commands, and Joint Commands. It is planned in future years to request nominations from other organizations.

The 1964 recipient of the Thomas D. White National Defense Award will be named approximately March 1. The presentation ceremony is tentatively scheduled for April 4, during Founder's Week at the Academy.

The recipient will receive an individual award, certificate, and citation. A master award, with names of the annual winners inscribed, is displayed at the Academy.

Gen. White, who retired from active duty June 30, 1961, after 41 years service, was Air Force Chief of Staff during the formative years of the Air Force Academy; as it became fully established at the permanent site north of Colorado Springs, graduated its first class and moved toward buildup to the full cadet complement.

Gen. White commanded the Air Force during a period of revolutionary change. He stocked it with supersonic fighters, spearheaded the "mixed force" concept of strategic bombers and ballistic missiles, and saw the Air Force move into the aerospace age.

Born in Walker, Minn., Aug. 6, 1901, he graduated from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point in 1920 as a second lieutenant of Infantry. He completed pilot training in 1925 and in 1927 transferred to the Air Corps.

Down thru the years his many and varied assignments included attache duty in Russia, Italy, Greece, and Brazil; assistant Chief of staff for intelligence; and command of the 7th Air Force on Saipan and the 5th Air Force in Japan. He became Air Force vice chief of staff in 1953.

A scholar as well as an air strategist, Gen. White speaks Chinese, Russian, Italian, Spanish, and Portuguese. Now 62, he serves on the staff of NewsWEEK magazine as contributing editor on military affairs on national security subjects.

Man Reports Loss Of Wallet to Sheriff

Ed Kramer of 328 S. Hancock Ave. reported to the sheriff's department over the weekend that he lost his wallet at the Caravan Night Club Saturday.

It contained $40, Kramer told Deputy Sheriff Charles Dietsche, driver's license and other personal papers.

MEMBERSHIP CHECK—Arnold Burton, (right) presented Bill Smartt with his application and check for membership in the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce. This was the first membership received for the new year and one of 500 new members that the Chamber will be securing this year. Burton is a salesman for the Smartt Realty Co. and according to Bill Smartt, he is certainly starting the new year out right. Smartt was elected ranch boss of the Round Up Club for 1964. He previously served two consecutive years in this position before being elected to presidency and later appointed as chairman of the military affairs committee.

CHECKING IN — Mrs. Norman Harloff, Red Cross nurse who administered Type Two Sabin oral polio vaccine to shut-ins Sunday, returns unusued supplies to Dr. Terry Carle at K-O Polio Headquarters in the Naval Reserve Training Center. A final chance to receive Type Two serum will be offered next Sunday from 11:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. at the Palmer High School gymnasium.

72,000 Take Part in K-O Polio Drive; Mop-Up Set

Type Two K-O Polio Sunday was termed an "unqualified success" as 72,000 persons, 3,000 more than received Type One in November, flocked to 50 clinics yesterday.

To allow another opportunity to persons who were out of town or, for other reasons, did not receive the Sabin oral polio serum, the El Paso County Medical Society announced that a "Mop Up" Sunday will be held next Sunday from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., in the Palmer High School gymnasium on Wahsatch.

Hundreds of volunteer physicians, dentists, osteopaths, nurses, pharmacists, PTA members, truckers, sheriff's posseman and others were on duty making the largest public health program in the history of El Paso and Teller counties a success.

The unprecedented turnout kept volunteers of Red Ball and the Sheriff's Possee in their cars continually as vaccine had to be transferred from clinic to clinic. Every dose in the Central Supply Depot had been delivered by noon after which time vaccine was transferred between schools as some of the busier clinics ran out.

Washington School Clinic closed at 4 p.m., and latecomers had to go to other schools when the supply ran out too late to allow for delivery of more. Additional vaccine has been ordered for next Sunday's clean-up and for the Type 3 program in February.

Several thousand residents received the serum free of charge, while the vast majority paid 25 cents a dose to offset costs of the program.

This inexpensive public health program was possible because of the tremendous volunteer effort, donation of Holly Sugar cubes and other supplies and the low cost made possibly by the huge order of the vaccine from Wyeth Laboratories.

Type Three vaccine will be available on February 16.

War Symposium To Explore Legal Aspects of War

Lawyers and scholars will discuss problems of guilt and responsibility for World War II and the impact of totalitarianism on human personality during Colorado College's Jan. 12-18 symposium on the causes, conduct and consequences of the war.

Among those discussing these problems will be Telford Taylor, former U.S. chief counsel for war crimes; Dr. Karl D. Bracher, professor of political science and history at Bonn University in Germany; Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, professor of psychology and psychiatry at the University of Chicago; author and critic Dwight MacDonald; and former Colorado Supreme Court Chief Justice John C. Young, who was a presiding judge at the Nuremberg war crimes trials, and Denver attorney Edwin M. Sears.

Dr. Bettelheim will lecture on "The Impact of Totalitarianism on Human Personality" at 8:15 p.m. next Monday in Shove Chapel.

At 9 o'clock the following morning, he will discuss the lecture with Prof. Bracher and Prof. Richard C. Bradley of the Colorado College physics department, in the Bemis Dining Room.

A panel discussion of "The Problem of Guilt and Responsibility" will be held in the atrium of the Charles Learning Tutt Library at 10 a.m. Jan. 14.

Taking part in the discussion will be Profs. Bracher and Bettelheim, MacDonald and Sears.

Judges Taylor and Young will join Colorado College political science Prof. J. Douglas Mertz, also an attorney, in a panel discussion at 4 p.m. Jan. 16 in Perkins Hall on "The Third Reich: Legal Guilt and Moral Responsibility."

The two panels and the lecture are three of 50 programs to be featured during the symposium. Thirty-five authorities from Asia, Europe and the U.S. will join 40 Colorado College faculty members in the full scale examination of the war.

Ent AFB Will Compute AFA Personnel Pay

Military personnel at the Air Force Academy have received their last pay checks—from the academy accounting and finance office that is!

Beginning Wednesday, pay of officer and airmen assigned to the Academy will be computed at Ent AFB. Payment of civilians and cadets will continue to be processed as in the past.

The change is in keeping with an Air Force-wide program of mechanization of military pay functions.

Personnel actions affecting pay of military members of the Academy staff are now being sent directly to Ent.

Clinton McClain Staff College Course

Maj. Clinton McClain, whose wife, Freeda, lives at 469 Loomis Ave., completed an 18-week associate course at the U. S. Army Command and General Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kan. Dec. 20.

The course is designed to prepare selected officers for duty as commanders and general staff officers at division, corps and field Army levels. In addition to U. U. Army personnel, officers from allied nations attended the course.

The 37-year-old officer is assigned to the 5th Infantry Division at Ft. Carson, Colo.

McClain, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. McClain, Route 1, Carlisle, Ark., entered the Army in Setptember 1950.

Classes Start For '10 o'clock' Scholars at AFA

A total of 20 courses ranging in subject matter from international relations to child development are being offered during the winter quarter by the Southern Colorado State College. Classes meet in the Pine Valley Junior High.

The off-duty study program is open to military personnel, federal civilian employes, adult dependents of military and civilian staff members, and adult residents of School District 20.

Registration for the courses is open until Friday in the Academy Education Services Office, room 211, Harmon Hall. Cost for each course is $9 per quarter hour.

William Bailey, director of education and training, said most courses are continuations from the previous quarter but five new college level courses are scheduled.

In addition to the SCSC classes, three non-credit courses will be offered: A Review of grammar, intermediate Gregg shorthand, and introduction to real estate taught by Colorado Springs realtor Robert Willis.

The courses include: developmental and education processes, principles of accounting II, Far Eastern history II, American literature, functional mathematics II, introduction to business, freshman English II, and American public schools II, Monday and Wednesday; child development, Monday only; functional mathematics IV, Introduction to statistics, developmental and education processes, international politics, geomorphology, salesmanship, U.S. History, and sociology II, Tuesday and Thursday.

Foreign language classes available are beginning German II, Monday and Wednesday, and beginning Spanish and French II, Tuesday and Thursday.

German Composer And Colleagues to Appear at CU

Karlheinz Stockhausen, controversial young German composer, and three of his colleagues will make free, public appearances Jan. 13 and 14 at the University of Colorado.

Performing in an 8 p.m. recital next Monday, and an 11 a.m. lecture-recital Jan. 14, in the Music Hall of the CU College of Music will be Stockhausen, pianist David Tubor and percussionists Christoph Caskel and Max Neuhaus.

The entire program will consist of music by Stockhausen piano, drums and various electronic devices.

Stockhausen has studied with such modern composers as Olivier Messiaen and Darius Milhaud, and his compositions are regarded as extremely experimental.

Tudor, an American pianist from Philadelphia, has appeared frequently with Stockhausen. Two years ago he appeared at CU with John Cage, another modern experimental composer. Caskel and Neuhaus are both German.

The Monday evening program which the group will do thruout America during 1964, will include "Zyklys for one percussion player," "Piano Pieces," "Refrain for three players" and "Kontakte for electronic sounds, piano and percussion.

Roger Isaacson Has Finished Staff Course

Roger L. Nunez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Nunez of 1432 N. Wahsatch Ave. has enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps.

Nunez left by plane Dec. 31 for the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif. where he will receive the first three months of his basic training.

The remaining month of the four-month basic training cycle will be spent at Camp Pendelton, Calif. undergoing intensive individual combat and advanced weapons instruction.

Following the above training the new Marine will be given a 20-day leave before assigned to a Marine Corps school or to a unit for on-the-job training.

Nunez is a 1960 graduate of Trinidad (Colo.) High School.

Owner Reports Car Taken From Near Home

Frank S. Ramirez, 26 Old Broadmoor Rd. reported to the sheriff's office Sunday that his 1949 Cadillac had been stolen from the front of his home.

The vehicle is a 2-door, black model, license KD 2400. Ramirez left the keys in it.

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Belief in Monsters

During the dark ages men believed in dragons, sea serpents and other monsters. Ogres were thought to live in strong castles. Giants dwelt in lands "far away." Strange creatures having many heads, tails, legs, eyes, enormous power, etc., hovered thru the night air and brought harm to the unwary. There were witches and evil spirits and demons.

The tendency of human beings to imagine monsters of various sizes, shapes and potential evil, is an ancient pastime.

Unfortunately, in modern times, many men are still subject to this same tendency. Tho there are now only a few who believe in witches and in the stories of evil entities having power over human beings, our preoccupation with politics has apparently softened our heads and caused us to view the world somewhat unrealistically.

After all, people who will believe that politicians can and will serve their best interests can believe in almost anything.

And so today, by means of politics, we have begun to conjure up a new horde of demons. The demons are those persons who belong to the opposing political party. Obviously, if they don't agree with our party, they must be motivated by dark and harmful desires.

Oh, we've gone a lot further with it than that in recent years. To an anti-Communist, a member of the Communist Party is a monster of unrecognized potential for terrible things. In the minds of anti-Communists the red has a superior intellect and a superior organization. Reds just don't make mistakes. Examine the written and spoken statements of the anti-Communists. Every event that occurs can be construed into proof of an overwhelmingly frightening plot in which the human race is to be destroyed by Communist fiends.

But, behold the reverse. The Communists and their dupes are running around painting every anti-Communist and every conservative with colors unimaginable and entirely unhuman. The anti-Communists are fiends who would stop at nothing to stop Communists. The anti-Communists are nine feet tall. They are a terror. They are against progress. They are filled with hate. And so on and so on and on.

This tendency to create monsters which exists on both sides of the political barrier, is probably one of the major reasons why we make progress so slowly. When human minds are peopled with creatures of their imaginations, it is difficult to get thru these phantasmagoria to the real world of ideas and concepts. We become intent on avoiding a discussion of ideas. If only we can call a few names and disparage a few people we don't like or with whom we disagree, then we possibly won't ever have to understand the ideas at all. If "our side" can only win because we are big enough, then possibly we won't have to learn what the war is all about, ever.

At least, that is the way the situation frequently looks to us.

Now, the truth is that the contest of our age is a contest between two whole sets of ideas. And the people who support one or another set are not monsters. None of them is. There are no monsters except those in our own minds. Communists are not equipped with super-brains, super-power, super-organization, or super anything else. Actually, Communists are a little stupid.

But anti-Communists aren't a group of devils out to set back the clock, either. They are just people who believe in certain things. And they can act just as stupidly as Communists can act.

It isn't a conspiracy of monsters we have to fear, it is a widespread reliance on fear, superstition, ignorance and covetousness. If you can put aside your terror of those who disagree with you, possibly you can become effective in learning truth and in assisting others to learn it, too.

Trap

It is better to avoid the flatterer and to disbelieve flattery than to find one's self in the trap which undue praise baits for us.

Enforcement of Contracts

One of the interesting things about any study of economics is the recognition of the behavior of certain phenomena in the market place, provided only that human compulsion and violence is not inserted.

In other words, if we grant the conditions that would pertain in a free market, we can, thru the process of logic and observation, detect with considerable accuracy certain forces that will move goods and services in an effort to satisfy human wants.

Many economists favor a free market within limits. They ask for a government of limited powers but one which will intervene in the market place as little as possible. Some economists seem to believe that government must be the sole agency for the protection of life and property in the market. However, one splendid economist we recently met had few problems in this area. He may not have been certain that the market place was capable of engendering private devices for protection, but he was willing to direct his attention to another aspect of the problem.

The major worry of this particular savant fell into the area of enforcement of contract. His view, which we are sure would be a popular one, is that some agency of force must be on hand in order to enforce an agreement, even when the agreement is entered into voluntarily.

We've been thinking about this worry of his for a bit and we'd like to offer what we believe are valid arguments in favor of enforcing contracts by means other than governmental.

First, we would like to suggest that a society of contract is absolutely mandatory. Whether we have a government enforcer or not, human beings will have to enter into agreements with each other in order to live on this earth with any degree of certainty or pleasure. So, if we examine contractual relationships, we will discover at once that human well being is closely tied to them. The violation of a contract, then, is a primary matter and no light and trivial event.

This being true, and we fancy the truth will be recognized and conceded, then there will be strong currents in any market place flowing in the direction of sanctity of contract.

We are thinking, for instance, of the kind of contractual relationship which marks buying and selling of stocks and bonds thru the major stock exchanges. Exchanges in millions of dollars occur daily on the basis of an accepted trust.

A man picks up the telephone and says to his broker: "Buy me a thousand shares of this or that." Or he may say: "Sell a thousand shares of amalgamated shaving cream for me."

If the broker knows the man and trusts him he will act at once to do the bidding of his client.

Does he check to find out if the man has the money to pay for the stock? Does he check to learn if the man has the stock he proposes to sell? Not for a minute. He acts in implicit faith that the verbal contract will be fulfilled.

What enforcement does the broker have? We know of none save the force of public opinion and the recognition that, if a man violates his word in such a matter, he will never be trusted again.

What would happen if a man gave an order to a broker and then could not fulfill his own part of the contract? Probably the broker would have to make good.

But in the case of a telephoned order, it would not be possible for the broker to prove in court that such an order had ever been given. So what? It is not necessary. In thousands and thousands of exchanges every day, with millions of dollars passing from hand to hand, enforcement proceedings are virtually unheard of.

We are not concerned here with the countless legal requirements which now hedge virtually all other aspects of the stock market. We are talking about the fact that special policemen and special laws do not stand ready to punish the customer if he cheats his broker. Yet the broker still trusts him and does business with him profitably.

If we had ZERO in the way of enforcement agencies in other areas of the market, we are of the view that the same amount of enforcement as seen in the stock market would be required. Little or none. Why? Because contracts are so important. The well being of all is involved in honest contractual relations. Knowing that no enforcement agency is available to compel a person to live up to a bargain would, we believe, result in the following conditions:

1. We would enter into contracts only with people we believed could be trusted.

2. Since entering into contracts is vital to all people, more and more people would strive to get a reputation for trust and reliance.

3. Since there is only one way to get such a reputation, and that is by being trustworthy, there would be less and less reason to suppose that contracts need to be enforced.

4. Since contractual relationships are absolutely vital to the operation of any kind of economic system, the recognition that there is no enforcement agency would tend to accomplish what the stock market has accomplished.

In other words, we do not see that a government agency is necessary to enforce contracts because it is in the interest of all contracting parties (every human being) to be trustworthy so that he can be trusted and hence enter into valid and binding agreements.

We believe our worried economist friend can put aside some of his worries.

Question Box

Question No. 405:

Would the Gazette Telegraph suggest that a person not ask for Social Security benefits if he can get by O.K. without them, if he has paid into Social Security?"

Answer: From the "benefits" of government "support" must be subtracted its costs. This is always a minus amount when the degradation of character is included in the costs.

Our questioner also asks: "In a case where a citizen of this country is not being helped in any other way, would the Gazette Telegraph agree to the use of tax money to keep him from suffering from the lack of food, clothing or shelter?"

The answer is no. In the long run it would increase poverty and suffering by bringing on state communism.

Of course, there is no absolute security, but the best security of all is to have the individual so live that when misfortune overtakes him, someone wants to voluntarily help him.

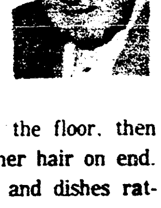
As the good book says, "Men must live by the sweat of their brow." It is up to the individual to so live and try to provide for his declining years and be individually independent and responsible. If he does meet misfortune, then the goodness of mankind will give him more assistance and more protection than the government could give him.

Most of the misfortune comes from the government making laws that violate natural laws.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

Peace Disupted

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD



Yesterday morning, while sitting here in the kitchen of our apartment in My Motel in this little ghost town, I watched as the south wall bent sharply inwards and a medicine cabinet shuddered before its door slowly opened. Our big black cat, Zsa Zsa, sank swiftly to the floor, then looked at me, her hair on end. Glasses tinkled and dishes rattled, we heard the roar of the jet which had let loose the crack of doom and I went to the kitchen window from which I could see the vapor trail of the offender. I told ZsaZsa the jet was probably piloted by a general with political ambition and she told me what she thought of the entire situation.

Of course we became accustomed to this sign of progress before we departed from Canoga Park, California, where our neighbor's hens were regularly knocked off their roosts. We didn't realize the jets would also take aim at this little ghost town but it happens with disgusting regularity.

A year ago I watched a living room window pane crack, while our cats all scurried under the bed, complaining loudly. An acquaintance who saw the window glass crack insisted I should jot down the time, check the motel for other damage and then try to collect from government. I tried to explain the situation to him, unsuccessfully.

Government has nothing but what it steals from you and me and everybody who does not consent to the thievery. If I file some kind of a complaint and if government decides to pay any attention to it, how much would it cost us eventually if government paid for the damage which it also created at our expense?

After January 1, government will play military games in this general area, at the expense of the people. In advance, government will try to obtain permission from land owners to use their property. Government will also bribe the landowners by telling them it will pay for any damages to the property and in order to pay those damages, government will do some more stealing from everybody including the owners of the damaged land.

Sooner or later, some darned fool will say to me, "Hey, maybe the army (or whatever) will want to take over your motel. You'll really be able to make some money out of that."

Then I'll try to explain how I feel about such things and what I will do if such a thing should happen, and the darned fool will know I am a darned fool no matter how sound the logic of my premise.

True, government could use its authority to take over this property for its use BUT government will not obtain my permission to make use of it. I will not make a deal with government for the use of the motel and if the government did use it and did then send a check in payment for the use, the check would never be cashed. It's as simple as that because I will not be a willing accessory to government thievery.

If land owners in Mohave County were to take a similar stand, government would be in trouble but don't hold your breath. Most of the property owners will simply hope to be able to figure out a way to get the best of the deal, while refusing to accept the absolute fact that nobody can get the best of a deal with government.

So I will be told I'm a darned fool and that my stand will make no difference in the long run so why don't I get mine while the getting is good, and I will not agree and the man will walk away, slowly shaking his head in confusion and disgust with my thick-headedness.

Oddly enough, my decision will make him uncomfortable but I will be comfortable with my decision. I am concerned with my conscience, not his.

I've asked myself a thousand times or more why apparently intelligent human beings are unable to understand the simple fact that government has nothing but what it takes from the people. I always get the same answer; it's not a matter of being able to understand, it's a stubborn refusal to face the most obvious facts.

The only thing I can do about it is to continue to document the facts and hand them over to you.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

These Days

A New Ball Game

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

It's been proclaimed a new ball game in many places as 1963 moves into the shadows. And, inasmuch as some of the pitchers have been changed, the proclamations could be true. Pitching is normally eighty per cent of the game.

To continue the baseball metaphors, we touched a few bases during Christmas week in hope that it might add to our own scoring punch. In the Delegates' dining room at the U.N. we listened to a couple of knowledgeable correspondents recapitulate the events of the past year as these events impinged on the U.N. bailiwick. Fred Gruin talked about the "spirit of pause" that seems to have pervaded the U.N. deliberations. Not so long ago, he said, the U.N. line-ups reflected a three-bloc division of the world. There were the capitalist nations (the free world), the Communist Moscow-Peiping axis (with the Russians speaking for the absent Red Chinese in the U.N. General Assembly) and the "uncommitted," or neutralist, bloc. It was to reflect this partition of the globe that Khrushchev had suggested that the U.N. be run by a "troika," with the neutralist bloc holding the balance of power.

In 1963, a "troika" in the U.N. based on the old alignments could have run into unpredictable troubles. For the world had become divided into a capitalist group, a lonesome De Gaulle unit, a "neutralist" Moscow - cum - European - satellite group, a couple of competing Afro-Asian blocs (one looking to Peiping, another still holding to "neutralism") and a few free-wheeling double dealers such as the Fidel Castro mob. For 1964, then, we may predict that U.N. affairs will be wrapped in obfuscation as various nations explore the still fluid implications of the new ball game.

PREDICTIONS

Touching another base, we talked with people, at Radio Liberty and elsewhere, who keep up with the internal situation behind the iron curtain. Isaac Don Levine, who spent some time in the summer of 1963 visiting archives and archivists inside Soviet Russia, did not make his trip with the idea of reporting on social conditions under Khrushchev's rule. But he had to live while traveling — and in the course of merely observing, listening and eating he became convinced that Russia would find itself with severe troubles along about March, 1964. Livestock would have to be slaughtered to provide food. The Radio Liberty people, good on Soviet food problems all along, more or less check this observation. So, for 1964, we may predict that Khrushchev will limit himself to bluster on the cold war front. Armies still move on their stomachs.

Touching still another base, we heard talk in Washington of the hopes for the "Kennedy Blueprint" (or the Walt Rostow Blueprint) for a series of peaceful "detentes" in future U.S. foreign policy. This blueprint for peace is based on the theory that Soviet Russia, as it moves away from the memories of both the Lenin-Trotsky Revolution and the Stalinist epoch, must become something like Mexico, where one is scarcely aware of the paradox implied in the very name of the dominant Mexican "Party of Revolutionary Institutions." At the heart of the Kennedy, or Rostow, plan is the assumption that all third-generation "revolutionaries" cease to have an appetite for adventures or conquest. They don't want to endanger the institutions they have created.

SET THE PACE

Since famine is going to force a continuing cover-up attitude on Khrushchev, it is our prediction that the conditions behind the "Kennedy Blueprint" will seem propitious for 1964. But it is also our prediction that no good will come to us from this if we let Khrushchev dominate the pace and the direction of peaceful "compromise." We hold the cards, so why play the game as if Khrushchev had a royal flush? Let's name our own conditions, on Cuba, Eastern Europe, and so on.

Touching still another base, we recall that the best prediction we made a year ago was that the seven million car year had come to stay. Renewing the prediction, we anticipate no drastic trouble for the U.S. economy as a whole. It still moves to the music of Detroit's wheels.

Finally, after touching the bases with various politicos, we predict that Lyndon Johnson will defeat any Republican candidate for President who tries to be like Lyndon Johnson.

FATAL FLAW

To the Editor:

The "Liberty Amendment" designed to repeal the personal income tax and get the federal government out of competition with private enterprise, while being a brilliant and sincere effort by courageous men to stem the tide of dictatorial government, is not the answer. Should the resolution finally be enacted into law, which is highly improbable, it will be found to contain a fatal flaw.

That flaw is embodied in the following words written into the resolution and which, in fact, pervade the whole idea of government itself: ". . . except as specified in the Constitution." THAT, with public opinion and the widespread misunderstanding of the nature of government being what they are, constitutes a signed blank check begging to be filled out and cashed.

At this point, two questions come to mind: How is it decided what is to be specified in the Constitution? And, if the absence of a specific permit in the Constitution is supposed to protect against governmental inroads, then how did we come to be saddled with the income tax amendment in the first place?

What is the answer, then? The answer, it would seem, can only exist in a process of reeducation on an individual basis which would result in the realization that the present dangerous state of affairs was brought about, for the most part, by political action on the part of sincere and good-intentioned men.

Such a process of individual reeducation might well begin with the reading of a book written by Professor Bruno Leoni. The book, "Freedom and the Law," published by Van Nostrand, may be obtained from The Freedom School, Box 165, your city.

A NEW YEAR

To the Editor:

Time is for us to use and the year ahead of us is like a valuable gift to be spent on vain things or to be invested in a refining process for each one of us mortals. When you and I have reached the limit of our physical growth after twenty years of living — what then? Following these years, the body requires less nourishment than most of us think when supplying its needs with discrimination. A human being is born into this world with an inheritance that is far more extensive than the time it takes to mature his body. Even while his earthly structure grows to full stature, a beginning is made for his spiritual growth.

Directly ahead of us is one complete year. In a larger sense, one year is as a moment that it takes to enter a room and to walk out of it thru a door on the other side. Yet, this brief period means much to one whose vision and faith extends beyond his own limitations. While life lasts, a New Year is a gift to pay dividends to each one of us. This present year belongs to you and to me — how are we going to accept it? Hide it in fear that it is too good to be true that this great wealth is ours? Or is it to be spent in such a manner that a year from today we are found among those who have fallen by the wayside? Or are we willing to look up to the Creator to ask for wisdom and nourishment to walk in the path of righteousness; to be an example to others who have lost The Way; so that they too may receive new inspiration for making this year a time for eternal investments?

In past years we may have been deceived at the shrine of vain hopes. This is no reason for you and for me to hold onto false idols that vanish with the setting sun. There is every reason for mankind to worship in spirit and in truth as revealed by the word and proclaimed in many languages thruout the world. Accepting this Word of inspiration, we shall walk in the light of the New Year, which we have now inherited.

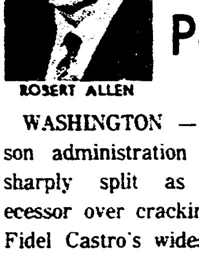
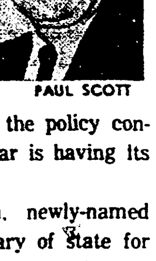
'Carrot And Stick' Policy: Cuba



ROBERT ALLEN



PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The Johnson administration is just as sharply split as its predecessor over cracking down on Fidel Castro's widespread subversive machinations in the Caribbean.

The Kennedy administration could never make up its mind about taking forceful measures against these pernicious Communist operations. Now its successor appears equally chary.

Whether that review of Cuban policy ordered by President Johnson leads to anything is a toss-up. So far, the backstage indications are not promising.

A key reason for this is the State Department's apparent domination of the study. Unannounced guide lines have been laid down by Secretary Rusk which definitely favor the department's viewpoint in this protracted backstage controversy.

The State Department is very much opposed to any course savoring of the use of force against the bearded Red-puppet dictator.

The department's position, strongly supported by hold-over Kennedy foreign affairs advisers in the White House, can be summed up as follows: In the Organization of American States, the U.S. to press for additional economic and diplomatic sanctions against the Castro dictatorship. At the same time, the U.S. to "hold out a carrot" in the form of an offer to restore the Cuban Communist ruler to OAS membership if he halts arms shipments and subversion in the Caribbean, and "cuts back" his ties with the Soviet.

This so-called "carrot and stick" policy is vigorously challenged as "unrealistic" and "futile" by a group that includes the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Central Intelligence Director John McCone.

It is their emphatic contention that Castro's persistent subversive activities can be blocked only by decisive military and diplomatic measures.

HOW TO STOP HIM

1) Seek the authorization and cooperation of the Organization of American States for an expanded air and naval blockade of the Caribbean; 2) offer Caribbean and other Latin American countries the aid of U.S. planes and naval vessels to intercept Red arms shipments; 3) increase and intensify the surveillance of all outbound Cuban shipping.

Also advocated by the group is economic and military assistance to Cuban refugees waging war against Castro from Caribbean bases. They are urgently in need of weapons and other support to build up effective pockets of resistance in Cuba.

The Kennedy administration steadfastly opposed such anti-Castro measures. The State Department wants the policy continued, and so far is having its way.

Thomas Mann, newly-named assistant secretary of State for Latin America, is authoritatively credited with holding the same view. He is understood to have advised President Johnson to make no decision on Cuba until after conferring with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos in late February in Los Angeles.

HIGHLIGHTS

The significant guide-lines drawn up by Rusk for the Cuban policy review indicate a belief that Castro can be wooed away from the Kremlin. Highlights of this revealing backstage document are as follows;

"Cuba represents a special case of Communist penetration of the community of free nations through the capture of an indigenous and popularly accepted revolution. For the first time, the Sino-Soviet bloc is openly in league with a Communist government thousands of miles from its perimeter. While distance and personality of Fidel Castro present some problems for the Sino-Soviet bloc, Cuba is a useful and willing instrument of bloc foreign policy and as such poses a series of potential and active threats to the peace and security of the hemisphere:

"1) A potential threat as a Communist offensive nuclear base against the U.S.; 2) a potential threat as a Communist offensive base for limited non-nuclear aggression against Latin American nations; 3) a current threat as a basis for indirect aggression against Latin American nations; 4) a current threat as an example of the possibility of creating and holding a nation under Communist rule in this hemisphere, enflaming and strengthening the Communist forces and their allies in Latin American nations.

"Contingency plans should be re-examined and brought up to date against numbers one and two. Contingency plans should be prepared for action on the basis of OAS resolutions if firm evidence of Cuban involvement in indirect aggression in Venezuela is established.

"The threat of (numbers three and four) increases the urgency of the Alliance for Progress program and the effort to detach the political movement for progress and reform in Latin America from Communist influence."

FLOUTING THE U.S.

Haiti's volatile President ("Papa Doc") Duvalier is refusing to see Benson Timmons, new U.S. ambassador, even tho his appointment was accepted by Duvalier. When Timmons called on Duvalier to present his credentials, the latter wouldn't meet him. Apparent reason was a report that Timmons intended to inform Duvalier that he should quit or ease his despotic rule .... Ambassador Murat Williams will be shifted from El Salvador to the Dominican Republic. The one-time Rhodes scholar was brought into the diplomatic service by the late President Kennedy on the recommendation of Secretary Rusk . . . Brazil's left-winging President Goulart is slated to visit Bolivia. The U.S. has poured more than $350 million in economic and military aid into Bolivia; Brazil, racked by runaway inflation and gross governmental mismanagement, has not given Bolivia a dime. But Goulart, who has long played footsie with Communists, is virtually certain of a tumultuous welcome.

On Breeding Prosperity

(The Freeman)

F. A. HARPER

The population explosion in our country and around the world is commonly met with mixed emotions. On the one hand, there is the discomfort of being so pressed together that we stand on each other's feet, elbow our way through crowded subways, become submerged in traffic jams, or find distant recreation forests about as peaceful as Times Square at 5:15 p.m. On the other hand, there is the appeal of more customers for all who believe that a rising population assures prosperity.

The fact that the population has been rising rapidly during recent decades, and that more is in prospect for some time, seems beyond question. A common prediction is that the present world population of nearly three billion will reach nearly five billion by 1984.

Some authors in a Science article a few years ago reported that by extrapolating from past trends of recorded data, the world population will approach infinity on November 13, AD 2026. But the outlook cannot be as gloomy as that. Before that time the trend would flatten out from a new Malthusian corrective because persons would become crushed to death. And even before that, as a university president once reminded us, the population increase will probably terminate before reaching the point of standing room only, due to other obvious reasons.

Leaving these predictions for others to ponder, our present concern is with an economic notion which seems even more prolific than the human organism itself, namely that increasing population assures prosperity. To review the notion briefly, as any restaurant owner or storekeeper knows, his sales and profits are raised by more persons entering his store to buy. And they cannot enter his store without having first been born. Each birth today, then, means more persons in stores later; diapers will be bought at once, children's clothes later, and adult needs on through life. The more the births, the more will have to be sold to meet the growing needs, ipso facto, according to this simple reasoning. But on further thought and analysis, is this reasoning sound?

Wants Are Insatiable

Let us begin to analyze it this way: Human wants, over-all, are insatiable. If a President of the United States with "rigorous economy" spends $111,000,000,000 in a year, it seems probable that he might easily spend the entire national income if he were to let himself go on a spending binge.

Any one person's capacity to eat popcorn at one sitting may have its limits, but there is no known limit to his capacity to own more suits, cars, servants, servants for the servants. . . So if there is any limit to human wants, it surely lies beyond the horizon of our imagination. This means that the limit on sales in stores, and the like, is set by something other than too few persons. By the same reasoning, more persons do not assure more sales and more welfare. What is it that sets the limit?

The limit to the satisfaction of wants is set by the quantity of things produced. Should some of production be wasted, fewer wants will be satisfied, but no miracle is available by which to satisfy wants with things not produced. Some persons may get more of the supply and others less, but that is a question separate from the one we are discussing: and in any event it does not make consumption any greater than production.

What Limits Production

The total quantity of goods and other services produced in the nation in a year depends on three things:

1. The number of persons working.
2. The number of hours worked per person.
3. The output of product per hour.

We are considering prosperity, and the effect of an increase in population on prosperity. Our concern is with the welfare of the individual, not the nation. China or India produce more than Switzerland or Canada as a national total, but who yearns for that sort of prosperity? Thus, we can largely ignore from our concern in this connection the first factor of the number of persons, because as increasing population brings more producers it also brings more stores for more consumers to enter. Over-all, persons as producers are also consumers, and in part storekeepers.

The number of hours worked can also be largely ignored for our present concern. The change over time has not been drastic; it is minor as compared with other factors. We used to point, with pride that might be questioned in certain respects, to the reduction of about three - sevenths in the average hours worked in the United States. Now the careful research of Sebastian de Grazia brings this into serious doubt, when account is taken of the added hours getting ready to work and getting to and from the "forty hours of work." In grandfather's day, most workers when they awoke in the morning were only a pair of overalls and a closed door away from their day's task.

This leaves us only the last point as having much to do with our question, namely, the output per hour of work. What effect does an increasing population have on that?

Output per hour of work is almost entirely a matter of the tools at hand to aid the efforts of those who produce. They are of many types and forms. Some tools aid physical work, and others aid mental work or the processes of spirit, morals, and motivation. In the latter category, especially, there are negative as well as positive tools. Among the negative tools, I would suggest, are all those economic misconceptions which prevail and persist in the minds of most persons in our society. Among these misconceptions is the notion that increases in population assure prosperity—by which one would have to conclude that even illegitimate children are a contribution to national welfare and thereby worth the mounting costs of public aid to support them.

In our society in the United States, from the standpoint of energy alone, we have devised ways to bring to the aid of the average worker the equivalent of more than thirty diligent slaves to help him. In addition, there are untold ways by which we have harnessed additional help for him which is not measure in terms of energy horsepower. But in measuring increases in economic welfare of persons in the United States over its entire history, or the differences between nations in this respect at the present time, the amount of energy harnessed to aid the average worker serves amazingly well as a measure.

What Raises Production?

The question then resolves into the processes by which tools are brought to the aid of the average worker. In outline, these are the steps involved:

1. Basic discoveries
2. Innovations and adaptions of discoveries
3. Savings invested in tools
4. Effective use of tools

Nothing is so vital to the whole process of progress in the development and use of tools of production as is liberty of individual persons in society. Slavery in any of its varied forms and by any name is poison to the processes required. If slavery has any advantage anywhere over paying free - workers, the prevailing wage, which is doubtful, it is for menial tasks like piling stones upon one another to build pyramids, and the like. Tools once produced can be enslaved, but enslavement of mankind is birth control at its worst for tool-creation.

Thinking now of a single newborn babe in the neighbor's family, the question at its core can be tested by this simple question: Does the fact of his birth as one more census unit add one iota to any of these four parts of the job as compared with any other person previously born and already in our society? He may turn out to be a discoverer, but is there any reason to expect him to be more so than a random selection of a person already here? Any more an innovator or adapter than someone already here? Any more a saver and investor? Any more an efficient user of tools? I see no reason to expect him to be superior to another baby born yesterday.

The final and important fact is that at birth each addition to the population automatically reduces the tools available per person in the population. At birth, in other words, the little precious is clearly an economic parasite who dilutes rather than enhances welfare. The way it does this is clear from a simple analysis.

In the United States at present the investment in production assets is over $20,000 per production worker, both in manufacturing and in agriculture. This represents the "more than thirty slaves" the average worker has at his command to aid his own efforts in production. If we assume for sake of illustration that there were a hundred workers in some isolated society who have an average of $20,000 of tools to help them, and two lone survivors of a shipwreck — about the current annual rate of population increase in the United States — float to the island to join them, the tools per worker immediately decline to about $19,600. And with more shipwreck additions, it would decline more and more until it would eventually sink the island into starvation.

It may be noted, of course that tools can be added to the pile in use. But whatever the original hundred persons invent, create, and add must not only replace the wear that goes on year by year, but must be shared with the immigrants. The additions to the population will add to the average tools per worker only after they have themselves saved and added to that society more than $20,000 worth of effective tools in use. Until their contribution reaches $20,000, they are in this sense economic parasites on the society they have joined.

How soon will it be until the neighbor's newborn babe can add the required $20,000 to the nation's tools-in-use? That is our question in its essential form. We could go on down the street to other neighbors' newborn babes, but that merely compounds our question in magnitude rather than to change it in essence.

The merchant selling diapers may do quite well for a while when this goes on and on in the nation, but only at the even greater loss of business by someone selling other things which the parents cannot now buy instead. Soon, by reason of discouragement if not bankruptcy, they will have to close up shop and go into business selling diapers, or something. The advantage to the diaper salesman then disappears, and he is ready to read some dusty article like this to see why his forecast of hope from help by the storks went afoul. He is then ready to ponder the question which should have occurred to him at the outset: If population increases cause prosperity per se, why were countries like China and India in persistent poverty over untold centuries?

In a country of extremely sparse population, special circumstances can exist whereby an increase in population can cause enough increase in the efficiency of use of tools they already have to result in rising welfare for a time. But this is not the situation in our nation, or perhaps any nation in the world today.

In summary we may, therefore, herald with goodwill the coming into our society of newborn babes, but the joy should not be because they will automatically bring with them any sort of economic welfare. When they come, they will not bring with them the $20,000 of capital equipment needed to carry their share of productive means now operating in our society. Each of them will dilute the ratio of tools to persons, which is the only real base for prosperity. Each of them, or someone else, will have to save and provide more than $20,000 of tools before their presence will have the effect of increasing the average prosperity of the nation.

It's Up To You

By Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

Ten years ago the Communist Central Committee of the U.S.S.R. declared that heavy industry had been set up and that the next problem was to produce sufficient food. An abundance was promised in a matter of two or three years. This could easily have been realized if the land was turned back to individual farmers. It has not been done, however, under the collective system.

In 1960 half a billion hectares of land (one hectare equals 2.47 acres) produced about half of the meat, animal fats, milk, eggs, cheese and high -value foods consumed in the Soviet Union. The other half came from the little plots of land that the collective farmers were allowed to farm for their families and for sale in the local, uncontrolled markets. This acreage totaled only a little more than 1 per cent of the collectivized land.

One may conclude, therefore, that 1 per cent of the land, farmed by individuals in their own interest, is approximately equal, so far as these high - value protein foods are concerned, to the other 99 per cent farmed collectively. Of course the collectively - operated farms produced the grains and bulk products, but they have not proven successful for meat, eggs, milk, cheese, and quality foods.

Foreign minister Gromyko of the U.S.S.R. has written to Secretary General U Thant of the United Nations proposing that 1965 be named as International Cooperation Year. All the cooperating he proposes, however, is to be from one side only. Germany is to be permanently divided and a nuclear free zone established in Europe. Red China is to be admitted to U.N. and foreign troops taken out of South Korea and South Viet Nam allowing the unification of both of these countries under Communist rule. All Western colonialism is to be ended but Communist colonialism perpetuated.

Unity, Not Unanimity

(Chicago Tribune)

President Johnson wisely acknowledged in his speech to Congress that American unity does not depend on or require unanimity. "We have differences," he said: "but now, as in the past, we can derive from those differences strength, not weakness; wisdom, not despair."

For of course it is always true that well founded objections to any action or proposal prompt examination, that examination and debate are the way to expose weakness and error, and that a closer approximation to wisdom results after a thorough canvass of all pertinent arguments. This is fundamental to the political process; indeed, it should be self-evident.

But the fact needs to be restated because of what looks very much like a concerted attempt to equate political dissent with "hatred." This thesis has been related to the assassination of President Kennedy by a great many people who ought to know better. The contention is advanced that the whole of the American people are somehow guilty of complicity because reasoned differences were expressed with New Frontier philosophy and legislative proposals.

How could it be otherwise, whoever the President might have been? There has always been a political division in this country. Different parties exist in order to reflect differences of opinion, although far too often their intellectual substance seems to merge into one another. Mr. Kennedy came to office on the vote of less than a majority of the electorate From the start, he could not hope to command the support of half the citizens who vote.

Nevertheless, this fact is ignored by those who are promoting the deadly syllogism that to dissent is to hate, that this supposed product of "hatred" infects the whole climate of public opinion and is thus capable of toppling the shaky balance of some already deranged mentality, and that therefore everyone is responsible for the act of a man whose very existence was unknown to his fellow countrymen.

This perverted thesis may be reduced to an attempt, naked and without apology, to liquidate dissent in the United States, to portray the constitutional guarantee of freedom of expression as an abomination to be scrapped forthwith, and to reduce public opinion to monoform expression. In Hitler's day, this was known as the "feuhrerprinzip."

Thus Chief Justice Warren has decried the "forces of hatred and malevolence" which he says commonly stimulate such acts as that of the assassin, and he calls on us to "abjure" accusations that divide us. Walter Lippmann, trotting in his tracks, demands a "purge" of this same supposed "hatred" and a return to the "American community," where everyone sits in rows, as in kindergarten, seen but not heard.

Sen. Thruston Morton of Kentucky has very properly replied that the accused assassin's mind was warped by an alien violence, not a native condition. The senator remarked:

"Something desperately needs to be said in defense of America at this terrible time when a sense of sorrow becomes a sense of guilt It was not a flaw in the American system or the American character that struck down John Kennedy. It was not the sin of a city or its citizens.

"We do not serve the best interests of our nation, of truth, or of the memory of a murdered President by letting wrongly placed recriminations overcome the good sense of this great nation and its people."

In fact, the man accused of the crime had so little connection with the rest of the American people that he tried to disavow his country and become a citizen of communist Russia. He had so little connection with Dallas that he was an out-of-towner who came to that city Oct 14 to plan his crime. It is indefensible that the act of such a man should be used in an attempt to besmirch all Americans and to silence their right to political expression.

Between the Bookends

TEENAGERS LEARN POLITICAL - ECONOMIC TRUTHS

If any group of people in America has been ignored, overlooked, and not properly taken into account in political, economic and social matters that affect them, it is our teenaged youth. Witness, for example, the over-$300 billion debt that they are inheriting—although they have not been consulted on the matter.

This failure has troubled many thinking citizens, without their having any clear-cut idea of what to do about it.

Suzanne Vance, California mother of a teen-aged daughter, decided that the first thing to do was to point out the mistakes of her generation, and take some positive steps to correct them. One of her positive steps was to write "Youth On A Pendulum" (published by the Caxton Printers, Ltd., Caldwell, Idaho, $2.00).

Three Themes

The book has three basic, over-riding themes: 1) Thirty years of left-wing "liberal" government have brought us to an urgently critical situation; 2) "Liberal" leaders are decoying our people down the one-way road to socialism and statism; and 3) If we do not correct the mistakes which have brought our country into this mess, and inform our children of the dangers, then "their children will either perish in an atomic holocaust or languish as slaves of the Communists."

Mrs. Vance uses the technique of devoting a single chapter to each of the points on which there is widespread misunderstanding and misinformation among youth — and, indeed, among many adult citizens, as well. "Is Communism Just A Political Belief?" "What Good is A Loyalty Oath?", "How Could There Be Communism In The Churches?", "Is The Constitution Out Of Date?" and "What Is Wrong With The United Nations?" are some of the chapter headings.

"Youth On A Pendulum" makes clear the magnitude of the threat we face in the subvert transformation of our constitutional Republic into a socialist-type "people's democracy." Entirely beyond the loss of individual freedom, the undermining of the right to own private property, the destruction of the profit system, and the smothering of free enterprise, there is always the goal of "coalescence" with Soviet communism.

Solutions Proposed

Fortunately, the author does more than just recite problems. She also provides solutions that she believes will return our nation to its proper direction. In this area, she explains the proposed Liberty Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The teen-age simplicity of the book makes it easy reading. Yet, it is neither written up to teen-agers nor down to them. Its direct style will be well within the understanding of adults, too, despite our longer exposure to the statist philosophies.

In his foreword to the book, Chester Ward, Rear Admiral, U.S. Navy (Retired) says, "This book can awaken us to act now ... to bequeath to our children the third choice: To be neither dead nor any shade of Red; but instead to continue to be free Americans."

PAVLOV'S DOG OR A HUMAN SOUL

REV. I. E. HOWARD

Matthew 10:28 Fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell.

In 1902, the Russian physiologist, Ivan Petrovich Pavlov, performed an experiment that has had more influence on social thought than any other in modern times. He found that by repeatedly ringing a bell when he fed meat to a dog, he could eventually cause the dog to salivate when the bell was rung without the meat. He also found that the dog could adjust to the bell without the meat, or to the meat without the bell, or to both, but if he kept changing the combination, he could produce a nervous breakdown in the dog.

The Soviets have made much of Pavlov's discovery, and in the opinion of some observers, it is a key to their foreign policy. By alternating between threats of war and offers of peace, these observers believe, the Soviets hope to break down the resistance of the West, producing a condition tantamount to a national nervous breakdown.

In their early days, the Soviets applied Pavlov's conditioned reflex to their educational system. They assumed that education is a process of conditioning children to fit whatever pattern of social cooperation the State chooses. However, in more recent times, the Soviet education has departed from so-called "progressive education" and has returned to emphasizing content and intellectual discipline.

John Dewey borrowed the Pavlovian concept for his educational theory. Man is little more than a collection of conditioned reflexes. Dewey taught a generation or more of modern progressive educators. Consequently, under their tutelage, Johnny did not learn to read. He was conditioned to adjust to his social environment.

Pavlov's conditioned reflex became bedrock of a vast anti-intellectual movement of the twentieth century known as "liberalism." So-called liberalism was sure that man is not a responsible, rational being capable of determining his own future, but a product of environment, shaped by forces beyond his control. Christianity, especially the Calvinistic variety, has always recognized the presence of a certain amount of determinism in the human situation, but it has also insisted upon man's rationality, as one created in the image of God, which rationality makes man responsible for his own future.

The "liberal" anti-intellectualism entered politics and subtly changed the approach of politicians to the voters. The consent of the governed became something to "engineer." Voters were no longer treated as rational beings capable of discussing real issues and deciding for or against a question. Raising wrong issues so that the real issues would not be debated, became the studied technique of the "liberal." A common example has been the issue of human rights versus property rights. So-called liberals raise this false antithesis to confuse the voters. Voters can usually be counted upon to support human rights instead of property rights because they frequently do not understand that property rights are a human right. Without the right to property—to own, control and dispose of—a man is not a free man. However, the last thing a "liberal" wants to discuss is the merits of private property. Such a discussion might reveal his real intentions. As a result of this avoidance of real issues, American elections have evolved into popularity contests.

By way of contrast modern Americans should study The Federalist. It is shocking to remember that these political essays were written in defense of the Constitution for a New York newspaper. Today, college students complain that the essays are too difficult to read!

At the time the Constitution was being debated, political leaders assumed that voters were rational people, able to comprehend an abstract argument and form an opinion about it. As a result, political leaders of that generation did not circumvent real issues and were able to produce that political masterpiece which is the United States Constitution.

The twentieth century has also seen Pavlov's anti-intellectualism invade economics. Whatever faults classical economists had, they assumed that the consumer is a rational person capable of choosing his best interests in the use of his money. He might make mistakes, but classical economists assumed that making mistakes was the privilege of the consumer in a free market.

Keynesian economics, following the anti-intellectualism of modern "liberalism," has introduced a different set of assumptions about the consumer. According to the Keynesian system, which rules Washington today, the consumer does not know what is good for him He should not be free to spend and to save as he pleases. These economic decisions should be guided by the experts. Instead of outright seizure of property in the Marxian fashion, the Keynesians recommended controlling the citizen by manipulating the currency, huge government spending in areas chosen by the experts for reasons best known to themselves, and a tax system whose purpose is not to raise revenue, but to redistribute wealth and to channel consumption in the direction chosen by the experts.

Assuming that man is a dog, not a soul, has brought us to a sorry state of affairs. The real enemies of freedom are the people who make this assumption. Jesus warned: "Fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell (Matthew 10:28).

Hopeful Racial Sign

(California Feature Service)

Earnest students of the multifold problems involved in the growing effort of racial minorities, especially the Negroes, to achieve the rights the Constitution guarantees them have long deplored the apparent inability of some groups to provide much-needed self help. There are obvious reasons why such activity is difficult, but it has not seemed impossible.

A most encouraging development in this field has been revealed in San Francisco, where two young and successful Negro business men have announced an ambitious and far-reaching self-help program designed to raise the commercial and cultural level of Negro life in the city. In the belief that people of their race must "get a stake in the community" before ghettoes can be eliminated, these men have set out to raise from three to five million dollars in capital, which will be invested in two basic areas: an intensive educational program, and a unique employment service they believe would enable qualified Negroes to find employment in top white collar positions.

Welfare types of aid—however well meant and administered—usually perpetuate the Negro "ghetto" mentally, the San Franciscans declare. Their plan, called PACT, for Plan of Action for Challenging Times, by enlisting the aid of top Negro leaders in all fields would appeal to racial pride and avoid the paternalism of charity. It is, indeed, the most encouraging undertaking to come out of the momentous changes the nation now is experiencing on the level of human relations.

Pirates Defeat Mullen For First League Win

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

DENVER — Dan Wright stepped into a big pair of basketball shoes when he took over duties as St. Mary's basketball coach this winter — but early returns are indicating that it may be a comfortable fit.

Evidence of that continued to accumulate Sunday afternoon as Wright's youth-packed Buccaneers, showing definite effects of sound coaching, parlayed poise, hustle, and blossoming talent into a 65-60 victory over Mullen and thereby came scrambling back into the Denver Parochial League race.

The victory was the fifth in sixth starts for the Pirates, but it was a curcial one. The first loss was a disheartening one, 62-50, to Regis Friday night in the opening round of DPL play and St. Mary's coaches and fans were obviously wondering here Sunday just bow well the team would rebound from that disappointment.

To answer that — the Pirates bounced back like a good, sharp dribble. There were a few minutes of Regis hangover early in the contest but, sparked by Mike Conway, Dick Pfalmer, and a pair of talented young guards, the Bucs snatched the lead before halftime and then fought off a pair of flurries by the Mustangs in the late going to post their first victory over Mullen in Denver in four years.

Conway slipping thru the Mustang defenses time and again off well-executed patterns, backboarded-in the key points in the Pirates' drive for the lead and finished the afternoon with a total of 20, the highest single game output by a member of the team this winter Pfalmer, the lithe senior jumping-jack, added 15 points and yanked away a whopping 20 rebounds to give St. Mary's a clear-cut dominance in that area.

Still, the Pirates were sputtering until Wright fired in a pair of swift young guards who quickly smoothed out the burrs in the offense.

Tom McCarthy, a 5-8 junior, and Joe Jezek, a 5-9 sophomore, handled the ball well, worked together as tho they had a direct wire between them on the fast break, and contributed 15 points to the cause. They promise to give the Pirates some of the soundest backcourt play the team has had in several seasons as the winter rolls on.

Pfalmer, with aid from Conway and Dave Grantz, led St. Mary's to a comfortable 46-37 edge in the backboard wars. The Bucs also had the better of the shooting, hitting slightly over 40 per cent from the field. Mullen also had a hot hand, especially from far outcourt, but the Mustangs seemed to lose their grip at the free throw line and it was here that a possible victory escaped them. Awarded 31 shots during the afternoon, they could convert only 10. St. Mary's, meanwhile, was sinking 19 of 30.

Mullen grabbed control of the boards in the early going and also precision bombing of the Pirates' defense. Several arching jump shots from far outcourt found the mark and spurred the team to a quick lead which had grown to 17-11 with less than 30 seconds left in the first quarter. Pfalmer's follow shot 18 seconds before the buzzer made it 17-13 at the first break.

The Pirates had led once at 5-4 but did not get back on top until Jezek spun in a driving layup off a fast break with 4:10 left in the half. That put the Bucs ahead 21-20 but Mullen quickly went back in front by three points before Pfalmer tied it at 25-25 with 1:45 left. McCarthy then hit a pair of jump shots from the side and a layup to guide the Bucs into a 33-29 lead at halftime.

St. Mary's quickly blew the lead to 10 points in the third quarter and had a 47-36 margin with 2:56 left in the period when Mullen, behind some fantastic outcourt pumping by Jim Wedow, scored nine straight points to trim the tally to 47-45 going into the final quarter. Mullen grabbed one brief lead in the final stanza, at 54-53, before the Bucs pulled away again to a 58-54 margin. Back came the Mustangs again to deadlock the count at 58-58 with 2:20 left but Jezek dumped a free throw, Grantz a field goal, and then McCarthy and Conway sealed the victory with four straight conversions from the charity line in the final minute.

AFA's Cagers Start Week's Busy Schedule

A busy week of activity on the local collegiate scene was to start today in both basketball and hockey involving the Air Force Academy and Colorado College.

The week's schedule was to kick off with a game this afternoon between the Air Force and North Dakota University at the AFA's Cadet Gymnasium. The contest was slated to start at 4:15 p.m. It's the first appearance at home for the Falcons in the last five games and they now own a 4-4 record for the season and should be a heavy favorite to get ahead of the break-even mark for the second time this season.

Meanwhile, on the road, the Colorado College hockey team continues a series of games on the east coast and tonight will take on Colgate University at Hamilton, N. Y. This game will be broadcast in Colorado Springs over radio KRDO starting at 7:30 p.m.

The Tigers are fresh from capturing the big silver trophy in the annual Brown University Invitational tournament at Providence, R. I., where they bounced Providence last Friday night, 8-5, and then came back to win a thriller from the host Brown sextet on Saturday, 4-3.

After tonight's single game with Colgate, CC travels on to Othens, O., for games Tuesday and Wednesday nights against Ohio University, a newcomer to collegiate hockey circles. The Tigers were originally slated to play Ohio State of the Big Ten on Wednesday, but at the last minute former CC mentor Tom Bedecki who is now with the Buckeyes cancelled out after a lop-sided loss to Ohio U.

This weekend the only home games will be played by Colorado College's basketball troops as they make their season's local debut and start their last season in the Rocky Mountain Conference at the same time. CC will host Adams State College of Alamosa both Friday and Saturday nights at the City Auditorium.

The Air Force five will get right back on the road again this weekend after only a brief stay at home, as Friday the Falcons will travel to meet Utah State at Logan, Utah, and on Saturday they'll be at Missoula against Montana State University.

The CC hockey team remains away from home this weekend with two games at Grand Forks against the Universityof North Dakota. This will be the second series in Western Collegiate Hockey Association action for the Tigers after splitting an earlier home set against Michigan State. The Nodaks are considered prime contenders for the WCHA crown as defending national champion from one NCAA tournament.

Altho North Dakota's Sioux can strike fear into any team when they strap on the skates for a hockey game, their basketball brethren are hardly quite so awesome. Last Saturday night they started a series thru Colorado with a 73-44 loss to Colorado State University at Ft. Collins.

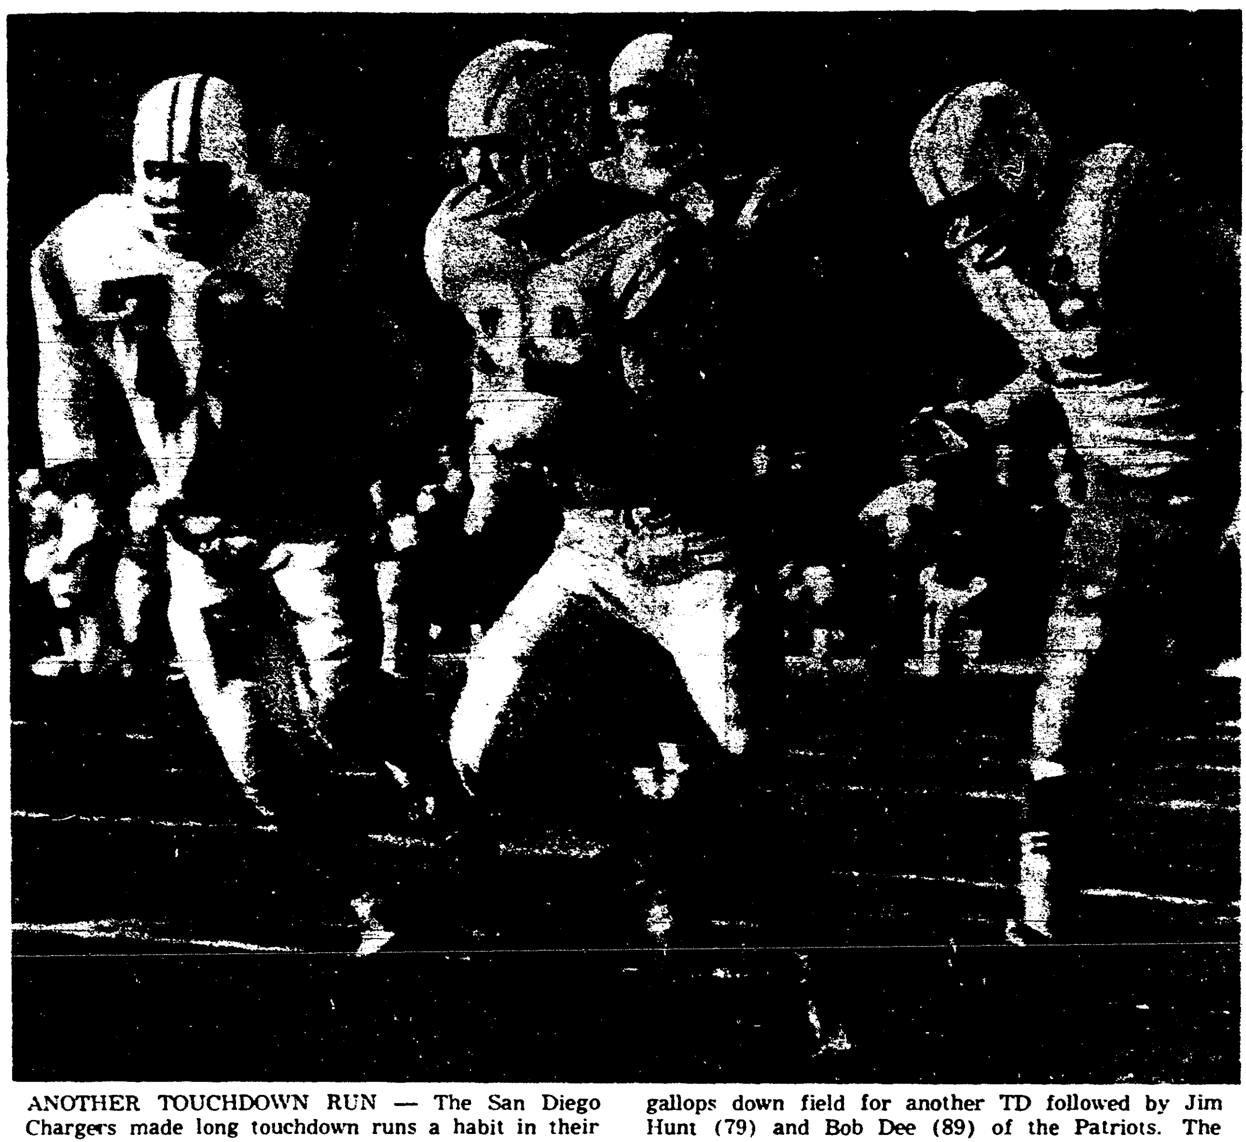
Chargers Easily Win AFL

* * *



ANOTHER TOUCHDOWN RUN — The San Diego Chargers made long touchdown runs a habit in their AFL Championship playoff game with the Boston Patriots in San Diego, Sunday. Here, end Don Norton gallops down field for another TD followed by Jim Hunt (79) and Bob Dee (89) of the Patriots. The Chargers won the game and the championship, 51-10. (AP Wirephoto)

Coach Wants No Playoff With NFL Champions

By CHARLIES MAHER

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The San Deigo Chargers have established to the eminent satisfaction of most precincts, and to the actute dissatisfaction of Boston, that they are the finest team in the American Football League.

And San Diego Coach Sid Gillman declared Sunday—after the Chargers won their first AFL title by demolishing Boston 51-10 — that his club wouldn't disgrace itself in a game with the National Football League champions.

To which AFL Commissioner Joe Foss added that a football World Series between the AFL and NFL champions may be only a year or two away.

For the present, the suggestion that the Chargers are ready for the Chicago Bears is likely to provoke nothing more than an interminable debate. But it was clear Sunday that the Chargers were ready for something substantially better than Boston.

The Chargers gained 610 yards rushing and passing. San Diego's Keith Lincoln, in the greatest performance ever given by an AFL running back, made 206 yards as a rusher, 123 more as a pass receiver and 20 as a passer. That gave him the astonishing sum of 349 yards gained in a single game and made him almost the unanimous choice as the game's outstanding player.

Foss, asked about the possibility of a title game between the AFL and NFL champions, told The Associated Press:

"It wouldn't surprise me if such a game were to come about within a year or two. And it wouldn't surprise me if we started playing exhibition games next summer."

Foss expected a close game Sunday. But it took the Chargers less than five minutes of the first quarter to score enough points to win.

The Patriots led the league in total defense this season and had great success with the red dog or blitz rush. On a sloppy field in Boston, the Patriots contained Lincoln and Charger halfback Paul Lowe and lost to San Diego by a single point, 7-6.

But the field was dry Sunday and the Chargers quickly neutralized the blitz by using pitchouts and lob passes to the outside. Several times the Boston rushers broke through the line beautifully, then discovered that the play was not in front of them but to the outside, where the Patriots had nobody waiting.

On such a play Lincoln took a pitchout from quarterback Tobin Rote and ran 67 yards for the second San Diego touchdown. The Chargers had the game won then, with 10:48 to play in the first period.

San Diego's defense held Boston to 75 yards rushing and to 186 yards passing. The Charger offense meanwhile, gained 318 yards rushing and 292 passing.

Big Eight Loop Race Opens Tonite

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Big Eight basketball championship race opens in earnest tonight with top-rated Kansas State meeting Colorado, second-rated Oklahoma State facing Kansas and surprising Missouri taking on Oklahoma.

All three teams—K-State, OSU and Mizzou—will be playing at home and strongly favored. In the other game tonight, Iowa State rates the nod over Nebraska at Ames.

K-State's impressive sweep through the conference holiday tournament sent its stock soaring. The Wildcats will match an 8-3 season record against Colorado's 5-6 and have seven-foot Roger Suttner and 6-6 Willie Murrell to control the back boards. Colorado's 6-8 Jim Davis leads the league in rebounding but he'll need more help than he's been getting against K-State.

Oklahoma squeezed by Kansas 65-63 in overtime Saturday in the only league game to date. But the Sooners, 5-6, will have rebound trouble against Missouri, 6-3, which is led by Ray Bob Carey, George Flamank and Ned Monsees.

Iowa State, 4-6, will find Nebraska smarting from nine straight defeats after an opening victory over Wyoming.

DU Captures Intercollegiate Ski Meet

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Denver University massed 387.8 points in two days of competition to win the Steamboat Springs Intercollegiate Ski Meet Sunday.

Individual winners in the Sunday events were Arnee Valkama of DU in jumping, and Valdimir Sabieh of Colorado University in the downhill race.

Loris Werner of Western State collected 361.6 points to merit the Skimeister Award. It is given to the skier who gains the most points in all four events.

Sunday's winners included:
Jumping—1, Valkama, 225.0 points, 2, John Elliott, Wyoming, 217.1, 3, Werner 210.6, 4, Tom Upham, CU 209.1, 5, Phil Shama, DU, 205.1.

Bowls Roundup

College Grid Slate Ended Last Weekend

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The North received the kickoff after every touchdown, it rained in Honolulu and Duke Carlisle played defense.

That just about sums up the final day of the extended college football season Saturday on which three all-star contests were played.

The South downed the North 28-21 in the Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala.; the North whipped South 20-13 in the Hula Bowl at Honolulu and the Nations' trampled the Southwest 66-14 in the Challenge Bowl at Corpus Christi, Tex.

The Senior Bowl introduced the kickoff on receive option, which permits the trailing team to receive the ball after it scores. The North, behind all the way, took advantage of the innovation and nearly pulled out a victory in the final quarter.

Behind 28-7, the North roared back in the fourth period on two touchdown passes by Utah State's Bill Munson, who was one of a number of star quarterbacks in the game.

Miami's George Mira passed for one touchdown for the South as did Billy Lothridge of Georgia Tech.

Lothridge's scoring aerial came on a bizarre play. Lothridge was set to attempt a field goal, but Larry Rakestraw, Georgia quarterback, fumbled the snapback. Lothridge scooped up the ball and fired a six-yard pass to Tech end Billy Martin.

In Honolulu, rain bothered just about everyone except Pete Liske. The Penn State quarterback led the North to two touchdowns and was named the game's outstanding back.

After Liske led the North on an 85-yard scoring march, Charlie Taylor of Arizona State tallied on a 26-yard run. That and the extra point gave the South a 7-6 lead. But Liske came right back, engineered another successful drive and ran for the two-point conversion.

Emmitt Augustus Carlisle III, the Duke who brilliantly passed and ran Texas to the big Cotton Bowl victory over Navy, played for the Southwest in the Challenge Bowl but only on defense in the losing cause. The Texan preferred defense because that's the position he's aiming for in the pros.

Bork passed for three touchdowns, ran for another and set up two more as he completed 20 of 27 tosses for 243 yards. Rohrschneider, Bork's Northern Illinois teammate, caught 10 basses for 207 yards and helped set up four touchdowns.

Snell, of Ohio State, scored four times while Byrd, of Boston University, tallied three times.

CSC Rides Atop RMC Standings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two league games — the only two of the season so far—have placed Colorado State College in a comfortable position at the top of the Rocky Mountain Conference basketball standings.

Western State College of Gunnison, victom of both defeats, is at the bottom. But the three other conference members—Colorado Mines, Adams State and Colorado Collete—are untested in games that count toward the standings.

Saturday's 65-61 victory over Western State was the seventh consecutive triumph for CSC this season but it was by no means as easy an accomplishment as the previous night's 87-41 beating of the Gunnison team.

With 12 minutes left in the game, CSC held a 52 - 40 lead. But Western rushed back to close the difference to four points, scoring five points in the last 40 seconds of play.

The Nebraskans were fooled by the Miners' deliberate tactics during the first half, and Mines led 32-29 at intermission. But the Miners could score only 16 points in the second half.

Further light should be cast on league capabilities Friday. Adams State will be at Colorado College, and Mines will be at Western State.

In a nonconference game, CSC will be at Southern Colorado State.

Oregon States' Wilcox Gets Hula Bowl Lineman Award

The big Beaver end, used only on defense in the North's 20-13 victory over the South in Saturday night's mud-splattered, 18th renewal of the all-star classic, walked off with the top lineman award. He thus became the first lineman to win the prize for defensive play alone.

Wilcox also overshadowed such All-American stars as Minnesota's Carl Eller and Texas' Scott Appleton. Wilcox consistently beat out his opposition in the South line and spent most of the game in South's backfield.

Penn State's Pete Liske, who scored one touchdown and passed for another to Oregon's All-American end Vern Burke, was the choice for the outstanding back award.

Liske, as did the Baylor quarterback Don Trull for the South, ignored the heavy rain at Honolulu Stadium and tossed 19 passes. He completed nine for 135 yards.

Trull threw 14 passes and completed nine for 111 yards. His nine-yarder to Southern California's Willie Brown closed out the scoring after the North had opened a 20-7 lead in the fourth quarter.

The North broke a scoreless battle in the second period when Paul Martha of Pittsburgh smashed over from the two to climax an 85-yard drive.

The South edged into the lead, 7-6, in the third period on a 26-yard run by Charley Taylor of Arizona State and Pete Beathard's conversion.

But Liske's two-yard plunge and two-point conversion in the same period and his scoring pass to Burke early in the fourth period put the game out of South's reach.

Vikings' End Shoots Self

CLEVELAND (AP) —Jim Marshall, defensive end for the Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League, was in Forest City Hospital today after surgery to remove a bullet that struck him when a pistol he was trying to unloaded discharged.

Marshall, 26, who is visting his in-laws here, was listed in fair condition.

The 6-foot-3, 235-pound former Ohio State star said he was alone in his car in the driveway at his father-in-law's home when the accident occurred.

Carry Back Gives Birth to Foal

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The big news in racing over the weekend wasn't on the track —it was the arrival of the first foal by Carry Back.

The blessed event was sure to warm the hearts of racing fans as another step in the saga of the poor, little colt who won fame and fortune on the turf in the best Horato Alger tradition.

Carry Back's first foal is a dark bay filly out of Stefanne. She arrived Sunday night at 7:35 in the same stall at the Ocala, Fla., Stud Farm where her daddy was born in 1959.

John S. Dolan, Cincinnati sportsman and breeder who owns the foal, said he would ask the Jockey Club to register her name as Back To Back.

Carry Back, sired by Saggy out of the little known mare Joppy, was regarded as an unfashionable colt when he was born, but he became an equine millionaire and thrilled racing fans with his come-from-behind finishes that won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness in 1961 and made him the best of the four-year-olds in 1962.

New Rule Takes Toll On South

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—"It almost killed us," said South Coach Tom Landry of a new rule that prevented his Rebels from routing the Yanks in the 15th annual All-Star Senior Bowl game.

"It's good for this type of game," he conceded. But as far as his National Football League (NFL) is concerned: "No never."

Those words were echoed by North Coach George Wilson, whose fulltime job is coaching the Detroit Lions in the NFL. The rule, designed to keep the score close, almost allowed the North to stage a breathtaking come from behind victory.

"But there wasn't enough time," said Wilson, whose Yankees lost 28-21 before 37,000 spectators on a rainswept field after trailing 28-7 in the fourth quarter.

The rule allows the trailing team the option of whether it wanted a kickoff or receive after a score. It played a major role in keeping the South from routing the North. In the second half, the Yanks got off 34 plays to the South's four.

The winning Rebels each pick up $900 from the Senior Bowl in the first professional game for the ex-collegiate stars. The losers each got $700. At least 46 of the 50 boys who participated have signed pro contracts. The South now has a 10-5 series edge.

Mickey Wright 'Delighted' Over Award

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The willowy blonde belter of the women's professional golf tour, Mickey Wright, was "flabbergasted" and "delighted" when told she had been named Woman Athlete of the Year.

Miss Wright, a native of California who now calls Dallas her home, won the honor in the annual Associated Press year-end poll.

She massed 311 points to 127 for tennis star Maria Bueno in second place and was first choice on 87 of the 134 ballots cast.

The golf star won 13 official tournaments on the ladies Professional Golf Association tour last year. She racked up $34,027 in prize money, too, the most ever by a woman golfer in one year.

Buckaroos Topple Invaders

By United Press International

The Portland Buckaroos, sparked by the blazing stick of Art Jones, are starting to show flashes of last season's championship form.

Portland romped to the northern division title of the Western Hockey League last season and extended the San Francisco Seals to seven games before losing in the league playoffs. But the Buckaroos got off to a slow start this season and were having trouble climbing out of the second division.

That all changed last night as Portland beat the league-leading Denver Invaders 7-4 and moved from a tie for fourth place into a tie for second place. The setback snapped Denver's eight-game winning streak.

The hero for Portland was Jones, who pushed home three goals and collected an assist.

The Denver - Portland game was the only one on Sunday's abbreviated schedule All teams are idle tonight. The schedule resumes Tuesday night with Seattle at Los Angeles and Denver at Vancouver.

Lombardi Complains of Defense In Packers' Rout of Browns

By FRANK EIDGE
United Press International

MIAMI (UPI) — Bart Starr was at the peak of his game and Jimmy Brown was far from it. That just about sums up the story of the Green Bay Packers' 40-23 victory over the Cleveland Browns in the National Football League's Playoff Bowl game.

To the crowd of 54,921 in the Orange Bowl and to a nationwide television audience, it appeared that the Packers gave a fine performance in this battle of the NFL's two runnerup teams.

To Vince Lombardi, Green Bay's perfectionist coach, there was a flaw.

"No defense," he summed up soberly.

Jimmy Brown could hardly agree with Lombardi. The Browns blockbuster, first pro back to gain a mile in one season, was held to 61 yards in 11 carries by the Packers.

"We didn't have a special defense set up for him," Lombardi said after the game. "We didn't think it was necessary. After all, we normally have a pretty good defensive team."

Starr's performance won him the game's most valuable player award by the unanimous vote of the writers who covered the contest. Starr completed 15 of 18 passes for a total of 259 yards and three touchdowns.

And even though Lombardi complained about looseness in the defense, the crowd enjoyed the barrage of eight touchdowns two field goals and a safety.

Starr by far had the better of his duel with rival quarterback Frank Ryan, as well as with the rushing efforts of Brown.

Starr matched the NFL record for the longest touchdown pass, a 99-yard flip and run to Tom Moore which, while it doesn't count in the record books, was something to see. Standing in his own end zone, Starr faked line-busting Jim Taylor into the middle and then lifted a pitch to Moore at the 23. Moore lugged all the way down the sidelines for the game's outstanding feature.

There was a defensive gem, too, when the Browns marched 76 yards to a first down on the Packer one—and couldn't hammer it across in four all-out shots at the line. They gave the great Jim Brown two shots and his 228 pounds were stopped cold. Ernie Green smacked in there twice with his 210 pounds and both times was held with no gain. The Packers took over—and Starr uncorked that 99-yard touchdown play.

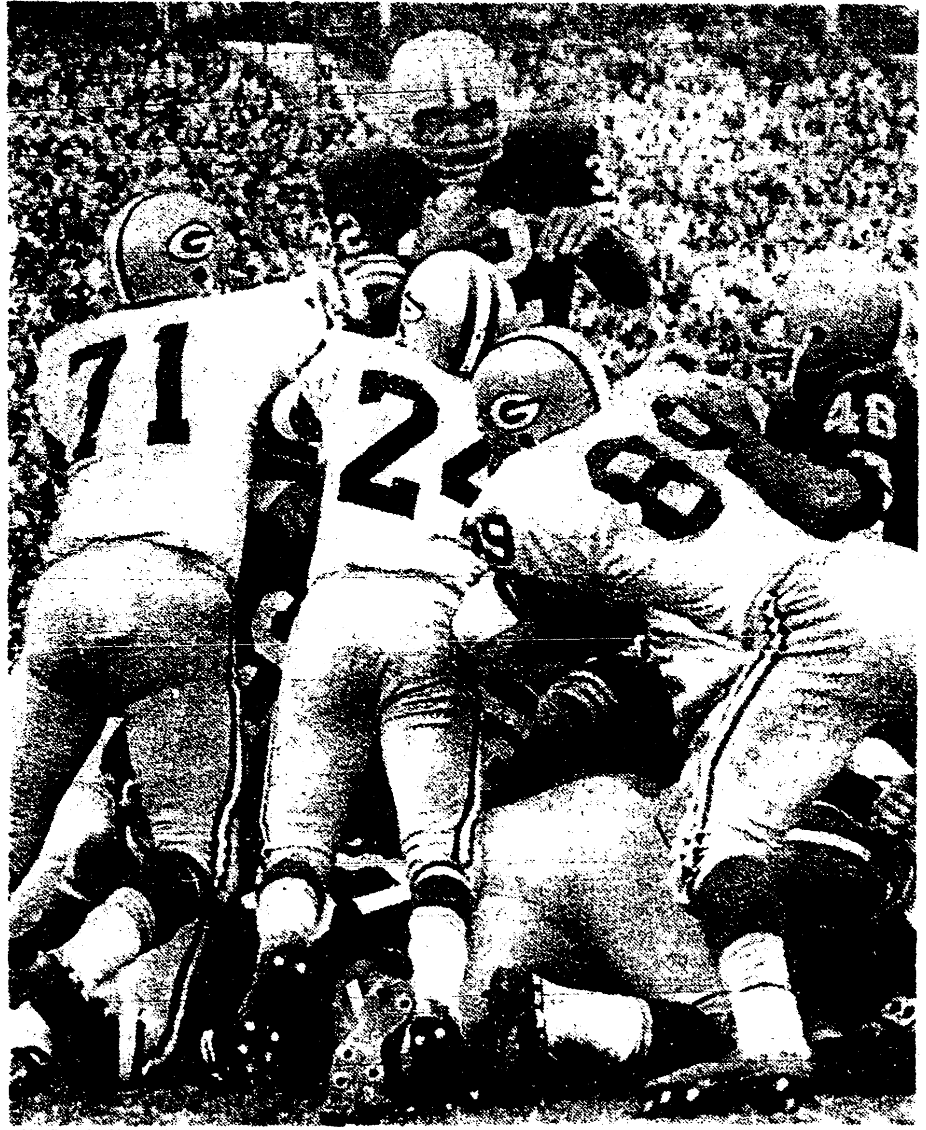
Before it was over Starr also pitched a 15-yard scoring pass to Max McGee and a three-yarder to Ron Kramer. Starr's passes also set up a one-yard touchdown plunge by Moore and a two-yard scoring dive by Taylor. Rounding it out, Jerry Kramer kicked five extra points and an eight-yard field goal.

Ryan pitched touchdown passes to Rich Kreitling and Bob Crespino and his aerials also set up a five-yard scoring plunge by Green. Lou (The Toe) Groza kicked two extra points and a 35-yard field goal.

* * *

Statistically it was a close game, Green Bay getting 27 first downs with 231 yards rushing and 259 passing for a 490 total while Cleveland had 20 first downs on 108 rushing yards and 310 by passing for a 418 total. But the Green Bay defense choked off the Browns and did a good job of bottling up Brown.

* * *



THREE REASONS WHY BROWN DIDN'T SCORE — Three Green Bay Packers form a defensive wall in a goal line stand to stop fullback Jimmy Brown (32) of the Cleveland Browns just short of a touchdown in the first period of the National League playoff game, Sunday. Green Bay defenders are (71) Bill Forester, (24) Willie Wood, and (89) Dave Robinson.

Kollen Drops From Skating Competition

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pieter Kollen, a former national figure skating champion, has withdrawn from this year's competition because of a brain injury suffered by his partner, Patti Gustafson, 16, Lynn, Mass.

Kollen, Ann Arbor, Mich., was on the U.S. figure skating team last year and placed ninth in the world championship. This year he and Dorothyann Nelson of Chicago won the national senior pairs championship.

Withdrawal of Kollen and Miss Gustafson was announced today by officials preparing for the 1964 championships, which start here Thursday.

Top Vaulter Admits Past Jump Fears

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pole vaulter John Pennel, who admits he had a "jumping complex even when I was little," today was jumping with joy over his selection as winner of the 1963 James E. Sullivan Award.

"I'm completely thrilled and overwhelmed," said the 23-year-old senior from Northeast Louisiana State College after being notified that he had finished first in the voting for the most coveted prize of amateur athletes.

"I never thought I'd be selected. Although I had always coveted the significance of the award," added the only man ever to clear 17 feet in the pole vault. "In fact, even after I learned I had been nominated for the final voting this year, I never realized I had a chance to win."

Pennel received 165 first place votes and a total of 1,115 points in the balloting of 524 sportsmen, who were asked to select the American amateur athlete who "by performance, example and good influence did the most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship" in 1963.

Hawaiian weightlifter Tommy Kono was runnerup in the voting for the third straight year, totaling 140 first place votes and 931 points. Sprinter Bob Hayes of Florida A&M, "the world's fastest human," garnered 54 first place votes and 628 points to finish third.

Fourth in the voting was hurdler Hayes Jones of Detroit, followed by gymnast Mrs. Muriel Davis Grossfeld of New Haven, Conn., swimmers Donna De Varona of Santa Clara, Calif., Chet Jastremski of Toledo, Ohio, and Robyn Ann Johnson of Arlington, Va., and discus champion Jay Silvester of Trementon, Utah.

Harney Nurses Narrow Lead Over Palmer in L. A. Open

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — History, at best a frivolous sort of thing, may repeat itself today as Paul Harney nurses a fragile lead going into the final round of the $50,000 Los Angeles Open golf tournament.

People, mostly money hungry fellow professional golfers, were peering down his neck as play resumed over the par 36-35—71 Rancho Club Course Sunday.

By sheer coincidence, this was exactly Palmer's position one year ago when Art Wall Jr., was the leader. Palmer made up the difference en route to victory, and did it by three shots, with Wall somewhat shaken back five strokes in arrears.

Immediately behind the greying golfing pride of Worcester, Mass., were Bobby Nichols and Jimmy Clark. Harney had a 54-hole score of 209, Nichols and Clark 210.

Jay Hebert was alone at 211 and then came Palmer, along with Al Geiberger and Al Balding.

Included in the 214 group were Gene Littler, Dow Finsterwald and West Ellis, Jr., along with James Black, the one-day opening round surprise.

Harney fired a brilliant 66 Sunday which included the biggest shot of the day, a seven-iron blast that traveled 155 yards and plopped in for an eagle two on the 14th hole.

Palmer's jinx rode again at the ninth hole, the one he took a 12 on in 1961, seven strokes over par. Sunday he hit over the fence onto a practice range and took a seven.

But Palmer got into no more trouble and his two birdies gave him a round of 39-33—72, and a chance for today's $7,500 first prize.

Lakers Topple Celts Again On Barnett's Charity Tosses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Perhaps the Los Angeles Lakers made a New Year's resolution never to lose to the Boston Celtics again.

At least that's the way the Lakers suddenly are acting.

The National Basketball Association's Western Division leaders lost all three games they played with the Celtics before 1964 started. Now in one weekend Los Angeles has won two clashes with the East's perennial pacesetters.

Dick Barnett's two free throws with five seconds remaining brought Los Angeles a 97-95 triumph Sunday night.

New York walloped Philadelphia 142-118, St. Louis belted Detroit 116-99 and Cincinnati outlasted Baltimore 111-106 in other games Sunday.

The Celtics appeared on their way to victory, leading 80-72 after three quarters. But the Lakers fought back until Barnett fired in a jump shot, tying the score 86-86. The lead then switched back and forth before Barnett's pair of points ended it.

Jerry West scored 29 points and Elgin Baylor 25 for Los Angeles. Sam Jones led Boston with 25.

Los Angeles took Boston 125-118 in overtime Saturday night while Cincinnati defeated New York 125-116 and Philadelphia whipped Baltimore 123-113.

Tech Engineers Upset Over Touted Wildcats

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Old Man Upset whistled Dixie Saturday night and led the Southland's top basketball powers, Kentucky and Vanderbilt, into the sea for the first time this season.

The spectre, playing havoc with national rankings for the second successive week, drew assists from Kentucky-killer Georgia Tech, 76-67 victor over the top-rated Wildcats, and Tennessee, surprise 57-55 winner over sixth-ranked Vandy.

The Kentucky and Vanderbilt setbacks in Southeastern Conference openers left UCLA, Davidson and DePaul with the only perfect records among major college fives and vaulted the Bruins, No. 2 in last week's Associated Press poll, into the heir-apparent role.

UCLA walloped Washington State, 121-77, for victory No. 11 and its 13th straight in a carry-over from last season. The Bruins' unbeaten string is the longest in the nation after Vanderbilt's run of 15 was broken by Tennessee.

Loyola of Chicago, replaced by Kentucky in the No. 1 spot last week, got back into the 100-plus point groove with a 127-85 romp over Morehead State. The Ramblers, No. 3 and 10-1, equalled their all-time scoring output as Vic Rouse, Jack Egan, Les Hunter and Ron Miller all hit for 20 points or more.

Fifth-ranked Michigan defeated Northwestern, 85-73, in a Big Ten opener, and Duke, No 9, overpowered North Carolina State, 91-70, while two other members of the top ten, Cincinnati and Oregon State, were knocking each other off in a weekend set.

The fourth-ranked Bearcats, now 8-3, edged the eighth-ranked Beavers, 57-53, Friday. OSU's seven-foot Mel Counts evened matters Saturday with a 38-point performance that helped riddle Cincinnati, 82-61. Oregon State's record is 11-2.

Villanova, No. 10 and 9-1, was idle Saturday.

Georgia Tech, a thorn in Baron Adolph Rupp's side for some time, made a wreck of Kentucky for the third straight time and sixth in the teams' last nine meetings. The Wildcats, weary after their two-game Sugar Bowl set earlier in the week, managed a two-point halftime lead but fell behind to stay early in the final period. Tech captain R. D. Craddock was the game's top scorer, with 25.

Tennessee's collapsing zone defense held Vanderbilt in check and R. W. Davis and Larry McIntosh hit free throws in the final seconds to sink the Commodores.

In other games involving major powers: St. Joseph's topped NYU, 82-76; St. John's surprised Syracuse, 84-71; Oklahoma City routed Creighton, 101-85; Ohio State defeated Wisconsin by the same count; St. Bonaventure nipped Duquesne, 97-95; Iowa stunned Indiana, 72-71; Seattle outscored Arizona State, 100-96; North Carolina beat Notre Dame, 78-68; Wichita belted Drake, 67-49; Stanford clubbed USC, 62-46, and Illinois trimmed Michigan State, 87-66.

Redskins, Lobos Set For Battle

By DICK STUART
Associated Press Sports Writer

A battle Saturday night between Utah's little Redskins and New Mexico's big Lobos shapes up as the first big game of the Western Athletic Conference basketball season.

And it's somewhat of a surprise that the Salt Lake City meeting should mean so much to both.

Preseason forecasting had the championship virtually forfeited to Arizona State University.

But while the defending champion Sun Devils have collapsed, Utah and New Mexico have stepped forward.

The Utes have an 11-1 preconference record. Last week they rapped St. Joseph's, Pa., College 83-78 to take third place in New York City's Holiday Festival. Then they dumped Cincinnati, fourth ranked nationally by the Associated Press, 76-68.

WESTERN ATHLETIC

	Conference W.	L.	Pct.	All Games W.	L.	pct.	Pts.	OP
Utah	0	0	.000	11	1	.917	1046	878
New Mexico	0	0	.000	10	1	.909	781	613
Brigham Young	0	0	.000	7	4	.636	854	854
Arizona	0	0	.000	6	5	.545	714	662
Arizona State	0	0	.000	5	5	.500	890	840
Wyoming	0	0	.000	5	5	.500	819	834

The biggest Redskins have been 6-foot-1 Doug Moon, 5-11 Skip Kroeger and 6-2 Spence Thurgood.

New Mexico has used a strong defense and ball control to post a 10-1 mark. Key personnel have been 6-8 Ira (Large) Harge, 6-6 Claude Williams and 6-5 Mike Lucero.

The Lobos can also score. They warmed up for the conference campaign last week by blasting Oklahoma Christian 92-40 and West Texas State 85-63.

A-State, meanwhile, continues to slip. The Sun Devils lost 100-96 to Seattle last Saturday, putting their record at 5-5 and breaking a string of 52 straight home court victories. The Sun Devils had a 61-60 victory over Stanford earlier in the week.

The WAC firing begins Friday when New Mexico visits improving Brigham Young University and Utah entertains so-so Wyoming.

BYU upped its record to 7-4 last week by defeating Montana 89-65 and Montana State 96-83 after losing 68-58 to Oregon State in the finals of the Far West classic.

Rangers Shed NHL Cellar Via Third Straight Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Rangers, in danger of dropping into the National Hockey League cellar a week ago, are closing in on fourth-place Detroit, thanks to an unbeaten 1964 record and the return to form of goalie Jacques Plante.

The Rangers won their third straight of the new year Sunday night, tripping Toronto, 3-2, rookie Dave Richardson's first NHL goal. The Red Wings, beaten by New York Saturday, 5-2, rallied on Norm Ullman's goal with less than five minutes remaining to tie Montreal, 3-3, and keep a three-point spread between themselves and the Rangers for the final Stanley Cup Playoff berth.

Chicago topped the last-place Boston Bruins, 5-3, in the other game to open its league lead to three points over Montreal and five over third-place Toronto.

Russian Professor Plunges in Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—A Russian philosophy professor who applied last week for asylum in this country was in critical condition at a Cambridge hospital today after a three-story fall.

Dr. Jouri Aseyef, 35, of the University of Leningrad, who has been studying at Harvard on a cultural exchange since September, plunged Thursday night from the apartment of an American friend with whom he had been staying, the State Department disclosed Friday.

Martin Cramer of the State Department confirmed that Aseyef had applied for asylum. He said there was no immediate explanation for Aseyef's plunge but added the professor's family in Leningrad "was under heavy psychological strain."

NOE PLACE LIKE HIALEAH

HIALEAH, Fla. (AP) — Kenny Noe Sr., is again training race horses stabled at Hialeah. He was the top jockey at the flamingo track's first meeting in 1925 with 49 victories. His son is Hialeah's racing secretary.

Deaths

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Millard Lewis Cope, 58, publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times and a director of The Associated Press, died Saturday of a stroke. Cope, a former president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association, had been associated with the Harte-Hanks newspaper group for 35 years. He was born in Sonora, Tex.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Ellis A. Gimbel Jr., 66, former executive head of Gimbel Brothers department store in New York City, died Caturday. He had been hospitalized since Dec. 31 with a heart ailment.

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Murrell O Mathews, 70, executive vice president of the Denver-based Ideal Cement Co., the nation's largest cement firm, died Saturday. He was born in Riley Springs, Tex.

NEW YORK (AP)—Mortimer Ehrman, 59, former night managing editor of the New York Mirror, died Saturday of cancer. Ehrman, a newspaperman for 45 years, was a charter member of the Miror when it opened in 1924 and remained with the newspaper until it closed last October.

THE STORY OF TEN LITTLE FREE WORKERS

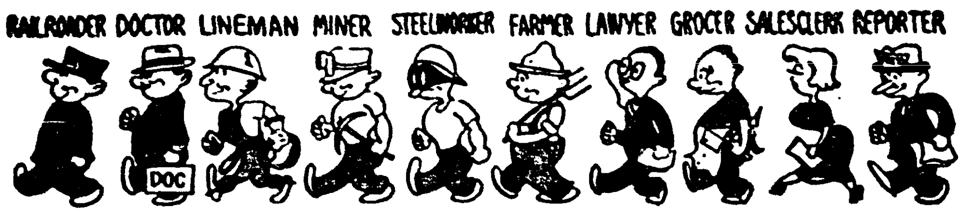
THESE ARE THE WORKERS



RAILROADER DOCTOR LINEMAN MINER STEELWORKER FARMER LAWYER GROCER SALESCLERK REPORTER
DOC

Ten little free workers in this country fine and fair.
But if you cherish your freedom—worker have a care!
Ten little free workers—Reddy was doing fine
Until the socialists got him—then there were nine.

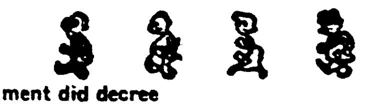
Nine little free workers laughed at Reddy's fate
Along came federal medicine—then there were eight.

Eight little free workers thought this country heaven
But the government took over the railroads, then there were seven.

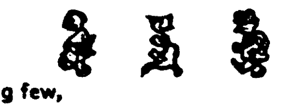
Seven little free workers—'till the miners got in a fix.
Uncle said coal's essential and took over leaving six.

Six little free workers 'till the day did arrive
The steel mills too were federalized—then there were five.

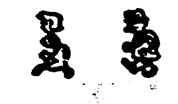
Five little free workers—but the farmers are free no more
The farms have been collectivized—that leaves only four.



Four little free workers till the government did decree
All must have free legal advice—then there were three.

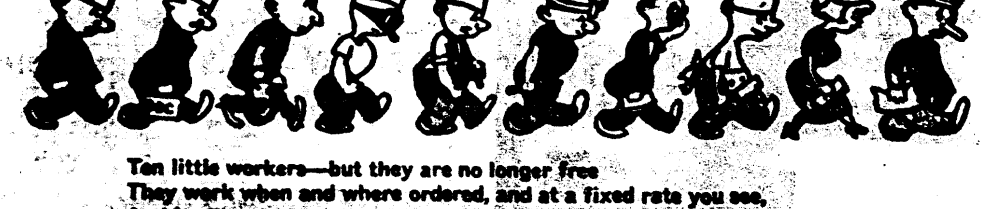


Three little free workers—the number is getting few,
But with government groceries selling food—then there were two.



Two little free workers—our story's almost done,
With clerk's at work in federal stores—that leaves only one.

One little free worker—the reporter son-of-a-gun
Mustn't criticize government—so now there are none.



Ten little workers—but they are no longer free
They work when and where ordered, and at a fixed rate you see,
And it all could have been prevented if they'd only seen fit to agree
And work together instead of saying "it never can happen to me!"

Yes . . . this could happen to you. This little story could come true unless each of us works to preserve free enterprise.

Bangs of False Hair Newest Note in Fashion

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

Associated Press Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Setting the tender trap was the subject of study Sunday by more than 200 Leap Year - minded fashion writers here for the opening sessions of Press Week.

The varied program of man - lures included big flirtatious hats, siren hairpieces, shadowy black stockings, fast track shoes and a web of intriguing costumes woven by romantic little silk worms.

The New York Couture Group and the American Designers Group are conducting competing spring previews for the writers. Somehow everybody got enough of the messages to pass them along to the girls back home.

Busts of Cleopatra watched from pedestals in a Cairo night club atmosphere as stylist Lilly Dache explained that the siren of '64 has replaced the sweet young thing of 1963.

To prove it, one sweet young thing in a basic straight hairdo blunt cut just below the ear lobe was transformed into a half-dozen different types of seductress with pin-on pieces of hair.

Not wigs, the pieces included false bangs, a cluster of back curls, Southern style, long guiche sideburns; and puffed - up pillow chignons. Disguising a headful of curlers was a pink satin head band with blonde hair cascading nearly to the waist. The quick - change hair whimsies supposedly either enchant or confuse men into surrendering.

Miss Dache's hat lures are big black mesh cartwheels festooned with black roses, or glistening black patent leather turbans, of blinding turned - down brims with peek-a-boo holes; or flower-entwined straw snoods.

The 1964 siren will avoid tans at all costs, says Miss Dache. Her skin will be pale in contrast to strong eye shadow and bright lips. Black and brown stockings will create the smoky, tantalizing leg effect under black dresses with tch-tch necklines and fluttery short skirts.

The International Silk Show presented fashion allures of temptresses around the world, ranging from Greek goddesses molded in filmy silk chiffon to harem beauties steeped in mystique and shrouded in 14-karat gold embroidered saris and veils. A Formosan danced with two long red silk veils.

But whether the fashion flavor was foreign as a fiery flamenco dancer or as American as a backyard hostess, it was utterly feminine, and naturally silk. There were rustling ruffles, lacy flounces, slithery bias-cuts, bareness, softness, gauziness, gaudiness, a little naughtiness, and some silliness.

A reminder that the married woman should not be less a temptress during Leap Year, either, was "the other woman" dress—black, of course, bare-shouldered, with two-tiers of clingy crepe.

However, the show ended appropriately with a wedding dress, giddy with white ostrich feathers, symbolic that it's the early Leap Year bird who catches the worm.

At the Millinery Institute show earlier "best hatted" women in seven categories were announced as golden hat award winners. They are: Debbie Reynolds, motion pictures; Maureen O'Sullivan, theater; Jane Morgan, popular music; Kitty Carlisle, television; Rise Stevens, classical music; Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke, society; and Mrs. Mark O. Hatfield, wife of the Oregon governor, public affairs.

The less shoe the better is the trend on foot for spring, the fashion writers learned during the National Shoe Institute program. Lace effects, latticework, and cut-outs will reduce the shoe to little more than its sole.

Picking Up Find Can Be Too Dangerous

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — Stephen Fox didn't pick up his $59,333 at police headquarters Friday. Too dangerous, he said.

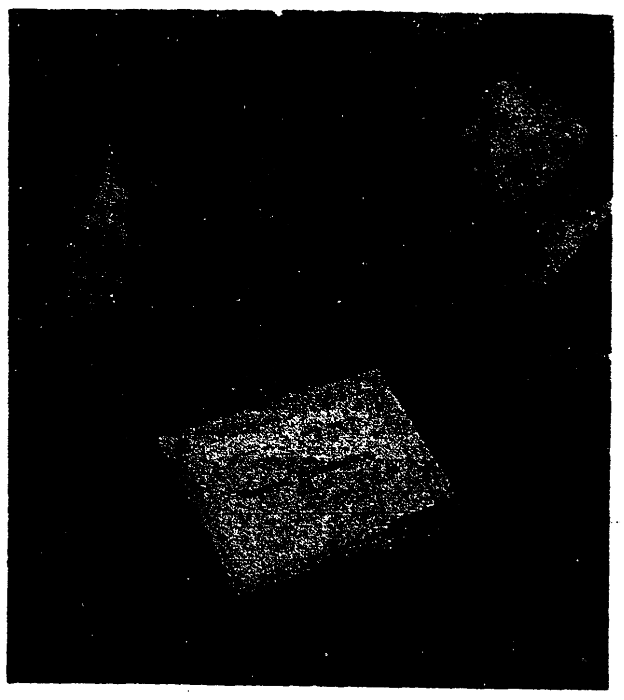
The money is his share of $89,000 in unclaimed cash he turned up with his bulldozer in Jericho, Long Island, on June 2, 1960. It was in a metal box.

The state Supreme Court awarded him the sum last month. Fox said he's pick it up with an armored truck. Police armed with shotguns waited at the appointed hour.

Sometime later, Fox's lawyer arrived, minus Fox and armored truck.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but my client has decided against coming because of security reasons."

There is a bank 100 feet across the street from police headquarters.



SUPERIOR PERFORMANCE—Lee Sayre, secretary to the North American Air Defense Command Director of Communications receives a certificate of superior performance from U.S. Army Brig. Gen. William B. Latte, NORAD deputy chief of staff for communications and electronics. The award was made to Miss Sayre for outstanding performance of her duties during the one year period, Nov. 19,1962 until Nov. 19, 1963. Employed at the NORAD headquarters since May 1961, Miss Sayre resides at 1131 North Cascade Ave.

Looking at Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

FILMLAND'S 'MR. CIRCUS,' FRANK WHITBECK, DIES

HOLLYWOOD — "The last of the giants is gone," was the way one friend of Frank Whitbeck described his passing. No Hollywood tycoon ever commanded the love, respect, and admiration enjoyed by Frank. He was the heart of this business — never had an enemy. Whitbeck was at Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer 32 years, adding color and glamor to all their premieres, narrating trailers with his exciting, sexy voice, making friends for Hollywood wherever he went, and most of all, looking after his girls, the elephants that used to live on the back lot. Judy Garland told me he introduced her to elephants: 'He was so kind and gentle." Joe Pasternak says of him. "Frank loved pictures, elephants, and people — and I loved him." From Director David Miller: "He was truly a man of peace."

The Mailman, an old pal, sat in his living room the other day waiting for Frank to finish a letter to the man who got him his first theater job in 1920. Whitbeck had heard his benefactor was in a bad way financially, and sent him a check. He never finished the letter. He died at 1:30 in the afternoon. At the same moment Lucille Ball was finishing a business conference in which she'd proposed the idea of getting Frank, the town's greatest authority on circuses, to do a sequence for "Greatest Show." Years ago, he'd told her a circus story; she planned to call and see if he'd put it on paper: "Imissed him by an hour," she said.

M-G-M retired him at 65 — big business does that to so many fine people. He had money and friends, but his heart was in the razzle - dazzle of show business. He never really adjusted to a life of ease.

In my den is a purple elephant Frank sent me. When I look at it, I'll remember a wonderful man, a great asset to Hollywood. He loved the place. It was the closest thing to a circus he could find outside the big tent.

Carolyn Jones spent Christmas with her mother, but Aaron Spelling surprised her with a diamond bracelet. "Ten years is 10 years," he said. "I couldn't dislike her, no matter what. When she was doing well and I wasn't, she helped me; introduced me to people, spent money on me."

We were saddened to learn that Van Johnson goes into Memorial hospital in New York City the middle of January for another operation. He had surgery here five months ago and thought he was entirely cured, but, alas, no. Van will play a night club in Canada before entering the hospital.

Mary Carr, of "Over the Hill" fame, writes: "After reading of Bing Crosby's mother's illness and his discovery of her real age, I thought, wow! She has a year and three months on me, so I said a prayer of thanks with the hope that I make my 90th. If I continue in my present state of health, may even make 100."

Joe X. Hymas, back from London where he wrote about Elke Sommer, says, "In terms of sex appeal she has all the other girls standing still." He picked up a story that Kim Novak collects bats — pins them on her wall. Hymas, who's had run-ins with many movie stars, including Ava Gardner, is taking fencing lessons. Is it a warning — or just for exercise that Bob Hope's daughter, Linda, is in his class?

Gilbert Roland's two talented daughters are moving here to pursue their careers. Linda's a sculptress-painter. Gyl an actress already set for the Peyton Place series on TV. Their mother, in case you forgot is Constance Bennett.

Sidney Poitier's so busy back east he won't have time to come here and campaign for the Oscar. He doesn't have to — his performance in "Lilies of the Field" does that for him.

BIGGEST GAME

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The hunter's determination finally won out for Dorsey Prescott, who has hunted bear in Alaska, and other game throughout the United States.

He made his most serious hunt when he discovered his wallet was missing after a day of hunting near Punta Gorda. Rainy weather did not stop his hunt on Sunday, Monday or Tuesday. On Wednesday he tried one last time.

"We circled a flooded area, came upon a trail I recognized, found a spot where we had stopped the jeep—and there, 10 feet away, was my wallet with money and important papers intact," he said.

Metals Hopeful on Sales Profits During 1964

By ROBERT J. REGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — United States non-ferrous metals companies enter 1964 with a greatly improved price structure, a hardly burdensome inventory position, and hopes for better sales and profits.

With the start of the second quarter of 1963, the industry broke out in a rash of price hikes that pushed up tags on aluminum, lead, and zinc at the primary level, and a broad range of products at the semi-fabricated and finished product level.

Aluminum, for instance, made considerable headway toward recovering ground lost in price areas during the final third of 1962. Not all aluminum's efforts were successful, however. The December retreat by Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp. from its one cent per pound price advance was the most notable example.

Kaiser's retreat was forced by the reluctance of Aluminum Co. of America to raise its primary price while "the present world supply of metal is too abundant to make such an increase realistic."

A half-cent increase initiated by Reynolds Metals Co. a few weeks earlier did stick, however, enabling domestic producers to recapture at least a third of the 1½ cents per pound cut forced by stiff internal and import competition in December, 1962.

The aluminum producers and fabricators marked up prices on a wide range of semis in 1963, but stressed that they had only partially recovered larger reductions in 1962.

In the production and shipment columns, however, aluminum outdid itself. Monthly and quarterly production records toppled in quick succession and new annual peaks in consumption and production for 1963 as a whole were assured. By the three-quarter mark, the industry was shipping ingot and mill products at an annual rate of 3.37 million tons, compared to actual shipments of 2,836,000 tons in 1962. Kaiser, Alcoa, and Reynolds each indicated expectations of an even better year in 1964.

The key word in the copper industry in 1963 was price stability and this is also likely to be the watchword for 1964. The 31-cents per pound tag on Electrolytic copper in the U.S. will celebrate its third birthday in May 1964. This stability stands in sharp contrast to the metal performance in the preceding several years and fulfills one of the copper industry's most desired goals.

Twin cornerstones of this stability are the price support program for copper on the London Metal Market started by African Copperbelt producers in 1961, and disciplined production schedules here and abroad. Copper producers give no sign that any change in policy is contemplated in the foreseeable future.

There are also uncertainties in key copper producing areas outside the U.S. which may come to a head in 1964. The political situation in the former Rhodesian Federation is in a state of flux almost matching that in the Congo. Toward the end of 1962, there were press reports that Chile, another large copper producer and the site of large Kennecott Copper Corp. and Anaconda Co. mines and plants, could possibly emerge with a Communist government after the 1964 elections.

Zinc and lead prices moved up 1½ cents and 2½ cents per pound respectively during 1963, recovering from levels considered severely depressed by the industry in 1962. Demand for both metals rose sharply in 1963 with a strong assist from the automotive industries and further improvement is looked for in 1964, although further price rises are expected to be fewer and farther between.

RE-ENLISTMENT—A recent re-enlistment of a USAF chief master sergeant was highlighted recently here when North American Air Defense Commander-in Chief, Gen. John K. Gerhart, officiated at the oath-taking ceremony. CMSgt. Howard C. Ellis, crew chief on the aircraft normally utilized by the NORAD commander on administrative trips throughout his far-flung joint Canadian-United States organization re-enlisted in the USAF for three years. Already a veteran of 23 years service, Ellis decided to stay on at the NORAD headquarters. The veteran USAF sergeant entered the service in 1940 and has been stationed at NORAD since 1959. CMSgt. Ellis, his wife and son reside in Quarters 6751-H at the Air Force Academy housing area.

Taxpayers May Help Pay for Wheat Transport

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's still not clear whether American taxpayers will help pay the ocean freight on 37 million bushels of U.S. wheat sold to the Soviet Union.

The sale is for cash, about $78.5 million. But it is not a simple cash sale.

The deal involves about $26 million in government subsidies —money which Uncle Sam originally got from those who pay taxes. What's not clear at the moment is whether the $26 million includes any of the cost of moving the grain from American to Soviet shores.

The sale was disclosed Friday by both the Agriculture Department and the Continental Grain Co., the big New York grain company that engineered the deal with the government's blessing.

The wheat sold the Russians will have a value of about $90 million at U.S. ports. The Soviet Union will pay approximately $68.5 million for the grain delivered at their ports.

For years the Agriculture Department has been offering export subsidies on wheat because U.S. prices have been held above comparative world levels by grower price-support programs. Exporters have been able to make sales abroad only when the subsidies were sufficient to make up the difference between the higher U.S. prices and the lower world prices.

But the size of the subsidy approved for the Continental sale appeared to be larger than necessary to make up the difference between the domestic and world prices. The subsidy goes to the seller, not the buyer.

When the late President John F. Kennedy directed last fall that Soviet-bloc areas be made eligible for export subsidies, he specified that half the grain sold such areas be moved in U.S.-flag ships to the extent available.

The Russians balked at use of American boats because their freight rates are higher than those of foreign vessels. For a time it appeared that Soviet sales might not develop because of the freight question.

The possibility that the Continental deal may carry indirect freight subsidies to meet Soviet opposition to the higher rates of U.S. ships was seen in the export subsidies the department will pay on nearly 13 million bushels of durum-class wheat involved in the Soviet sale.

The department agreed to pay a subsidy averaging 72.5 cents a bushel on the durum. This was upwards of 15 cents more than the agency had paid on other recent subsidized sales of this type wheat. Durum is used for making macaroni, spaghetti and similar products.

This extra amount in the durum subsidy was equivalent to about $1,750,000 based on the difference between recent subsidy payments and that approved for Continental.

The subsidy rates on the remaining part of the 37 million bushels range from 51 to 65 cents a bushel, depending on class of wheat and ports from which it will be shipped. The other types are used mainly for flour for bread and other baking purposes.

Young Goldwater Will Lead Youth Group

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Barry Goldwater Jr. said Sunday he is going to lead a national youth organization in support of his father's bid for the presidency.

The Arizona Republican's son will make his first campaign speech Tuesday night at a meeting of Los Angeles County Young Republicans.

Goldwater, 25, is a graduate of Arizona State University and works as a stock broker in Los Angeles.

Jewelry for Gentlemen Shows Wide Price Range

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nice thing about jewelry as a Christmas gift for men is the price range. You can get tie tacks and tie clips as low as $2 or $3 or you can pay up to about $19,000 for a Swiss watch with a diamond forming the crystal.

For evening wear watches are studded with diamonds and the price can be monumental. But there are handsome wrist watches as low as $10 to $15.

Here are some specific jewelry suggestions:

Tiffany's has a pair of cufflinks with a cultured pearl about the size of a large pea (around 9 millimeters) in a ring of small diamonds set in platinum for $1,450 the pair and matching studs for $285. Cartier's has a pair of cufflinks with black pearls, tapered baguette diamonds and platinum settings for $4,000. George Jensen has a pair as low as $22 and you can get a tie tack with a pearl for only $5.

If you get off into the field of Swiss watches you can find anything from chronographs with many dials to watches with polished wood dials (Ideal-$500) to skeleton movements with front and back crystals (Audemars Piguet - $1,350) to skin divers watches with a decompression gauge on the dial and an alarm that can be heard 600 feet under water.

For a homesick traveler Ardath has a double dial. One shows local time and the other "home" time. ($125). A unitime watch shows the time anywhere in the world. Another is a bivouac watch for parachute jumping and other strenuous outdoor sports.

Not quite in the jewelry department but Shields, Inc., has three automatic items: A battery-operated Shine - O - Matic shoe shiner ($5.95), a battery-operated hand vauum cleaner ($5.95) and a battery-powered Reflect -o - Matic safety signal with four plastic reflectors and a metal stand for road emergencies. The top rotate ($7.95).

In the smoking division there is an antique pistol lighter ($6.95), a giant executive lighter ($12.95), a Rolls-Royce cigarette container and lighter ($10.95) and a 1910 Model T Ford lighter which lights when you blow the born ($5.95).

Some leather suggestions by Dante: a pocket secretary with ball point pen ($7.50); pass case billfold ($7.50), key shield with pocket ($3), flat fold wallet ($7.50). There are "salute the Americas" cuff links and tie tack sest ranging from $10 to $37.50 — American agate, jade, hematite, mosaics from North America and black onyx, striped agate, lapiz and topaz from South America.

For the man who wants to know about tomorrow's weather the Taylor Instrument Co., has a "stormoscope" barometer ($65) in which the most common pressure range between 29 and 31 inches has been magnified so you can see the pointer jump.

For a man who wants to take his hi-fi with him Pilot Radio Corp., has one in an airplane luggage type case with a Garrard record changer and speakers for monaural and stereo records with space for an AM-FM stereo tuner. ($199). Standard Radio has the world's tiniest 8 - transistor superheterodyne radio which is about the size of a book of matches and weighs about the same as a lipstick ($39.95). Standard also has a 3-band portable fishermen, boatmen and hunters which weighs 3½ pounds ($99.-95).

Some ideas in the clothing field: A "boiled wool" sweater with a thickly felted surface impervious to wind and dampness (Pebble Beach - $17.95); double-knits which include cardigan and turtleneck pullover (Coventry, $21), a cropped Eisenhower jacket (Sebastian, $20), tailored sports jackets (McGregor, about $25).

If that's too expensive there are other ideas in wool—knitted headbands for $2, knitted gloves with leather palms for $6, wool mittens, socks and turtleneck dickeys.

In the shoe field Bates makes a shearling - lined water-repellent after ski boot worn by the Olympic team ($15), a hand-sewn loafter type slipover for $17. For an evening at home Mr. Oomphies by Danvers has a shiny patent slip on. There is also a hair seal after ski boot with acrilic fleece lining and one inch padded sole ($15). An especially comfortable one for the man who isn't doing anything at all is a loden green glove leather slipon $18). Nunn-Bush has a moccasin toe slip-on and concealed elastic gore and stitching around vamp and toe ($23.95): Edwin Clapp has a three-eyelet moc in black or brown llama ($34).

O'Briens to Note Third of Century Of Marriage

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This month Eloise and Pat O'Brien celebrate a third of a century of marital union in a town not noted for lengthy marriages.

Thirty-three years, four children and six grandchildren later, the O'Briens seem as devoted as newlyweds. They now work together, and that has made their marriage even more solid than before.

"We met when I reported to the Chicago Company of Broadway in 1927," O'Brien recalled. "I saw this beautiful doll walk through the stage door and I patted her on the dierriere. She slapped my face, and that's how it all started."

They were married Jan. 21, 1931," after Pat had risen to stage fame and then made the leap to movies. As Eloise Taylor, Mrs. O'Brien also did some films, then retired to be wife and mother.

Twenty-five years passed, and Pat found that his stage and night club appearances kept him away from home much of the time. When he got an offer for a Midwest play, he asked her: "Why don't you appear in it with me?"

"Oh, I don't know," she said. "It's been so long."

"Well, give it a try."

In the past five years the O'Briens have appeared together all over the country in such plays as "Our Town," "Holiday for Lovers" and "Father of the Bride."

Pat is celebrating another event Wednesday night. He appears in his first Western—"The Virginian" on NBC.

"I don't know how I ever missed Westerns in my years at Warners," he said. "Cagney and Bogie did one, but I never did."

The fruit-and-vegetable plant industry has 172,400 employes in the United States and a payroll of $591 million a year.

(a) Transferred by board action from operations and maintenance to general fund expenses.

We have examined the above Statement of Cash Receipts and Disbursements of the Rock Creek Mesa Water District for the fiscal year ended November 30, 1963.

Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, applicable to cash basis statements, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the statement presents fairly the recorded cash transactions of the District for the fiscal year ended November 30, 1963, and correctly states the cash position of the District as of that date.

Burglar Takes Money From Salvation Army

RUTLAND, Vt. (AP) — The Rutland Herald reported that a burglar who looted a laundry took a Salvation Army collection box.

The story drew a letter to the editor, which said, in part:

"In that article, the proprietor of the laundry states that a Salvation Army container was taken by the thief. Well, this is entirely untrue as I had no intention of stealing any such charity box.

"I brushed it off the counter upon leaving. The Salvation Army does good work with almost nothing in the way of funds.

"If you would be so kind as to print a retraction I would be eternally grateful."

The letter was unsigned.

Costa Rica Volcano Erupts Once Again

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) —Irazu volcano, whose constant activity has brought this Central American republic to the edge of a national emergency, erupted anew this weekend.

The fresh eruptions Saturday and late Friday thickened the cloud of volcanic ash that makes this capital city of 250,000 seem wrapped in fog.

In noisy, fiery eruptions could be seen and heard from San Jose, 30 miles away. Hundreds of rocks too hot to touch were showered down the mountainside.

Russian Peace Offensive Aimed At West, China

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia's 1964 peace offensive is aimed primarily at the United States and Communist China, Western diplomats said.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev kicked off the campaign with a four-point, 4,000-word appeal to heads of government to ban force in settling territorial disputes.

Soviet news media began reporting favorable foreign reaction hinting at the possibility of a formal international agreement.

(In Washington, the State Department said the Khrushchev initiative represented a slanted approach to the problem of settling territorial disputes.

(There was no immediate Peking reaction to the proposal.)

Western analysts here said the proposal represented an apparent new departure in Soviet policy since it suggests disapproval of armed settlement of border and territorial disputes regardless of the merits of the case.

The four-point project included a provision that no foreign territory should be the object of invasion, attack, or military occupation.

As applied to the United States, this would appear to require a withdrawal of U.S. forces from South Vietnam, South Korea and overseas bases—particularly the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba.

The general terms of the proposal also would appear to preclude the use of force to defend access to Berlin, according to initial U.S. State Department reaction.

SUNDAY VETERAN

GREENVILLE, Ill. (UPI) — Mrs. Fred Woker has taught Sunday school for 50 years. She has in her class grandchildren of some of her former pupils.

She started teaching at St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Beaver Prairie, Ill., where her father was pastor. Now she's at Redeemer Lutheran Church, Greenville.

It Could Happen Only in Nut House

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — It could only happen in a nut house. A female clerk wielding a pound of peanut brittle routed a holdup man.

Police said Gladys McKinney of Covington, Ky., was working at Morrow's Nut House downtown Sunday night when a man came and asked for two pounds of peanut brittle.

She put one pound on a scoop scale. The man pulled a revolver and told her to forget the rest of the candy and open the cash register.

Mrs. McKinney threw the scoopful of peanut brittle in the man's face and screamed. He fled.

RECEIVES MEDAL — M. Sgt. Ralph O. Albin received the Air Force Commendation Medal recently from Maj. Gen. Benjamin J. Webster, Air Defense Command Chief of Staff, for his meritorious service while stationed at Truax Field, Wisc., in ADC's 30th Air Division. From Oct. 9, 1961 to June 28, 1963, Sergeant Albin was instrumental in the mechanization program for 30th Air Division consolidated base personnel offices and developed a mechanized system to expedite recording of promotion board scores, priority listings and score sheets. He was cited for his "ingenuity, personal initiative, job knowledge and management ability." (U.S. Air Force Photo)

Three Fishermen Float On Huge Ice Floe

GLASTONBURY, Conn. (AP) —Three perch fishermen spent several frantic minutes floating down the Connecticut River on a giant cake of ice.

Charles Gilmore, 64, Hartford, Peter H. Phillips, 56, Glastonbury, and an unidentified man were fishing from an outcropping of ice Sunday when an oil tanker came around a bend in the river.

"We grabbed our things and headed for shore," Phillips said "but before we could make it there was a big boom and the ice broke off from the shore."

Phillips said the floe was about 12 inches thick and a quarter of an acre in area. He said they floated down the river for about 200 yards before two men in a motorboat rescued them.

Despite the scare, Phillips said it was a pretty good day, explaining: "We caught five gallons of perch."

FEWER FARMERS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The farm revolution keeps rolling. Melvin Briggs of the Federal Farm Credit Board thinks the farm population will drop another 5 per cent in a dozen years. He figures that corn belt farms will average 400 to 600 acres then and that more people will actually live in rural areas than now, but most will be non-farmers.

Burglar Collects Parking Lot Fees

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A young man broke into a downtown parking lot office. Cars began to pull into the lot. Pretending he was an empoyee, he parked the cars and collected 50 cents from each driver.

Police said Sunday the man fled with about $20 in parking fees and the change from a soft drink machine.
